BELLEVIEW.

Aug. 9.—Fine weather for curing grass and drying up mud.
John Wesley Rice, of Oklahoma, is visiting his brothers and aged mother here.
Wilber Rice, of Idlewild, visited his uncle Joe Riddell and wife here a few days since.
Miss Mary Cason, of Covington, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Blant Pope, on Middle creek.
Garnett and Howard Clore, of Locust Grove, were Guests of Elbert and Willard Clore, Sunday.
Mrs. Alice Powell, of Prospect Hill, was visiting Mrs. Mary Schwartz and daughter, last Tuesday.
Blant Pope and wife and Miss Mary Cason, W. T. Stott, Vernon Pope and Rev. Atkinson, dined with your reporter and wife, Sunday.
Mrs. Grace Brown, of Owen county, is visiting her parents, B. F. Rogers, and wife. Sunday Mr. Pond Carpenter and wife, and Nat Carpenter and mother, were also their guests.
Mrs. Mary Schwartz and children have sold their farm to Wm. Stephens and Owen Allen, of Petersburg, for $3,000. They will leave in a short time for Tacoma, Washington, where her two daughters live, and this neighborhood will be deprived of more good citizens.
Bro. Milo Atkinson, of Petersburg, filled Bro. Edgar Riley's appointment at the Christian church here last Sunday morning and evening. At the morning services John Presser, of McVille, united with the church, and he was baptized this morning. May he consecrate his life to the Savior's cause.

THE FULLNESS OF SALVATION

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, August 7, 1904. Text: "Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls."—1 Peter 1:9.

IN SPEAKING of the fullness of salvation which God has provided for man, and the measure of that fullness which man appropriates to himself, we find two very different propositions. Salvation in its largest conception is more than the escape of the soul from hell. Salvation includes all the riches which are in Christ Jesus. Salvation is a large word. It means infinitely more in the spiritual realm than it does in the natural. Here is a man in danger of physical death. In the nick of time he is rescued. It is a complete fact. His salvation from death is not progressive. Because he was saved yesterday does not require that he be saved again to-day. But it is quite the contrary in the spiritual realm, for salvation of the sinner to-day means that to-morrow he may and should enter into a larger and fuller realization and enjoyment of that salvation. This is the thought of Paul when he commands the Philippian saints to "work out their own salvation with fear and trembling." He did not want them to fall into the error of supposing, as so many Christians do, that the salvation which came with the acceptance by faith of Jesus Christ as Saviour was all that the soul was to realize. It was to be a daily salvation; progressive in its realization, and in the end—what? Salvation. Not something more than salvation, but salvation—the fullness of salvation. Peter in the six short verses preceding our text unfolds in a wonderful way the fullness of salvation which God in His mercy had provided for man. Read them slowly and thoughtfully and prayerfully, and see if, when you reach the words of our text, which speaks of the final triumph of our faith in the salvation of souls, that salvation does not mean more to you than it did before.

HERE we find the merciful God, the crucified but living Lord, and the redeemed soul bound together by the most intimate ties of fellowship. The fullness of salvation includes it all. It gives to the soul a merciful Heavenly Father whose plan for the salvation of man extends through the ages, and that salvation includes a growing acquaintanceship with the Heavenly Father and His marvelous work of grace. It gives to the soul a crucified and risen Lord—"crucified for our transgressions and raised again for our justification." It gives to the soul here in this life a protection within the hollow of His hand and in the life to come an "inheritance incorruptible and undefiled, and that fadeth not away." Surely salvation means more than escape from the consequences of sin, it means more than deliverance from death. It means soul life—eternal life which begins to unfold the moment the soul puts its faith in Jesus Christ as the Saviour from sin, and which continues until it comes into the full realization of all that that salvation means, and that time is not reached until we receive the end of our faith, even the salvation of our souls.

PAUL in his letter to the Philippian church speaks of his ambition to win Christ even at the sacrifice of the loss of all things else. The fact that Christ had forgiven his sins and saved his soul was not sufficient for him. He wanted all that Christ had to give him. He realized that however much God had revealed of His grace and truth to him, however much of Christlike character he had attained, yet he had not reached the goal, he was not yet made perfect; but, he says; "I press on, if so be that I may apprehend that for which also I was apprehended by Christ Jesus. Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are before, I press on toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." Salvation to Paul meant that the saving power, the resurrection life, of that Christ was to reach to every atom of his life and being. He yearned not alone for the hope that would stay his heart in the hour of death and give him hope of abundant entrance into Heaven at last, but he wanted everything that salvation could give him.

THE term salvation holds such varying meanings for different people. To so many it means only the final escape from death as a consequence of sin. To others it holds an increasing meaning and beauty for this life, and salvation—full salvation—to be entered upon when this life is ended. It is like the flower by the roadside which nods its greeting to the multitudes as they pass. To all it is a flower. All recognize it as a bit of nature which is charming and fragrant and lovely. And to some it never means more than this, but to others it speaks an increasing message, as the perfectness of every detail of the flower is revealed to the appreciative and searching eye of the one sensitive to the unfathomable delicacy and beauty of nature. The leaf, the stem, the petal, the stamen, the rich coloring, the rare perfume, each bears its individual message to the eye and heart. Each is a poem of beauty and completeness in itself, and the blossom to such a one means more than it does to the one who sees a blossom and nothing more. And this illustrates our point in reference to salvation. All who have by faith accepted Christ as Saviour recognize the flower of salvation. They rejoice in its possession, but to many it never unfolds its hidden beauties and fullness of meaning. There is no eye or heart for anything but the escape which is made from the death penalty for sin. Salvation means one thing, and one thing only: The bare saving of the soul in the dark hour of death. But to others it unfolds its charm and beauty all along the pathway of life.

AND yet not all, for Peter speaks of the redeemed soul being kept by the power of God through faith "unto a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time." "A salvation to be revealed." Surely then the fullness of salvation. To those who have come in repentance to the feet of Jesus and been cleansed from all sin in the precious blood which was shed on Calvary John, the beloved disciple, says: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God." And that relationship means everything for this life. It brings safety, it brings peace and joy, it brings satisfaction and worthy aims and ambitions, and the only true and abiding success which man can ever know. "Beloved, now are we the sons of God." Think of it! Salvation through Jesus Christ brings you and me into that relationship. And surely as sons we may here and now enjoy the fullness of salvation. But listen! There is something more the apostle has to say: "But it doth not yet appear what we shall be." Can it be that the realization of the fullness of salvation here cannot give us all that is included in that gift? Yes, for take the saint who has realized the most of that wondrous salvation in his life and heart, and still John says: "Beloved, it doth not yet appear what we shall be." Why? Listen: "For we know that when He shall appear, we shall be like Him for we shall see Him as He is." That is what the fullness of salvation will mean. Perfect likeness to Christ. Changed completely from the failing and imperfect man struggling along through the varying stages of present salvation to the complete "salvation to be revealed in the last time."

WHAT then is the relation of the one to the other. Why should we struggle and strive in this present life that the salvation of Christ may permeate our every impulse and desire and being, if in the end we are to realize the fullness of salvation at one splendid revelation of Christ? Let us see. Our text plainly tells us that the ultimate triumph of our faith will be the salvation of our souls. There can be no possible misunderstanding of Scripture on this point. True faith in Jesus Christ will most surely land the soul in Heaven. And the soul, as John intimates, will be changed into the likeness of Jesus Christ. But we must not suppose that we shall all be alike in that we will lose our individuality. We shall be like Him in purity, because made pure in His precious blood, and we shall be like Him in oneness with the Father's will and purpose. Where now sin holds dominion over us, where now we are indifferent and rebellious to the Father's will, we shall then be changed and freed forever from sin's dominion and see with clear vision how sweet and perfect and good the will of God is. In this respect we shall all be like Christ. The saint who has attained the spiritual heights and the saint who has been "saved so as by fire," will receive "the end of their faith, even the salvation of their souls," but to one the salvation will mean barely getting into Heaven, and to the other it will mean the glorious and full manifestation of the spiritual graces which have been developed in this life. Think you that the soul that has barely gained Heaven will realize that salvation in the same degree and fullness with the saint who had begun in this life to know what that salvation meant in its victory over sin and the formation of the Christ-like character? It will be great joy and peace to be in Heaven, but how much greater will be the capacity to enjoy that place if in this life we begin to realize the fullness of salvation.

OUR text speaks of faith; faith bringing the soul ultimately to safe anchorage in Heaven. Faith is the channel through which all blessing flows from God to the human life and soul. "Without faith it is impossible to please Him, for he that cometh unto God must believe that He is and that He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." Salvation is faith's blossom. Give faith deep root; keep it watered with the word of truth; enrich the soil with a surrendered will and mellow it with the harrow of resolute purpose; let the storm of adversity test its depth and strength of root, and let the scorching heat of the midday sun of temptation beat upon it until all the sap of the hidden power of God is drawn up into its stalk and stem and leaf, and then the flower of the fullness of salvation will begin to unfold. And the end of your faith will be the salvation of your soul. But that salvation includes all that has found its fruitage in God. Faith brings all the gold and silver and precious stones of Christ's perfect character and builds them into our lives. It is the building which will stand the fiery test of God's searching holiness. The salvation of our souls may include this enduring building in Christ or it may see the soul stripped of everything but its very life. Salvation or fullness of salvation—which shall it be? Christ died to give you all. Oh, let us take it! The full salvation which makes Christ a present possession, and gives the soul an enlarged capacity for Christ and Heaven in the life to come!

"AJAX THE GREAT, HIMSELF A HOST."

Reporting for Duty.

TWO EXEMPLARY CITIZENS.

National Democratic Candidates Stand for What Is Highest and Best in Our Life.

The two national democratic candidates represent two types of citizenship radically different and yet each characteristically American.

Judge Parker, like his colleague, began life as a farmer's boy. But his aspirations were all intellectual. He never thought of money-making except incidentally. He wanted to go to college, but gave up that ambition to help his father. He taught school when 18 years old, worked his way through the state normal school at Cortland, studied law and "hung out his shingle." That used to be the main traveled road to statesmanship in this country.

Though possessed of a natural talent for political management, Judge Parker's bent was judicial. The only offices he desired or could be persuaded to accept were judgeships. He began as surrogate, then advanced to the state supreme court, and then to the court of appeals. Gradually the power of his personality impressed itself upon the men who were looking for a party leader. He was urged to be a candidate for governor, and for two years he has been looked upon as the probable candidate of the democracy in the presidential campaign.

Yet, says the New York World, his way of life has not been in the least disturbed. He remains a simple country gentleman, a neighbor among neighbors, a leader in the little village activities, passing the "contribution box" in church and showing strangers to their seats on the morning after his nomination to the highest office on earth—modest, unaffected—just the sort of figure we can imagine to have been at home in Washington when Jefferson was buying Louisiana.

That is one kind of American career. Mr. Davis has pursued another kind—that of business. Starting, like Judge Parker, on a farm, he left it to go to work on a railroad. It was a distinct upward step in life for him when he secured an opportunity to twist a brake, and when he was promoted to the position of a station agent no doubt he felt more pride than he feels now in a nomination to the vice presidency. He advanced step by step until he owned railroads instead of working upon them, owned banks and mines and accumulated more millions than Judge Parker has thousands. Incidentally he went to the senate.

A thoroughly American career, like the other. Both Judge Parker and Mr. Davis are self-made men. Each has made the best of himself with the material at hand. Each has been successful in his own way. Each has furnished an illustration of the truth of Garfield's saying that "the republic is opportunity."

Giving Us Tit for Tat.

New Zealand takes a leaf out of our book by restricting participation in her coasting trade, with the result that ships of the United States will not hereafter be permitted to carry freight from one New Zealand port to another unless congress opens our coasting trade to British ships. New Zealand's new act is a step toward imperial federation. It is taken in connection with the movement which gives a tariff preference to the products of countries within the British empire. Nations which open their coasting trade to British ships are not excluded, but all that observe a policy of exclusion are given tit for tat. It is even provided that ships of nations that pursue an exclusive policy may not carry goods between New Zealand and any other part of the British empire.—Baltimore Sun.

Beef Trust Causes Anxiety.

The beef trust is evidently causing some anxiety at Sagamore hill, where the trust-buster is housed with his candidatorial concerns just now. It is promised that the department of justice will shortly get after this flesh food combine and worry it some; and this is a sign that the candidate doesn't like the trust's goings-on. According to report that gigantic combination can look for an attack along in October, this special scheme of trust-busting not being one of those many matters that are expected to keep until after election.—Binghamton Leader.

CARL SCHURZ FOR PARKER

German-American Leader Says Telegram Set Up Fine Standard of Moral Courage.

The following letter addressed to Judge Parker by Hon. Carl Schurz has caused no little satisfaction to party leaders, because it shows that the powerful independent element of the east is returning to the democratic fold:

"Not as a party man, but as an independent, I feel bound to express to you my sincere respect. The principles and opinions you are known to hold as to the currency, imperialism, the tariff and the civil service strongly commend themselves to men of my way of thinking. But if, as an independent, I ever was doubting for what candidate my duty commanded me to vote, your action on the terms of your nomination has completely solved that doubt. It has rendered to the republic a double service of incalculable value.

"No man can honestly deny that it has demolished the last pretext for still treating the gold question as a live issue of party controversy, and that it has thus relieved the business community of an element of peculiarly unhealthy agitation and dangerous uncertainty. This is so evident that any attempt to continue that agitation artificially for mere party advantage must be condemned by every good citizen as absolutely wicked—indeed, as little less than criminal.

"And, second, your manly declaration that you would accept the offered nomination for the presidency only if the offer came in harmony with your sense of public duty has set up before the American people one of those noble standards of moral courage and civic virtue of which our public life stands so much in need. The higher you lift that standard the higher you will rise in the esteem and confidence of your countrymen, and the more surely they will hold you worthy of their highest trust."

——The republican organs have much to say about Senator Henry G. Davis' "dough." The West Virginian may be wealthy, but he has a public record to be proud of.—Atlanta Constitution.

——The silly attempts to belittle Judge Parker and to impugn the integrity of his motives do not confirm the announcement that the republican campaign was to be conducted on a "high, moral plane."—N. Y. World.

——Several republicans in Indiana have announced themselves as candidates for Mr. Fairbanks' seat in the senate. The failure of democrats to make similar announcements may indicate a belief that Mr. Fairbanks will serve out his term.—N. Y. World.

——On the pension question the democratic party and the republican party agree that the veterans who deserve pensions should have them. They disagree, however, in this wise—the democrats would grant pensions from patriotic motives, while the republicans insist on granting them for political reasons.—The Commoner.

——Mr. Roosevelt has the support of his intimate friends and his political proteges, but conservative people eye him with distrust. They acknowledge that he is irreproachable as an individual—that he is a stanch patriot, a good husband, a loyal friend. But they distrust his capacity for self-control and distrust his judgment.—N. PLENTY OF TIME LEFT.

End of the World, Predicted Many Times, Said to Be 6,000,000,000 Years Off.

One of the earliest recorded failures to bring all creation to an ending crash was that of the old bishop of Hippo. When his scheme of annihilation did not connect in 396 A. D., the bishop went over his figures once more, and declared that he had been a century out of the way. This restored his standing as a prophet, and made it sure that he, at least, would not live for a second disappointment. His courage in readjusting dates has come down the ages without his discretion in setting the end far enough ahead to dodge the issue, says the New York World.

In the year 1000 all Christendom went into terror, and many persons died of fright because that year had been set as "the time appointed" by a Scripture-crazed seer. In 1212 great populations crowded the Italian shores of the Mediterranean waiting for the sea to dry up, as had been promised by some crank, so that they might walk to Jerusalem for the general pershing. In 1335 an Italian priest scared half of Europe out its wits by issuing a general warning to put on the last bridal robes. And so the direful foretellings went on until there came the plunge of Steiffel in the sixteenth century.

Steiffel was anmathematician and a friend of Luther. For 20 years, or some such matter, congregations had listened to him, believing him to be "the seventh angel named in the Apocalypse." When he fixed upon Monday, October 3, 1533, as the day and eight o'clock in the morning as the hour, for the earth to go out of business, he was able to set a great crowd of people to moaning and groaning. Previously, at his urging, these people had separated themselves from most of their worldly goods. As the hour passed and destruction came not, the lamentations turned to denunciations. Herr Steiffel then got such a mobbing as has not yet come even to a fashionable wedding party in a New York church.

It would take a tremendous book to follow up the later prophets of the world's end. There are few decades which have not contained one or more dates for the catastrophe. The Adventists have learned caution. They wait now hopefully, ready for the finish at "any old time." Yet in July 1880, Mr. Henry A. Chittenden, a former New York dry goods merchant, one of the believers of '42-44, sent out bulletins of belief that the very year was then upon us.

An Indiana farmer-prophet says the years 2000 is to be that of fate. Rev. A. B. Simpson, noted for his ability to life church debts, favor 1934 A. D.. Other choice dates are 1915 and 1911. The prophets have a large variety of calculations on hand, and their motto is "We try to please."

As a rule predictions of a final catastrophe in matter are based on individual readings of the Scriptures. Real scientists first occasionally—and usually by request—with the possibilities of planetary collisions, consuming solar fires and exhaustion of atmosphere. M. Flammarion weaves awful contingencies into delightfully shivery romances. But there are always waiting groups of unfortunates ready to take everything seriously. Even the new North Abingdon circular writer may catch some of these.

Pending other arrangements for their personal comfort in the premises, all who have an uncertain faith in the stability of the earth are urged to consider the view presented not long ago to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. This gives 3,000,000,000 of years before the end. So may we all have time to eat, drink and be merry, and yet preserve a proper diligence.

OLD BELIEFS ABOUT HONEY

It Was Supposed to Be of Celestial Origin and a Specific for Human Ills.

Many quaint delusions prevailed in olden times about everything relating to the bee and honey. The source and composition of honey were subjects for many ingenuous speculations.

Belief in the celestial origin of honey runs through all the old treatises on apiculture, from Virgil down. It was supposed to be a kind of manna from Heaven, and its quality depended greatly on the favorable or unfavorable juxtaposition of the stars at the time of its descent.

The existence in each hive of one bee much larger than all the others was generally recognized, but it was believed to be merely a ruler or king over the rest. That this large bee was actually the queen of the whole colony never seemed to have occurred to any one until recent times.

The situation of the bee hive was in old times a matter of importance. It was placed always on the south side of a stream of water and never in a place where there were echoes, as an echo was held to be injurious to bees.

Honey appears to have been held in extraordinary favor as a universal specific for human ills. It was largely recommended as a hair restorer.

If dead bees were dried, pounded and worked up into a thick paste with the hone, its hair producing capabilities were much enhanced. For weak eyes it was recommended to take a handful of the heads of bees, burn them and mingle with the honey gathered in the dog days.

The eyes were anointed liberally with the mixture, and clearness of vision was the supposed reward.

A SUCCESSFUL SALESMAN.

Sold Sea Water and When Tide Went Out Purchaser Thought Him a Wonder.

The late Thomas Brackett Reed used to relate the following incident which happened one summer while he was spending a few days in a small fishing village on the New England coast, says the New York Times.

A young countryman who had been advised to take sea baths registered at the village hotel one evening, and shortly afterward sauntered down to the beach. Espying a grizzled old fisherman mending his nets beneath a sign which informed one that B—— had boats and tackle to let and bait for sale, he accosted the veteran and asked him if the water was not for sale also. On receiving an affirmative reply the countryman returned to the hotel, obtained a couple of buckets, and having paid the price asked, filled them and returned to his room to carry out the doctor's instructions.

On the following morning he happened down at the beach when the tide was out, and after contemplating the broad receding beaches for some minutes, approached his acquaintance of the evening, before and remarked in a tone of admiration: "Gosh! but you must have done some business last night."

Explained His Assertion.

By the use of the saline solution the cheerful idiot, who had been punched in the jaw for a previous offense, was revived.

"What did you mean?" asked the anxious watchers, "when you said that you saw her draw a revolver?"

"Perhaps the statement should be qualified," he admitted, in a dazed way. "She was sketching a merry-go-round, you know."—Cleveland Leader.

Before It Happened.

"Extry! Extry!" called the newsboy. "All about de terr'bl' explosion!"

Just at that moment a terrible noise made the bystanders jump, and one of them asked:

"What's that?"

"Dat's de explosion," said the newsboy. "Here's de extry all about it."—Herald and Presbyter.

Care of the Hair.

It is now generally agreed that many of the shampoos in use are injurious to the hair. The best treatment is frequent brushing and absolute cleanliness. Wash the hair in a lather of Ivory Soap and rinse thoroughly. Let the last water be cool, as it closes the pores of the skin and prevents colds.

SIDNEY JUSTUS.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble, of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the day time, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

STRONG BARRACK FOR HAY

Type of Structure Here Described Is Advocated by Expert Agricultural Builders.

From Vol. V. of Rural Affairs, which unfortunately is out of print, we copy the gist of the directions for making a hay barrack here given, with the illustration.

Build the barrack 20 feet square. Insert four posts of durable timber, 22 feet long, in the ground to a depth of four feet. Stick should square at least eight inches, corners hewn off, making it a rough octagon in shape. Bore one and a half-inch hole through corner of each post, one foot apart, for the bolts that support the roof; bolts of one and a half-inch iron, one foot long, the outer four inches to be squared and turned up one inch; on this is laid a piece of joist three feet long (hardly shown in cut), to support the roof. Roof should run to a point from each side, and may be shingled, tinned or thatched.

There are four plates framed together, and braced. The posts pass up through the roof on the inside corners of the plates. The roof is elevated and lowered with a small screw of wood or iron, about two feet long. A wooden screw three inches in diameter will answer. This is used on the inside of the post. One man can raise and lower the roof if it is done as fast as the hay is put in or taken out. Raise each corner of the roof one foot at a time, going regularly around the barrack. The roof will not be likely to blow off, if the above directions are followed in building. The posts, as far as they enter the ground, may be left the full size of the stick.

A NEW VARIETY OF OATS.

"Wisconsin No 4" Has Yielded Large Crops, with High Percentage of Meat to Hull.

The Iowa experiment station distributed last spring to northern and central Iowa farmers several hundred bushels of an early white oat called "Wisconsin No. 4," which has given excellent satisfaction in Wisconsin, where it was first introduced. Its history is as follows: M. A. Carleton, cerealist for the United States government, visited Russia in 1898, and in northern Russia he saw a type of oats growing that greatly interested him. Its stiff straw, wide panicle and large kernel showed it to be a desirable quality of oats. He found on inquiry that it was an early maturing oat. It came from Sweden, and was one of the standard types of northern Russia. Mr. Carleton secured 20 bushels for the department of agriculture, listing it as No. 2,788. A small quantity of this seed was obtained by the Wisconsin experiment station in 1899 and placed in a variety test of oats. By careful selection, Prof. Moore, the station agronomist, has developed a very desirable type of early oat well adapted to Wisconsin climate and soil conditions, and has named it Wisconsin No. 4. It is the most satisfactory one tested at the university farm. It invariably yields well, shows a stiff straw—therefore does not easily lodge—has a good-sized kernel with a light hull, and weighs usually from 36 to 40 pounds per measured bushel. It generally ripens in 90 days from seeding. It yields from 5 to 15 bushels more per acre than any other variety. Its high percentage of meat to hull gives promise of a good milling oat.

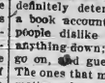
Neatness a Good Investment.

Many farms are estimated below their true value because of slovenly appearance. Weeds higher than the fences, trees blown down and left to rot, fences out of repair, gates and barn-doors off their hinges, or swinging on one hinge, unsightly litter in door-yard and at the barn—these and many such evidences of carelessness depreciate the value of any farm. The soil may be excellent, the water facilities all that could be asked for, and all natural advantages requisite to make a good, high-priced farm may exist—and yet that farm scarcely makes its owner a living, and would hunt a long, long time for a buyer.—Midland Farmer.

Johnson Grass in Southwest.

Johnson grass has become such a nuisance to farmers in some parts of Texas that they have been compelled to adopt legislative measures to eradicate it. A law has been passed forcing railroads to keep their right of way absolutely free of it, in order that the grass may not spread in adjoining fields. The Santa Fe railroad has engaged the services of a professional grass exterminator, and thus far he has made a success of it. Johnson grass makes a good pasture and good hay, but is a decided nuisance to the crop raiser, as the more it is plowed up the better it seems to grow.

IT PAYS TO KEEP BOOKS.



Advantages of Definite Records in Poultry Keeping Are Numerous and Helpful.

Poultry keepers who for the first time begin keeping an account with their fowls—a careful record of the outgo and income—are apt to be somewhat surprised at the end of the year. With some the surprise may be very agreeable, while with others it may be the opposite. At any rate, it is apt to result in some changes for the better. If the balance is on the right side and the owner is well satisfied, it is likely to encourage him to do a little better the next year. If the books foot up against him, he will probably make an effort to improve matters, either by giving more attention to the hens, or by going out of the business entirely. The latter, no douht, would be the most sensible for some. I will tell of a farmer's wife who decided that it would be better to know exactly what the hens were bringing in; so three years ago she procured a poultry and egg record book for the purpose, and she has learned by this bookkeeping that her Leghorns lay about 120 eggs per year, the weight of the eggs being more than four times the hen's own weight, which is about three and one-quarter pounds. She has learned the value of the feed given the hens and says that the cost of eggs produced in her yards is three and one-half cents in the summer and five cents per dozen in the winter. These fowls are given better care than the average farm flock gets, yet no special pains has been taken with them, only good all-round care. The point to impress upon those who keep poultry is this; if this person had not kept an account with her fowls she would not have known what they were turning in, and it would be difficult to make others around her believe that her hens were doing so well except for those figures in "black and white." Even in a poor market this woman would clear more than a dollar per head on her hens. But there are a great many people who are keeping poultry who are not doing this; no, they are not even making "both ends meet," but they don't know it. Then there are others who say that the hens don't pay for their keep, and are a nuisance, when if they really knew what they were talking about, they would find the hens the most profitable stock on the place. But these are matters that cannot be definitely determined without keeping a book account with the fowls. Many people dislike to be bothered setting anything down; they prefer to let things go on, and guess at the profit or loss. The ones that make the most money, no matter what they are doing, are those who have a system for carrying on their business. They have things in the proper place, and when eggs are gathered it takes less than a minute to set down the number brought in. When the eggs or poultry are sold it is not much trouble to put down the amount received, and at the end of the year it is not much bother to foot it all up, but it is interesting all the way through. Don't take my word for it, try it for one year. —Agricultural Epitomist.

SUMMER POULTRY NOTES.

How to Arrange a Watering Dish for the Chicks That Cannot Be Tipped Over.

Get a small wooden box which will contain the drinking vessel with very little room to spare. Set this box on the floor against the wall and nail securely. Fill the dish with water and set it inside the box, and the most supid hen cannot tip it over. The water does not become soiled quickly, for the hens stand on the box instead of on the edge of the dish.

Vermin of all kinds increase rapidly in warm weather. Use kerosene and whitewash freely and frequently to hold them in check.

To cure or prevent gapes in chickens mix one heaping teaspoonful flowers of sulphur in enough dry corn meal for 30 or 35 chicks. Wet with skim milk or water to make it crumbly and feed once a day. The chicks are fond of it and it has always stopped the gapes with mine.—Farm and Home.

Return to the Old Ways.

Some of the old ways of farming are as good as the new. The old methods tended to conserve and increase the humus content of the soil. Later the fertilizer craze set in, and little attention was paid to preventing the exhaustion of the humus in the soil, which has resulted in the decrease of the average yield of the grain and oil-seed crops. Now, after 50 years of an exhaustive system of stimulated culture, there has come an urgent appeal from scientific sources for farmers to use every possible means to increase humus in the soil by growing and turning under the nitrogen-gathering crops, and to make a more judicious use of commercial fertilizers by using a quantity of them in connection with a greatly increased amount of barn-yard manure.—Farm and Fireside.

The Use of Lime on Land.

During the last few years the use of lime on land has greatly increased. This is the result of investigations as to the free acid in land of which lime is a neutralizer. It will pay every farmer to investigate this land as to acid. This he can do by planting on it clover of almost any variety, including sweet clover. If the plant grows well there is no great abundance of acid, provided nitrogen has not been applied to fertilize the crop. If nitrogen has been applied, the clover will grow anyway, whether the soil be acid or not. Thus the test would be of no value.—Farmers' Review.

SOME DOMESTIC CONCERNS

Items of Information Intended for the Lightening of Household Duties.

New bread may be cut as easily as stale if the knife be heated in hot water.

Milk kept in a shallow basin will remain sweet for a longer time than if kept in a deep jug.

If a tablespoonful of paraffin be added to the pail of hot water used for washing tiles, it will both cleanse and brighten them.

Before weighing molasses dredge the scale well with flour, for this will prevent the treacle from sticking, and it may be poured off without waste.

To wash a corset remove the steels, then lay the corset on a table or board and scrub with a stiff brush, using a lather made of white soap. Rinse beneath a tap with cold water, pull straight, and allow to dry.

Alum water will restore most faded colors. Brush the faded article thoroughly free from dust, cover it with a layer of castile soap, rinse in clear water; then in alum water, and the color will usually be much brighter than before.

Even when there is cream in the coffee, the stain of it may be removed from silk and other delicate fabrics by brushing the spot with pure glycerin. The glycerin must then be rinsed out in lukewarm water and the spot pressed in the wrong side with a warm iron.

Any cold whitefish may be made into an acceptable entree by being treated a la Newburg. A little white wine, in which cloves and allspice have been steeped, may be added just before the sauce is poured over the fish. It should then simmer till warmed without being boiled.

Poisonous compounds cannot be used to destroy flies without danger, but the following mixture is both efficacious and safe: Thoroughly mix together one teaspoonful of black pepper, two teaspoonfuls of moist sugar and two tablespoonfuls of cream. Place a little of this in a saucer where flies abound. It is a good plan also to wash the inside window panes with a weak solution of carbolic acid, for this will prevent flies settling on them.

To clean black walnut furniture, first rub it all over with a piece of old flannel dipped in paraffin. Then, with another piece of flannel or a soft rag, rub it dry, and apply a polish made of equal parts of turentine, linseed oil and vinegar. These ingredients must be thoroughly shaken together before the compound is used. Rub the mixture well into the article to be cleaned, then leave it for a short time, and finally polish it with a dry cloth.

NECKLACES OF THE SEASON

Form of Jewelry That Is Decidedly to the Fore Among the Fashionables.

The oriental stones are worn a great deal. There are topazes from Korea, emeralds from the Caucasus, lapus lazuli from Japan and the many odd yellow stones which come from the east. Great strings of pierced yellow stones are mounted upon chains of gold and wound around the neck of the summer girl.

It is decidedly a necklace season and pearl collars are worn, in the day time, with neckless gowns and diamond studded gold bands with the Dutch necks of the afternoon toilettes, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

But the woman who wants a collar, and who cannot obtain either a diamond one or a collar of pearls, can take heart, for there is an exceedingly pretty makeshift for her. She can wear a band of velvet around her throat and, upon this band of velvet, she can wear strings of yellow stones —beads, really they might be called— except that they are of irregular size and shape, and so look very much richer than strings of beads commonly look.

The making of these necklaces is a fine art. It requires strings and strings of fine elastic, of just the length to encircle the throat. And, after these are strung with their burden of odd stones, the whole must be mounted upon a clasp which is set at the back of the neck.

These semi-precious necklaces sell for big prices in the stores, but the woman of taste can gather her store and stock of beads and make them for herself. The key to the whole is the preservation of color. There should be more yellow than anything else and the faint yellow tinge should prevail throughout the whole.

Pickled Plums.

For eight pounds of fruit take four pounds of granulated sugar, one quart of vinegar, one ounce of cinnamon and one of cloves; scald the vinegar, sugar and spices together; skim and pour boiling hot over the fruit and let it stand three days; pour off the syrup scald and skim and pour over again, and continue this process every three days until they have been scalded three times. The plums should be pricked with a needle before dropping into the syrup to prevent the bursting of the skin.—Washington Star.

Pineapple Lemonade.

Pare, eye and grate a large ripe pineapple. Add the strained juice of four lemons and a syrup made by boiling together for five minutes four cupfuls of sugar and two of water. When cold add one quart of water. Strain and ice.—Washington Star.

Shortcake Hint.

Raspberry shortcake is as good as the time-honored strawberry shortcake, the fruit blending perfectly with cream. Raspberry-and-currant shortcake is also very nice.—N. Y. Post.

NATIONAL NOTABLES.

Bugler Martin, who was with Custer in many of his fights, has been retired after 30 years' service in the United States army.

There are within 3,000,000 of as many persons enrolled in the Sunday schools of this country as in the public schools, there being 13,000,000 in the former and 16,000,000 in the latter. The total Sunday school membership throughout the whole world is 25,000,000.

Sir John Cockburn, addressing the British National Association of Manual Training Teachers the other day, said that manual training was the best avenue to intelligence and the best moral training. Half the school hours should be taken up in manual instruction. It helped the memory, which was largely muscular; it formed character, helping children to detect shams and inaccuracies and its moral benefits were incalculable.

FANCIFUL FANCIES.

OMISSION TO BE RECTIFIED.

Expert Testimony Which Condemned Served Also to Enlighten.

Prince Hohenlohe, during his recent visit to New York, commended the wines of America. He praised especially the California red wines, which seemed, he said, to be exceedingly pure, relates the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Then, apropos of wine's purity, the prince narrated a recent happening in Berlin.

"A Berlin vintner," he said, "was accused of selling a wine made of chemicals. He was brought to court, found guilty, and fined.

"After he had paid his fine, he approached the chemist whose testimony had convicted him.

"'How did you know?' he said, curiously, 'that my wine was manufactured?'

"'Because it contained no bitartrate of potash,' said the chemist. "'In natural wines bitartrate of potash is always found.'

"'Thanks,' said the vintner, in a tone of relief. "'It will be found in my wines hereafter.'"

Still More Evidence.

Bay City, Ill., August 8 (Special).—Mr. K. F. Henley, of this city, adds his evidence to that published almost daily that a sure cure for Rheumatism is now before the American people, and that that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Henley had acute Rheumatism. He has used Dodd's Kidney Pills. He says of the result:

"After suffering for sixteen years with Rheumatism and using numerous medicines for Rheumatism and more medicines prescribed by doctors, I at last tried Dodd's Kidney Pills with the result that I got more benefit from them than all the others put together.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills were the only thing to give me relief, and I recommend them to all suffering from Acute Rheumatism."

Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. Healthy kidneys take all the Uric Acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was; and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time, I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that, and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, MRS. CHAS. F. AT the close of the fair season the presidential campaign will be inaugurated.

THERE have been some terrible railroad disasters in the last few days. Many lives were lost.

SENATOR VEST, of Missouri, died yesterday. He was a native of this State, and one of the able mem of the nation.

IN some localities too much rain is ruining the crops while in others the drought is serious. That is the way the world wags.

THE Lawrenceburg Press has changed to an eight column quorto, and has set apart its first page for neighborhood news, which department it is giving special attention.

I find nothing better for liver derangement and constipation than Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets,—L. F. Andrews, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by all Druggists.

THE RECORDER is in receipt of the SantaAnna MorningDispatch, a sprightly daily published by J. H. Westover, at Santa Anna, California. It is nicely gotten up in every department.

THE Japs have out marched, out generaled and out fought the Russians, and should they be able to keep up their progress a few months longer they will have Russia suing for peace.

Chairman Lewis McQuown has issued a call for the democratic state central committee to meet at Frankfort next Saturday to consider the action of the Lexington convention in nominating a candidate for Judge in the Fifth Appellate district.

MEN who toil ten hours a day in the hot sun are asked to have some sympathy for the overworked government clerks who are compelled to toil seven hours a day in the breezes of an electric fan and refused more than sixty days' vacation on full pay each year.

JUDGE PARKER'S telegram to the St. Louis convention is giving his opponents more than the usual concern. It was an unexpected and effective shot that brought to his support a following from quarters where he was expected to develop but little strength.

B. W. CAMPBELL, who was nominated for Congress by the Democrats of the First Cincinnati district, is a native of Burlington, and Joel C. Clore the democratic nominee for Judge of the Insolvency court, is a native of Hebron, this county. Boone county boys are always in the swim.

THE RECORDER'S suggestion made last week meets the approval of those who desire seeing the entire Democratic vote of this county polled at the November election, and as the weather and roads will be good from now until that time the candidates will not object to being used as instruments for bringing the voters to the polls.

THE Teachers' Institute held herc last week, was pronounced by many of the teachers to be far the best they ever attended. They became interested in their work at the beginning of the session, and that interest was kept up until the final adjournment at noon on Friday. Many of the discussions were animated and interesting. Superintendent Snyder labored hard to make the meeting as profitable as possible, and the teachers cooperated with him, hence the Institute could be nothing but a success.

If the entire coal product of the United States were loaded on freight cars with a capacity of 30 tons each the trains containing it would encircle the globe at the equator about three and one-third times. If the entire production were loaded on freight cars in one day the trains would occupy one-fourth of the entire railway trackage of the United States. Taking an average of 30 cars to a train, it would require 16 times as many freight loocmotives as there are in the the United States to move this tonnage in the day. If spread over the surface of Manhattan Island, which has an area of 22 square miles, the entire island would be covered to a depth of nearly 25 feet.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A small crowd attended court, last Monday. Promptly at nine o'clock Judge Lassing convened court and organized the grand jury as follows: James Rogers, foreman; W. L. Aylor, Lewis Clore, Charlie Clore, L. H. Kelly, L. J. Riley, J. C. Hankins, Alonzo Gaines, Geo. H. Gordon, Wood Maxwell, Ben A. Floyd, Yancy Clore.

The court gave the jury the usual comprehensive charge. Circuit Clerk J. A. Duncan has Eimo Gaines assisting him to keep the record, while Commonwealth's Attorney F. C. Greene, Sheriff Allphin and Deputy B. B. Hume, and Jailer Adams were on hand to look after the duties of their respective offices.

The petit juries were organized Tuesday morning as follows:

No. 1.—Willis Smith, Lystra Aylor, Sam Hensly, C. E. White, Joseph Bullock, Leonard Gibbs, D. Beall, John Conner, W. W. Conner, J. P. Utz, Jonas Stephens, W. L. Aylor.

No. 2.—L. H. Crisler, J. C. Kennedy, Harry Stephens, Chas. Craven, V. W. Gaines, Z. T. Kelly, W. P. Cropper, Jas. Watson, Eli Conrad, Joe Myers, F. M. Cleek, Jas. Hind.

The following visiting attorneys are attending court: Hon. Jno. S. Gaunt, Hon. W. W. Dickerson, J. C. Clore, J. G. Tomlin, F. E. Curley and B. F. Menefee, J. B. Finnell, of Georgetown.

PETERSBURG.

The entertainment given by the young ladies in the park, July 29, was a success in every particular. Messrs. Walton, Early and Atkinson entertained the guests with eloquent addresses. The park was brilliant with artificial lights in connection with the light reflected from a full moon. The young ladies, dressed in pure white, looked so beautiful and angel-like that one was prompted to yield to the impulse of the moment that impelled them to lift their eyes upward to see if the heavens had opened and permitted God's heavenly messengers to descend in their midst. The young ladies, under the direction of Miss Maud Wingate, deserve the commendation of every one for their untiring efforts to make the entertainment a grand success. The net receipts of the evening was $26, which purchased six additional settees for the park.

Petersburg can now boast of the most beautiful and most handsomely furnished park of its size any where on the face of the globe. She has a water power that has the capacity of conveying three gallons of water a minute from the river to the park. The scenery from the park can not be surpassed any where in nature. If you turn to the north you overlook the beautiful and enterprising city of Lawrenceburg—its steam railways, its traction line, its electric lights and its smoke issuing from a score or more of large manufactories attest its up-to-date enterprise. Looking beyond this city you see beautiful wooded hills forming over northern horizon—tracing this horizon to the east you see far up the beautiful and fertile valley of the Miami, which produces its millions of bushels of corn annually. Looking farther eastward your eye rests upon Fort Hill where once stood a rudely constructed fort, erected by the early settlers of the Miami country to protect them against the savage natives that had their rendezvous in our park—evidence of which can be found by digging beneath the surface. Descending the eastern slope of Fort Hill you see the old brick mansion where a President of the U. S. was born. You can overlook from the park the corner stone of three great united states. Returning to Lawrenceburg and trace the horizon to the west as far as Aurora and I challenge the finest landscapist extant to paint a picture that would surpass that presented by nature in the beautifully undulated hills that extend to the horizon and rests upon a broad table of land that is rendered picturesque by its border of lofty cottonwoods along the river and its two railways and traction way crossing at right angles the quiet little stream, concealed by the fringe of its willows.

We have in full view the busy little city, Aurora. A quarter of a century ago it was the liveliest city of its size anywhere in the state. Its inspiration at that time was its masters in finance, the Galls, the Cobbs, the Shibbs, the Howe's, the Gibsons, the Wymond's and a score of others. These have all passed away and the little city, with due respect for the dead, went in mourning for a season, but like the Phoenix she has arisen from her ashes of despair and is striving to attain her former standing in the business world—evidence of this we see from the park in the smoke from its wheel, its coffin, its cooper, its chair and its buggy manufactories.

Passing our park is the grand old Ohio. At times she goes by like a roaring lion, and at others she is as quiet and peaceful as a sleeping lamb. Almost every hour in the day some large fully equipped steam vessel is seen to traverse its water. In full view from our park is the handsome and palatial home of our two enterprising young men — Messrs. Norris and Berkshire. This beautiful mansion, in its new coat of paint, stands as a proud sentinel, overlooking our picturesque little town. What the park will do for Petersburg is dependent upon the public spirit of its citizens.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by all Druggists.

It may rain today.

We have the rigs—carriages, buggies, phaetons, light wagons - some swell runabouts too. Prices right. "Hartke" quality.

THE COVINGTON SAVINGS BANK & TRUST COMPANY, Inc.
N. E. Cor. Sixth St. and Madison Avenue, COVINGTON, KY.
CAPITAL STOCK, $100.000.
Stockholders' Liabilities, $100.000.

We pay 3 per cent. Interest on Time Saving Deposits, compounded twice a year. Also a Liberal Rate of Interest on Deposits Subject to Check.

Every man, woman and child in Boone county should have an account with this Company. You will never be worth any money until you save some. It will grow while you sleep, every dollar deposited being your silent partner in assisting you to win a competence.

Persistent saving brings about wonderful results. Five cents a day for 21 years, compounded at 3 per cent, will amount to about $500. Twenty-five cents a day will make about $2,500 or enough to start your son in business. One dollar a day will make about $10,000, or more than 95 out of 100 persons ever have at once.

Deposits can be made by registered mail, post-office money order, draft or by check on your local bank.

$1.00 will open an account, and the small depositor will receive the same consideration as the large one.

This company, in its Trust Department, acts as Executor, Administrator, Gurdian, Trustee in and all fiduciary capacities, and will contract to settle estates for a fixed sum.

This is a "HOME" Company, owned, controlled and managed by "HOME" people.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c at all Drug Stores.

The sale of the personal and real estate of J. M. Sleet, of Verona, last Thursday, was well attended and good prices prevailed. W. E. Vest sold, last week, for Mrs. Julia West, at Walton, 130 acres of land to Jas. Ryan, of Verona for $8,000. For Robert Allen's heirs 97 acres to Julia West for $5,000. For Wm. McConnell, of East Bend, to Hubert Ryle, 112 acres for $5,700. For Mary Schwartz, of Bellevue, 96 acres to Wm. Stephens and Owen Allen. Price private.

A dark, yellow shepherd dog, supposed to have hydrophobia, came into town on the Petersburg pike last Sunday afternoon. At Mrs. Barlow's it killed two chickens, after which it came up in town and went into the back yard at Mrs. Cowen's, where it was beaten off of the chickens, when it ran into Mrs. Cowen's room, from which it was driven. It scrapped with several town dogs and passed on out the Union road.

The August term of the Boone Circuit Court convened, last Monday, with 24 new cases on the docket, divided as follows: 14 equity and 10 common law. There are two applicants docketed for license to practice law, both of the applicants being residents of Newport. They are Thomas McGraddy and Albert G. Feth. The former is an ex-Catholic priest, who renounced Catholicisms some time since, and chose law as his profession.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best remedy for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know it is the one remedy that can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. Sold by all Druggists.

From the Macon, Ga., News, of recent date we learn that our countryman H. F. Russell is getting into the habit of hobnobbing with millionaires. The News says:

"A party of capitalists from Cincinnati representing three or four million dollars were in Macon today on their way to Oconee, Washington county, Ga., where they will make an inspection of 10,000 acres of land upon which they have an option with the view of locating a number of hardwood mills in that vicinity.

In the party was composed Mr. William Klappert, a prominent insurance man of Cincinnati; William F. Bruenger, a retired capitalist of that place; E. J. Harth, who is the proprietor of a large leather factory of Cincinnati, and Mr. H. F. Russell, an expert in the employ of the Chas. C. Boyd Lumber Company of Cincinnati. These gentlemen with the exception of the last named are not at present engaged in the lumber business, but they have money to invest and have heard of the wonderful resources of the South. To such an extent have they become interested that they have come down with the purpose of building plants at once and engaging in the lumber business in this section on a large scale.

The Common School Graduating Exercises.

At least 500 people assembled in Burlington last Thursday afternoon to witness the common school graduating exercises. There were sixteen of the graduates, being much the largest class ever presented in this county. They were Garnett Huey, of District No. 6, Recitation—The Royal Bumper's Degree.

Gladys Rouse, No. 8. Recitation—The Ride of Grandmother Lee.

Lillie Ryle, No. 11. Recitation—Education.

Edna W. Beal, No. 34.

Earl Robinson, No. 48.

Viola Richey, No. 44. Recitation—Giant and Dwarf.

Beulah Surface, No. 45.

Blanche Kelly. No. 6. Recitation—Kentucky Belle.

Jennie C. Kelly, No. 6.

Zelma Lee Kelly, No. 6.

Mary Soden, No. 48.

Leslie Johnson, No. 39.

Shelly Aylor, No. 9.

Ottie M. Surface, No. 39.

Lottie Utz, No. 9.

Hazel Thompson, No. 8.

When the hour arrived for the exercises to begin, the large circuit court room was filled to suffocation while there was a large number of persons who were unable to get into the room. Several of the graduates had recitations, which they delivered in good style. The graduating address was delivered by Rev. Early. It was brief but a most excellent effort—splended thoughts presented in an impressive manner. The diplomas were then delivered by Supt. Snyder, while he made some well chosen remarks.

Mr. S. A. Stillwell, secretary of the National Normal University, of Lebanon, Ohio, was present, and announced that he would present to the graduate who had the highest per cent a scholarship in the National Normal University. Being informed that Misses Lottie Utz and Jennie C. Kelly had tied for that honor, he startled the large audience by continuing the tie for honors by presenting each of the young ladies with a scholarship, and then had the Superintendent announce that he would present the graduate having the highest per cent next year with a scholarship also. This generosity from abroad was appreciated by the entire audience, and will prove to be seed that fell upon good ground, as regards the National Normal University.

The entertainment at the court house at night drew a crowd that could not get in the court room. It consisted of vocal and instrumental music, the Quilting Bee, and the Old Fashioned Singing School, the finale being a beautiful tableaux, The Ten Virgins. The teachers and graduates were then inivited to the court house yard, where they were served with ice cream, cake and lemonade. The court house yard was nicely illuminated with Japanese (no Russian) lanterns and otherwise arranged for the occasion, and the scene presented by the banquet was most beautiful to behold, and an event in the lives of those in whose honor the banquet was given that will be long remembered by them.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terors since Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy in all cases of bowel complaint in children has made it a favorite wherever its value has become known. For sale by all Druggists.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

Senator Fairbanks Officially Notified of His Nomination.

Ex-Secretary of War Root Delivered the Notification Address—A Notable Gathering at the Senator's Home in Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 4.—Charles W. Fairbanks, senior United States senator from Indiana, was Wednesday formally notified of his nomination for vice president of the United States by the republican national convention. The notification address was made by Elihu Root, ex-secretary of war, who was temporary chairman of the convention. The exercises were held on the wide veranda of Senator Fairbanks' beautiful home at Sixteenth and Meridian streets, in the presence of members of the notification committee, consisting of one member from each state and territory, the governor and other state officers of Indiana, the republican candidates for state office, the Indiana republican congressional delegation, Indiana delegates and alternates to the national convention, the state central committee and the Republican Editorial association. All these had been especially invited. On the lawn surrounding three sides of the residence and extending far on all sides beneath the great forest trees were several thousand friends, neighbors and political supporters of the senior senator. Massed in a body were 1,000 members of the Marion club, who had acted as escort for the distinguished visitors. Flags were seen everywhere. The house was elaborately decorated, and on one side of the lawn two large tents were topped by waving banners. The day was one of the most beautiful of the year.

The exercises were held on the veranda, the especially invited guests were served with luncheon in large tents on the lawn. The general public was served with light refreshments in the house and a photograph of the candidate and committee was taken from the steps of the veranda. The members of the notification committee began arriving on early morning trains. Shortly after noon the journey of one and one-half miles north, beneath the overlapping trees of Meridian street, began. Gathered at the residence were 5,000 people. Senator Fairbanks and Mrs. Fairbanks received the committee and especially invited guests, and with little delay Mr. Root and Senator Fairbanks led the way to the veranda, where seats were arranged for all. An enthusiastic greeting was accorded the two speakers as they appeared on the veranda. The demonstration lasted for several minutes, during which the members of the committee were seated. Mr. Root without preliminary addressed himself to the formal notification. Senator Fairbanks was given another ovation as he arose to accept the nomination. Both speeches were met with frequent outbursts of applause. As Senator Fairbanks concluded there were cordeal greetings, and after a photograph was taken the party was escorted to one of the large tents on the lawn when luncheon was served with light refreshments in the house.

NAVAL TRAINING STATION.

Two Sites Were Inspected On the Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 4.—Capt. W. H. Reeder, U. S. N.; W. M. Bradley, of Portland, Me.; H. M. Waite, of Lexington, Ky., and Secretary R. H. Moses, of Washington, D. C., the committee appointed by President Roosevelt to select a site for a naval training station on the great lakes, Wednesday inspected two sites on Detroit river. One is at Windmill Point, where Lake St. Clair empties into the Detroit river, and the other on Grosse isle, 15 miles down the river from this city.

Addition to Republican Committee.

Canton, O., Aug. 4.—Republican National Chairman George B. Cortelyou, en route from Chicago to Washington, stopped over in Canton Wednesday afternoon to spend a few hours at the McKinley home. While here Mr. Cortelyou announced an additional member of the national republican executive committee in the person of Geo. A. Knight, of California.

Capt. Baldwin's Airship.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 4.—Capt. T. C. Baldwin made another ascension Wednesday with his airship from Idora park. He rose to a height of about 500 feet and then sailed northward for a distance of about ten blocks in a slight breeze, made a turn, came back and descended in the park.

Havana, Aug. 4.—Manuel Despaigne, fiscal agent for the Cuban government, in a cable dispatch from New York Wednesday, says that Speyer & Co have paid him $10,000,000 of the $35,000,000 Cuban loan.

THE CLIFF-DWELLERS.

Descendants of the Race Discovered In Northern Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 5.—Dr. Bush, a well-known archaeologist, has returned from a trip 700 miles into the interior of Northern Mexico in the Sierra Madre mountains, and says he discovered a race of people that prove to his satisfaction the perpetuation of the race of cliff-dwellers. The language of the people is different from any other he ever heard, and the hieroglyphics on stones, correspond to hieroglyphics found in the ruins of cliff-dwellers' homes. He also found mummies exactly like those unearthed in cliff settlements, and living persons about the same size. Their huts are underground on mountain sides and everything indicates a connection with the cliff-dwellers.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Fell Into a Crevice and Was Imprisoned For Two Days and Nights.

New York, Aug. 5.—A search of two days and two nights for Antonio Beraccio, a workman employed in a quarry on Hudson Heights, North Bergen, N. J., ended Thursday in his being found at the bottom of a hundred-foot crevice in the rocks of the Palisades. The man had fallen while at work in the quarry and his body was so jammed between the converging sides of the crevice that he could move only his arms. For two days and two nights he had shouted for help. The second morning he was crazy from exhaustion, starvation and terror. Strangely enough, he was uninjured in his fall, and it is believed he will recover his reason and be little the worse for his imprisonment.

A WILD STAMPEDE.

Wheat at $1.25 Is Predicted in New York City.

New York, Aug. 5.—A stampede of shorts at midday carried wheat in the New York market well above the dollar mark Thursday. It was the culmination of a long bull campaign, based on European shortage and damage to domestic crops.

Some of the northwest news Thursday, which really started the bear panic, denoted widespread damage from rust.

Bulls now predict $1.25 before the season ends, anticipating a big European demand. At the close, which was the high point of the session, September wheat reached $1.01¾.

A HUGE WATERMELON.

One Received in Cincinnati That Weighs 85 1-2 Pounds.

Cincinnati, Aug. 5.—What is claimed to be the largest watermelon ever sent to Cincinnati was received Wednesday by a Sixth street produce dealer. It is 21 inches long, 14 inches in diameter, 48 inches circumference at the middle, and weighs 85½ pounds. It was sent in a special crate by J. M. Lindsey, Laurel, Miss., who claims it is second only to the 90-pound melon recently sent to Presidential Candidate Parker.

PRESUMED HE WAS LYNCHED.

Colored Prisoner Taken From a Constable By a Mob.

Richmond, Va., Aug. 5.—Andrew Dudley, a Negro boy about 14 years of age, who attempted criminal assault upon two little white girls near Greenfield, Nelson county, Wednesday, was taken from a constable while en route to jail in a train by a mob near Afton Thursday and led to the woods where it is presumed he was lynched.

PANICKY DEPOSITORS.

A Run on the Chicago Drovers Trust and Savings Bank.

It Was Started By An Unfounded Rumor That a Packer Representative Had Withdrawn His Money—All Depositors Paid.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—The strike in the packing houses was practically lost sight of Friday in the excitement attending a run on the Drovers Trust and Savings bank, one of stockyards institutions. The rush of the depositors to the bank started early Friday because of an unfounded rumor that one of the packers' representatives had withdrawn his money from the institution and reports that the bank was being used by the packing companies as an adjunct in paying off their new employes, who have taken the places of the strikers. All day long hundreds of excited depositors, most of whom had only small accounts in the bank, stood in line to withdraw their deposits. When closing time came Friday afternoon there were at least a thousand persons waiting for their money. The officials of the bank determined to meet the emergency, called in extra tellers and the place was kept open until every depositor who presented himself at the window had been satisfied. The paying windows of the bank were kept open until after 8 o'clock Friday night. Nearly two hours before that time the last man in line had been paid his deposit in full and fresh arrivals had ceased coming.

It is estimated that upwards of 3,000 depositors called and withdrew their deposits during the day. When the run was at its height, the bank withdrew $100,000 of its deposit with the Commercial national bank and a like amount from the First national bank in order to prevent any possibility of the bank being unable to meet its obligations.

Many of the workmen now on strike in the packing plants have deposits in the Drovers Trust and Savings bank, but the majority of the persons who gathered about the place Friday to demand their money were small tradesmen doing business in the stockyards district, and working people who are not and have not been connected in a labor capacity with the packing plants.

The Teamsters' union, the members of which are on strike, had $2,000 on deposit in the bank, but no effort was made to withdraw this money Friday, the secretary of the union declaring that the money will remain where it is, as the bank is as solid as a rock.

INTER-PARLIAMENTARY GROUP.

The Members Will Be Taken on a Tour Through the United States.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—Secretary of the Treasury Shaw's suggestion that the members of the inter-parliamentary group for the promotion of arbitration, who will arrive in New York from Europe the first week in September, be taken on a tour through the large industrial centers of the United States was adopted at a meeting here Friday of the committee appointed by congress to provide for their entertainment. It was also decided that each member of the entertainment committee should take charge of the guests as they passed through the state in which such member resides. The convention will be held in St. Louis instead of Washington, as was first planned.

THE MINERS' TROUBLES.

Operators Submit a Proposition to Their Employes.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 6.—At the meeting of the anthracite board of conciliation, held Friday at the request of the miners, the operators presented a plan for the settlement of the check weighmen, and check docking boss questions, which have caused so much trouble in the upper coal fields. The operators ask that the entire controversy be submitted to Judge George Gray, the chairman of the anthracite coal strike commission, his decision to be final and binding. The miners asked for time to consider the proposition and action was deferred until the next meeting of the board, which will be held here on August 12.

A LIVELY CONVENTION.

Riot Precipitated at Fifth District Appellate Meeting.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 5.—Because Temporary Chairman Judge Lee seated a contesting delegation from Owens county Thursday at the Fifth district appellate democratic convention, a riot was precipitated and police had to be called in. Fifty delegates or more received broken heads from the maces of the officers before quiet was restored.

The first disturbance was a fight on the floor of the convention hall between Representative Al Thompson, of Bourbon county, and Circuit Clerk Butler, of Paris. Police separated them, and Thompson was sent to the city to have his injuries dressed. When the temporary chairman announced the seating of the contestants from Owens county the anti-Cantrill men made a rush for the stage and attacked him. A free fight followed, and after the police had quelled this disturbance it was decided to postpone further proceedings until after supper.

The anti-Cantrill men adjourned until August 24. The Cantrill men met Thursday night and unanimously nominated Judge James E. Cantrill, he receiving 96 of the 185 votes. Many predict that the democratic state central committee will reverse the action of the convention.

Following the riotous afternoon session of the Fifth district appellate convention the night session was all harmony and unanimity, the anti-Cantrill delegates who had adjourned till August 24 did not attend, many having left the city. Willard Mitchell acted as chairman. Judge James S. Cantrill was nominated without opposition, receiving 96 of the 185 votes. This vote included the Owen county contesting delegation which Temporary Chairman Lee had seated at the opening of the convention, and which action precipitated the riot and bolt. Many predict that the democratic state central committee will reverse the action of the convention.

THE BOAT CAPSIZED.

Seven Out of Eight Persons on Board Were Drowned.

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 5.—In trying to reach the shore in a small tender from a stranded yacht Thursday evening seven of the eight persons in the boat were drowned through the capsizing of the little craft. Mr. Vedito, of Bear River, was the only one saved. The dead as far as can be learned are: George Leach, Masonville, R. L.; Capt. Charles Hersey, Digby; Mrs. Vedito, 30, Digby; Mrs. O'Reilly, 40, supposed to be a New York woman; her son, aged 13, and also her daughter. The name of the other victim can not be learned.

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

Used Pe-ru-na For Dyspepsia With Great Benefit.

HON. M. C. BUTLER,
Ex-United States Senator From South Carolina.

EX-U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina, was Senator from that state for two terms. In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., he says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh of the stomach.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

The World a School.

The wide universe is a school, the passing throng of humanity the pupils, experience the teacher. In this school there are many classes, and from one to another graduates continually pass. Man learns his lesson but slowly. He has struggled long to understand his material environment; and at last behind the physical he discerned the spiritual, beyond the substance saw the shadow, became conscious of the abstract motive that forever hides behind the concrete action.—William D. Little.

Paris Item.

Mme. Veuve Dupuis, nearly 104 years old, who was a guest of honor at the unveiling of Gerome's monument, "the Wounded Eagle," on the scene of the struggle of giants, had her wish to travel to the Waterloo battlefield in a motor car gratified. She did not, however, remain long away from her residence at Chapelle-lez-Herlaincourt, as she did not know how her "boys," aged 80 and 78, would get on without her.—Chicago Daily News.

Salmon Salad.

If fresh salmon is used, boil it and break it into flakes; line the salad bowl with lettuce leaves; season the fish lightly with pepper, salt and vinegar; put a layer of fish in the bowl and then a layer of mayonnaise dressing; alternate the layers until all the fish is used, being sure to have dressing on the top; garnish with egg yolks, parsley and slices of cucumbers.—People's Home Journal.

OLD FASHIONED

But Still in the Fashion.

It is an ever new and interesting story to hear how one can be entirely made over by change of food.

"For two years I was troubled with what my physician said was the old fashioned dyspepsia.

"There was nothing I could eat but 20 or 30 minutes later I would be spitting my food up in quantities until I would be very faint and weak. This went on from day to day until I was terribly wasted away and without any prospects of being helped.

"One day I was advised by an old lady to try Grape-Nuts and cream, leaving off all fatty food. I had no confidence that Grape-Nuts would do all she said for me, as I had tried so many things without any help. But it was so simple I thought I would give it a trial, she insisted so.

"Well, I ate some for breakfast and pretty soon the lady called to see her 'patient,' as she called me, and asked if I had tried her advice.

"'Glad you did, child, do you feel some better?'

"'No,' I said, 'I do not know as I do, the only difference I can see is I have no sour stomach, and come to think of it, I haven't spit up your four teaspoons of Grape-Nuts yet.'

"Nor did I have any trouble with Grape-Nuts then or any other time, for this food always stays down and my stomach digests it perfectly; I soon got strong and well again and bless that old lady every time I see her.

"Once an invalid of 98 pounds I now weigh 125 pounds and feel strong and well, and it is due entirely and only to having found the proper food in Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE STRIKERS UPHELD

All Chicago Unions Will Give Moral and Financial Aid.

The Membership Numbers Nearly 300,000—Each Member to Be Assessed a Small Amount Each Week, Creating a Large Fund.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—The packers on Thursday introduced a distinct novelty in strike-breaking—a train load of immigrants said to be direct from Ellis Island. The immigrants were unloaded at obscure spots about the yards and were smuggled in groups of ten or twelve to the various departments where the new-comers were put to work. This took place while representatives of the packers were reiterating the declaration made Wednesday that scores of applicants for work are being turned away because only skilled men are being offered employment.

There was no mistaking the immigrants who compose the latest acquisitions to the packers' force besieged in the stockyards.

The recruits were loaded down with boxes, bags and bundles wrapped in cloths, all speaking eloquently of Mediterranean points. Others carried big grips and some few the small box-like trunks frequently seen in the luggage of steerage passengers from Baltic ports.

Jealously clinging to these precious possessions and staggering under their weight, the immigrants were quietly taken from central points to the departments where the imported men entered upon active duty.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—All the labor unions in Chicago have endorsed the stockyards strike. After listening to the strikers' side of the controversy, which was presented to them by Michael J. Donnelly, president of the striking butchers' union, the Chicago Federation of Labor, which is composed of every labor organization in Chicago, and has a membership of nearly 300,000, adopted resolutions Sunday night pledging the moral and financial support of the federated body as long as the strike continues. Each member of the central body will be assessed a small sum per week and the whole amount will be turned over to the striking unions to help in the support of the strikers and their families during the struggle with the packers. The exact amount each member is to be assessed was left in the hands of a committee with orders to report results Monday. While the officials of the federation of labor were unable Sunday night to give an exact estimate of the amount of money the strikers would secure from this source it was stated that the total sum would be well up in the thousands each week.

After a fight which lasted for nearly four weeks, a settlement of the stockyards strike seems to be as remote as at any time since the struggle for supremacy began. Neither side to the conflict during all this time has shown any signs of weakening.

The packers, while claiming that they will soon have their affairs in normal condition again, so successful have they been in securing non-union workmen, still admit that so far they have been able to get but 550 of their old employes back and that the majority of their men are unskilled workers. In the last statement given out by the packers it was said that nearly half as many men were at work now as before the strike began. These men have been brought to Chicago from all parts of the country, the majority of them having never seen a meat packing plant before coming here. With these men the packers have succeeded in accomplishing a great deal of work, but according to the strikers, every animal that has been slaughtered since the strike was called has been at a financial loss to the packers, as in the majority of cases, a lack of skilled workmen has made it impossible to operate the by-products department and this source of revenue, which under normal conditions is a clear profit to the packers, has been allowed to go to waste.

WHILE BATHING.

Eight Persons Were Drowned in the River at Alton, Ill.

Alton, Ill., Aug. 6.—While bathing in the Mississippi river Friday night Michael Riley, his daughter and six of the latter's little girl friends were drowned. One child who was in the party was rescued.

Riley lived near the river in the southern part of the city and was accustomed to bathe on the beach in front of his home after his return from work. Friday night his little daughter begged to go with him and Riley took her and seven of her little girl friends to the beach with him.

When they entered the water, Riley bade the children join hands and they all waded into the water and walked along a sand bar which stretches out into the stream at that point. They had gone some distance from the shore when suddenly the whole party disappeared beneath the water, having in the darkness stepped from the sand bar into the deep channel.

The children struggled and screamed, fighting desperately to reach the sand bar, where the water was only a foot or so in depth. Riley, who is said to have been a good swimmer, is thought to have been made helpless by the girls clinging to him and hampering his efforts to save them.

The only one in the party to regain the sand bar was Mary Timminy, 8 years old. The child is unable to tell how she saved herself beyond the statement that "I snatched my hand loose from the grasp of the little girl next to me, and soon found that I could stand up and that the water only came to my knees."

The beach where the accident occurred is practically deserted after nightfall, and the screams of the little Timminy girl failed to attract anyone to the scene. After Riley and her playmates had disappeared beneath the water, the child ran from the beach and reached her home, screaming at the top of her lungs. She was so hysterical that it was some time before her parents could gather an account of what had occurred.

Immediately Mr. Timminy organized a rescue party, but when they reached the beach there was no sign of Riley and the seven little girls who Mary had seen sink.

Boats were hastily secured and in a short time four of the bodies had been recovered.

According to the account of the accident given by the Timminy girl the drowning was caused by the excitement incident to the passage of a large river steamer. Mary says that they had waded some distance into the stream, keeping carefully to the sand bar, when the wash from the steamer caused waves of considerable height to come ashore.

THE OPIUM TRAFFIC.

The Committee Appointed By Ex-Gov. Taft in Manila Reports.

Manila, Aug. 6.—The opium committee appointed last August by former Gov. Taft to investigate the laws and conditions with regard to opium in all Oriental countries has rendered its report. The committee recommends that opium traffic should be strictly a governmental monopoly at once, that at the end of three years of importation of opium should be absolutely prohibited with the exception of medicinal requirements, only confirmed habitues of the drug who are over 21 years of age to be granted a smokers' license and that an educational campaign against the use of opium to be started in the schools.

MERCHANT SHIP SERVICE.

Training School Department Under Direction of the Government.

San Francisco, Aug. 6.—R. P. Schwerin, vice president and general manager of the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., appeared at the hearing of the United States merchant marine commission. He advocated the establishment of a training school department under the direction of the federal government in which young men might be trained as officers and fitted to govern ships in the merchant service. A training naval school with annual visits to foreign ports, was, he held, the ideal system.

A JAPANESE CRUISER.

Reported She Struck a Mine and Sunk.

There Has Been No Important Engagements in the Vicinity of Port Arthur Since the 26th of July.

London, Aug. 5.—The war news in the London newspapers Friday morning is again restricted to official dispatches. A few very brief dispatches from Gen. Kuroki's headquarters in the field are printed, but they give no additional information to that already known.

The Daily Mail's correspondent with Gen. Kuroki describes the sufferings of the men from the heat. He says that one regiment, maddened by thirst, rushed into a river under the full Russian fire and drank at the peril of their lives.

The tropical heat continues and there have been many sunstrokes.

Berlin, Aug. 6.—The National Zeitung prints a private telegram from Tokio, dated August 5, in which it is stated that there are five Japanese divisions before Port Arthur, part of them within three and a half miles of the fortress and that there are altogether 20 divisions in Manchuria. The telegram says that Tokio is expecting the fall of Port Arthur and the capitulation of Gen. Kuropatkin on the same day.

London, Aug. 8.—No further news from Port Arthur has reached London and there is no confirmation of the rumored fall of the fortress.

Gen. Oku's detailed report shows that only small rear guard actions were involved in the Japanese occupation of the Naicheng-Newchwang line up to noon of August 3.

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent hears that owing to the impossibility of floating a foreign loan Russia has decided to raise an international loan of $75,000,000, and also to establish an income tax.

The Times correspondent at Tokio under date of August 7 says that there are unofficial reports there that the Japanese have captured commanding positions north and northeast of Port Arthur at a distance of 2,750 yards from the main line of Russian defenses.

Che Foo, Aug. 8.—The Japanese force which captured Wolf's hill is now intrenched in the valley about two-thirds of a mile from the fortress of Port Arthur.

A Japanese cruiser is alleged to have struck a mine and to have sunk immediately in the vicinity of Cristova battery.

The Russian cruiser Bayan has a small hole above her water line which was inflicted by the explosion of a mine which had floated to the harbor entrance.

The Japanese have occupied Louisa bay, landing troops with the probable intention of attacking west of the city. There has been no important fighting in the vicinity of Port Arthur since July 26. The Russian artillery harrasses the Japanese who are attempting to advance their trenches.

The above information was brought here Sunday by Russian refugees who left Port Arthur the 4th inst.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 8.—A telegram from Che Foo, dated August 7, says that according to Chinese information a fierce battle was fought on the land side of Port Arthur August 5. The Japanese are reported to have been repulsed with great loss, the killed alone being estimated at 10,000, while the Russians lost about 1,000. The telegram says that Lieut. Gen. Stoessel was personally in command and that the conduct of the Russian troops was splendid.

Liao Yang, Aug. 8.—The Japanese are advancing on Mukden and it is probable that a simultaneous attack will be made on Mukden and Liao Yang, in which case a decisive battle is assured.

Tokio, Aug. 8.—Gen. Kuroki reports that he buried the bodies of 512 Russians on the battlefields of Xushulikou and Yangtzuling. In these actions he reports the capture of 268 Russians, eight of whom were officers.

THROUGH A BRIDGE.

Train Plunged Into the River and Several Persons Were Drowned.

Pueblo, Col., Aug. 8.—The Missouri Pacific flyer No. 11, which left Denver on the Denver & Rio Grande tracks for this city at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon and due to reach Pueblo at 3:15 a. m., went through a bridge at Pinon at 7:50 o'clock Sunday night. The engine and five coaches were wrecked. The accident was caused by the heavy rain which weakened the bridge.

It is reported that between 30 and 50 people have been drowned in the wreck near Pinon, many of them Pueblo residents.

A call for volunteers has been made on Pueblo and every available man is being sent to the scene.

The train dropped into Fountain river. Wrecking trains have been sent to the scene from Pueblo carrying physicians.

A message from the Pinon railroad agent, who returned to that place late Sunday night from the scene of the wreck, said that he could find no trace of the engine and three of the cars. He found the fireman wandering about in a dazed condition looking for the engineer and could hear the cries of the unfortunates in distress. He said that Conductor J. H. Smith, Engineer Hinman and Brakeman J. J. Turner were among the dead.

The bodies of three young women, unidentified, washed down Fountain river, were found late Sunday night a half mile from the scene of the wreck. J. M. Killen, a Pueblo business man, injured, but not seriously, was washed down the river a distance of a mile, when he was enabled to crawl out onto the bank.

The prospects of recovering further bodies Sunday night seems slim. Fire Chief Ringer, of Pueblo, has gathered a force of men, who will drag the river at daylight.

INTERNATIONAL UNION.

The Printers' 50th Annual Convention Opened at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 8.—When the 50th annual convention of the International Typographical union opened here Monday representatives of the printing trades from all sections of the United States, including the new possessions and Canada, were present. Six hundred and fifty delegates have been elected to represent the various printers' unions at the convention, which is being held in convention hall on the World's fair grounds, and it is estimated that 1,000 visitors will attend.

The sessions, which will extend over the entire week, will be consumed with legislative work, with the exception of Wednesday, which has been set aside as "International Typographical Union day." An interesting program has been prepared for the occasion. A picnic at which there were athletic contests was held Monday for the delegates. A barbecue was the great feature of the occasion. About 6,000 persons attended.

STATE ODDS AND ENDS.

A HEAD-ON COLLISION.

Thirty-Three Passengers and Four Trainmen Were Injured.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 5.—A terrific head-on collision of two passenger trains of the Louisville & Nashville road took place near Horse Cave at 1 o'clock Thursday morning, causing the injury of 33 passengers and four trainmen. Among the injured are a Cincinnatian and two residents of Latonia, back of Covington, Ky. The trains in collision were the southbound passenger No. 1, leaving Cincinnati at 6 o'clock Wednesday night, and north-bound No. 2, leaving Nashville at 8:30. The cause of the collision is not known, but it is believed it was due to Engineer Rehm, of No. 1. According to report, Rehm either disregarded orders or was sound asleep, and it is claimed his train was going at a 40-mile clip when it struck the north-bound train. The impact was such that the baggage car of No. 1 was destroyed, the postal car badly damaged and other cars piled up in a confused mass. The track was completely blocked.

JAMES COOMES' MURDER.

Gov. Beckham Asked to Offer a Reward For the Murderer.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 4.—The citizens of Owensboro Wednesday made an appeal to Gov. Beckham asking him to offer a reward for the murderer of James Coomes, of Mt. Olivet, Ky., whose dead body was found in the Owensboro fair grounds Monday with a stake driven through his throat. The officers are searching for Roy Green, a Negro, but have found no trace of him. Green was seen in company with Coomes on the night he disappeared. Feeling is strong against Green and should he be caught mob violence is not improbable.

TOO CONFIDING BOY.

Sage Advice Given Him May Result in His Death.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 4.—In trying to put salt on the tail of a sparrow on the roof of his home, 217 Campbell street, little Peter Hines, the ten-year-old son of Patrick Hines, fell to the ground, 30 feet below, and suffered injuries that may prove fatal.

The Hines child and his playmate, Willie Watson, had been attempting to shoot sparrows with gumbo shooters all afternoon, with poor success, and finally decided to use a method that had been suggested to them by their elders—that of sprinkling salt on the sparrows' tails.

When Peter reached out to make his first catch he tumbled from the roof. Willie Watson was paralyzed with fear and spent the night on the roof, while the police searched the town for him. He was asleep when noticed by a neighbor.

TO FREE HIS SON.

Gave Up His Life and the Boy Will Accompany the Body Home.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 4.—Frank M. Jones, of Whitley county, the old man who came here to get a parole for his convict son, and who fell and cut his head on a pile of stones, died Wednesday afternoon in the King's Daughters' hospital.

The prison officials permitted his son to go under guard to see his father before he died. The prison commission had refused to parole young Jones, who is serving a short sentence under the doubtful charge of stealing, but after learning the sad end of the father reconsidered the case and paroled the son that he might accompany his father's body to their mountain home in Whitley.

PASSERBY WOUNDED.

In a Family Row Wife Fired the Shot That Struck Him.

London, Ky., Aug. 6.—James Adams, while walking along the street in East Bernstadt, Ky., in company with Robert and Ward Williams, was shot through the right thigh. The bone was shattered to pieces. Adams was passing the residence of a man who at the time, it is alleged, was in a general fight with his wife and children. The shot was fired by the man's wife in the midst of the row. The doctors think that Adams' leg will have to be amputated.

A Farmer Stoned.

TEACHERS INSTITUTE

Closes Friday After a Five Day's Interesting Session.

After the enrollment of the teachers in the forenoon of the first day, the following committees were appointed:

Resolutions—W. P. Dickey, F. M. Hughes, Wm. Gaines.

DistrictMeetings—A. M. Yealy, Lillian G. Corbin, Elbert Ryle.

Music—Anna Lee Wolfe, Lolla Ward, Mary Rouse.

The Institute then adjourned for dinner.

When the Institute convened afternoon, Hon. D. E. Castleman delivered a hearty address of welcome, and spoke words of good cheer.

The Purpose of the Institute was discussed by Superintendent Snyder in an interesting manner. He was followed by Miss Madge Wood with an excellent paper on "Attention," while "Habit" was thoroughly discussed by Misses Katie Craig, Lolla Ward and Prof. Dickey.

"Moral Education" was discussed at length by Profs. Bondurant and Snyder. This subject was under discussion when the Institute adjourned for the day, and was resumed on Tuesday morning, Prof. Dickey, Mrs. Wood and Miss Hamilton taking part.

Prof. Hughes introduced the subject "Discipline," in a most interesting manner, and was followed by Prof. Ryle and Miss Craig.

After the morning recess Hon. S. W. Tolin gave the Institute an interesting talk on "Common School Education."

Mrs. Hughes introduced Primary Reading, which was discussed by Misses Lizzie Rogers, Mary Rouse, Leola McWethy, Nannie Hamilton, Anna Hudson, Mrs. Wood, Profs. Newman, Dickey, and Supt. Snyder.

After the usual musical exercises the afternoon session was opened by the discussion of "Promptness" by Profs. Yealy, Newman, Dickey, Ryle, Misses Parker, Chambers, Johnson, Baker, Craig, Hamilton and Mrs. Wood.

Advanced Reading was discussed by Miss Hamilton in an interesting manner.

"School Management" was discussed by Profs. Dickey, Newman, Hughes, Snyder and Miss Hamilton, after which the Institute adjourned until Wednesday at 9 a. m.

When the Institute convened Wednesday morning, after the usual devotional exercises, "Arithmetic" was introduced by Miss Lizzie Parker and evoked a discussion in which a great many of the teachers participated, making it interesting and instructive.

"Grammar," the first subject in the afternoon was introduced by Miss Anna Hudson, and was discussed by Profs. Walker, Dickey, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Klemm and Prof. Hughes, all of whom agreed that a judicious use of slang is very desirable, and favored the Institute with choice samples.

A paper on "Nature Study," by Mrs. Klemm, was very interesting to the Institute.

A beautiful song by Miss Herndon was much enjoyed, after which the Institute adjourned until Thursday morning.

After the usual devotional exercises Thursday morning, Miss Grace Bullock introduced "Spelling," in an interesting manner, and it was discussed by Mrs. Wood and Prof. Dickey, who insisted that the Institute have an old fashioned spelling match, but his suggestion did not meet with the approval of the teachers. Mrs. Klemm gave the teachers some suggestions regarding imperfect vision as being the cause of much bad spelling. She was followed in her remarks by Prof. Ryle, Misses Hudson, Craig, Profs. Gaines, Hughes and Snyder.

Hon. D. E. Castleman gave the patrons present an able talk, which showed that he is a warm friend of the public school and of its teachers.

The "Trustee" was discussed by Profs. Gaines, Hughes, Snyder, Dickey, and Mr. Russell.

Rev. Earley conducted the devotional exercises Friday morning.

"The Teacher," was the first subject to occupy the attention of the Institution, and was introduced by Prof. Yealey in an interesting manner. Mrs. Klemm followed in an interesting talk, insisting that equal labor receive equal pay, and that ability and not sex regulate the wages.

"History" was handled by Prof. Hughes in an instructive manner. Mrs. Wood advocated the use of more books in the teaching of history. Profs. Gaines and Dickey took part in the discussion.

The committee reported the following times and places for holding the district association:

Beaver—September 24.
Hamilton—October 15.
Verona—October 22.
Woolper—October 29.
Pleasant Ridge—November 19.
Bullittsville—December 3.
The report was adopted.

The committee on resolutions reported as follows:

Resolved, That the Institute hereby extend a vote of thanks to the citizens of Burlington for their cordial welcome, Kentucky hospitality, and for their special efforts in furnishing many features that assisted in making this a most profitable and pleasant meeting.

A special vote of thanks is tendered the Burlington band for excellent music furnished; to Mrs. Nettie Hughes and others for the splendid entertainment given Thursday evening, and to the people of Burlington for the Teachers' and Alumni Banquet.

That we extend a vote of thanks to Mrs. Clara D. Klemm, of Walnut Hills High School, Miss Nannie Hamilton, of the League Institute, and Prof. Stillwell, of Lebanon, Ohio, for their presence and interest in Institute work.

Resolved, That at each Teachers' District meeting in 1904, a vote be taken on the place of holding the Institute in 1905, which majority vote of the teachers of the county the Superintendent will consider in the selection of said place.

Resolved, That it is the wish of the teachers that a competent instructor be secured for next session of the Institute.

Misses Patty Revill, Mary Roberts, Shirley Tolin and Mamie Kennedy, each favored the Institute with choice selections on the piano during the session.

LILLIAN G. CORBIN, Secty.

BASE BALL.

The Boones played the Erlanger team on the ground of the latter, last Saturday afternoon, taking the game by a score of 7 to 5, the feature of the game being Luck's long run and catch of a fly to center field which a failure to capture would have allowedErlanger a home run. Seeing that he had his game won, Hughes eased up his pitching in the sixth inning, and the Erlanger boys got considerable encouragement occasionally thereafter as the game progressed. Following is the score:

Boones	2	0	3	0	0	0	0	0	2—7

Struck Out—Hughes 10; Cefalu 8. Hits—Boones 5; Erlanger 4. Two base hits—Souther, Bentler, Luck.

The Hebron and Bellevue teams will play at Hebron, next Saturday afternoon.

The Boones and the Home City team will play here next Saturday afternoon. It will be a fine game, no doubt.

The Grays went to Walton, last Saturday, where they defeated a strong local nine in quite an interesting exhibition of good ball tossing. The boys were treated nicely and the enthusiasm, which was all on the side of the home team, was immense throughout the game. The Grays' force of rooters, lead by Sheriff Allphin, numbered 6 out of about 600; but while the Walton boys had the rooters, the Grays had the ball players, and they stayed in the game all the time. Gray and Fullilove, who did the twirling for the visitors and the home team respectively, were in fine form, and it took ten, hard fought innings to decide the contest which was won by the Burlington aggregation 6 to 5. Following is the score:

Walton	2	0	0	0	0	0	2	0	1	—5

Hits—Grays 8; Walton 7. Struck Out—Gray 13; Fullilove 9. Three base hits—Passons, Byland. Two base hits—Passons, Hall, Byland.

In the death of F. M. Howlett, aged 65, last week, the county has lost one of her best citizens. He was a successful farmer, and acquired a considerable quantity of this world's goods. He was a member of the I. O. O. F. and the funeral was conducted by that order, which deplores his loss.

John Mannin, of Hebron, was in town yesterday putting in telephones for the north end line. One for Atty. S. Gaines and one for Dr. Rouse.

Mrs. Russell Taylor, of Walton, died of consumption, last Monday night. She leaves a husband and two small children.

Judge J. B. Finnell and wife, of Georgetown, are guests at Judge Roberts'.

Wm. Stamper, the aged McVille merchant, died last Monday night.

End of Education.

When we come to the time of Commencement, we are likely to think of the real benefit, this real object to be obtained from the education which we have been trying to gain. Perhaps it would be well for us to pause and ask what is the true meaning or the end of education. My subject might suggest that education ends at the close of our school life. But this is not so. The true end of education is the development of character and this is the highest purpose for which we can live. Our characters are not fully developed at the close of our school life nor can this development be completed in a few years. It is the reward of a life time of labor. Character is a slow, but steady growth, and even the weakest may attain greater heights than now seem possible if he but make constant use of all his moral powers. If we discharge our daily duties faithfully, and have integrity of purpose, we are building a character which has no limit to power and influence. Everything, no matter how trivial, has something to do with the formation of character. Perhaps those things which have the most power and exert the greatest influence upon our lives are our early impressions and habits, as is shown by words within the following lines from his ode on "Intimations of Immortality from recollections of Early childhood:"

O joy! that in our embers,
Is something that doth live,
That nature yet remembers
What was so fugitive!
The thought of our past years in me doth breed
Perpetual benediction; not indeed
For that which is most worthy to be blest,
Delight and liberty, the simple creed
Of childhood, whether busy or at rest,
With new fledged hopes still fluttering in his breast—
Not for these I raise
The songs of thanks and praise;
But for those obstinate questionings
Of sense and outward things,
Fallings from us, vanishings;
Blank misgivings of a creature,
Moving about in worlds not realized,
High instincts before our mortal nature
Did tremble like a guilty thing surprised:
But for those first affections,
Those shadowy recollections,
Which be they what they may,
Are yet the fountain light of all our day,
Are yet a master light of all our seeing;
Upholds, cherish and have powers to make
Our noisy years seem monuments of being,
Of the eternal silence; truths that make,
To perish never;
Which neither listlessness, nor mad endeavors,
Nor man nor boy,
Nor all that is at enmity with joy,
Can utterly abolish or destroy.

But our characters are not wholly at the mercy of sourrounding circumstances. As Parker has said, "Penniless Socrates had not a very wide place nor Jesus of Nazareth a very uncommon outlay of circumstances to help him manifest and display his character." Not only our surroundings but our thoughts also have to do with the formation of character. If we set our will upon doing a certain act and then not do it the influence is weakening. The character may from that time on be a noble one, but the marks of failure are ever there. But worthy thoughts and aims have their impress just as surely as the lower thoughts; and each new thought helps us to live higher, nobler lives. This growth of soul is most beautifully portrayed in the following familiar poem:—

"This is the ship of pearl, which poets feign
Sails the unshadowed main—
The venturous bark that flings
On the sweet summer wind its purple wings,
In gulfs enchanted, where the siren sings,
And coral reefs lie bare:
Where the colds sea maids rise to sun their streaming hair.
Its webs of living gauze no more unfurl;
Wrecked in the ship of pearl!
And every chambered cell,
Where its dim, dreaming life was want to dwell,
As the frail tenant shaped his growing shell,
Before the lies revealed—
Its inoled ceiling rent, its sunless crypt unsealed!
Year after year beheld the silent toil,
That spread his lustrous coil,
Still as the spiral grew
He left the past year's dwelling for the the new,
Stole with soft steps its shining archway through,
Built up its idle door,
Stretched in his last found home, and knew the old no more.
Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee,
Child of the wandering sea,
Cast from her lap, forlorn!
From thy dead lips a clearer note is born,
Then ever triton blew from wreathed horn.
While on mine ear it rings,
Through the deep cares of thought I hear a voice that sings:—
Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Let each new temple nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

William Goodridge and wife entertained John Cloud at dinner, Sunday.

Louis Slayback and family spent Sunday with relatives near Burlington.

Benj. Slayback and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with his mother.

Mrs. Eliza Fenton, of Newport, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ed Berkshire.

Chas. Craven and wife, of near Burlington, spent Sunday with Wm. Ryle and family.

Mrs. Ed Berkshire and her mother, Mrs. Fenton, were visiting in Rising Sun, Tuesday.

Will Sebree and wife attended the Sunday School Convention on Gunpowder, Friday.

Five Louden and family were guests of Elbert Kelly and wife, last Saturday night and Sunday.

Charles Finn, H. P. Parson left your honey drawer here. Please call and get it when convenient.

Mrs. T. J. Walton, mother and sister, Emma, were guests of W. I. Rouse and wife, Thursday evening.

Although some people are continually changing their minds, they seem unable to get a decent one.

Ed Buares and family spent last Saturday night and Sunday with Mathew Fleek and family, near Limaburg.

Miss Emma Hunt, of Walton, was a guest of her sister, Mrs. T. J. Walton, a couple or three days this week.

Louis Merrick and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with his father-in law, Noah West, Clore's Ridge.

Samuel Hall and family, of near Burlington, spent last Sunday with Mrs. Laura Marshall on Middle Creek.

The fall and winter term of school at Bellevue will commence next Monday with Elbert Ryle, of Burlington, as teacher.

Misses Stella Garland and Grace Slayback, of Erlanger, came down on Tuesday, to visit relatives and friends, and attend the Lawrenceburg fair.

Columbus Popham, a former resident of this neighborhood, was circulating among friends here, Friday, and returned to his home in Aurora, Saturday.

Ira Ryle and sisters, Artie and Stella entertained with a dance, Thursday night. The number present was small but a pleasant time was had by those in attendance.

There is considerable excitement in the Hathaway neighborhood over the gold find. The man who owns a farm without a gold mine isn't in it a little bit over there.

Walter Zimmerman and brother, of Erlanger and several others, passed through here, early last Monday morning, on their way to the river for two days' fishing.

When we were a boy, politicians roamed around without a cent, and their hands in their pockets, but now they have their thousands and their hand in other people's pockets.

Wood Sullivan, Sr., lost his smokehouse by fire, Friday morning. The building was used as a summer kitchen and the building and all its contents was destroyed. It is not known how the fire originated.

The storm, last Wednesday night burnt out the telephone switch board, but it has been put in operation again.

J. S. Mason's threshing machine was in this neighborhood, last week, threshing the crops of wheat. L. S. Pope had the largest crop, 180 bushels.

Taken with Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all Druggists.

RABBIT HASH.

Colin Kelly is some better.

Don't forget the festival at Rabbit Hash, Saturday night.

The death of Hon. Jas. A. Wilson is momentarily expected.

Miss Edna McElroy has accepted the position of teacher of the school, near New Liberty, Owen county, at a salary of $45 per month.

Jeff Williamson, the road supervisor, had out a force of hands a couple of days, last week, putting on a quantity of stone in bad places.

One of the pleasantest occasions of the season was the fish fry that was pulled off at Hathaway, last Wednesday. There was secured for the occasion 110 pounds of nice river fish, which were fried to a Queen's taste by several good cooks, who have had considerable experience along that line; there was, also, a large kettle of fish chowder made by G. L. Smith, who no one can surpass in making. The people of the surrounding neighborhood brought well-filled baskets, and at noon a long table was arranged in the shady grove near by, where the bounteous repast was spread. It consisted of fish, bread, coffee, tomatoes, pickles, pies, cakes and all other delicacies that the season affords. Everyone ate to their own satisfaction, enjoying the occasion very much. The afternoon was spent in social conversation and general discussion on topics of the day, until late in the evening, when all took their departure for their several homes, hoping to meet often on such events. Notes—100 people or more were in attendance.—15 gallons of lemonade was dispensed with by the crowd.—Lee Busby set up the cigars after dinner.—Lamott Houston was telling his jokes as usual.—What Tom Judge and Will Surface did for the fish was a plenty.—Uncle Frank Smith, of Union, was on hand and ate fish to his satisfaction.

Thanks to Thos. Nees, of the Nees Hotel, Lawrenceburg, for a complimentary ticket to the fair. Mr. Nees is one of the prosperous business men of that city, and his good wife was a Petersburg lady and she never forgets to say a good word for old Kentucky.

Perry, son of Marion Bruce, and Miss Pearl Jarrell, daughter of the late Whitfield Jarrell, were married by Rev. Selby at his residence, Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Bessie, daughter of Philip Klopp, was married to a Mr. Smith, of Lawrenceburg, last Tuesday evening.

The Belleview cor. invites us down with our ball team again to play the "Mudhens," and says, "don't forget to bring the best players from Lawrenceburg." We can pick five men out of our team and shut the entire Bellevue nine out, and as to the Rough Riders, they have not defeated a team of any importance this season. They play like a lot of hillbillies. When you go up against Pete you have to play ball and not do accrobatic stunts in the field like Belevue's are famous for. We are coming whenever you say the word, Bro. Ryle. We like you people and this is only a friendly rivalry.

R. B. Huey and wife, of Locust Grove neighborhood, were guests of his sister, Mrs. Belle Clore, Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Etta Gloyd, of Dillsboro, Indiana, returned home Tuesday, after a week's visit with your reporter and wife. We were sorry to have her leave, she was such pleasant company.

The drought has cut the corn and tobacco crops short and about knocked out the gardens, but we have a few chickens and some watermelons to fall back on. The chickens are nice and fat and the melons large and sweet—call and try them when you come down.

VERONA.

Aug. 15.—We are having hot days and cool nights.

A. B. Myers' little son is recovering from typhoid fever.

John McCormac is putting a new roof on his residence.

Dr. James McCormac got $10 of the Enquirer contest money.

Scott Myers has finished threshing and pulled his machine in.

Miss Blanche Roberts is spending a week with Miss Corinne Conrad, of Dry Ridge.

Wm. Ferrill is building an addition to his house. C. W. Lewis is doing the work.

Miss Irene Hudson, who has been visiting relatives in Paris, is expected home in a few days.

P. W. McClure's new house is completed, and he will move in this week. The contractor, A. C. Roberts, hustled the work through.

Misses Eunice Johnson and Della Roberts, and Messrs. James Hudson and Matthew Cleek, were most charmingly entertained on Sunday by Miss Alpha Hance, of Big Bone.

The young people of this place have been delightfully entertained of late at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Griffith and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cleek. The latter entertainment was in compliment to Mrs. Cleek's niece, Miss McGlasson, a very charming young lady who was visiting her for a few days.

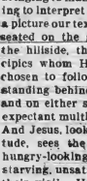
On the evening of the 8th, inst., the young people of Verona gathered at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Griffith. Those present were Misses Della, Fannie, and Branham Roberts, Eunice and Bernice Johnson, Mabel Huron, Stella McGlasson, Grace Cotton, Ethel Myers, Bessie Powers and Cecil Menefee; Messrs. Matthew Cleek, Grover Cleek, James Hudson, Jesse Wilson, Will Cotton, Omer and Cloyd Powers, Harry Hamilton, Wayne Byland and Leslie Jones; also, Mrs. Cotton, Mr. and Mrs. Florence. The social was given in honor of Miss Bessie Powers. Mr. and Mrs. Griffith enjoys the company of the young as well as the old and they did their part at entertaining their young guests. The evening was pleasantly spent listening to the many selections on the graphophone.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abcess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes, of DuPont, Ga. "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've quitely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed by all Drug Stores. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Attorney Tomlin informed the RECORDER, one day last week, that his town, Walton, is just one mile too close to Burlington to entitle it to one half the terms of the Boone circuit court under a law passed by the last legislature. Were it 17 or more miles distant from the county seat every other term of the circuit court would have to be held there.

Judge Lassing is having a well driven on the Elza Bruce farm. It is being put down near the forks of Woolper.



A MESSAGE FROM THE FIELDS

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Aug. 14, 1904.

Text:—"Consider the lilies of the field."—Matt. 6:28.

JESUS points us to the common flowers of the field and urges us to consider them, for they have a message for the soul of man. Throughout the ages since Jesus spoke these words, God has been planting His garden in the fields, and the fragrant blossoms, as they lift their bright faces upward to receive the sunshine and the rain, have been in their own sweet way bringing to man God's message and helping to interpret His written word. What a picture our text brings before us. Jesus seated on the green-carpeted slopes of the hillside, the group of faithful disciples whom He has but just formally chosen to follow Him in His ministry, standing behind Him, while before Him and on either side the eager, attentive, expectant multitudes press to hear Him. And Jesus, looking out upon that multitude, sees the anxious, careworn and hungry-looking faces behind which the starving, unsatisfied souls were keeping their vigil. He feels the throb of that restless life; He knows the anxious thought and trouble which follow relentlessly at the heels of those people like an evil Nemesis; He understands the work and struggle which go on day after day—the anxiety for the necessities of life and the fretting for the pleasures and luxuries. And that Jewish multitude gathered about the Saviour in the Galilean hills was no different from the multitudes of to-day. There are the same anxious and careworn faces; there are the same hungry, unsatisfied looks breaking forth from the starving soul; there are the same worry, the same discontent, the same feverish pursuit for the perishable things of this life—for food and raiment, for pleasures, and for worldly place and power. Jesus as He looks out over the world to-day from His throne in glory sees human nature the same. He can point us back to that scene which our text brings before us, and ask us to see there the faithful portrayal in miniature of the condition of human heart and life to-day.

BUT Jesus saw more than that feverish and anxious multitude. He saw more than that human sea of faces, over which the furrowing marks of care and trouble and unwholesome pleasures and indulgences had traced their indelible lines. Yea, if He had not, I verily believe His heart would have broken. In that human need and soul-hunger before Him there was naught to cheer His heart or bring gladness to the Divine eyes. But that was not all He saw. The grass and the lilies of the field were there. He saw them, and they spoke their sweet message of God's faithful care as the Creator and of their glad and humble faith and trust as the dependent creature. But the multitudes did not see. Ruthlessly and thoughtlessly they crushed the grass and the scarlet-robed lilies under their restless feet. They were pressing forward for they hardly knew what. Earthly care and material wants made their hearts hard and their souls insensible to the whispered message of the fair, glad flowers at their feet. And, oh, how that is true to-day! How this materialistic age is crowding out all sense and thought of God, and yet how the lilies of the field, how the birds of the air, how all abounding nature would bring their messages to the heart of man and have him learn of God through them, and find in them the clear interpretation of His Word!

THE fields bring their perennial message. It is old and yet ever new. Jesus says to you and me as we turn our anxious, troubled, unsatisfied hearts towards Him: "Consider the lilies of the field." Why? Not alone to drink in their beauty and to fill the passing moment with fragrance and brightness. Not just simply to admire them and rapturously gush over their graceful outlines and their exquisite colorings. Not to examine them with the scientific eye and regard them as so many more specimens for the collection. Not to regard them as the beautiful model to be painted into the landscape and lend their beautiful color to brighten and glorify the picture.—Not any of these. Jesus was not talking to the gushing and sentimental and esthetic, not to the botanist, not to the artist. Jesus loved nature for more than her superficial self. He saw deeper than the exquisite colorings and the picturesque and beautiful combinations. He heard the spiritual message which nature whispered. He saw underneath the beauty and the fragrance the lessons which could reveal God and God's Word. And so He said: "Consider the lilies of the field." Have you considered them? Oh, yes, you say. How I love to wander through the fields, how I delight to search through the woods for the mosses and the ferns and the tender violets which brighten the cool, shaded nooks. How I rejoice in the song of the bird, in the ripple of the stream, in the murmur of the trees as the hurrying breeze skips from leaf to leaf and sets them all to whispering of his visit and his hasty flight, in the buzz and hum of the insect world. Oh, I love nature, I love to be with her, I love to commune with her. She brings rest and peace and quiet to my heart. Ah, yes, so she does. How eagerly and faithfully nature ministers to man, irrespective of his moral or religious condition. But Jesus does not plead with us to "Consider the lilies of the field" for the superficial and matsrial gratification of man. He wants us to consider them for the deeper spiritual lessons which they may teach us.

"CONSIDER the lilies of the field," because they speak of God's faithful care, because they reveal a sweet faith, a humble trust, a willing obedience and a glorious mission. God the Creator on His part giving to the little plant all it needs. And the created thing on its part patiently, trustfully, humbly waiting within the circle of the Divine will, there to be made glorious and beautiful, whether it is sunshine or storm, whether it is the chill and darkness of the night or the scorching heat of the day. And "if God doth so clothe the grass of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?" There is vital and intimate relationship between God and the lilies of the field, but between God and man there is the barrier of unbelief, of disobedience, of willful impatience. Between God and nature there is a cordial fellowship, but between God and man that fellowship has been severed through man's forgetfulness of God and his mad, eager rush after the things of this life. And do not think the lilies are speaking to your heart God's message as you think beautiful and sentimental thoughts of God and nature and prate about God's care and love universal. The lilies speak a heart-searching message. It is one man does not like to hear, it is one which his heart is not sensitive to understand. Think you that you have heard the message when you rush back to the city and plunge with greater eagerness than before after the material things of this life, and worry and fret because they do not come faster, or become discouraged and morose because of the misfortunes and privations of life? Think you that you have heard the message when the fields behind you and the pavement of the city's streets beneath your feet, you forget God and the lilies and seek first man and mammon, and care not so much about method as that the coveted goal is reached?

THE proof that the message has been heard and understood is found in the seeking first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness, and proving the truth of God's assertion that all else needed for this life shall be added. And as the beautiful dress and fragrance of the lily which God so freely gives it make it a creation of exquisite perfection, so man in character and life would be as beautifully clothed and provided for as the lily if he put God and His righteousness first and man's desires and seeming interests second. Man robs himself day after day because he does not learn the message of the lilies of the field. Our lily of the field might, if her will and purpose were not so firmly rooted in the place where God had planted her, roam the world over seeking the softest of silks and satins, choosing the daintiest of colors which man could obtain, living to gratify every selfish wish and ambition, and she would fail, miserably fail. There would be no admiring glances at her beauty, there would be no fragrance in the air. How she would rob the world and God! And man is doing that very thing. He talks of God's care and love and yet he does not know what it means, because unlike the lily he is not willing to abide in God's will; he is not willing to fill the place God intended; he is rebellious at conditions and privations; he is bound to have his own will and seek his own way. The lily speaks of sweet, simple faith in God, of obedient surrender to all the forces which will make for splendid growth and glorious fruitage, of patient waiting through every experience in life, whether it is the heat of temptation or the darkness and chill of privation's hour; whether it is the glad sunshine and refreshing shower of prosperity or the prostrating wind and hail of adversity. It is the sweet, abiding trust in God which brings that peace and joy which passeth all understanding.

AND the lily of the field in the light of Christ's solemn words declares to the soul of man that if he does not belong to Christ, if the regenerating power of the Son of God is not felt, if His life is not flowing through the human life, that that life is dead and withered as far as the eternal and enduring things of God are concerned. That flower is the glory of the plant, and God has declared that He has created man for His glory. But how could the lily apart from the plant reveal the glory of that plant, and how can man apart from God and out of fellowship with God manifest and reveal the glory of God? Jesus Christ came into the world to reveal God to men, to manifest forth His glory, and He accomplished His mission only as He faithfully and persistently kept His place in the Father's will. He bore the beautiful fruitage of a God-like character. And the only way for man to grow the fruits of a Christ-like character is for him to abide in the Christ. This, then, is one of the lessons which the lily would teach us. Apart from the plant, useless and immature and dead. Apart from Christ, an imperfect character, immature and useless and finally eternal death beyond the grave. "Consider, then, the lilies of the field," for they teach of God's love and care, of the beauty and success of humble faith, and willing obedience and patient waiting, of the fruitage of Christian character which can come only as the soul is found in Christ and Christ is found within the soul.

Religion unfeignedly loved perfecteth man's abilities unto all kinds of virtuous services in the commonwealth.—Richard Hooker.

YOUNG MEN IN POLITICS.

They Should Remember That the Republican Party Is Opposing Their Advancement.

A great effort has been made by the republicans to control the young men who will cast their first vote for president this year. Documents have been prepared especially for that purpose and distributed by the Protective Tariff league. These are artfully written and would deceive even older heads than the first voters unless well grounded in the falacies and folly of protection. The promise of big wages is an alluring bait to catch the young man who is intent on pleasure or to save enough to start in business for himself. The corresponding and even greater cost of living does not affect the young man as it does those with a family to support. High trust prices do not impare the income of the young man as they do the father of a family.

But the republican system of protection is more disastrous to the young man than to the father. The first voter has to win his way to independence, and he finds the tariff-bred trusts have by concentration of business into large corporations eliminated many opportunities that used to be open and free. Most young men must now be content to serve others, and can never aspire to be their own masters. The reduced number of well-paid employes of corporations and wholesale houses is another curtailment of the chances of young men for a good position in life. The number of traveling men sent out since the consolidation of manufacturing and distributing concerns, is much smaller than it used to be and the salaries and allowances for expenses are not as generous. Clerks in stores do not get nearly as good wages now as before the trust era reached its height. If the cost of living is taken into consideration the decline in wages is much greater, reckoned by the purchasing power. Unless a young man has influence, or is especially bright, his chances of advancement in the services of a corporation is restricted to filling the place of those who resign or through the deaths of other employes that may occur.

In the professional world the number of aspirants has increased in a much greater ratio than the population, in consequence of the greater number of colleges and reduced outlook for a good living in other occupations.

When those young men who choose a professional career have embarked in it they will soon feel the full burden of the tariff and its high prices, as a professional man's income does not rise and fall with the cost of living. When the cost of meat, coal, groceries and rent increases the fees of the doctor or the lawyer remain comparatively stationary.

In the mechanical trades many avenues have been closed by the consolidation of the small manufacturers into great corporations, or the competition of the trusts has wiped them out of existence.

The increased cost of land has reduced the opportunities for young men to acquire farms of their own, unless they are willing to work many years to save enough money to make the required payment and buy the necessary stock and implements. There they find the full weight of the protective tariff and the resulting high trust prices. The farmer sells nearly all of his farm products in competition with foreign countries and everything he buys is advanced to the highest possible price by the protection the tariff gives to the corporations that produce what he buys.

The system that has been developed under these republican policies is all against the young man starting out in life unless he is content to only aspire to being a drudge for a corporation and then only one in a thousand ever gets beyond the lower rung of the ladder.

The labor unions have made it possible by combination, for a few young men to obtain fair wages as stone masons, bricklayers, carpenters, paper hangers, painters or machinists, but the number of apprentices is limited in those trades, and the high cost of living again prevents much saving and the slack times when work is scarce has to be provided for.

Under the democratic policy of "equal rights to all and special privileges to none," everyone could achieve independence by work and attention to his business. The moderate tariff does not protect the trusts at the expense of the consumer. Wages might not be so high, but the cost of living would be much less and the balance saved for the rainy day would be greater. That was the condition during the low tariff period before the war, when nearly every man could sit under the shadow of his own vine and fig tree. Now the great majority are at the mercy of landlords and masters or the soulless corporations.

The young man just starting in life must investigate and weigh the advantages and disadvantages of the two systems and vote accordingly, and not be led away by the specious promises made by the republicans.

—Republican campaign managers claim that Roosevelt can be elected without carrying New York. After further reflection they will reach a conclusion that there are other states which their nominees will not carry.—St. Louis Republic.

—Tom Taggart, who used to sell railroad sandwiches, will hand the republicans something even harder to digest.—Houston Post.

—Judge Parker stands pure in character, and will have nothing to explain. Never before did the voters have a truer representative of American citizenship as a presidential candidate.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

—Mr. Root says the tariff, if revised at all, must be "revised by its friends." And that is all that the tariff fed trusts ever asked for—that their friends be allowed to revise the tariff.—The Commoner.

PARKER'S CHANCES GOOD.

American People Want a Sane, Safe and Conservative Man in White House.

The national democracy has turned its face toward the light.

It has named for president of the United States a candidate who represents the sane sentiment of the mass of the party and the patriotic purpose of the American people.

What it means, and what the country will recognize in this nomination, is a reversal of the attitude of the two great parties. The democracy, from radical, becomes conservative. The republican party is left as the exponent of radicalism.

Alton B. Parker is the safe man. Theodore Roosevelt is the dangerous man. The contrast is made between the judicial temperament, the statesmanlike force of character of Judge Parker, and the fiery impulsiveness of the rough rider.

Can it be doubted which candidate will appeal more strongly to the solid sense of the American people?

Parker is the guarantee of safety. Roosevelt is a danger.

There are excellent reasons for expecting the election of Judge Parker. He comes from the state of New York—the state whose vote still decides presidential elections—and he will carry his state. He has done it before when a candidate for high judicial office, against great odds, and by the force of his personality, his character and his record he will do it again as candidate for president.

New York is essentially the pivotal state. Judge Parker will also carry Connecticut, New Jersey and other states which for eight years past have been classed as doubtful.

The probability is that with Parker the democracy will win the election. The candidate has shown characteristic delicacy in refusing to be drawn into a discussion of the issues of the campaign or to take any part which could be construed into an effort to obtain the nomination. The public recognizes his good sense.

Thus the campaign opens. The lines are clearly drawn. It is the fantastic politician against the seasoned jurist and statesman.

The Washington Post truly says that not since the civil war has the democracy entered upon the campaign with such omens of success. The Tilden campaign—out of whose result the people were cheated—the two Cleveland campaigns which were successful, did not present such a prospect at the outset.

The fact that the people want a safe, sane man in the white house to direct the fortunes of the republic as its chief executive. Instead of an erratic, impulsive rough rider.

Befog the issue as you may, this is the point on which the election will turn.

MUCH TROUBLE IN SIGHT.

Why the Manipulators of the Republican Machine Are Worried Almost to Death.

The republican managers are not so cocksure as they were. On the contrary they are just beginning to learn how thoroughly cemented together the democratic party is. Following the ominous breach in the republican ranks in Wisconsin, Senator Scott rushes to Washington with a tale of woe that is calculated to draw tears from a stone. He says that his colleague, Steve Elkins, is working hand in hand with Senator Davis to turn West Virginia over to the democrats next fall, and thus prevent Scott's reelection. He says that Elkins is not greatly concerned for the election of Roosevelt.

Chairman Babcock also has troubles to confide to Cortelyou about the Wisconsin situation, and Secretary Metcalf, formerly a representative of California, is disturbed at the claims of the California democrats, who are loudly asserting that they will carry the state.

Every day it is dawning upon the republican leaders that they are due to encounter a great democratic tidal wave this fall. The area of debatable ground is constantly expanding. At first they were inclined to put West Virginia, Delaware and Maryland in the doubtful column, but even old Grosvenor is beginning to admit that republican chances are slender in those states.

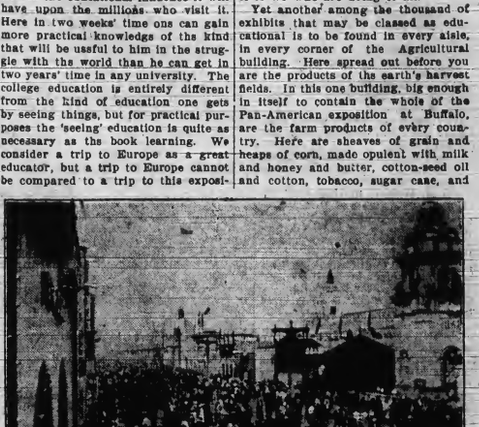
Now California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Utah are not only regarded no longer as certain republican territory, but strong indication points to democratic success in those states. New York is almost hopeless from a republican standpoint, and even republican papers and leaders in Indiana admit that the democrats have as good a chance to carry the state as the republicans. Fairbanks has not strengthened the ticket a particle in the Hoosier state.

The tone of the independent press is distinctly favorable to Parker, and this is a reasonable indication that the independent vote is leaning in the same direction.

It is three months until the election, and admittedly many things might happen within that time that would have a vital bearing on the result. But, says the Houston Post, there can be no exaggeration in saying that in no previous campaign since 1856 has the party entered upon the contest with so flattering a prospect for complete victory.

We Will Carry New York.

Democracy has bent itself to the business of carrying New York. Democracy must carry New York, and will carry New York easily. It is no half-way campaign which the party is waging there this year. Democracy makes a powerful appeal with its sane and safe candidate to all worthy interests and classes. There is harmony of the resounding and inspirational kind in the rank and file and the organization is unanimous and strong and prepared to do good work in every detail of management.—St. Louis Republic.



The St. Louis World's Fair as a Great Educator

It Is More Valuable Than Months of Study or a Trip Around the World. Accommodations for Visitors Moderate and Ample.

St. Louis.—I was standing on the Plaza St. Louis, admiring the scene that stretched away into the distance before me, ending with the magnificent spectacle of the Cascades. I needed no company, for the great exposition all around me was sufficient, but as I stood there an acquaintance, the president of a western college, stopped beside me.

"Magnificent beyond the dream of man," said I.

"More than that," said he. "Do you know," he continued, "to me the greatest thing of this truly great exposition is the educational influence it will have upon the millions who visit it. Here in two weeks' time one can gain more practical knowledge of the kind that will be useful to him in the struggle with the world than he can get in two years' time in any university. The college education is entirely different from the kind of education one gets by seeing things, but for practical purposes the 'seeing' education is quite as necessary as the book learning. We consider a trip to Europe as a great educator, but a trip to Europe cannot be compared to a trip to this exposition. Here is shown the best of all countries, and to see all that is shown here is to see the best from the countries of all the world.

AN AVERAGE CROWD ON THE "PIKE" AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

"As for our country, what could be more instructive than the exhibits in our government building? After seeing it we understand far better than we could have before both the system and uses of government. Take the Philippine exhibit as another example. A half day's time spent within its walls is more instructive than a dozen text books. We are entirely too apt to read and forget, but when we see we remember, and here we see."

Examples that would bear out the statements of my college friend might be enumerated almost without end, and all would but tend to prove that the Louisiana Purchase exposition is the greatest educator of the age. We read the histories of the years to learn of the world's progress, but here we do not have to read, we see it. In the Transportation building we see the primitive locomotives that pulled our first railroad trains, and standing beside them we see the powerful, intricate machines that perform the same service to-day. That is an education in the progress of railroading. In the Electrical building we find the first primitive electrical appliances, and beside them the many intricate machines that are to-day being driven by this as yet unexplained power. That is up-to-date education in electricity. In our school geographies we are taught, among other things, of the products of the various countries. Here we see them. The book learning we forget, what we see we remember. Take, for example, Japan. We are interested in the progress of the island empire, we wonder at her greatness, we read volume after volume to learn of her progress. Here it is all spread out before our eyes. We see the same Japan Commodore Perry saw when he broke the bars of darkness that shut the empire from the world, and we see beside it the Japan that is to-day waging war with one of the greatest nations of the world, the same Japan that is an important element in the world's commerce. It is an education in the progress of Japan that no books can possibly give us.

And so it goes through all the great exposition palaces, through the foreign government buildings, through the state buildings, and down the Piks. Everywhere is a new and valuable lesson easily learned and never forgotten, for we learn it by "seeing."

To refer again to the United States government building and its exhibits as an educational feature, I want to quote a part of a paragraph from the current number of the World's Work that well illustrates the educational point I make. This is it:

"Watch a party of visitors from a Mississippi valley state, people who have never seen the sea, as they wander through the passages of the battleship model or squint along a rapid-fire gun on deck, across an imaginary ocean. The shine in their eyes betrays a mixture of excited interest and patriotic pride. Far though the coast may be from their homes, it is yet their coast that such battleships guard, and the battleships are theirs. And it is a semi-proprietary satisfaction that affords a good part of the pleasure that any American evinces in gazing at the processes or results of the many government activities he sees exploited here. A visitor will observe a hundred interesting novelties; he will leave the building—only to go back later for another look—round-eyed with amazement at the many things the government does for the people; but his spirit will be self-gratulatory—it is we who are doing it all."

Yet another among the thousand of exhibits that may be classed as educational is to be found in every aisle, in every corner of the Agricultural building. Here spread out before you are the products of the earth's harvest fields. In this one building, big enough in itself to contain the whole of the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, are the farm products of every country. Here are sheaves of grain and heaps of corn, made opulent with milk and honey and butter, cotton-seed oil and cotton, tobacco, sugar cane, and fruit. There are towers and pagodas and pictures and panoramas in corn-husks, corn-cobs, corn-tassels and corn-kernels, tobacco-leaves and tobacco-grains, wheat-straw and wheat-heads and wheat-grains; and there are figures in cotton and butter and sugar and prunes and nuts. There are decorations in wavy moss and hemp, in rice-sheaves and prairie grasses. You know at last the wealth of each state, for packed into each of the different sections is an abundant sample of all that springs from one state's soil—whether it be hill-farm potatoes, swamp rice, sea-island cotton, bottom-land corn, prairie wheat, desert dates or irrigated alfalfa. And in the same way you know the agricultural wealth of each of the world's nations, for they are spread out before you for your inspection. Everything grown upon the earth is here, and displayed and labeled so that the lesson the exhibit teaches is never forgotten.

And what does it cost to see this wonderful exposition, what is the price to be paid for this liberal education? It may be much or little, just as a sight-seeing trip to any city may be much or little. There are fashionable, high-priced hotels in St. Louis, just as there are in New York, in Chicago, in London or any other large city, but be it said to the credit of these hotels, they are no higher priced during the exposition than they were before it. The masses of the people are looking, however, for something less expensive, and it is easily found. The people of St. Louis are playing the part of host in a way that will make friends of the visitors to the fair. Thousands of homes have been opened for the accommodation of guests, and the prices charged for the accommodations provided are most moderate. In fact, to judge from what one must pay for board and room, one would scarcely imagine that the greatest exposition the world has ever known is in progress in the city. Boarding house prices compare favorably with those of other cities, and $1 per day will secure a comfortable room and breakfast in hundreds of these hospitable homes. No one needs deprive himself of the great education that awaits him at St. Louis for fear of exorbitant prices, for they are not to be found.

Two Injuries.

Perhaps the man who maltreats a book, even by accident, deserves to pay for it twice over, and logically he may sometimes be called upon to do it. A daily newspaper says that a borrower recently handed in a book at a public lending library, and the attendant thereupon discovered a hole in one of the leaves.

It was necessary to enter a description of the damage in a book kept on the counter. A clerk entered the title and number of the book, and the attendant described the damage thus:

"Page 215, a hole." Then he turned the leaf and added: "Page 216, another hole."—Youth's Companion.

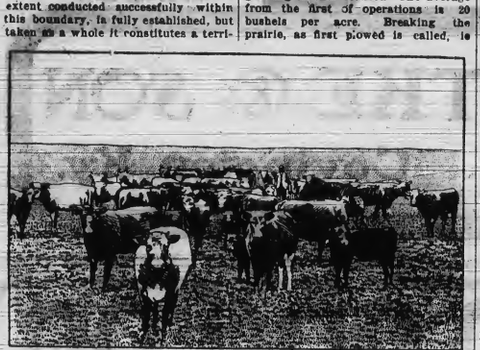
IN WESTERN CANADA

THREE DIVISIONS AFFORDING CHANCE FOR SETTLEMENT.



They Are Specially Adapted to Ranching, Wheat Growing and Mixed Farming—Many Americans Settling There.

The old Romans used to say that Gaul was divided into three parts. So is the Canadian northwest. Gaul's divisions were political; those of western Canada's prairies are created by the unerring hand of nature.

The First Division.

Chiefly because of the elevation of the country, the absence of large lakes and rivers, and the operations of the "Chinook" or Pacific ocean winds, which readily cross the Rocky mountains in southern Alberta through gaps and passes, the southwestern portion of the Canadian provinces is regarded as somewhat arid, and less fertile than other portions of the country. Although this has been a prevailing idea in the east, it has been left for American settlers who have invaded this district within the past two or three years to prove that splendid crops of grain can be grown on the land which had hitherto been the feeding ground for the herds of cattle and bands of horses that ranged here.

That ranching is carried on most successfully in other portions of the prairies west, just as agriculture is to a limited extent conducted successfully within this boundary, is fully established, but taken as a whole it constitutes a territory above all others most admirably adapted to this particular industry.

A HERD OF CANADIAN SHORTHORNS.

The buffalo, bunch and other grasses that grow in profusion in this district and retain their nutritive properties the year round, and the moderate climate of mid-winter rendered such by the Chinook winds preventing any considerable depth of snow at any time, especially fit the district for the peculiar methods of the rancher—raising his herds the year round in the open country.

While there are no large lakes or rivers in this whole country there are numerous fast-running streams fed the year round by melting snows in the mountains furnishing an abundance of the coolest and purest water, the best for beast as well as man. The country has at once an abundance of the best of food and drink the year round, a clear sky but little wet or stormy weather and a favorable climate the year through.

Englishmen and Americans in the western territories are bringing in their herds as fast as they can and leasing or purchasing land in lots from 1,000 to 20,000 acres from the Dominion government. An idea of the growth of the industry will be gathered from the fact that in 1899 there were but 41,471 head of cattle shipped and sold from the ranches, there figures ran to 55,129 in 1900, and to 160,000 in 1903, averaging $40 per head for the owners. But it takes a great many ranchers and a large number of cattle to cover an area of 200,000,000 acres, the area available for ranching in the Canadian northwest.

It is not at all necessary that large investments should be made at the outset. Many men commenced with small capital and small herds, and have worked themselves into large herds and great wealth. There is still in the country plenty of room for those who desire to go and do likewise.

Second Part.

The second part of the Canadian prairies embraces the great wheat growing belt of the country which is easily a half larger than any other in the world. It includes about 150,000,000 acres. As it is comparatively free of broken land, large lakes and rivers, about 125,000,000 acres of it can be brought under the plow. Pinching a farmer on every half-section (320 acres), it can comfortably locate 800,000 farmers or 4,000,000 of an agricultural community. A glance now at what the farmers of the territories are doing will give a better idea of what can be done in this great wheat-growing zone. The territorial government reports show that in 1903 there were raised 16,629,149 bushels of spring wheat off of 837,234 acres, an average of 19.04 bushels per acre; off 440,562 acres of oats there were grown 14,179,705 bushels, an average of 32.17 bushels per acre; 69,667 acres produced 1,741,209 bushels of barley—24.65 to the acre, and 32,431 acres produced 252,856 bushels of flax seed, 9.03 to the acre. As but 1,338,334 acres of a little better than one per cent. of the entire wheat-growing area of the territories was under crop, a little figuring shows 12 per cent. of the entire country under wheat will raise the 200,000,000 that Great Britain annually requires from outside countries.

It must not be supposed for a moment that while this part of the country is outlined as the especially favorable district for wheat growing, it is not good for mixed operations as well. It is because it is level, has a sufficient rainfall every year, plenty of snow in the winter for moisture in the early spring and favorable climatic conditions the year round that it is specially marked for this branch of husbandry.

In this part of the country wheat is king, and here it is raised in the greatest possible perfection by a combination of soil and climate in its favor, and the tendency has been to neglect the more laborious branches of husbandry for which the country is equally well adapted.

As if to cope with the offerings of nature, the railway companies are ready with their railways to haul the grain as soon as it is relieved from the straw in the fields by the threshers. Throughout this entire belt there is an enormous length of railway mileage, branches are radiating in every direction from the trunks until they scarcely leave a grain field more than six or seven miles from a road, and they are all required, for in the fall and early winter the sight of the trains passing to and from the elevators at the railway depots makes the entire country look like one hive of industry.

Free Homestead Lands.

There is yet a large quantity of government land for homesteading in this country, and as in everything else "the early bird catches the worm." Those who come first are first served. When it is preferred to purchase railway or other company lands they can be got at from five dollars per acre up. This section cannot be better closed than by showing practically what is made by wheat growing in this district. The average from the first of operations is 20 bushels per acre. Breaking the prairie, as first plowed is called, is of course an exceptional expenditure, as when it is once done it is done for all time. This costs about $3.50 per acre. After the breaking, plowing and seeding, harvesting, threshing and marketing, all expenses combined amount to about $5.25 per acre; that is, if a man has everything done it will cost him $5.25 per acre. If he does the work himself he is earning wages while producing at that figure. Now as the average yield is 20 bushels, and the average price 60 cents—$12 per acre—the difference between the result and cost, $6.75, is the profit of grain growing year in and year out in the great wheat belt of the Canadian prairie country. If a man has a half section of land and puts half of it, 160 acres, under wheat, which is a very common occurrence, he makes $1,080 on wheat alone and should make if he is a capable farmer enough out of other crops, sale of cattle, dairy and other products to keep himself and family the year round besides.

The Third Division.

The third division of this great country lies to the north of the wheat belt, between it and what is known as the forest country. As wheat growing implies the raising of all cereals, that can profitably be raised in the country, the remaining branches of mixed farming are dairying and the raising of farm stock. It must not be supposed that dividing the prairies in this way is saying that any one portion of the country possesses better soil than another, for such is not the case—all districts are equally fertile, but the topography and climatic influences differ, as well as the conditions for production. Ranching and grain growing are carried on quite successfully in this northern zone; but it is found more profitable to combine all the features of the industry. On account of the land being more broken than in the southern district, though the soil is equally fertile, there are not the same opportunities for extensive operations; and while cattle raising is as profitable here as elsewhere, different methods have to be adopted for their protection, especially in the winter season.

An authority on the subject has stated that agriculture in any country never reaches the minimum of development until the farmers engage at least proportionately in dairying, though the surroundings must always determine the extent to which any feature of the industry may be prosecuted. It is certainly then that if the agricultural possibilities of this portion of the prairie country be estimated by its adaptability to dairy farming even the most skeptical must acknowledge they are unsurpassed in any country in the world. As intimated above, even dairying may be successfully carried on in any corner of the territories, but this zone has everything to recommend it as the ideal spot for this branch of the business.

The mining districts of British Columbia, which consume an immense lot of dairy products, are close at hand and always afford a good market for butter, cheese, pork, poultry and eggs.

The wives of the young sultan of Morocco are of every shade of skin, from the white Circassian to the Venus of the Niger. Their board and lodging form an insignificant item in comparison with the amount of perfumery they consume.

The Emperor Menelik, of Abyssinia, is the fifth husband of his wife, Taitu, who once was a great beauty. Her first husband was one of King Theodore's generals, her second she divorced, her third was killed by King John, her fourth was "removed," and in 1883 she married Menelik.

Anna Gould, Countess de Castellane, has some much-hated children. They are named in a petition signed by the countess as Marie Jean Lily George Paul Ernest Boniface de Castellane, Georges Gustave Marie Antoinette Boniface Charles de Castellane and Jason Honore Louis Sever de Castellane.

It is probable that Lord Curzon could give some amusing instances of English as it is written by subordinate officials to India. But it is not likely that any of them would cap the experience of a certain high official out there who once received a letter commencing "Your most striking excellency." The scribe simply meant "distinguished."

The passenger engines formerly cost more on account of the embellishment. Now the freight engines are more expensive because they are heavier.

The Canadian Pacific railway is opening a large anthracite coal mine at Banff, Northwest Territory, and invites tenders for driving a tunnel 1,200 feet long.

A provision of $230,000 has been made by the Paris underground railway out of its year's profits to meet liabilities arising out of the accident in August last year, when nearly 100 lives were lost.

A train on the Great Western railway recently eclipsed all records for the conveyance of American mail between Plymouth and London, covering the distance of 247 miles in 237 minutes. The last 118 miles of the run were made in 99 minutes.

HUMOROUS AND WITTY.

Of course, being a "favorite son" is a mighty pleasant job, but sometimes it is awful hard to make good.

The trouble with the weather nowadays is principally that it continually persists in raining between rains.

A woman often believes in her husband because he proved his sound sense and good judgment in marrying her.

There is a great deal of pretense in the culture of some people. They carry an imitation gold case in a chamois bag.

SAVED FOR THE FISH TRADE

He Had Too Much Intellect to Be "Hove Away" on a Doctor.

The fish-man drove into the yard a few days after the new summer residents had taken possession of their home, and seeing an open door he stepped in and confronted the mistress of the house, relates Youth's Companion.

"Gettin' settled, I s'pose," he said, agreeably, allowing his gaze to wander from two half-unpacked trunks to a table loaded with miscellaneous articles. "Well, take your time, take your time; there's plenty of it up here! I understand your husband's a doctor, ma'am?"

"Yes, he is," said the summer resident, who in spite of warnings from city neighbors that she had better display no haughtiness of spirit under questioning, was unable to put much cordiality into her tone.

"Well, now, I come near bein' a doctor," said the fish-man, still with a wandering gaze. "My folks wanted I should be one, all excep'in' an aunt that had money, and was looked to to help me out financially if I took up with a profession. She spent one summer here, and she made a reg'lar study of my character an' parts, and at the end of the season sne up an' told my folks that 'twouldn't do, I must go into business.

"That boy has got too much intellect to be hove away on a doctor," she said; those were her very words. Now how would you like a couple o' good mack'rel all slit up an' ready for the br'iler?"

Voice from Arkansas.

Cleveland, Ark., August 15 (Special).—Nearly every newspaper tells of some wonderful cure of some form of Kidney Disease by the Great American Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this part of Arkansas is not without its share of evidence that no case is too deeply rooted for Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure.

Mr. A. E. Carlile, well known and highly respected here, tells of his cure after nearly a quarter of a century's suffering. Mr. Carlile says:

"I want to let the public know what I think of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I think they are the best remedy for sick kidneys ever made.

"I had Kidney Trouble for 23 years and never found anything that did me so much good as Dodd's Kidney Pills. I recommend them to all sufferers."

There is no uncertain sound about Mr. Carlile's statement. He knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills rescued him from a life of suffering and he wants the public to know it. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney ills from Backache to Bright's Disease.

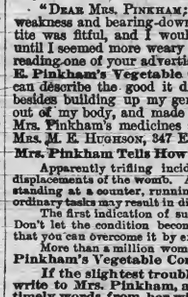
Mrs. Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—Mrs. M. E. HUGHSON, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.



Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements.

Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing as a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may results in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, failing and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures in the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

BOONE CO.. RECORDER
Wednesday, - - Aug. 17, 1904.
W. L. RIDDELL, - - Publisher

The Boone County Democratic Executive Committee is hereby called to meet in Union, Kentucky, on Saturday, August 20th, 1904, at 2 o'clock p. m., to consider the propriety of ordering the primary election for November, 1904, for the selection of nominees for county offices at the regular election in November, 1905. Also the selection of five names for recommendation to the State Board of Election Commissioners from which to select the Democratic member of the Boone county board. A full attendance is asked for this important meeting. J. L. FRAZIER.

THE Republicans up in the Eleventh Congressional District cannot hold a primary election that is any clearer of frauds than are those of the other party. Hunter and Edwards each charges the other with gross frauds in the primary to which they submitted their claims last week.

Judge Alton B. Parker was formally notified at Rosemount last Wednesday of his nomination for the presidency by the Democratic National Convention. The notification speech was made by Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, and Judge Parker responded in an address of a little more than half an hour's duration. In closing his speech he declared that if elected to the presidency he would not ask or accept a renomination for a second term.

So far as heard from those who will be candidates for the Democratic nominations for county offices are perfectly willing that the Primary election be held on the day of the presidential election in November, and the voters have no objection to that date. If the Democrats of Boone county desire to maintain their present representations in State and District Conventions, they will have to bring out a big vote in November, and a primary election only can accomplish that result.

THE Democratic State Central Committee at its meeting held in Frankfort, by a vote of 5 to 4 recognized Judge Jas. E. Cantrill as the Democratic nominee for Appellate Judge in the Fifth district. Judge Lassing, a member of the committee, offered a resolution that in no uncertain terms, repudiated the rulings of Lee, recognized the Carroll-Saufley convention of August 24, and ordered all the delegates to return to Lexington on that day and make a nomination, but the majority of the Committee could not see it that way, and proceeded to quiet Judge Cantrill's title to the nomination. Each of his opponents pledged him his hearty support.

It is an established fact that the United States now holds the record for fruit, such as oranges and lemons, peaches and grapes. As a nation we eat more fruit than any other and grow considerably more than we eat. Eighty millions of dollars a year is the figure for strawberries alone. A hundred million would scarcely cover the value of all the grapes marketed. Peaches we raise in astonishing quantities in orchards containing as many as 300,000 trees, but our banner crop, so far as fruit is concerned, is apples. We have produced as many as 210,000,000 barrels in a single season. Ships weigh anchor in New York three at a time in a single week bearing apples to Europe. Indeed, it is one of the greatest industries, and our country promises to rank as the chief fruit field of the world.

Birds have a very acute vision, perhaps the most acute of any creature, and the sense is also more widely diffused over the retina than is the case with man. Consequently a bird can see sideways as well as objects in front of it. A bird sees, showing great uneasiness in consequence, a hawk long before it is visible to man. So too, fowls and pigeons find minute scraps of food, distinguishing them from what appear to us similar pieces of earth or gravel. Young chickens are also able to find their own food, knowing its position and how distant it is as soon as they are hatched, whereas a child only very gradually learns either to see or to understand the distance of objects. Several birds, apparently the young of all those that nest on the ground, can see quite well directly they come out of the shell, but the young birds that nest in trees or on rocks are born blind and have to be fed.

The Department of Agriculture reports most interesting experiments made by Prof. Poffa of the University of California upon men engaged in hard manual labor most of the time and students working to support themselves while pursuing their studies. The professor says: "Nuts are the cheapest source of energy, peanuts ranging far ahead." The price, 3.6 cents per 1,000 calories of energy, is at less cost than any animal food or potatoes at 90 cents a bushel. Peanuts deserve special mention because the cheapest domestic not containing the highest percentage of protein, with maximum fuel value and minimum refuse. Ten cents, for instance, will purchase more protein and energy when spent for flour or meal, but these are raw materials, requiring considerable preparation before they are eaten. This is not necessary with fruits and nuts. Ten cents' worth of peanuts will contain about four ounces of protein and 2,767 calories of energy. Although peanuts supply protein and energy for a smaller sum than bread, they are outranked by dried beans, which at 5 cents a pound will supply for 10 cents over 200 drams of protein and 3,040 calories of energy. If more peanuts and dried beans were used by the fruitarians the diet would be enriched and the cost decreased. Fifteen cents a day was the average cost, with fruit, nuts, beans and a limited quantity of cottage cheese and eggs—Outlook.

Local News.

The rain last Thursday evening revived the gardens considerably.

Johnnie Hogan gave his stock scales an overhauling, one day last week.

Zimmer has been hauling considerable fruit in this neighborhood again this year.

The lightning made trouble with the Waterloo telephone switchboard, last Wednesday evening.

Geo. Blyth and Bert Sullivan bought a considerable lot of oats in Bellevue neighborhood, last week.

Ed Hawes has become Burlingtonized again. The boys are glad to have Ed among them once more.

Elder John W. Scott will preach at Mt. Pleasant church on the 4th Saturday and Sunday in this month.

The rain that visited this locality last Wednesday afternoon was badly needed. There was not enough.

The gentleman who dropped his watch last week can have it made to run like a new one at Clark's repair shop.

There are several very nice fields of tobacco along the road between Burlington and the ferry at Lawrenceburg.

The jurymen who came from the south end of the county last Thursday morning reported no rain in that section.

Don't forget that the biggest of all Kentucky country fairs will begin at Florence on the 31st inst. at 10 o'clock a. m.

Rev. Early has fitted up for his study the small room on the left at the head of the stairway as you ascend to the circuit court room.

R. H. Hood, of Constance, was in town one day last week letting the people know that he has on hand a large supply of good coal.

The English sparrows have returned to town for their summer outing in the grain fields, and have been greeted by some of the citizens with powder and shot.

The house which J. C. Hankins occupies in the suburbs of Hebron has been struck by lightning this summer. It looks like lightning has a liking for that locality.

The Hebron telephone compahy has received its phones, and they will be put in for the subscribers at once. The deal in getting the lines in operation was unavoidable.

The catalogues for the Harvest Home are being sent out, and the demand for them indicates that considerable interest is being taking in the next Harvest Home.

A Poland China sow with white face and white feet has been at my house for about 10 days. Owner can have her by paying for keep.
LESLIE NICHOLS, Idlewild.

Some of the boys learned very suddenly last week that they had business away from Burlington. The grand jury was somewhat of a disturbing element to Burlington citizenship.

Geo. Blyth and Bert Sullivan had a very fine field of oats on the D. E. Lawell farm. They estimated the crop at 1,000 bushels but when they threshed them they measured up only 600 bushels, much to their surprise.

Another Gold Field.

The excitement seems to have subsided in the Gunpowder gold fields, but it is running at high tide in the Hathaway neighborhood, where an assayist has made a very favorable report on the value of the ore which he tested. Some of the land owners down there think they have a bonanza.

Puts an End to it All.

A grievous wail oftimes comes as a result of unbearable pain from over taxed organs, Dizziness, Backache, Liver complaint and Constipation. But thanks to Dr. King's New Life Pills they put an end to it all. They are gentle but thorough. Try them. Only 25c. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Will Open the Season with the Burlington Grays.

Deputy Sheriff Hume and Attorney F. E. Curley were doing considerable base ball talk while in Burlington, last week, and among other things expressed their determination to have the finest and best equipped ball park in northern Kentucky, next year. They are now in correspondence with some of the best architects in the country with a view to having them submit plans and specifications for a grand stand, and they have booked the Burlington Grays for the opening game.

The Common School Per Capita.

The State Common School per capita this year is $2 95, but what are known as pauper districts in this county, will reduce the county per capita to $2 70 or $2 65.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c at all Drug Stores.

A Big Fair is Certain.

Everything indicates that the "Boone Fair" is going to be immense this year. Even the privilege men believe it will be, hence the spirited bidding for the several privileges on the 6th inst., when about $1,000 was realized therefor. One of the refreshment stands brought $300, and another $230. The baby rack privilege rented for $139 It is evident that people are expected to spend their money freely while attending the fair.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best remedy for diarrhoea is asked tor, and do so because they know it is the one remedy that can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. Sold by all Druggists.

The School Per Capita.

The school fund has been officially announced as $2 95 per pupil for the present year. This is larger than last year, but less in proportion to the work required. Last year it was $2.60 for five month's school. Now it is $2.95 and a term of six months is required. This per capita will be slightly lowered by taking enough from the larger districts to make up for those having less than forty-five pupils. The per capita would have been larger this year had it not been for a deficit of $171,000 which had to be made up. Last year was the occasion of a State election and our Democratic officials in order to make a good showing placed the per capita at $2.60. The amount of funds on hand did not justify so large an amount and the consequence is a big deficit which must come out of the teachers' salaries this year.

CIRCUIT COURT.

The grand jury was in session four days and found four indictments, which speaks well for the morals of the county, or is a good testimonial of witnesses' ability to avoid being interviewed by that body.

The petit jurors answered for duty on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week then were excused until yesterday when they were returned.

It is seldom that two members of one household are members of the petit juries at the same time. but such is the case at this time, Harry and Jonas Stevens, brothers, of Idlewild neighborhood are petit jurors.

In the case of Jemima Tanner vs. N. C. Tanner, the $1,000 note was ordered paid to L. H. Busby, executor of W. A. Tanner.

LIGHTNING

Destroys a Large Barn at Hebron.

The large barn on Mrs. T. A. Rouse's place near Hebron, was struck by lightning and burnt, last Wednesday, about 5 p. m., together with its contents, consisting of about 15 tons of hay, a small amount of corn, a new road wagon and hay bed, sled, sleigh, saddles, harness, &c., to the value of about $500. The contents of the barn belonged to J. C. Hankins, who has Mrs. Rouse's place rented. The barn was insured in the Farmers' Insurance Company for $450, but there was no policy on the contents and Mr. Hankins' loss is total. Mr. Hankins was a member of the grand jury last week, and had been at home but a few minutes when the barn was struck, and was changing his clothes, and half clad he ran to the doomed building and got his horses and a buggy out. He says the barn was ablaze in a few seconds, and a very peculiar odor prevailed. The barn was 40x60 feet with a shed at either end, and was an unusually well constructed building and finished in a style that made an attractive structure.

LAWRENCEBURG FAIR.

A Big Crowd on Friday was Entertained Well.

The writer visited Lawrenceburg, the business little city and capital of Dearborn county, Indiana, last Friday, and took in the big fair which was in progress just outside the city limits. Having past the portals of the fair grounds, but little progress had been made towards the grand stand until a call by a voice at once recognized as that of that king of good fellows, T. B. Mathews, turned our course to the official headquarters, where we met a most cordial reception by Messrs. Mathews and Nowlin, who are the Treasurer and Secretary respectively of the Fair Association. They were as busy as bees looking after the interests of the Association and receiving the coin which the numerous revenue producers on the grounds was making for the Fair, and they occupied nearly every foot of available space. The attendance was large, and the show unusually good, which was very gratifying to the directors who have worked incessantly to bring the Fair to the front, and who succeeded in making the exhibition this year the best in its history.

Having arrived on the ground about the noon hour, a survey of the numerous refreshment stands was taken and one at which the ladies of the Presbyterian church were serving a dinner for the benefit of their church, appeared the most inviting, and there the inner man was refreshed while a good cause was given a small boost.

The two trots and the pacing race in the afternoon were contests that created considerable interest and in several heats the finishes were too close to be comfortable for the winner. A bay mare belonging to Sam Hicks, of Richwood, took first money in the pace without an effort, although she had to make a heat as good as 2:26. Mr. Hicks drove his mare. Harry Fisk, of Florence, got a piece of the money in that race.

In the large crowd were many Boone county people, each of whom seemed to be having a pleasant time notwithstanding the intense heat of the afternoon. Several of Boone's gallant young men were noticed in the grand stand, each of whom was surrounded by a bevy of handsome young ladies. Of these Jonas Stevens, the popular Idlewild bachelor, appeared to be the best entertainer but had only slight advantage of several others in that respect.

The high dive and the balloon ascension, each of which was a success, kept the crowd until late in the afternoon, and when the crowd dispersed it was the unanimous verdict that the Lawrenceburg Fair Association was giving its patrons the worth of their money.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terceors since Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy in all cases of bowel complaint in children has made it a favorite wherever its value has become known. For sale by all Druggists.

The Sunday School Convention.

The biggest event in religious circles in this part of the county so far this season, was the Sunday School Convention at Gunpowder church last Friday. A very large crowd was present, the exercises were of a very high order and instructive, while the basket dinner, was all that could be desired both as to quantity and quality.

Killed by the Cars.

A young man named Phelps, who lived on the river road below Constance, was killed last Thursday afternoon, near Anderson Ferry, by a train of cars. He and another man had just taken a hand car off the track to get it out of the way of an approaching train, and he was trying to recover from the track a pick that had fallen from the hand car, when he was struck and terribly mangled.

While in Lawrenceburg last Friday we spent an hour very pleasantly with Bro. Smashey, of the Lawrenceburg Press. He has a well equipped office, and is a hard worker.

The work on the lock and dam below Taylorsport has not begun. The people in the vicinity of where the work is to be done are curious to know the cause of the delay.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

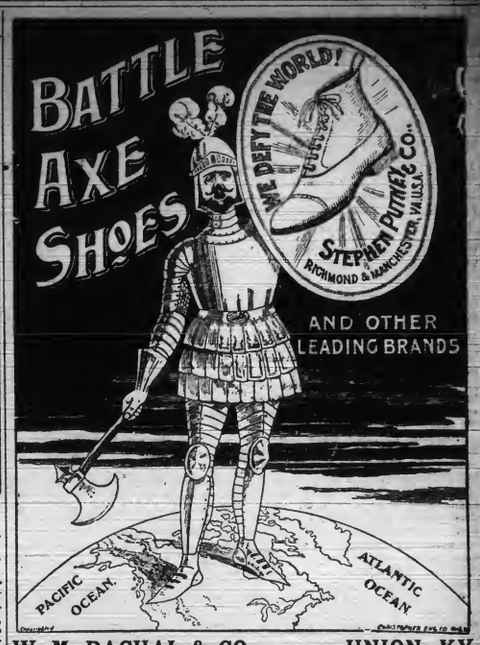
BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.



ROCHELLE, GA., Jan. 30, 1902.
Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best lever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 20 per cent. better.

PARKER IS NOTIFIED.

Accepts the Democratic Nomination For President.

The Notification Was Brought to Him by Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, as Chairman of the Committee.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Judge Alton B. Parker Wednesday received formal notification of his nomination for the presidency of the United States as the candidate of the democratic party, and in accepting gave public expression for the first time of his views on the issues of the campaign.

The notification was brought to him by Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, as chairman of the committee representing every state and territory in the union. Mr. Clark, in a brief speech, informed the candidate of his nomination and presented to him a formal communication signed by the committee.

Standing bareheaded during a brief lull in the rain storm which had lasted since soon after daylight, Judge Parker accepted the nomination and set forth his views in a speech that evoked frequent and hearty applause. He spoke for a little more than half an hour.

The ceremony was held on the lawn at Rosemont, under the trees at the north of the house, and was attended by upwards of 600 people, the largest number of whom came from New York city with the notification committee on the steamer Sagamore. This company included many democrats of national prominence as well as a large and representative delegation from Tammany hall.

During most of the time occupied by Champ Clark's speech the rain was falling in a steady drizzle, but it stopped entirely just as Judge Parker began his address, and held off until he finished.

Representative Clark was speaking and Judge Parker was standing bareheaded without shelter when a man in the crowd yelled: "Somebody hold an umbrella over Judge Parker."

A number were immediately offered, but the judge refused them with a courteous wave of the hand.

While Judge Parker was speaking there was no need of shelter. The rain stopped and not a breath of air stirred. In the stillness, every word could be heard distinctly to the farthest borders of the crowd.

As Judge Parker spoke his closing words the band struck up "The Star-Spangled Banner," and from the deck of the yacht Sapphire in the river below a number of bombs were fired in salute. Those bursting in the air released parachutes from which were suspended the national colors. Later there were whistle salutes from the steamer Sagamore, John Pierce's yacht Sapphire, and August Belmont's yacht the Scout, which brought former Senator David B. Hill from Hyde Park.

After the ceremony all crowded up eagerly to shake the candidate's hand and to congratulate him upon his speech. The reception was continued on the veranda until after 4 o'clock, when the company broke up and the visitors returned to their boats and trains.

GRANTS OUR REQUEST.

Sultan of Turkey Yields to the Demand of United States.

The American Schools in the Ottoman Empire Accorded the Same Treatment as That Given Schools of Other Nations.

Constantinople, Aug. 15.—After prolonged pour parlous and considerable haggling on the part of the Turks, a satisfactory solution of the American school question has been arrived at. This matter, which is the most important of the American demands, was settled by extending to American schools the same treatment as that accorded to schools under the protection of other powers.

A settlement of other matters affecting American interests in Turkey of secondary importance has also been affected and Minister Leishman has telegraphed to Rr. Adm. Jowett, in command of the United States squadron sent to Smyrna, instructing him to salute the batteries on land and depart.

The sitting of the council of ministers at which the settlement was agreed upon was a long one and it was not until near its close that an agreement was reached. The delay in the settlement is belived to have been caused by the intervention of the palace functionaries, whose policy, in order to retain the sultan's favor, consists of combating the rights and privileges of foreign subjects.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The United States war vessels now at Smyrna under command of Rr. Adm. Jewell are the Cleveland, the Olympia and the Baltimore. They left Smyrna Monday and will sail for Gibraltar. The ships comprise what is known as the American European squadron and will continue their cruise in European waters for some time.

For many years the treatment of educational establishments in the Ottoman empire founded and conducted by American citizens, has been very unsatisfactory. While similar schools under the direction of other foreigners have been recognized as existing and have been accorded the regular license or imperial firman on application therefor, applications on behalf of the schools under American control have passed unnoticed. Temporary permits obtained from the local authorities have been held within restriction and have not infrequently been ignored by the Turkish government. Difficulties and obstructions have constantly been put in the way of the American teachers, in marked contrast to the favor shown the schools of other nationalities and in contravention of the rights of American citizens in Turkey to the most favored treatment accorded to the citizens or subjects of other states.

The earnest efforts of the American minister at Constantinople to secure for our schools and teachers the simple equality of treatment to which they were entitled have met with evasive and dilatory treatment by the sublime porte, and no progress having been made toward a better understanding the president took the matter in hand, and on February 2, 1903, cabled Minister Leishman directing him to ask an audience of the sultan in order to deliver to him a personal message from the president of good will and assurances of his hearty desire to cultivate and maintain the most cordial relations of friendship, and to bring to the personal and direct attention of his majesty the embarrassments and grievances under which this government and its citizens labor, with expression of the president's desire and expectation that the treatment of the most favored nation would be received and the claim of our colleges and schools to equal treaty rights would be promptly recognized.

The request met with evasion and delay since then and the American government a few days ago ordered United States vessels to Smyrna. This action brought the sultan to terms and the questions were promptly settled.

Must Have Written Contracts.

Mexico City, Aug. 15.—The department of foreign relations has instructed Mexican consuls to warn laborers of Mexican nationality not to accept any offers of work in foreign parts except in the form of a written contract.

An Organized Band.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 15.—Will Cato, arrested as a principal in the murder of the Hodges family, has confessed to the existence of an organized Negro band in Bullock county, whose object is the killing and robbing of white people.

Want Tariff Maintained.

Springfield, Mass., Aug. 15.—The New England Tobacco Growers' association adopted resolutions condemning the proposed Philippine tariff reduction as contrary to the principle of the Chinese exclusion act.

United States Surpasses Competitors.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The report of John Birkinbine to the geological survey on the production of iron ores in 1903 shows that the United States has surpassed all competitors in its yearly output of iron ores, being 55,019,308 long tons.

Japanese Soldiers Massacred.

London, Aug. 15.—A Tokio correspondent in a dispatch dated August 14, says: "The Homuro (Japan) Telegram states that Russian soldiers at Kamchatka massacred 87 of the crew of the Japanese schooner Teichi."

G. A. R. ENCAMPMENT.

Veterans From All Parts of the Country Assemble at Boston.

The Opening Was Marked by a Parade of Sons of Veterans, Mexican War Veterans, Ex-Prisoners of War and Other Societies.

Boston, Aug. 15.—The national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, with its several affiliated bodies, was opened in this city Monday, and is expected to be one of the largest in recent years.

The arrangements for the week were completed Sunday night. The city is extensively and handsomely decorated in honor of the occasion and the Boston common and public gardens bear electrical illuminations of unusual brilliancy.

Commander-in-Chief Black, accompanied from Washington by members of his family, arrived at encampment headquarters at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon and was given a rousing reception.

In connection with the meetings of the grand army, there will be held the annual gatherings of the National Woman's Relief Corps, the National Daughters of Veterans, the National Sons of Veterans, the National Ladies' Aid society, auxiliary to the Sons of Veterans, the National Ladies of the G. A. R., the National Army Nurses' association, the National Association of Naval Veterans and the National Association of Ex-Prisoners of War.

The meetings and reunions of these various organizations will continue until Saturday. The feature of the week will be the parade of grand army men on Tuesday, when it is expected that from 20,000 to 40,000 veterans will be in line.

The opening of the encampment Monday was marked by a parade made up of about 1,000 Sons of Veterans of Massachusetts, the members of the associations of the ex-prisoners of war, Mexican war veterans, the state naval brigade, the League of Spanish War Veterans, marines and jackies from the United States warships now in the harbor, and several regimental associations, they making about 5,000 men.

At the Hotel Vendome Monday night the Women's Relief Corps will give a reception in honor of Commander-in-Chief John C. Black, of the G. A. R., and all the members of that organization. In the evening there will also be a camp fire by the union ex-prisoners of war.

On Tuesday evening, the mammoth camp fire of the grand army will be held in Mechanics building. William Olin, of this state, will preside, and arrangements have been made to receive 10,000 people.

On Wednesday the Women's Relief Corps of the G. A. R., the Sons of Veterans, the Daughters of Veterans, and other associations will hold their annual business sessions.

Much interest centers in the choice of the new commander-in-chief. For this office there are already several prominent candidates, including Gen. Wilmont W. Blackman, of Massachusetts; Col. John C. Shotts, and Col. Allen C. Bakewell, of New York.

Other features of the encampment will be the launching of the United States training ship Cumberland on Wednesday at Charlestown, in the presence of distinguished officials, including Secretary of the Navy Morton, the carnival illumination of the Charles river at Waltham on Wednesday evening; an automobile pilgrimage to Lexington and Concord on Thursday and an electrical parade commemorative of representative incidents in national history to be held in the Back bay on Thursday evening. Receptions, reunions, camp fires and excursions to points made famous in history will occupy the remainder of the week.

Headquarters Opened.

New York, Aug. 15.—Chairman Taggart opened headquarters of the national democratic committee at No. 1 West 34th street. He will devote two days to organization work and on Tuesday evening will leave for White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

World's Fair Admissions.

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—The admissions last week show an increase of 65,000 over the previous six days, which was the largest total since the opening of the exposition. The total for the week was 666,607.

Taft Visits Philippines Reservation

St. Louis, Aug. 15.—Secretary of War William H. Taft visited the administration building Sunday and after being received by President Francis a trip to the Philippine reservation was made.

Bull Fighting in Montana.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 15.—An alleged bull fight was held here Sunday on the flats south of the city. The affair was widely advertised as a "Humane bull fight." The animals were not pierced or otherwise maltreated.

Reduction of Postage.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 15.—The Canadian postmaster general will sign a convention with Mexico under which a substantial reduction in postal rates between the two countries will be made. The rate on letters will be reduced from five to three cents.

Suicide's Remains Identified.

New York, Aug. 15.—The body of a man who committed suicide here Saturday at the Hotel Roland has been identified as that of Isidor H. Block, aged 28, an insurance agent, whose home is in New Orleans.

IN A FIERCE BATTLE.

Russian Cruiser Rurik Sunk by Adm. Kaminuro's Fleet.

Cruisers Rossia and Grombol Were Disabled—Tokio Joyous Over the News, as it Gives Japan Mastery Over the Seas.

Tokio, Aug. 13.—Adm. Togo has reported as follows:

"On August 10 our combined fleet attacked the enemy's fleet near Gugan rock. The Russian vessels were emerging from Port Arthur trying to go south. We pursued the enemy to the eastward. Severe fighting lasted from 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon until sundown; toward the close the enemy's fire weakened remarkably. His formation became confused and then his ships scattered. The Russian cruisers Askold and Novik and several torpedo boat destroyers fled to the southward. Other of the enemy's ships retreated separately toward Port Arthur. We pursued them and it appears that we inflicted considerable damage. We found life buoys and other articles belonging to the Russian battleship Czarovitch floating at sea. The Czarovitch probably was sunk. We have received no reports from the torpedo boats and the torpedo boat destroyers which were engaged in the attack on the ships."

Tokio, Aug. 15.—Vice Adm. Kamitura encountered the Russian Vladivostok squadron at dawn Sunday, north of Tsu island, in the Strait of Korea and attacked the enemy at once. The battle lasted for five hours and resulted in a complete Japanese victory. The Russian cruiser Rurik was sunk and the cruisers Rossia and Gromboi fled to the northward after having sustained serious damage.

Vice Adm. Kamitura cables the navy department that the injuries inflicted upon his vessels were slight. The fates of the crew of the Rurik is not known. It is presumed that many of them were killed or drowned. The strength of the fleet under Vice Adm. Kamitura is not known, but it is presumed that he had the Adsuma, Idsugo, Iwate, Takasbiho, and other light cruisers.

Tokio is joyous over the news, as it gives Japan mastery of the sea and restores commerce.

Flags are flying, lanters are glimmering and cries of "Banzai" were ringing in the streets of Tokio Sunday night in honor of the victories gained on sea by Adm. Togo and Vice Adm. Kamitura. Underneath the jollity of the populace lies a feeling of deep satisfaction and gratification at the disposal of a desperately serious problem of the war.

The Russian squadron which confronted Adm. Togo refused battle. It was stronger than Adm. Togo's squadron in battleships and armored cruisers, and had it elected to fight the result might have altered the fortunes of war. The strength of the squadron which opposed Adm. Togo compelled him to draw vessels from the squadron under Vice Adm. Kamitura, and this left the Japanese navy powerless to operate against the Russian Vladivostok squadron and unable to prevent the raids of these vessels.

The raid conducted by the Vladivostok squadron in July was extremely expensive to Japan, and not only was retaliation tempting, but it was demanded by commercial interests.

The navy, however, grimly refused to make a diversion and stuck to Port Arthur. It was confident that the harbor soon would get a fair fight in the open sea away from the Russian land batteries, and that the Japanese would win. These calculations of the navy were correct and the Russians, with the chances even, have been hopelessly defeated.

Vice Adm. Kamimura, after months of weary and patient waiting, finally got his chance at dawn Sunday off Tsu island.

He sunk the Russian cruiser Rurik and sent the cruisers Gromboi and Rossia fleeing back from the fight.

Japanese guns dominate the dock yards at Port Arthur and in view of this fact it would seem to be impossible again to make seaworthy or fightable the Russian battleships which have returned to Port Arthur. It is probable that the Russian battleship Czarovitch will disarm at Tsing Chou.

The best possible naval force that Russia can now concentrate at Vladivostok is four cruisers.

London, Aug. 15.—Russia's latest naval disaster has a peculiar interest for Englishman, as it was apprehension caused by the enormous power of the cruisers Rurik and Rossia, two of the vessels which composed the Vladivostok squadron, which led the British government to build the monster cruisers Terrible and Powerful. The naval battles are discussed here with the greatest interest. The latest details showing that the fighting between Vice Adm. Togo's fleet and the Port Arthur fleet began at a distance of about four miles are held to prove the necessity for the possession of big ironclads. The fleets appear never to have approached each other closer than a distance of 3,800 yards.

The Russian Flag Pulled Down.

Tsing Chou, Aug. 15.—The Russian flag was at noon Sunday pulled down from the battleship Czarovitch and three cruisers which took refuge here. The lowering of the colors was done in the presence of the German governor.

The Japs Must Take Port Arthur.

St. Peterburg, Aug. 15.—It is stated on trustworthy authority that the mikado has ordered that Port Arthur must be taken at any cost, even if it necessitates the suspension of operations in Manchuria.

ACHED IN EVERY BONE.

Chicago Society Woman Who Was So Sick She Could Not Sleep or Eat, Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Marion Knight, of 88 N. Ashland Ave., Chicago, Orator of the West Side Wednesday Club, says: "This winter when I started to use Doan's Kidney Pills I ached in every bone and had intense pains in the kidneys and pelvic organs. The urine was thick and cloudy and I could barely eat enough food to live. I felt a change for the better within a week. The second week I began eating heartily. I began to improve rapidly and before seven weeks had passed I was well. I had spent hundreds of dollars for medicine that did not help me, but 66 worth of Doan's Kidney Pills restored me to perfect health."

To Avoid Malaria.

In making out the summer's itinerary avoid places that abound in mosquitos or malarial patients. Not only do mosquitos bring poison from swamps and cesspools, but they can carry the disease from one person to another. If you cannot visit the place to make a personal reconaisance, write some disinterested party for the desired information.

Sticky Fly Paper.

Even with the greatest care there is bound to be trouble with some one getting tangled up in the fly paper, besides the flies. When that time comes it is well to remember that a liberal application of butter dissolves the sticky stuff so that it can be wiped off at once.—Washington Star.

JUST ONE DAY

Free from the Slugger Brought Out a Fact.

"During the time I was a coffee drinker," says an Iowa woman, "I was nervous, had spells with my heart, smothering spells, headache, stomach trouble, liver and kidney trouble. I did not know for years what made me have those spells. I would frequently sink away as though my last hour had come.

"For 27 years I suffered thus and used bottles of medicines enough to set up a drug store—capsules and pills and everything I heard of. Spent lots of money but I was sick nearly all the time. Sometimes I was so nervous I could not hold a plate in my hands; and other times I thought I would surely die sitting at the table.

"This went on until about two years ago when one day I did not use any coffee and I noticed I was not so nervous and told my husband about it. He had been telling me that it might be the coffee but I said: 'No, I have been drinking coffee all my life and it cannot be.' But after this I thought I would try and do without it and drink hot water. I did this for several days but got tired of the hot water and went to drinking coffee and as soon as I began coffee again I was nervous again. This proved that it was the coffee that caused my troubles.

"We had tried Postum but had not made it right and did not like it, but now I decided to give it another trial so I read the directions on the package carefully and made it after these directions and it was simply delicious, so we quit coffee for good and the results are wonderful. Before, I could not sleep, but now I go to bed and sleep sound, am not a bit nervous now but work hard and can walk miles. Nervous headaches are gone, my heart does not bother me any more like it did and I don't have any of the smothering spells and would you believe it? I am getting fat. We drink Postum now and nothing else, and even my husband's headaches have disappeared; we both sleep sound and healthy now and that's a blessing." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

JUDGE PARKER'S ADDRESS

At Esopus, N. Y., August 10, 1904

In Response to the Committee Formally Notifying Him of His Nomination for the Presidency

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee:

I have resigned the office of chief judge of the court of appeals of this state in order that I may accept the responsibility that the great convention you represent has put upon me, without possible prejudice to the court to which I had the honor to belong, or to the eminent members of the judiciary of this state, of whom I may now say as a private citizen I am justly proud.

At the very threshold of this response and before dealing with other subjects, I must, in justice to myself and to relieve my sense of gratitude, express my profound appreciation of the confidence reposed in me by the convention. After nominating me and subsequently receiving a communication declaring that I regarded the gold standard as firmly and irrevocably established, a matter concerning which I felt it incumbent upon me to make known my attitude so that hereafter no man could justly say that his support had been secured through indirection or mistake, the convention reiterated its determination that I should be the standard bearer of the party in the present contest. This mark of trust and confidence I shall ever esteem as the highest honor that could be conferred upon me—an honor that, whatever may be the fate of the campaign, the future can in no degree lessen or impair.

The admirable platform upon which the party appeals to the country for its confidence and support clearly states the principles which were so well condensed in the first inaugural address of President Jefferson, and points out with force and directness the course to be pursued through their proper application in order to insure needed reforms in both the legislative and administrative departments of the government. While unhesitating in its promise to correct abuses and to right wrongs wherever they appear or however caused; to investigate the several administrative departments of the government, the conduct of whose officials has created scandals, and to punish those who have been guilty of a breach of their trust; to oppose the granting of special privileges by which the few may profit at the expense of the many; to practice economy in the expenditure of the moneys of the people, and to that end to return once more to the methods of the founders of the republic by observing in disbursing the public funds the care and caution a prudent individual observes with respect to his own; still the spirit of the platform assures conservative, instead of rash action; the protection of the innocent as well as the punishment of the guilty; the encouragement of industry, economy and thrift; the protection of property and a guarantee of the enforcement for the benefit of all of man's inalienable rights, among which, as said in the Declaration of Independence, are "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." Liberty, as understood in this country, means not only the right of freedom from actual servitude, imprisonment or restraint, but the right of one to use his faculties in all lawful ways, to live and work where he will and to pursue any lawful trade or business. These essential rights of life, liberty and property are not only guaranteed to the citizen by the constitution of each of the several states, but the states are by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States forbidden to deprive any person of any one of them without due process of law.

Occasionally, by reason of unnecessary or impatient agitation for reforms, or because the limitations placed upon the departments of government by the constitution are disregarded by officials desiring to accomplish that which to them seems good, whether the power exists in them or not, it becomes desirable to call attention to the fact that the people, in whom all power resides, have seen fit, through the medium of the constitution, to limit the governmental powers conferred and to say to departments created by it: "Thus far shalt thou go and no farther." To secure the ends sought the people have by the constitution separated and distributed among the three departments of government—the executive, legislative and judicial—certain powers, and it is the duty of those administering each department so to act as to preserve, rather than to destroy, the potency of the coordinate branches of the government, and thus secure the exercise of all the powers conferred by the people.

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to William C. Jarvis, touching the perpetuity of our institutions, written many years after he had retired to private life, said: "If the three powers of our government maintain their mutual independence of each other, it may last long, but not so if either can assume the authority of the other." It must be confessed that in the course of our history executives have employed powers not belonging to them; statutes have been passed that were expressly forbidden by the constitution and statutes have been set aside as unconstitutional when it was difficult to point out the provisions said to be offended against in their enactment; all this has been done with a good purpose, no doubt, but in disregard, nevertheless, of the fact that ours is a government of laws, not of man, deriving its "just powers from the consent of the governed." If we would have our government continue during the ages to come, for the benefit of those who shall succeed us, we must ever be on our guard against the danger of usurpation of that authority which resides in the whole people, whether the usurpation be by officials representing one of the three great departments of government, or by a body of men acting without a commission from the people.

Impatient of the restraints of law, as well as of its delays, is becoming more and more manifest from day to day. Within the past few years many instances have been brought to our attention, where in different parts of our beloved country supposed criminals have been seized and punished by a mob, notwithstanding the fact that the constitution of each state guarantees to every person within its jurisdiction that his life, his liberty or his property shall not be taken from him without due process of law.

In a struggle between employers and employes, dynamite is said to have been used by the latter, resulting in the loss of life and the destruction of property. The perpetrators of this offense against the laws of God and man, and all others engaged in the conspiracy with them, should, after due trial and conviction, have had meted out to them the most rigorous punishment known to the law. This crime, added perhaps to others, led to the formation of a committee of citizens that, with the support of the military authority, deports from the state, without trial, persons suspected of belonging to the organization of which the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages were supposed to be members. In both cases the reign of law gave way to the reign of force. These illustrations present some evidence of the failure of government to protect the citizen and his property, which not only justified the action of your convention in this regard, but made it its duty to call attention to the fact that constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and to enjoy property, or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine; and the fulfillment of the assurance to rebuke and punish all denials of these rights, whether brought about by individuals or government agencies, should be enforced by every official and supported by every citizen. The essence of good government lies in strict observance of constitutional limitations, enforcement of law and order and rugged opposition to all encroachment upon the sovereignty of the people.

The foregoing suggestions but emphasize the distinction which exists between our own and many other forms of government. It has been well said, in substance, that there are but two powers in government, one the power of the sword, sustained by the hand that wields it, and the other the power of the law, sustained by an enlightened public sentiment. The difference in these powers is the difference between a republic—such as ours, based on law and a written constitution, supported by intelligence, virtue and patriotism—and a monarchy—sustained by force exerted by an individual, uncontrolled by laws other than those made or sanctioned by him; one represents constitutionalism, the other imperialism.

The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people. So well understood has this view become that many prominent members of the republican party, and at least two of its state conventions, have dared to voice the general sentiment on that subject. That party seems, however, to be collectively able to harmonize only upon a plank that admits that revision may from time to time be necessary, but it is so phrased that it is expected to be satisfactory to those in favor of an increase of duty, to those who favor a reduction thereof, and to those opposed to any change whatever.

Judged by the record of performance, rather than that of promise, on the part of that party in the past, it would seem as if the outcome, in the event of its success, would be to gratify the latter class. With absolute control of both the legislative and executive departments of the government since March 4, 1897, there has been neither reduction nor an attempt at reduction in tariff duties. It is not unreasonable to assume, in the light of that record, that a future congress of that party will not undertake a revision of the tariff downward in the event that it shall receive an endorsement of its past course on that subject by the people. It is a fact and should be frankly conceded that should our party be successful in the coming contest we cannot hope to secure a majority in the senate during the next four years, and hence we shall be unable to secure any modification in the tariff save that to which the republican majority in the senate may consent. While, therefore, we are unable to give assurances of relief to the people from such excessive duties as burden them, it is due to them that we should state our position to be in favor of a reasonable reduction of the tariff; that we believe that it is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer, and that a wise and beneficent revision of the tariff can be accomplished as soon as both branches of congress and an executive in favor of it are elected, without creating that sense of uncertainty and instability that has on other occasions manifested itself. This can be achieved by providing that such a reasonable period shall intervene between the date of the enactment of the statute making a revision and the date of its enforcement, as shall be deemed sufficient for the industry or business affected by such revision to adjust itself to the changes and new conditions imposed. So confident am I in the belief that the demand of the people for a reform of the tariff is just, that I indulge the hope that should a democratic house of representatives and a democratic executive be chosen by the people, even a republican senate may heed the warning and consent to give at least some measure of relief to the people.

The combinations, popularly called trusts, which aim to secure a monopoly of trade in the necessaries of life as well as in those things that are employed upon the farm, in the factory and in many other fields of industry, have been encouraged and stimulated by excessive tariff duties. These operate to furnish a substantial market in the necessities of 80,000,000 of people, by practically excluding competition. With so large a market and highly remunerative prices continuing long after the line of possible competition would naturally be reached, the temptation of all engaged in the same business to combine so as to prevent competition at home and a resulting reduction of prices, has proved irresistible in a number of cases. All men must agree that the net result of enacting laws that foster such inequitable conditions, is most unfortunate for the people as a whole, and it would seem as if all ought to agree that the effective remedy would be to appropriately modify the offending law. The growth of monopoly, of which complaint is justly made, cannot be laid at the doors of the courts of this country. The decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the court of appeals of this state and the courts of last resort in many other states, warrant the assertion that the common law as developed affords a complete legal remedy against monopolies. The fact that they have multiplied in number and increased in power has been due, not to the failure of the courts to apply the law when properly moved by administrative officials or private individuals, but to the failure of officials charged with the duty of enforcing the law to take the necessary procedure to procure the judgments of the courts in the appropriate jurisdiction, coupled with the fact that the legislative departments of some of our state governments, as well as congress in the manner already referred to, have, by legislation, encouraged their propagation. What is needed—in addition to the passage of a statute revising the tariff duties to a reasonable basis—is not so much other and different laws, as officials having both the disposition and the courage to enforce existing law. While this is my view, of the scope of the common law, if it should be made to appear that it is a mistaken one, then I favor such further legislation within constitutional limitations as will give the people a just and full measure of protection.

It is difficult to understand how any citizen of the United States, much less a descendant of revolutionary stock, can tolerate the thought of permanently denying the right of self-government to the Filipinos. Can we hope to instill into the minds of our descendants reverence and devotion for a government by the people, while denying ultimately that right to the inhabitants of distant countries, whose territory we have acquired either by purchase or by force? Can we say to the Filipinos: "Your lives, your liberty and your property may be taken from you without due process of law for all time," and expect we will long glory in that feature of Magna Charta, which has become incorporated, in substance and effect, into the constitution of every state, as well as into the fourteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States? Can we hope for the respect of the civilized world, while proudly guaranteeing to every citizen of the United States that no law shall be made or enforced which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, or deny to any person the equal protection of the laws, and at the same time not only deny similar rights to the inhabitants of the Philippines, but take away from them the right of trial by jury, and place their lives and the disposition of their property in the keeping of those whom we send to them to be their governors? We shall certainly rue it as a nation if we make any such attempt. Viewing the question even from the standpoint of national selfishness, there is no prospect that the $20,000,000 expended in the purchase of the islands and the $650,000,000 said to have been since disbursed will ever come back to us. The accident of war brought the Philippines into our possession and we are not at liberty to disregard the responsibility which thus came to us, but that responsibility will be best subserved by preparing the islanders as rapidly as possible for self-government and giving to them the assurances that it will come as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it. There need be no fear that the assertion so often made of late, that we have now become a world power, will then be without support. Ours is a world power, and as such it must be maintained, but I deny that it is at all recently that the United States has attained that eminence. Our country became a world power over a century ago, when, having thrown off foreign domination, the people established a free government, the source of whose authority sprung, and was continuously to proceed, from the will of the people themselves. It grew as a world power as its sturdy citizens, to whose natural increase were added immigrants from the old world seeking to obtain here the liberty and prosperity denied them in their own countries, spread over the face of the land, reduced the prairies and forests to cultivation, built cities, constructed highways and railroads, till now a nation which at the formation of the government numbered only 3,000,000 in population, has become 80,000,000, and from ocean to ocean and the lakes to the gulf, the country is the abode of a free and prosperous people, advanced in the highest degree in the learning and arts of civilization. It is the liberty, the advancement and the prosperity of its citizens, not any career of conquest, that make the country a world power. This condition we owe to the bounty of providence, unfolded in the great natural resources of the country, to the wisdom of our fathers manifested in the form of government established by them, to the energy, industry, moral character and law-abiding spirit of the people themselves.

We are not a military people, bent on conquest, or engaged in extending our domains in foreign lands, or desirous of securing natural advantages, however great, by force; but a people loving peace, not only for ourselves, but for all the nations of the earth.

The display of great military armaments may please the eye and, for the moment, excite the pride of the citizen, but it cannot bring to the country the brains, brawn and muscle of a single immigrant, nor induce the investment here of a dollar of capital. Of course such armament as may be necessary for the security of the country and the protection of the rights of its citizens, at home or abroad, must be maintained. Any other course would be not only false economy, but pusillanimous. I protest, however, against the feeling, now far too prevalent, that, by reason of the commanding position we have assumed in the world, we must take part in the disputes and broils of foreign countries; and that because we have grown great we should intervene in every important question that arises in other parts of the world. I also protest against the erection of any such military establishment as would be required to maintain the country in that attitude. We should confine our international activities solely to matters in which the rights of the country or of our citizens are directly involved. That is not a situation of isolation, but of independence.

The government of the United States was organized solely for the people of the United States. While it was contemplated that this country should become a refuge for the oppressed of every land, who might be fit to discharge the duties of our citizenship, and while we have always sympathized with the people of every nation in their struggles for self-government, the government was not created for a career of political or civilizing evangelization in foreign countries or among alien races by intervention in their affairs. The most efficient work we can do in uplifting the people of other countries is by the presentation of a happy, prosperous, self-governing nation as an ideal to be emulated, a model to be followed. The general occupation of our citizens in the arts of peace, or the absence of large military armaments, tends to impair neither patriotism nor physical courage, and for the truth of this I refer the young men of to-day to the history of the civil war. For 50 years, with the exception of the war with Mexico, this country had been at peace, with a standing army most of the time of less than 10,000 men. He who thinks that the nation had grown effeminate during that period should read the casualty rolls of the armies on either side at Shiloh, Antietam, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg, at Stone River, and Chickamauga. I would be the last man to pluck a single laurel from the crown of any one of the military heroes to whom this country owes so much, but I insist that their most heroic deeds proceeded infinitely more from devotion to the country, than from martial spirit.

As I have already proceeded at too great length, other questions suggested in the platform must await my letter of acceptance.

Mr. Chairman: In most graceful speech you have reminded me of the great responsibility, as well as the great honor, of the nomination bestowed upon me by the convention you represent this day. Be assured that both are appreciated—so keenly appreciated that I am humbled in their presence.

I accept, gentlemen of the committee, the nomination, and if the action of the convention shall be indorsed by an election by the people, I will, God helping me, give to the discharge of the duties of that exalted office the best service of which I am capable and at the end of the term retire to private life. I shall not be a candidate for, nor shall I accept, a renomination. Several reasons might be advanced for this position, but the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what the effect of action taken by him in an administrative matter of great importance might have upon his political fortunes. Questions of momentous consequence to all the people have been in the past and will be in the future presented to the president for determination, and in approaching their consideration, as well as in weighing the facts and the arguments bearing upon them, he should be unembarrassed by any possible thought of the influence his decision may have upon anything whatever that may affect him personally. I make this statement, not in criticism of any of our presidents from Washington down who have either held the office for two terms or sought to succeed themselves; for strong arguments can be advanced in support of the reelection of a president. It is simply my judgment that the interests of this country are now so vast and the questions presented are frequently of such overpowering magnitude to the people that it is indispensable to the maintenance of a befitting attitude before the people, not only that the chief magistrate should be independent but that that independence should be known of all men.

FROM ALL OVER THE STATE.

DROPPED DEAD IN COURT.

The Man Had Been Arrested For Disorderly Conduct.

Covington, Ky., Aug. 12.—Henry Heinen, a resident of Austinburg, in Covington, dropped dead in the police court in Central Covington Thursday night. He had been arrested by Chief of Police Lambert last Monday for disorderly conduct. He had never been in trouble before and felt humiliated over being confined in jail. When brought before Judge Miller Thursday night by Marshal Lambert he was trembling like a leaf and stood with lowered head. Judge Miller asked him what he had to say, and he muttered "guilty." As he made no further statement the judge said: "I will have to fine you $10 and costs."

At this Heinen attempted to speak, but threw up his hands, and with a cry, "My God," fell back unconscious into the arms of Marshal Lambert and died a few minutes later.

THE ELEVENTH DISTRICT.

Seemingly D. C. Edwards Has a Majority of About 1,000.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—Returns from the Eleventh congressional district primary received up to late Wednesday night do not alter the probable success of D. C. Edwards over Dr. Godfrey Hunter. As the counties comprising the district include the largest in area and the most rugged in Kentucky it will be two or three days before definite results are known. Edwards' seeming majority Wednesday night is about 1,000. It is reported Dr. Hunter will contest.

FRANCIS J. HAGAN DEAD.

Succumbed to the Effects of Pistol Wounds Inflicted.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—Francis J. Hagan died Friday from the effects of pistol wounds inflicted by John R. Barber at Huber Station, a suburb, in a statement, Hagan says he did not know that Barber was near, and that he was shot in the back. The tragedy comes as the climax of a feud of several years' duration.

Francis J. Hagan was 36 years of age and was the son of Attorney Frank Hagan, of Louisville.

ROY GREEN IN JAIL.

He Confessed to the Killing of James Coomes at Owensboro.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 13.—Roy Green, the Nego who was arrested in Louisville Friday and confessed to the killing of James Coomes in the Owensboro, Ky., fair grounds, July 31, was landed safely in jail here. Green talked freely of his crime and said he was under the influence of liquor when he committed it. Green spent almost a week in Evansville after the crime was committed.

Shortest Will Ever Probated.

Covington, Ky., Aug. 13.—The shortest will ever presented in the Kenton county court was offered for probate Friday. The will is written on the back of a deed and reads: "John, when I am gone, this is yours. Lizzie." It was written by Mrs. Elizabeth Gurney.

Institute Closes Its Season.

Alexandria, Ky., Aug. 13.—The Campbell county teachers' institute came to a close here Friday night. In the opinion of many this year's institute was the best in an instructive and educational way, that has been held in this county in years.

Wants $10,000 Damages.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 11.—A suit for $10,000 damages was filed in the circuit court by Dr. W. F. Roberts, a veterinary, against Dr. H. T. Hessig and his wife. The plaintiff claims that the defendants have induced his wife to leave him and live with them.

Arrested the Teacher.

Olive Hill, Ky., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Emery Evans, teacher of the primary department in the school here was arrested Thursday charged with unmercifully whipping Freddie Crawford, 7 years of age.

Funeral of Louis Held.

Newport, Ky., Aug. 13.—Louis Held, one of the most skilled watchcase makers in this country, who was found dying in a room of the Wadsworth watchcase factory, Dayton, Ky., Tuesday, was buried Friday afternoon in Evergreen cemetery.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—The offerings on the breaks Friday were confined to dark tobacco, 162 hhds being put up. Prices ranged from $2.80 to $3.75 for lugs, and from $3.90 to $8.10 for leaf.

Dancer Won in Fourth Round.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 13.—In the middle of the fourth round of the fastest and most furious of all the fights pulled off in this city of late John Dancer put Eddie Harris, of Cincinnati, down and out. It was Dancer's game from the start.

A Victim of the Pueblo Wreck.

Lehanon, Ky., Aug. 13.—Mrs. George F. West, who was killed in the Pueblo wreck, was a cousin of Dr. J. D. Knott, of this place. Mr. West was formerly of Franklin, Ky., and was at one time mayor of that city.

ODEAR DECLINES.

Will Not Become the Secretary of Secretary Urey Woodson.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 12.—Although honored above 500 applicants in that he was selected as the private secretary of Urey Woodson, secretary of the national democratic committee, Edgar M. Odear, a court stenographer of this city, has declined the offer of the position. He was called up over long-distance phone Thursday by Mr. Woodson and tendered the position. Mr. Odear has the bulk of the stenographic work of Lexington and feels that a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

IN A BATHROOM.

Lexington Woman Locked the Negro Intruder and Then Fainted.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 13.—When Mrs. Mary Nottnagle, of this city, entered her home Friday night alone, she was seized by a Negro, and a desperate struggle ensued. Mrs. Nottnagle beat the Negro and kicked him all over the floor into a bathroom, when she locked him in and telephoned for the police. She then ran screaming down stairs and fell fainting into the arms of two young men who were coming to her assistance. The Negro escaped through the window, but he is known and the police are after him.

FIRST STEP TAKEN.

Paducah Board of Education Opposes School Book Law.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 11.—The board of education in Paducah has taken the first steps toward fighting the new school book law. It has readopted for the coming session the books used last year, the members of the board declaring that they do not believe the law applies to second class cities, and do not think county judges, attorneys and superintendents are competent to judge of the best books for the city schools.

Mayor Grainger Stops Gambling.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—Mayor Charles F. Grainger left for the east to spend his summer vacation, and before his departure he instructed the police department to force all the gamblers to take a rest. Wednesday morning every door was locked.

Died After An Operation.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 11.—Mrs. J. T. Quisenbury, of Bourbon county, who underwent a serious operation at St. Joseph's hospital several days ago, died at the institution, and her remains were taken to Paris, where the burial took place Wednesday.

Shot and Killed Two.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 12.—At Sturgis, Ky., R. H. Latham shot and killed his brother-in-law, Isaac Tucker, and Mrs. Tucker. They were all occupants of the same house. The difficulty was caused by Latham attempting to put Tucker out of the house. Latham is in jail at Morganfield.

Color Line in Funerals.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 12.—Because they had been refused admittance to the meeting of the Funeral Directors' association, the Colored Funeral Directors of Kentucky met and formed an association of their own. E. W. Glass of Hopkinsville, was elected president.

Poison in the Coffee.

Frenchburg, Ky., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Bettie Botts, of near Wellington, this county, is dead from poison drank in coffee. Silas Bolin, Creecie Bolin, Claud Downing and Hester Downing were all poisoned at the same time, but are recovering. It is not known how the coffee was poisoned.

Chairman McQuown Is Ill.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—Lewis McQuown, chairman of the democratic state central and executive committees, reached Louisville Friday night so weak and ill that he went at once to his room. He was taken sick last Tuesday with a severe attack of cholera morbus.

First Rain in Two Months.

Carter, Ky., Aug. 13.—The first rain in nearly two months fell here Thursday night. Crops were nearly ruined, but it is thought late corn and tobacco will come out. Even at the best, however, there will not be more than a half crop of anything in this section.

The Campaign Opening.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—At a meeting of the republican state campaign committee Friday afternoon it was practically determined to open the state campaign in every county about September 1. Chairman R. P. Ernst, who presided, returned to Covington Friday afternoon.

Killed His Father and Himself.

Shelbyville, Ky., Aug. 13.—One of the most horrible tragedies ever enacted here occurred late Friday night when Lucien Wells, for no apparent cause, shot and killed his aged father, William Y. Wells, and then blew out his own brains.

Gored By a Mad Bull.

Mayking, Ky., Aug. 13.—On Blackberry creek, in Pike county, Henry Blankenship, 40, a farmer, was terribly gored by a mad bull. He can not recover. After a number of efforts the animal was killed.

BASE BALL.

Admiral Harry Macbriar, of Home City, entered the base ball harbor here last Saturday afternoon with his squadron of ball players, and engaged the local squadron for an hour and a half in quite a warm contest in which he came out second best. The Admiral was on the firing line but was unable to get an effective range, while his squadron was subjected to a bombardment that it will remember, and Admirals Rouse and Crisler were delighted with the manner in which their squadron met and routed the enemy. The features of the contest on the part of the local squadron, were Hughes' pitching, Brady's splendid work at short and Herbert Kirkpatrick's excellent stick-work, while Leonard, of the visitors made a wonderful one-hand catch and received hearty applause on the part of the 300 spectators. The Home City squadron was composed of a gentlemanly set of ball tossers and the spectators gave them a most pleasant reception, it being entirely void of the rough guying so usual on such occasions and which it is hoped has had its day at the Burlington park. Below is the score of the game by innings:

Hits—Boones 8; Home City 3.

Struck Out—Hughes 10; Mcbriar 7.

Base on balls—McBriar 1.

First Base Hits—Brady, Clutterbuck, Hogan, McBriar, Leonard.

Two Base Hits—Brady, Kirk.

Three Base Hits—Shearer, Kirk, Luck, Shambaugh.

The game between the Belleview and Hebron teams, last Saturday, was an old time slugging match, resulting in a large score, it being 18 to 13 in favor of the Hebron team. A large crowd witnessed the Bellevue boys' defeat.

About a dozen members of Burlington Masonic lodge visited Good Faith lodge at Erlanger, last Saturday night, and witnessed the work on three candidates in the third degree. Members were present also from Walton and Hebron. The Erlanger team does nice work and the lodge is in a thriving condition. At the conclusion of the work Saturday night all were invited to partake of nice refreshments which the lodge had prepared for the occasion, and which were done ample justice. The Erlanger brethren always make a visitor glad that he has been with them.

A barn belonging to F. M. Adams, of Gunpowder neighborhood, was burnt about 7 or 8 o'clock last Monday morning, together with all his hay, farming implements and a good horse. The origin of the fire is a mystery. No one had been to the barn that morning, and when a child who went to the barn to water a horse opened the door the inside of the building was in flames. Mr. Adams has been very sick for some time, and the excitement caused by the fire was of no benefit to him. Neither the barn nor its contents were insured, and the loss is $500 or $600.

The Boys are at Home Again.

It was not long after the grand jury had become a thing of the past, last Thursday, until some of the boys who had been making themselves scarce for a few days were looming up on the streets again. The grand jury cannot outgeneral the coming men of this country.

I desire to extend my sincere and grateful thanks to our kind friends and relatives for the kindness and attention shown to my dear husband during his long, and fatal illness. May they each receive their reward in heaven is my prayer.

MRS. MYRTLE CLEMENTS.

The new well at the fair grounds was put down 200 feet, and it is believed that it will add very materially to a supply of good, fresh water during the next fair.

Noah Clore and wife, who were divorced by the Boone circuit court on Wednesday of last week, married again at the Dennison House in Cincinnati, last Saturday.

Lost—Pair gold specs and chain in case—lost last Friday on Anderson Ferry cars or on road from Constance to Idlewild.

MRS J. B. WINSTON.

Charlie Wilson had his dog killed yesterday. It was bitten by the supposed maddog that passed thru' town nine days ago, and it was acting strangely yesterday.

The petit jurors were discharged Monday afternoon and paid for three days services each. There was but one jury trial during the term.

Tony Bentler closed the threshing season yesterday and pulled his machine into its house.

Come out and see the Ludlow club clean up the Boones again next Saturday afternoon.

The suit of Thompson and Robinson had not been decided when our columns closed.

COMMISSARY.

Aug. 20—Business is a mantle that covers a multitude of queer transactions.

It is easy to turn over a new leaf, but it is often difficult to make it stay turned.

Mrs. Anna Acra and daughter, Jessie, of Ludlow, are visiting Mrs. W. T. Ryle near here.

Lyster Smith and wife, and Irvin Rue and wife were Sunday guests of Harry Acra and wife.

Mrs. Rel Sullivan and Mrs. Robert Akin, of McVille, were guests of Mrs. Etha Senour Tuesday.

Miss Leona Cason, of Middle Creek, returned Sunday from a four days' visit to Mrs. Mary Berkshire.

Mrs. Leomer Louden returned, last Saturday, from a week's visit among relatives near Lawrenceburg.

Gilly Weinkle and E. F. Parsons, of Middle Creek, have put new roofs on their houses during the week.

Elmore Ryle and wife, of Gunpowder, were visiting Will Sebree and family, Saturday night and Sunday.

Miss Katie Kirkpatrick, a charming young lady of Aurora, returned home Thursday from a visit to Miss Nellie Berkshire.

Mrs. Robt. Rice, of Belleview, Mrs. Will Sebree and Mrs. Woodie Sullivan were guests of W. T. Ryle and wife, last Monday.

T. J. Walton and wife and Miss Artie Ryle attended a business meeting at Bellevue Baptist church last Saturday evening.

The ladies, of Commissary, Bellevue and vicinity picnicked at Beech Dale last Saturday, in honor of Miss May Cason, of Covington.

Jesse Louden and wife spent last Sunday with Elbert and Eddie Kelly and their wives, dividing the day between the two families.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Walton attended the Sunday School Convention, Friday of last week on Gunpowder, and report a pleasant and profitable time.

Ira Ryle and sister, Artie, and cousin, Deesie Acra, of Ludlow, attended a party, Friday night, given by Miss Nannie Goodridge at her home.

W. T. and Ira Ryle hauled some blue ash logs to Parson's mill this week that have been cut 80 years, but are in a good state of preservation.

W. B. Pope and wife, Blant Pope and wife, of Hunttsville, and Miss May Cason, of Covington, were guests, Sunday, of Ben Cason and wife, on Middle Creek.

Rol and Bob Akins, of McVille, have purchased a farm and it is rumored that they will sell the Swan and quit the vices and devote themselves to farming.

The water gave out at the famous Elm spring and Mr. Tanner has moved his tent into the orchard north east of Mr. Berkshire's house between the house and pike.

About 70 persons went to the Lawrenceburg fair on the Daisy last Saturday. Some say the fair was better than usual while others say it was no better, if as good.

Will Price and wife, of San Antonio, Texas, landed at Bellevue last Saturday morning and went to Gus Ryle's, Mrs. Price's father, on Gunpowder, to visit for a few days.

In pursuance of our call of week before last, the ladies of this community entertained at the Commissary, last Thursday evening, with a chicken soup. About sixteen were present and all had a good time.

Elmer Horton, brother and sister, former residents of this vicinity, but now living four miles back of Rising Sun, Indiana, passed here, last Saturday, on their way to visit relatives near Burlington.

The man that has had several lawsuits in his time and been beaten in each and every one of them, has the consolation of feeling that he has aided judges, jurors and lawyers to earn an extra dollar or two.

Tom Posten attempted to ride one of Mr. Lillard's young horses, one day last week, and was thrown and badly bruised up. If it had been any one else but Tom or some other colored man, the fall would have killed him too dead to skin.

Bro. Tolin, of Petersburg, would find it much easier to pick 5 men out of Petersburg ball team and defeat the Mudhens, of Bellevue, than pick a man that can defeat Adams for County Clerk. Bro. Tolin is the only man we know of interested in finding such a man. Its our opinion he will find it difficult to do so.

F. A. Utz passed through the Commissary Tuesday morning with five cattle he purchased of W. B. Walton, at $57 per head, and one from Miss Julia Dinsmore, which weighed 995 lbs. Price unknown. Also a cow and calf of T. J. Walton for $40. Ves Gaines passed the same day with 4 or 5 head purchased of O. J. Harris near Rising Sun.

End of Bitter Fight.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abcess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes, of DuPont, Ga. "and gave me up. Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've quitely regained my health." It conquers all Coughs, Colds and Throat and Lung Troubles. Guaranteed by all Drug Stores. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

Taken with Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all Druggists.

BELLEVIEW.

Misses Aggie Cook and Corda Clore and Leslie Williams and Andy Cook attended basket meeting at Burlington, last Sunday.

Your inksslinger attended the festival at Rabbit Hash, Saturday night. Considering the weather a good crowd was present.

Bro. Tolin, you couldn't expect the "Mud Hens" to be in it this summer, for there has been no mud, but since the recent showers we have heard several of the so-called "Hens" cackling, and we think it is highly probable that they are laying for Petersburg. Nine of your club can't shut Bellevue out, but then I suppose that five can play better than nine, they wont get in other players way.

One of the best games of the season in this county was pulled off here, Saturday afternoon, between Hebron and Bellevue Juniors. Both teams played good ball as was shown by a record of only 3 errors in 14 innings. A feature of the game was Conner's pitching—letting the visitors down with only 5 hits and striking out 18 men; while Walton struck out 5. A large crowd witnessed the game. Following is the score by innings:

Andy Cook scored the winning run; Perry Presser pounded the ball into the out field for 2 bases, scoring Cook; Ray Cook was at his best in left field; Eight times were there men on third. The Juniors will play the first nine next Saturday at 3 p. m. This will be a good game. Come out and see it.

Rev. L. L. Sieber, D. D., the Gettysburg, Evangelist, of Gettysburg, Pa., will conduct in Hebron Lutheran Church, special Evangelical services, beginning September 4th and ending September 16th. Dr. Sieber is a regular ordained minister, graduate of college and seminary at Gettysburg, Pa. He is a man of great force of character, cultured and eloquent. All are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

One of the most closely contested games of ball that was ever played in the county was played at Bellevue Saturday when the Hebron team played a combination team composed of about one half of the Bellevue jrs. and the balance the regular players. For thirteen consecutive innings neither side could get a run and in the last half of the fourteenth the deaklock was broken when the third basemen of the Hebron's threw wild over first base, allowing the runner to go to second, scoring on a two bagger by Presser. The game was a pitcher's battle from beginning to end as not more than four of the Hebron's faced Conner, the Bellevue pitcher in any one inning, and the home team only looked dangerous to Walton in the 6th, when the first three men up hit safely and filled the bases, but the next man up hit to the third basemen who threw it home, cutting the runner off and Ernest fired it to second, completing a double play. The next man struck out, retiring the side. Both teams played good ball only three men reaching first base on errors on each side. Singles—Clore, Bullock, Houston, Brady, Conner. Three base hits—Snelling, Satchwell. Doubles—Ernest, Presser 2. Struck out by Conner 17; by Walton 5.

The Delta Stars, of Cincinnati, will play here next Saturday afternoon.

AMID GREEN TREES.

H. G. Davis Notified of His Nomination For Vice President.

Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, Delivered the Notification Address—A Reception and Cotillion in Evening.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Aug. 18.—Henry G. Davis Wednesday was formally notified of and formally accepted his nomination by the democratic party for vice president of the United States. The ceremony took place in the open air in the grounds of Green Brier White Sulphur Springs hotel and were marked by simplicity in every detail. Mr. Davis was escorted to the flag draped platform at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon by Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who delivered the notification address. An invocation by Rt. Rev. Dr. W. L. Gravatt, of the Episcopal diocese of West Virginia, preceded Mr. Williams, who occupied an hour in speaking. It took Mr. Davis ten minutes to read his formal acceptance, but he prefaced this with a heart to heart talk of like duration to the several thousand friends and neighbors who were gathered under the trees as his audience. Senator Daniel of Virginia, was forced to acknowledge a demand for a speech but declined happily and at 3:25 o'clock the ceremony ended.

Earlier in the day a formal letter of notification was handed Mr. Davis in the parlor of the hotel in the presence of the assembled notification committee. It was a simple statement of the action of the St. Louis convention with reference to his nomination. He took the letter without reading it and thanked the committee, saying he would respond later in the day and hoped for a victorious response in November.

A reception and cotillion in honor of the nominee was held in the hotel in the evening.

The day was a perfect one. The sun shone throughout and the pure air of the mountains stirred gently into cooling breezes. The scene of the ceremonies was ideally picturesque. Two huge oaks mingled their branches directly over the platform of the speakers. Four others in a semi-circle in front furnished shade for the spectators, while the greensward of a lawn a hundred years old tempted the listeners to sit. The upward slope of the lawn on all sides and the erection of a sounding board back of the stand made speech easy and the accoustics good. As a background for the whole were the surrounding Alleghenies forested in green.

Mr. Davis was the center of interest throughout the day. When it came his time to respond to the notification address he was kept standing some minutes while the audience expressed its enthusiasm. This affected Mr. Davis.

To the strains of "Dixie" and a medley of patriotic airs, the assemblage dispersed; not, however, until many of its members had mounted the platform and extended personal congratulations to the candidate. The invited guests, including those in Mr. Davis' private party, who occupied a roped off reservation on the left, were the first to shake the senator's hand. Mr. Davis will remain at White Sulphur until Friday, when he will return to his home at Elkins. His plans for the campaign have not been fully matured

NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH.

He Had Committed Two Robberies at Thomaston, Ala.

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 18.—Rufus Lesseur, a Negro, was shot to death outside the calaboose of Thomaston, Marengo county. He had been loafing around the place for several days and had committed two robberies. The second time he entered the home of Mrs. J. P. Hollis she was awakened and the Negro was frightened away. He dropped his hat, which led to his arrest. Gov. Cunningham has ordered an investigation of the lynching.

HYDROPHOBIA.

The Efficiency of Vaccination As a Preventative Shown.

Washington, Aug. 18.—Consul general Guenther, at Frankfort, Germany, has supplied the state department officials statistics touching the efficacy of vaccination as a preventative of hydrophobia. The substance of these is that only one and a half per cent. bitten by mad animals and vaccinated have died. The consul general says that the figures again show that Russia is the breeding place of hydrophobia.

Sailing Ship Cumberland Launched.

Boston, Aug. 18.—The new United States steel sailing ship Cumberland, which was built by the government at the Charlestown navy yard as a training vessel, was successfully launched Wednesday afternoon.

Fires in the Mountains.

Albany, Ore., Aug. 18.—Forest fires in the Cascade mountains, east of Lebanon, are raging, uncontrolled, over a large section of the country. They already have devastated over 30 square miles of forest and still are spreading.

Appeal to All Unions.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Every union workingman and woman in the country, about three million, according to leaders of organized labor, is to be asked to contribute to the support of the smoking house strikers

STORM IN ST. LOUIS.

Two Persons Were Killed and About Fifty Injured.

St. Louis, Aug. 20.—A terrific thunder storm broke over St. Louis early Friday night and rain fell in torrents, accompanied by heavy wind. The weather bureau reported that .67 of an inch of rain fell within ten minutes and the velocity of the wind was 52 miles an hour.

A concert was in progress in Festival hall at the exposition during the heavy thunder storm Friday night, when suddenly there was a flash of lightning and immediately all the lights went out. A panic was only prevented by a woman's voice taking up the strains of "America," the others joining in. Other familiar songs followed and the audience left the building singing but without excitement.

In the Chinese village on the Pike 360 Chinamen, just arrived, were being watched over by immigration officers temporarily when the storm struck. The Celestials became panic-stricken and the officers were forced to draw revolvers to subdue the excitement. Lightning struck near by and one Chinaman was severely shocked, while another jumped from the roof of the building and broke his arm. The band stand in the Plaza of St. Louis was struck by lightning and was burned before the rain extinguished the flames.

A tornado of small proportions but of extreme fury swept down upon the residence portion of North St. Louis Friday, resulting in the death of one person, injury to probably 50 and damage to property estimated at $100,000.

Telegraph poles for a distance of five blocks on Broadway were mowed down one after another as weeds before a scythe. Roofs were blown from houses. Trolley and feed wires and smaller wires were blown down. Trees were uprooted.

The air was filled with flying timbers and splinters and with debris and dust. The people were stricken with terror. As many as had time sought shelter in cellars.

The storm passed almost as quickly as it came, leaving the people dazed from the suddenness of the attack of the elements. The residence of A. Albrecht, at 23d and Palm streets, was unroofed, but it is reported no one was injured there.

A Broadway trolley car containing 11 passengers was suddenly buried under six telegraph poles which crashed into the top and wrecked the car. The passengers had a remarkable escape from injury and only the motorman received slight bruises.

Probably the heaviest loss suffered by a single concern was the destruction accomplished at the Niedringhaus rolling mill. The plant covers two squares in extent. The big smokestack was blown down and half the plant was demolished, entailing estimated damage of $75,000. Six employes were injured in this plant and one killed.

Joe, a boy whose full name has not been ascertained, died at the city hospital Friday night from injuries received in a newspaper delivery wagon which was overturned by the storm. His skull was fractured.

Venice, Ill., Aug. 20.—The tornado that swept across the river from North St. Louis late Friday killed one person here, injured 10 and caused considerable damage to property. The tornado was of short duration, but was remarkably destructive in force.

Trees were blown down and a number of houses were unroofed.

Later Friday night a pouring rain storm deluged Venice and added greatly to the damage already wrought by flooding unroofed residences and buildings.

FLASH LIGHT POWER.

Man Fatally Hurt, Wife Severely Injured and House Wrecked.

Chicago, Aug. 20.—George L. Englis, an amateur chemist, while endeavoring Friday afternoon to make a photographic flash light powder brought about an explosion that fatally injured him, severely hurt his wife and destroyed his residence, which he had lately erected at a cost of $12,000. The explosion occurred in the basement of Mr. Englis' home, where he had a work-room, and forced the floors and roof upward so that his house resembled a dome. The detonation was heard for a mile.

A Valuable Cargo.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—The Pacific mail steamer Siberia just arrived from the Orient brought in a most valuable cargo. A lot of raw silk valued at $402,000 was listed on her manifest, while in her treasure tank was Japanese gold aggregating $850,000. This coin comes from Japan for the purchase of supplies for the army.

The One Hundredth Anniversary.

Three Highway Robbers Garrotted.

Havana, Aug. 20.—The supreme court has confirmed the death sentence imposed on three Negroes convicted of highway robbery and murder at Guara. They were garrotted Saturday morning.

SWEPT BY A STORM.

Fifteen Persons Killed in the Vicinity of St. Paul.

Property to the Value of $3,000,000 Destroyed—The Wind For a Time Blew at the Rate of Ninety Miles an Hour.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—Death to 15 persons and destruction to property both private and public estimated in round numbers at $3,000,000, rode on a screeching gale which tore down the valley of the Mississippi at 9 o'clock Saturday night, at a point somewhere near the confluence of the Minnesota and the Mississippi rivers near Fort Snelling. At about that point the fury of the elements seemingly divided and with a roar descended on the Twin Cities and their environs.

St. Paul suffered to the extent of about $1,000,000; Minneapolis' damage is estimated at $1,500,000, while in the outside districts it is feared that $500,000 will not cover the damage done to crops and farm property.

Beginning at a point below Fort Snelling there is the first known evidence that the storm struck with damaging effect. It came from the southwest and howling in its fury uprooted trees and demolished buildings in its pathway towards St. Paul. It tore off two spans of the High bridge completely. There the bridge connected with the high bluffs at West St. Paul and it is 180 feet above the river. This mass of steel was carried to the flats below where flying steel girders and heavy planks fell on several small frame houses of the flat dwellers and crushed them. None of the occupants of the houses were hurt, they having heard the oncoming and taking refuge in the caves in the hillsides.

Located at the bridge entrance, on opposite sides of Wabasha street, are the Tivoli concert hall and Empire theater, both of which were fairly crowded with men watching the performance. The full force of the tornado struck them. The buildings began to sway and rock and the audience became panic-stricken. Men and boys rushed over each other for the exits. The lights went out and the sheet lightning flashed a scene of pandemonium which was intensified by the crash of glass and the tearing of timbers as the frame structure gave away before the tornado.

Sections of the roof were blown through the air and landed east in Third street, a block distant.

Underneath the debris of the Tivoli were found, when the storm had passed, the mangled bodies of Lorain F. Hokenson, one of the employes in the concert hall, and George Kweton, one of the audience.

On the storm rushed to the northeast over the wholesale district, and every building facing the south from Wabasha street for blocks east on Third street had scarcely a whole pane of glass in any window while many on the opposite side were also broken.

Tin roofs on several buildings were rolled in bundles and deposited in the street. Flying plate glass mixed with the rain battered everything which stood before it and horses and carriages were swept along the streets which in an incredibly short space of time were filled with water.

Wires were torn down and part of the city was in darkness. The high buildings reaching skyward and several of the smaller ones on East Third street were shaken to their foundations. The fine large plate glass windows were blown in and several skylights were blown out.

In the path of the wind stood the long freight warehouse of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway and a section of this building about 400 feet long was cut out of the middle end, the small section of the end about 50 feet standing at the extreme east side.

In Minneapolis the wind blew at the rate of 90 miles an hour. Three storms from north, west and east gathered and broke over that city. Hundreds of buildings were badly damaged, all the great wire systems were paralyzed and thousands of beautiful shade trees uprooted. The street car service was tied up until noon Sunday, trolley wires being down in all parts of the city as the result of falling trees.

TORNADO IN MICHIGAN.

Four People Were Killed and Much Property Destroyed.

Glencoe, Mich., Aug. 22.—A tornado struck the townships of Rich Valley and Bergen Saturday night about 6 o'clock, killing four persons and destroying thousands of acres of grain and many barns, houses and sheds.

The storm extended over many counties. The greatest damage in this section was a washout of ten miles and a mile wide. The wind storm was followed by hail and a drenching rain lasting an hour or more. Corn was completely stripped and beaten into the ground. Hundreds of grain stacks were scattered broadcast.

The Storm at Stillwater, Minn.

Stillwater, Minn., Aug. 22.—The terrible wind storm that created such havoc in St. Paul and Minneapolis also reached Stillwater and vicinity and the estimated damage along the St. Croix river is placed at from $75,000 to $100,000.

Rains Extinguish Forest Fires.

Kalispell, Mont., Aug. 22.—A heavy rain, the first of any consequence since June, has aided materially in extinguishing the forest fires which have been raging in Northern Montana the past ten days.

BERMUDESE ASPHALT LAKE.

Demand That President Surrender It and Other Property.

Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 20.—It is reported that United States Minister Bowen has handed President Castro an imperative order that he surrender the Bermudese asphalt lake and other properties of the New York and Bermudese Co., which were seized by Venezuelan troops on July 26 last.

Washington, Aug. 20.—At the request of the New York and Bermudese Asphalt Co., the state department has instructed Minister Bowen to demand of President Castro that he instruct the attorney general to dismiss the receivership proceedings for the asphalt property, pending a final adjudication of the case.

The grounds on which the demand is made are that the company has a number of valuable contracts, which can not be filled so long as A. H. Garner is receiver and in possession of the workings. There is considerable doubt whether Venezuela can comply with the demand, since the receiver was appointed by the superior court, which adjourned on August 15 for 30 days.

IMMENSE HIPPODROMES.

New York Firm Will Erect Them in the Ten Principal Cities.

New York, Aug. 20.—The immense hippodrome that is being built on the Sixth avenue block from 43d to 44th streets, this city, while it will be the first of the kind in the country, will not be the only one.

Elmer S. Dundy, of Thompson & Dundy, made a statement Friday to the effect that it was the intent of the firm, together with the parties who are interested with them in erecting the hippodrome in Sixth avenue, to erect a similar hippodrome building in the ten principal cities of the United States.

The hippodrome is a radical venture in the amusement line in this country and the immense size of the building affords many advantages in presenting a permanent circus.

A VENOMOUS REPTILE.

It Came Near Ruining a Portrait of Judge Parker's Residence.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 20.—A snake four feet long, said to be a poisonous adder, Friday afternoon came very near ruining the oil painting which a Kingston artist is engaged in making of Judge Parker's home on an order from Chairman Taggart to decorate the rooms of the national committee in New York.

At sight of the approaching snake the artist sprang up, overturning his easel, which so startled the snake that it made for a hole in a tree. A bystander, more courageous than the artist, seized the tail of the snake, and, jerking it out, dispatched it. In the body of the snake a toad was found.

UNITED STATES SOLDIERS.

All Except Artillerymen Must Be Equipped With Full Dress Uniform.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The general staff of the army has ordered that all the troops serving in the United States excepting the artillery corps, shall be equipped with the full dress uniform, consisting of dark blue caps, with bands; dress coat, new pattern; collar ornaments; breast cord, and until exhausted trousers of the pattern in use prior to the adoption of the uniform.

APPOINTEES TO WEST POINT.

They Must Take the Shortest Route From Their Homes to the Academy.

Washington, Aug. 20.—Young men who receive appointments to West Point must take the shortest route from their homes to the military academy if they expect to be reimbursed by the government for their traveling expenses under decision just rendered by Controller Tracewell, of the treasury. The controller holds that the same rule applies to West Point appointees, and as to army officers in the matter of traveling expenses.

Business Failures During the Week.

New York, Aug. 20.—Business failures in the United States for the week ending August 18 number 203, against 167 last week, 166 in the like week in 1903, 181 in 1902, 181 in 1901. In Canada failures for the week number 25, as against 16 last week.

High Price For Wheat.

San Francisco, Aug. 20.—There was a repetition of the upward movement in the market Friday. December wheat scored a new high record of $1.52½ per cental. This is one cent higher than the best price made earlier in the week.

Eighty-Three Horsemen Murdered.

Algiers, Aug. 20. — Eighty-three horsemen sent by the Moorish pretender, Bu Hamara, to Chief Amada, of the Beni Buzzagora tribe, to ask his daughter in marriage, were treacherously murdered by the chief.

Minister of War a Prisoner.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 20.—The insurgents have seized another steamer which had on board the minister of war and a small escort. The minister and his companions were made prisoners and 190 bullocks were confiscated.

A Fourth Shamrock.

London, Aug. 20.—Sir Thomas Lipton is paying a visit to the Clyde for the purpose, it is believed, of arranging for the design of and construction of a fourth Shamrock to compete for the America cup.

BACKACHE AND DIZZINESS.

Most of the Ailments Peculiar to the Female Sex are Due to Catarrh of Pelvic Organs.

MRS. M. BRICKNER.

99 Eleventh Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

"A short time ago I found my condition very serious, I had headaches, pains in the back, and frequent dizzy spells which grew worse every month. I tried two remedies before Peruna, and was discouraged when I took the first dose, but my courage soon returned. In less than two months my health was restored."—Mrs. M. Brickner.

The reason of so many failures to cure cases similar to the above is the fact that diseases peculiar to the female sex are not commonly recognized as being caused by catarrh.

FEMALE TROUBLE NOT RECOGNIZED AS CATARRH.

Catarrh of one organ is exactly the same as catarrh of any other organ. What will cure catarrh of the head will also cure catarrh of the pelvic organs. Peruna cures these cases simply because it cures the catarrh.

If you have catarrh write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

Nest of Golden Eagles.

In Scotland a naturalist has found a golden eagle's nest that contained a rubber ring, carried thither by the birds as an adornment. An observer in California has reported that a pair of golden eagles there decorated their nest with sacks. "When the kite builds look to lesser linen," says Shakespeare, alluding to the robberies committed by those birds from the hedges when linen was put to dry. The late Mr. Booth described a kind of bower made by some aesthetic eagles in Scotland.—Chicago Daily News.

Bicyclist Bumps a Deer.

Sporting items from Caribou: A boy by the name of Pelkey, while riding down from Van Buren on a bicycle Tuesday, took a "header" from a very unusual cause. While coming down a hill he ran into a deer, smashing the wheel and throwing him several feet. The deer escaped without injury so far as known, at least it made its way into the woods, but the boy and wheel weren't so lucky. —Lewiston (Me.) Journal.

Pickled Asparagus.

Steam the asparagus, but it must not be too soft; drain on a napkin. Make a dressing of spiced vinegar to pour over it. To a scant pint of vinegar add a salt-spoon each of mustard and peper, a small blade of mace, a dash of ginger, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Heat all together slowly and pour over the cooked asparagus while warm. Garnish with cut radishes.—Detroit Free Press.

AS EASY.

Needs Only a Little Thinking.

The food of childhood often decides whether one is to grow up well nourished and healthy or weak and sickly from improper food.

It's just as easy to be one as the other, provided we get a proper start.

A wise physician like the Denver Doctor who knew about food, can accomplish wonders, provided the patient is willing to help and will eat only proper food.

Speaking of this case the Mother said her little four-year-old boy was suffering from a peculiar derangement of the stomach, liver and kidneys and his feet became so swollen he couldn't take a step. "We called a Doctor who said at once we must be very careful as to his diet, as improper food was the only cause of his sickness. Sugar especially, he forbid.

"So the Dr. made up a diet and the principal food he prescribed was Grape-Nuts and the boy, who was very fond of sweet things, took the Grape-Nuts readily without adding any sugar. (Dr. explained that the sweet in Grape-Nuts is not at all like cane or beet sugar but is the natural sweet of the grains.)

"We saw big improvement inside a few days and now Grape-Nuts are almost his only food and he is once more a healthy, happy, rosy-cheeked youngster with every prospect to grow up into a strong healthy man." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

The sweet in Grape-Nuts is the Nature-sweet known as Post Sugar, not digested in the liver like ordinary sugar, but predigested. Feed the youngsters a handful of Grape-Nuts when Nature demands sweet and prompts them to call for sugar.

There's a reason.

NOVIK VANQUISHED.

Russian Cruiser Badly Damaged by the Japs.

Details of the Assault on Port Arthur Indicate That a Tremendous Conflict is Raging, With Victory Hanging in the Balance.

Che Foo, Aug. 19.—A battle of huge proportions raged around Port Arthur August 14 and 15 and was resumed August 16. The Japanese, it is reported, sacrificed 20,000 more men, but maintained important advantages of position. The above news was brought here on junks, one of which, having on board three Russians concealed in the baggage of Chinese to escape from the Japanese, left Port Arthur Wednesday night and was blown rapidly to Che Foo by a gale. The main force of the attack was directed against the left wing and resulted in the capture of Pigeon bay positions and some of the forts at Liao Tieshan. At Palun Chang, the Japanese hastily mounted guns which did excellent service in aiding the storming of the right wing, where the Japanese are said to have captured two forts of minor value, mounting eight 4-inch guns, two siege guns and six quick-firing guns.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 20.—Acute anxiety prevails regarding the situation at Port Arthur on account of the desperate character of the fighting as reported taking place, though the war office does not seem to believe that danger of the fall of the fortress is so imminent as is generally asserted. According to reports received by the war office, there is still an ample supply of ammunition and provisions there. While it is realized that the Japanese probably outnumber the defenders six or seven fold, in the great strength of the fortifications, it is believed, will do much to make up for the disparity in numbers.

Upon one point there is absolute unanimity here—namely, that if the fortress falls the fleet will not fall into the hands of the Japanese. On this point the admiralty's instructions are of the most imperative character. Vice Adm. Prince Ouktomsky has been ordered, should the worst come, to sally forth for a death struggle and there is no question here that these instructions will be carried out both in letter and in spirit, but if for any reason a final sortie proves to be impossible the admiral is to destroy his ships and to make certain that their wreckage is absolutely irreparable.

Tokio, Aug. 22.—After a severe engagement with the protected cruisers Chitose and Tsuhima, the greyhounds of the Japanese navy, the fleet Russian cruiser Novik has been vanquished. The fight occurred Sunday. After it the Novik, in a sinking condition, was run ashore in Korsakovsk harbor, on the island of Sakhalien.

The details of Sunday's fight are not known here, but it is evident that the Chitose and Tsuhima caught up with the Novik Saturday and that a running fight ensued. The contest was resumed and terminated early Sunday morning. Capt. Sukeichiro Takashi, who is in command of the Chitose, reported the engagement in a brief telegram which reached the navy department here Sunday afternoon. He says he first attacked the Russian cruiser Saturday afternoon and that on Sunday morning he inflicted heavy damage upon her. The Novik nearly sank, but she was benched at Korsakovsk.

Korsakovsk is a port on the southern coast of Sakhalien off the coast of Siberia and about 550 miles northeast of Vladivostok.

A shell from the Novik struck the Tsuhima in a bunker. Temporary repairs, however, rendered the Japanese cruiser seaworthy.

Che Foo, Aug. 22.—The Japanese have swept the Russians from Pigeon bay and captured the most northern fort of the western line of inner defenses at Port Arthur. The Russian artillery prevents the Japanese from occupying the fort on Pigeon bay.

Che Foo, Aug. 22.—The first detailed news of the general assault on Port Arthur indicates a tremendous conflict is raging and that victory is hanging in the balance.

Chinese who left Port Arthur Sunday and arrived here Monday state that the Japanese by making desperate charges which were reinforced by an artillery fire from Shushi Yen and Louisa bay swept from the north into Pigeon bay territory and drove the Russians back from the main forts. The ground being comparatively flat in this vicinity, the Japanese were unable to hold it in the face of the Russian artillery fire and they retired north an eighth of a mile beyond the scene of fire.

Will Yield to Russian Demands.

London, Aug. 22.—The Che Foo correspondent of the Times asserts that China has yielded to the Russian demands and will grant compensation for the Ryeshitemi affair as well as degrade the local taotai and the Chinese admiral.

Trading Stamps Barred.

Denver, Col., Aug. 22.—The city council has passed an ordinance making the use of trading stamps punishable by fines of $100 to $300 for each offense, or a jail sentence of from 30 to 90 days. The constitutionality of the act will be contested in the courts.

Valuable Gowns Ruined By Rains.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—Magnificent Parisian gowns, valued at $500,000, are in a ruined condition in the palace of manufactures, the result of the heavy rain storm. The gowns were exhibited by French dressmakers.

KEEPING ORDER.

United States War Vessel Prevents An Attack on a Russian Cruiser.

Shanghai, Aug. 22.—Shanghai was thrown into a fever of excitement Sunday afternoon by the arrival of a Japanese torpedo boat which was sighted coming in from the south at half-past 4 o'clock. She passed Woosung at full speed and started up the river Jn for Shanghai. The United States torpedo boat destroyer Chauncey slipped her cable and followed the Japanese destroyer. The Japanese boat was cleared for action. She anchored off the Cosmopolitan dock where the Russian cruiser Askold is undergoing repairs. The Chauncey came to anchor between the dock and the Japanese destroyer. A foreign pilot ship reports having seen a Japanese battleship and two cruisers cruising 60 miles outside of Woosung.

There are at present no Chinese men-of-war in this port, but the taotai has telegraphed that a Chinese cruiser be sent immediately. The Russian consul general here flatly refuses to disarm the Askold and the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grozovoi or to order them to leave the harbor.

The taotai has notified American Consul Goodnow, who is dean of the consular body, that China can not protect the foreign settlements. He contends that Russia ignores the orders issued by China and that China has not the means of making her obey them.

Consul Goodnow has called a meeting of the consular body to take joint action for the protection of foreign inhabitants.

Che Foo, Aug. 22.—With the exception of Chinese vessels, the United States cruiser Cincinnati and the United States gunboat Frolic are the only warships at present in this port. They are ready to send men on shore at a moment's notice should occasion require it. The fear of trouble, however, is remote. The foreign consuls and others in authority were interviewed Sunday by a correspondent on the matter of serious trouble and all united in saying that nothing has occurred so far to give reason to expect trouble. The situation is absolutely quiet.

London, Aug. 22.—The London morning newspapers Monday show a disposition to reserve their opinion on the Shanghai incidents. The Standard, in an editorial however, says:

"The spirited and energetic action of the American authorities must move our admiration, not unmixed with envy. The British public would be glad to know where our powerful China squadron is at this moment and what it is doing and why the lead in defending Chinese neutrality should be surrendered tamely to the Americans. The foreign office might well take example from the Washington state department."

THE KNOXVILLE DISTRICT.

It Is Thought That a General Strike of Miners Will Take Place.

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug 22.—President T. J. Smith, of District 19, United Mine Workers of America, left Sunday for Indianapolis to attend a meeting of the national executive board on Tuesday. Firmly believing that no compromise will be reached in this district and that a general strike will occur on September 1, President Smith will ask for a weekly allowance of $25,000 for the district during the progress of a strike. There are 8,000 union miners in the district, and they believe they can take 4,000 non-union men out with them. If this is true, the allowance means that each family will receive about two dollars per week.

GEORGE SALTER DEAD.

During His Life He Killed 18 Indians to Avenge the Murder of His Wife.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—A special from New Lisbon, Wis., says: George Salter, known throughout this part of the state as a bitter Indian hater and who, during his life, killed 18 redskins to avenge the murder of his wife, died here Sunday, aged 78. Salter's wife was murdered in 1863, and at that time only a company of soldiers prevented an Indian massacre. He is said to have slain the murderer of his wife and since that time is credited with having slain 17 other Indians.

Explosion of Dynamite.

Nevada, Mo., Aug. 22.—Two persons were killed and three injured, two perhaps fatally, at Minden by the explosion of 15 cases of dynamite piled on the Missouri Pacific depot platform, being struck by a freight engine. The depot was completely demolished.

The Reserves Called Out.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—The emperor has issued an ukase summoning to the colors all the reserve officers throughout the empire. The defeats which the Russians have suffered only seem to increase Russia's determination to hurry re-enforcements to the front.

Government Force Dislodged.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 22.—An artillery engagement has been fought between the San Jocomimo battery of the Paraguayan army and a body of revolutionists, in which the latter succeeded in dislodging the guns of the government force.

The Deadlock Broken.

St. Joseph, Mo., Aug. 22.—Francis Wilson, of Platte City, was nominated for congressman by the democratic convention of the Fourth district on the 1031st ballot. The convention had been in a deadlock since July 26.

CRIPPLE CREEK MOB.

Three Attorneys and Twelve Other Men Deported.

The International Mercantile Co.'s Store Was Looted and Completely Wrecked by the Mob—No Troops Called For.

Cripple Creek, Col., Aug. 22.—No secret is made here of the fact that the deportation of Attorneys Eugene Engley, Frank J. Hangs and J. C. Cole and 12 other men from this district Saturday night was planned by members of the Mine Owners' association and Citizens' Alliance and was carried out under their direction. The El Paso, Vindicator, Findley and other large mines were closed down when the day shift stopped work and the miners of both day and night shifts were requested to assemble in Cripple Creek as trouble was brewing. A report had been in circulation that several hundred deported union men were returning to the camp in a body and it had been determined to drive them away again should they come.

This report proved to be groundless. However, other work had been laid out for the two thousand or more miners who swarmed into town and acting under orders given by leading citizens they proceeded to "round up" the federation attorneys, employes of the Intermountain Mercantile Co. store and others who have openly expressed sympathy with the Western Federation of Miners, and escorted them beyond the city limits. During the entire proceedings the sheriff of Teller county and the mayor and city marshal of Cripple Creek were out of town. Under Sheriff Parsons and Deputy Thomas Underwood attempted to control the mob, but were easily overpowered. Many of the deputies who have been regularly employed in the district since the riots early in June, it is alleged, were active as leaders of the mob.

City Marshal Charles N. Crowder arrived from Victor while the looting of the Intermountain Mercantile Co.'s store was in progress and essayed in vain to stop the destruction of property. The store is completely wrecked and the entire stock valued at several thousand dollars, destroyed or stolen.

Sheriff Edward Bell arrived from Denver after the mob had finished its work and took measures for the protection of the prisoners in jail. He said Sunday that he had no intention of asking the governor to send troops to the district. He had advised President Moyer and Secretary Heywood, of the Western Federation of Miners, he said, not to carry out their announced purpose of sending the deported miners back to this camp, as he would be powerless to protect them.

FIRED BY LIGHTNING.

Five Chicago Firemen Overcome By Gas and Smoke.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Fire, the result of lightning, caused a loss of $75,000 to the plant of the Nubian Paint & Varnish Co., Fifty-first avenue and Moffatt street, Sunday night. Explosions of tanks of oil and varnish endangered the lives of firemen, five of them and a volunteer being overcome by the gas and smoke.

The storage room and offices of the company were destroyed and the remainder of the plant had a narrow escape.

Chicago Damaged by Storm.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—A severe wind and electrical storm passed over the city Sunday evening doing much damage in the suburbs. Several small fires were started by the lightning, and the downpour of rain was so heavy that many basements were flooded and much damage done to property. Northwest of the city hundreds of acres of corn were beaten down by the wind and rain, and much of it will be lost.

The World's Fair Admissions.

St. Louis, Aug 22.—The attendance at the World's fair for the past week almost equals that of the week previous. The total number of admissions for the past week was 641,283, and the total for week previous was 666,607.

No Anthracite Coal Strike.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 22.—T. L. Lewis, national vice president of the United Mine Workers of America, received a telegram from the conciliation board, at New York, that there will be no strike in the anthracite coal region.

Will Stop Buying Beef.

New York, Aug. 22.—Five hundred members of one of the local branches of the Retail Kosher Butchers' union met here and voted unanimously to stop buying beef for a week. Other branches have called similar meetings to consider the matter.

No "Open Shop."

New York, Aug. 22.—The Building Trades Employers' association has decided not to declare the "open shop" on Monday. Instead they will proceed to the adoption of the plan of dealing with the unions individually or with individual members.

He Scared His Wife.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 22.—Thinking to scare his wife, John Coyan placed a revolver to his forehead and snapped the trigger. The weapon, contrary to his belief, was loaded and he sent a bullet into his brain.

THE KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Charles E. Shively, Richmond, Ind., Elected Supreme Chancellor.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 19.—The supreme lodge of the Knights of Pythias Thursday elected these officers for the ensuing two years.

Supreme chancellor, Charles E. Shively, Richmond, Ind.; supreme vice chancellor, Charles A. Barnes, Jacksonville, Ill.; supreme prelate, L. H. Farnsworth, Salt Lake, Utah; supreme keeper of records and seal, R. L. C. White, Nashville, Tenn.; supreme master of exchequer, Thomas L. Mears, Wilmington, N. C.; supreme master-at-arms, Cyrus W. Hall, Charleston, W. Va.; supreme inner guard, J. T. Haggard, Winnipeg, Man.; supreme outer guard, J. W. Thompson, Washington, D. C.; president of the board of control, C. E. S. Neal, Chicago; major general of the uniform rank, J. R. Carnahan, Indianapolis, Ind.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20.—The supreme lodge of Knights of Pythias Friday decided to hold their next biennial encampment in New Orleans, which won by a vote of 99 to 41. The encampment will be held the third Tuesday in September, 1906.

The supreme lodge has adopted new uniforms and equipments for all officers of the Pythian army, except general officers and the officers of the general staff. The uniforms adopted are practically the same as worn by the officers of the United States army. The full dress uniform for all regimental officers and members of the rank has been discarded. The regular fatigue uniform must be worn by all companies organized and mustered in from and after the promulgation of the revision of the rules and regulations. The changes do not meet with the approval of the uniform rank as an entirety, and, had it been left to their vote, they would not have been made. The ruling of the supreme assembly, however, is final.

The Rathbone Sisters have voted to discontinue the insurance feature.

The Rathbone Sisters completed the major portion of their program for the biennial encampment, Knights of Pythias, with the election of officers. The following were chosen:

Lydia A. Monroe, Riverside, Cal., supreme chief; Anna M. Young, Zanesville, O., supreme senior; Nellie E. Merriam, Muscogee, I. T., supreme junior; Mrs. J. T. Cotton, Texas, supreme manager; M. Josie Nelson, Union City, Ind., mistress of record and correspondence; Mrs. Ocea Bashford, Lancaster, Mich., supreme mistress of finance; Mrs. Clara L. Sawyer, Montana, supreme protectress; Mrs. Sarah Beecher, Connecticut, supreme guard.

The committee appointed to confer with the Pythian Sisterhood announced that owing to legal difficulties, amalgamation of the two orders was not feasible even under existing conditions.

BY ACCLAMATION.

Gen. W. W. Blackmar Elected Commander-in-Chief of the G. A. R.

Boston, Aug. 19.—Gen. Wilson W. Blackmar, of this city, was elected commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic by acclamation at the closing session of the national encampment Thursday, and Denver, Col., was selected as the place for the encampment of 1905.

The other national officers elected were: Senior vice commander-in-chief, John R. King, Washington, D. C.; junior vice commander, George W. Patten, Chattanooga, Tenn.; surgeon general, Dr. Warren R. King, Indianapolis; chaplain-in-chief, Rev. J. H. Brandenord, Washington, D. C.

Later Gen. Blackmar made the following appointments: Adjutant general, Jos. E. Gilman, Massachusetts; quartermaster general, Charles Burrows, New Jersey; assistant quartermaster general and custodian of the records, J. Henry Holcomb, Pennsylvania; assistant adjutant general, E. B. Stillings, Massachusetts.

The G. A. R. convention was adjourned sine die shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The principal business was the passage of the resolutions declaring that any modification of the voting franchise should be along lines of "intelligence and fitness, and not along lines of race and color," disapproving of the admission of Sons of Veterans to secret G. A. R. meetings and the laying on the table of a resolution regarding the proposed fraternal convention of the survivors of the union and confederate armies.

Mrs. Mary T. Hager, of Chicago, was elected national president of the Ladies of the G. A. R. All the other branch organizations also were in session.

Boston, Aug. 19.—Maj. Gen. D. W. Gould, of Chelsea, was elected commander-in-chief of the Union Veterans' union at Thursday's session of the order at Chelsea. The superannuation bill introduced in congress was bitterly attacked by a number of the delegates.

Boston, Aug. 18.—The Association of Army Nurses of the Civil War elected Mrs. Fannie T. Hazen, of Cambridge, Mass., president. At noon the association was entertained at luncheon by the W. R. C., department of Massachusetts.

Re-Elected President.

Boston, Aug. 19.—Mrs. Ella Craft, of Rochester, N. Y., was re-elected president of the Women's Veterans' Relief union at Thursday's session in Chelsea. Mrs. Mary A. Blodgett, of Chilton, Ia., was elected senior vice president.

Shot By Highwaymen.

Baltimore, Aug. 20.—Albert Constable, one of the best known lawyers in Maryland, was waylaid and shot by highwaymen near Elkton. He was brought to a hospital here. His wounds it is feared will prove fatal.

INTERESTING STATE NEWS.

BATTLE WITH MOONSHINERS.

Revenue Officer McCoy Shot Twice and Seriously Wounded.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 18.—Deputy Revenue Collector J. L. McCoy, aided by Sherman Cope and Henry Freeman, of Breathitt county, engaged in a desperate fight with moonshiners at the head of the Licking river, in which McCoy received two loads from a shotgun, inflicting a scalp wound, grazing the top of his head, and the other penetrating the back, some of the lead entering the stomach.

The revenue man and his assistants had been searching for the still for the past week, and had just discovered it at the head of a deep ravine, which could only be approached from one direction, the sides and end being protected by precipitous mountain bluffs. When the posse arrived they found it deserted, although signs of a hasty departure were evident. The posse proceeded to break up the still with axes, but as soon as the first destructive blow had been struck a shot rang out and McCoy fell. He soon realized that his wound was not a serious one, and while giving orders to his assistants the second shot was fired, which compelled McCoy to retreat. Henry Freeman dashed out of the building and rushed up the hill whence the shots came. He ran upon four men in ambush and began a fusilade upon them with a revolver. The moonshiners beat a retreat into the woods and escaped.

Freeman returned to the still and assisted the others in completely demolishing it. One of the large vats contained 1,000 gallons of beer and another a large quantity of whisky.

It is not believed that McCoy's wounds will prove fatal. The identity of the moonshiners is said to be known to the officers, and as soon as McCoy is able to start out again he will go after them.

RICH LEAD DEPOSIT.

It Was Discovered on a Farm a Few Miles From Millersburg.

Millersburg, Ky., Aug. 20.—It is claimed that the richest lead deposit in Kentucky has been found on the Caldwell farm, about two miles from Millersburg, on the L. & N. railroad.

Some time ago New York capitalists, whose names are being kept a secret, with Dr. Carlton, Dudley Glenn, Charles Mason and James T. Earle, all of Latonia, formed an incorporation under the name of the Kentucky Mining and Development Co. Thursday morning a number of men were loading a freight car, and it developed that the material was taken from the Caldwell farm, and was valuable lead ore belonging to the above corporation. The deposit is said to be very rich, and it is believed, extends through many farms in that section. A large force will be put to work.

THROUGH CORNFIELDS.

Girls Gave the Officers a Chase Before Being Captured.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 19.—Superintendent E. H. Doak, of the Kentucky house of reform, left Thursday night for Cynthiana to bring back four girls who made their escape from that institution last Saturday. The girls were captured by Sheriff Leach, of Harrison county. They are Hattie Johnson, 17, of Mayfield, Ky.; Lilly Tucker, 18, Paducah, Ky.; Beulah May Brier, 17, Paducah, and Alice Featherstone, 20, of Henderson, Ky. The girls gave the officers a two hours' chase through cornfields before they were captured.

Kentucky Miners Strike.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 20.—Two hundred coal miners Friday went out on a strike at the United States coal mines at Sturgis, Ky. It is said more may follow. The company is making efforts to install non-union labor. All the coal mines at Sturgis have been strictly union. The United States mine closed down on account of the strike.

Protest Against Annexation.

Henderson, Ky., Aug. 19.—A petition was filed in the circuit court protesting against the annexation of Audubon and outlaying territory to the city of Henderson. There are about two hundred plaintiffs. The petition, among other things, sets up that the city has a debt of $400,000, and that they would have their proportion of taxation to pay this debt.

Mysterious Death.

Augusta, Ky., Aug. 19.—The body of Alfred Becklehelmer, of New Richmond, O., was found in the river here Thursday morning. He was here at work three or four days ago. Upon the body was found $10 in paper money. It is thought he committed suicide.

Morgan Raiders Meet at Carlisle.

Carlisle, Ky., Aug. 18.—"Morgan's Men," 300 strong, are holding a reunion at Parks Hill, this county. Gen. Duke, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, Capt. Stephen G. Sharp and other noted leaders under the famous raider are present.

Died From His Wounds.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 20.—Henry Warner, aged 70, who was shot and clubbed, it is claimed, by Gip Griffin, a tenant, in a dispute about farm matters, two months ago, died of his injuries Friday. Griffin escaped.

A GIRL KIDNAPED.

She Was Taken From the Home of F. W. Jacobs at Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20.—Mrs. W. F. Walker, of 1530 Duncan street, reported to the detectives Friday night that her sister, Miss Madge Harvey, whose John Glenn, of Dayton, O., is alleged to have attempted to kill because she refused to marry him, was kidnaped from the residence of F. W. Jacob, 1715 West Market street, at 8 o'clock Friday night. F. W. Jacob, from whose house the girl was taken, said:

"Will Crofton, who has been in love with the girl and who was the cause of Glenn's rage, came here about 8 o'clock. He told me that he and the girl's sister had decided to take her to Gray street infirmary. I thought that was all right and then he called a cab. When the cab came, I helped him carry the girl out and put her in it. I thought her sister was going with him. They had not been gone more than five minutes when Mrs. Walker came here to see the girl and said she knew nothing of the removal to the hospital. Then I got suspicious and after waiting an hour called the hospital. She had not been taken there, and I don's know what to make of it."

THE GOEBEL STATUE.

It Will Be Finished in About Two Weeks.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 19.—Signor Morettl, the famous Italian sculptor of New York, designer of the Goebel statue which will be placed on top of the Goebel monument in the Frankfort cemetery, who has been in New York for several weeks, has wired to Adams & Sons, of this city, that he will reach here Friday and finish the work on the statue, which has been delayed during his absence. The finishing touches to the statue will require about two weeks of the artist's time, and another meeting will be called of the Goebel monument commission to approve the model. Since the model was first brought to this city, three months ago, for the inspection of the commission, many changes have been made in its appearance, and through the skill of the great sculptor, who has carried out the suggestions offered by Arthur Goebel and other members of the monument commission, the model is now almost a perfect likeness of the dead statesman.

IGNORE THE WRIT.

Dr. Hunter Given the Certificate of Nomination.

Middlesboro, Ky., Aug. 18.—Although the Eleventh congressional committee was enjoined from meeting here Wednesday by Judge Faulkner, of the Laurel circuit court, the members disregarded the order and organized for business.

At 1 o'clock Judge Faulkner issued a mandatory injunction against them, citing them to appear before him at Barbourville. This they also disregarded and continued to canvass the returns of the congressional primary, and finally decided that Hunter had 191 majority and gave him the certificate of nomination. There were only 11 of the 19 committeemen present. The Edwards men characterize the action as an outrage.

His Body Found.

Falmouth, Ky., Aug. 19.—Otis Cummins was taken ill with typhoid fever a week ago and was at the home of his father, three miles north of here. While the family were at rest he escaped from the house and wandered away, and his body was found beneath a small bridge, from which he had fallen and was killed.

Found Burglar at Work on His Safe.

Petersburg, Ky., Aug. 20.—When Al Rogers opened his store at sunrise Friday morning he found a burglar working at the safe. The burglar fled after being kicked in the stomach by Rogers, who says the intruder is a citizen of Rising Sun, Ind. He had lit a fuse, but Rogers stamped it out.

The Kentucky Opening.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 20.—Though not positively settled, it is expected that Gov. Beckham will be one of the speakers at the big democratic rally and campaign opening at the Fern Creek fair grounds next Thursday. Senator J. C. S. Blackburn and Lieut. Gov. W. P. Thorne will speak.

Chinamen Prisoners.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 20.—United States Marshal Cash P. Taylor, of Northern Michigan, passed through here en route to New Orleans with seven Chinamen. They had tried to smuggle themselves into the United States by crossing the Michigan border.

Kentucky Methodist Conference.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 19.—The approaching session of the Kentucky conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, which meets at Lexington August 31, will be one of the most interesting and important church assemblies ever held in Kentucky.

A Tax Decision.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 20.—Judge Cantrill sent down from Georgetown Friday a decision in the case of the city of Frankfort against the State national bank, and holds the bank liable for city taxes on its shares of stock.

JUDGE PARKER has resigned his place on the bench, but Senator Fairbanks holds on to the Senatorship, remembering the old adage, "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush.

MR. BRYAN wants Mr. Cleveland kept off the stump in the doubtful States, and Mr. Cleveland thinks it would be well not to allow Mr. Bryan on the stump in any of the States, and to that extent they are pulling together (?) in the campaign.

THOSE who pose as leaders of the Democratic party, refuse to suspend, for a few brief months, the relentless war they have waged against eachother for the last eight years. It begins to look like the party will have to petition to be saved from its leaders.

HON. J. MORGAN CHINN, Clerk of the Court of Appeals, who by virtue of that office is chairman of the State Board of Election Commissioners, has called a meeting of that body for tomorrow for the purpose of organizing and selecting the county commissioners.

THE cross-road politician who changes his politics during the next few months will be given great prominence by the organs of the party with which he takes membership, and he will be surprised to learn through them what a successful and powerful party leader he had been in the ranks he deserts.

THE Kentucky Live Stock Breeders' Association has decided to have no State Fair this year, inasmuch as the $15,000 State appropriation is not available. Acting upon the advice of the Attorney General, the State Auditor refused to pay over the amount. The constitutionality of the appropriation will be settled by the Court of Appeals.

Every Democrat in Kentucky who desires to preserve the party should raise his voice against the convention plan of selecting party nominees.—Georgetown News.

There is no question but the rank and file of the party prefers the primary election to the convention as the means of selecting candidates, and where they are conducted by honest, fair men, there is no question about the primary election being the best way to arrive at the will of the voters, and in counties like Boone they are conducted fairly, but how about the lalge cities?

CONGRESSMAN HUNTER turned the trick and secured the certificate of nomination as the Republican candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District, this State, notwithstanding on the face of the returns his opponent, Edwards, had over eleven hundred votes the most. Hunter controlled the Congressional District Committee, who had no regard for the will of their party as expressed at the primary election, and granted him the certificate. The State committee will be called upon to review the action of the district committee, and in the mean time Republican politics are assuming a torrid temperature in the Kentucky mountains.

THE tendency of the courts is to suppress the guessing contests that have become so popular with newspapers, especially the metropolitan dailies, the New York court of appeals being the last tribunal to pass upon their legality. In the case before the court the United States Tobacco Journal printed an advertisement for a firm which offered cash prizes for guesses on the amount of revenue taxes paid on various brands of cigars. The court held that the "nominating and controlling factor in the award was chance" and that it was therefors a violation of the anti-lottery law.

THE approaching session of the Kentucky Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, which meets at Lexington August 31, will be one of the most interesting and important church assemblies ever held in Kentucky. In addition to the regular routine work of the conference action will be taken on the question of the proposed consolidation of the educational work of the Southern and Northern Methodist Churches in Kentucky. Unusual interest attaches to the solution of this church problem, not only on account of the Speed-will decision, but also on account of its far-reaching influence on Methodist polity.

The County Democratic Executive Committee met at Union, last Saturday, and ordered a primary election to be held on the 8th day of next November, for the nomination of county officers to be voted for at the regular election fn 1905, and this week the RECORDER carries the announcements of the following candidates:

County Judge—P. E. Cason.
County Clerk—J. H. Rogers, B. W. Adams.
County Attorney—F. E. Curley, D. E. Castleman.
Sheriff—B. B. Hume with H. D. Brady and Jeff Eddins as deputies, and M. F. Wingate, with W. D. Cropper as deputy.
Superintendent of Schools—D. M. Snyder.
Assessor—Elmo Gaines, B. L. Cleek.
Surveyor—W. E. Vest.
Jailer—Sam Adams.

Next week the RECORDER will have something to say about these handsome and clever gentlemen.

EDWARDS and his friends have learned that a majority of a Congressional Committee can down a majority of the voters at the polls. The Committee does the counting and issues the certificates while the people only do the voting.

Puts an End to it All.

A grievous wail oftimes comes as a result of unbearable pain from over taxed organs, Dizziness, Backache, Liver complaint and Constipation. But thanks to Dr. King's New Life Pills they put an end to it all. They are gentle but thorough. Try them. Only 25c. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

An old corn grower says that when a crop of 60 bushels an acre is secured the corn costs 13 cents a bushel to produce, for 50 bushels it is 15 cents, for 40 bushels 13 cents, for 35 bushels 22 cents and for 30 bushels 30 cents. These figures are not very far out of the way, and it is thus easy to know when you are selling corn below the cost of production.

Every year springs never before known to fail go out of business, which goes to show in a few years the farmers will have no springs on which they can depend for a supply of stock water in case of a protracted dry spell. Ponds and driven wells will ultimately be the water supply in this part of the country.

The Lawrenceburg Fair Association has held six fairs, and the largest net profit from any one was about $400 and the smallest something more than $200. These figures are small, but it is a fact that but few fairs can show a profit for six successive years. Last week's fair cleared probably $250.—Lawrenceburg Press.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. Mussel shell diggers at Henderson are in litigation over the right to take shells from the bed of the river, owners of farms lying along the banks saying that they have a property right in the river and to its middle line. The first case of the kind was decided adversely to the diggers, and several other suits have been brought. It is probable the matter will be adjusted by the payment of royalty.

R. W. Clark, the barber, has one of what is known as "the Jackass issue of $10 bills." The issue was called in several years ago, and only a few of them remain in circulation. The engraver who made the plate became offended at some one in authority in the treasury department at Washington, and through spite engraved the animal's head on the bill in such a manner as to make its discovery very difficult.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best remedy for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know it is the one remedy that can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. Sold by all Druggists.

Death removed from our midst another old landmark, last Sunday night, in the person of Absalom Aylor, who lived about one mile east of town. He was in his 84th year, and was one of several brothers. Mr. Aylor was an unassuming, old time gentleman, whose word was as good as any man's bond. He was a firm believer in the Old Baptist doctrine, and had been a member of Mt. Pleasant church for about 40 years. He was buried yesterday in the old family cemetery at T. B. Aylor's near Limaburg. A good man has gone to his reward.

THE FLORENCE FAIR.

The Programme in Brief.

Boone's big fair will open its gates to the public at 10 a. m. next Wednesday, an event that has been looked forward to for several months by everybody in Boone and all the adjoining counties. The first day will be devoted to the dairy cattle, draft horses, sheep, fruits, pantry and dairy. This is a day on which the good cooks for miles around will bring in their products which will be eagerly scanned by the visitors to Floral Hall. Thursday, the second day, has been set apart for showing Shorthorn, Aberdeen Angus and Hereford cattle and Saddle horses, while at the stock pens will be found several breeds of fine hogs, and Floral Hall will be transformed into a palace of beauty by a large display of fragrant flowers and handsome paintings. On this day the breeders and owners of saddle horses will be in their glory as numerous liberal premiums will be hung up for which they will contend, and the amphitheater will ring with the cheering of the large crowd of admirers of the noble animals as they move gracefully about the exhibition ring. The contest for the big end of the $150 premium for the best saddle stallion, mare or gelding regardless of age, is expected to bring out a fine ring, and prove a big drawing card. On Friday mules will have their day the first thing in the morning, while Jacks and Jennets will be shown also. Friday is harness horse day, and the attendance is always large. A long list of very large premiums will be awarded that day, among them a $150 sweepstake prize, the contest for which will, no doubt, be close and exciting, as some of the best harness horses in Kentucky will compete for it. During the day harness horses will capture premiums to the amount of $475. Floral Hall will be made attractive by the products of the ladies' handiwork, and handsomely wrought lace, embroidery and quilts will excite the admiration of the crowds that will visit that department. The first thing on the program for Saturday is allpurpose horses, to be followed by matched horses, pair of harness horses, best lady driver, and two consolation prizes. On Saturday a $150 prize will be hung up for the best mare or horse any age. This should bring out the best ring of horses ever seen at the fair, and is a ring that has been discussed by horsemen far and near. Grain, vegetables and poultry will make up the exhibition in Floral Hall on Saturday, and are three very important departments.

The directors have prepared a liberal premium list for each department, and believe that the large prizes will bring out the exhibits and insure a good fair in that particular, and they confidently rely on the public showing an appreciation of their efforts by a liberal attendance, for which ample arrangements have been made both for comfort and pleasure. Remember that when you visit the Boone Fair you are attending the greatest country fair in Kentucky.

A plank floor has been laid in Floral Hall and the dust will not annoy the lady exhibitors this year.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terors since Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy in all cases of bowel complaint in children has made it a favorite wherever its value has become known. For sale by all Druggists.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

A teacher cannot be employed for less term of the common school than six months. While the legislature made this increase in the number of months the school fund has not increased in proportion, and some of the districts will, no doubt, have considerable trouble in securing teachers. The school system in this State has been a puzzle to the politicians, who in recent years have been guilty of manipulating the funds for the advancement of party interests. Both parties have done this, and it seems that the time has come that politicians will take advantage of anything, no matter how questionable, if it will advance their interests.

A Call for a Primary Election.

Pursuant to a call of J. L. Frazier, chairman of the Boone County Democratic Committee, the Committee met in Union, Kentucky, Saturday, August 20th, 1904 at 2 o'clock p. m., present and presiding,

J. L. Frazier, Union;
J. W. Berkshire, Petersburg;
Jeff Eddins, Burlington;
Dr. B. A. Dulaney, Florence;
J. H. Rogers, Walton;
C. H. Aera, by proxy, Bellevue;
C. W. Riley by proxy Bullittsville.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

First.—That a primary election be held in the various precincts in Boone County, Kentucky, on Tuesday, November, 8th, 1904, between the hours of 6 o'clock p. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., standard time, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the county offices, to-wit:—Representative, County Judge, County Clerk, County Attorney, Sheriff, Jailer, Coroner, Superintendent of Public Schools, Surveyor, Assessor, Magistrates and Constables in districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, to be voted for at the regular November election, 1905.

QUALIFICATIONS.

Second.—That all known Democrats and all legal voters who will support or who have voted for the nominees of the regular November election, 1904, and the nominees of this primary, and all Democratic youths who will be legal voters at the regular November election, 1905, shall be entitled to vote in this primary.

Third.—That the members of this committee shall select the election officers for his precinct and said committeeman shall make all the necessary arrangements for holding the primary in his precinct.

Fourth.—That the expenses of said primary shall be paid by the candidates to be voted for in said primary, and the assessment for each office shall be levied by the chairman of this committee in as near proportion as possible to the emoluments of said office.

Fifth.—That the chairman of this committee is appointed a committee with power to select such assistance as he may deem necessary for the purpose of conducting the said primary.

Sixth.—That all candidates shall announce their candidacy and pay to the chairman of this committee on or before the 24th day of October, 1904, his assessment before his name is printed on the ballots, and no announcement or payment of assessment shall be received by the chairman after the 24th day of October, 1904.

Seventh.—That these resolutions be printed in the Boone County Recorder and a sufficiency thereof for the purpose of notice be posted on in conspicuous places in the various precincts in the county, as is required by the primary election laws.

J. L. FRAZIER, Chairman.

The committee recommended the following five persons from which the State Board of Election Commissioners will select the Election Commissioner for this county: J. A. Huey, R. H. Stephens, J. N. Pearson, G. W. Roberts, N. S. Walton.

MR. DAVIS ACCEPTS

Democratic Candidate for Vice-President Replies in Vigorous Speech to Masterly Address of Notification Delivered by John Sharp Williams.

Henry Gassaway Davis, democratic nominee for vice president of the United States, on August 17 was notified of the honor conferred upon him by the party at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., by the committee appointed by the St. Louis convention. Hon. John Sharp Williams, democratic house leader, delivered the notification speech, which was an outburst of historical and political sarcasm unique in campaign oratory. Opposition critics pronounce it one of the strongest arguments ever made. Among the salient features of Mr. Williams' talk the following appear to be the most interesting:

"As soon as I learned that I was to be the mouthpiece of the committee for the performance of this pleasant task I began to look about me in order to see how the duty had been performed by others. I found that for a notification speech a historical essay is altogether the proper thing, absolutely necessary for the emergency. We shall therefore entitle our notification address: 'A Brief Historical Disquisition Upon Some of the Blunders of Our Ancestors as Viewed from the Standpoint of the Wisdom of Republican Statesmen Who Have Embraced the Strenuous Life.'

"The first of these consisted in discriminating against the red man—on account of the race and color and previous condition, supposed incapacities, of which his color was but the outward sign. Be that claim pretense or sincerity, we found, to our astonishment, that 'the door of opportunity and hope' in the way of office-holding and voting had been closed to, lo! the poor Indian. This first violation in America of the divine right of manhood suffrage and of the cherished fundamental dogma that all men of all races are equally capacitated to govern themselves, and especially to govern others, has doubtless been the 'Iliad of all our woes.' Plainly, it was what the Boston Transcript so eloquently calls 'colorphobia.'

"The next great blunder in our early history consisted in taking up arms against King George and his forces, when the latter were actuated, as they themselves confessed, only by the kindest designs of 'benevolently assimilating' to themselves our sources and our opportunities.

Talks of Increased Knowledge.

"We know, now, of course, that all our ancestors' talk about 'inalienable rights' of self-government, 'no taxation without representation,' habeas corpus and right of trial by jury, freedom of the press, freedom of speech and freedom of assembly were only a pretext resorted to by ranting 'insurgents' in order to throw off the 'civilizing influences' of the best government which the world had that far witnessed.

"Coming on down the current of time we found another period of popular hysterics that is incomprehensible to us of a wiser generation, in view of some enlightening facts in our recent history. Some men in the troublesome little town of Boston, masquerading as Indians, seized and threw into the sea certain cases of tea belonging to certain merchants of the East India company. The consequence was that the entire population of Boston, men, women and children, observers of the law as well as law-breakers, were punished and the Boston port bill was passed, thus in a fashion royally excommunicating the little town, commercially and industrially. Our ancestors could not be quieted, but got worse and worse, until their misguided counsels led to the foolish result of 'insurrection' and a free and independent American government.

The Loss of Free Trade.

"The next great historical blunder, in spite of which, strange to say, we have, as I cannot too often repeat, prospered right along in every step of our history, with now and then a temporary drop-back, was the immolation of our ancestors of the nation's industrialism upon the altar of free trade within that common domain, notwithstanding already existing state lines furnished convenient place, opportunity and temptation to establish customhouses.

"Another error of our grandfathers in connection with our foreign affairs has come over me lately with weighing down emphasis.—George Washington thought that our wisest and best and most patriotic foreign policy consisted in amicable relations with all the other nations of the world and entangling alliances with none of them.

"We know now, from our fellow citizen in the white house, that the peoples who may expect our tolerance and friendship are 'those who maintain order and prosperity,' those 'who govern themselves well,' 'those who pay their financial obligations,' and that it may become a duty which we cannot ignore, certainly in the western hemisphere, to 'intervene' in some way, more or less indefinite, in the domestic affairs of 'those who do not do all these things' nor 'behave with decency in political and industrial matters,' whatever in the world that may mean, but who, by the omission of the doing of all these things, do 'loosen the ties which bind together civilized society,' which ties, of course, God has appointed us his 'mundane vicegerent mechanics to tighten up again.'

Turns Guns on Roosevelt.

"What a queer, old-time, childish idea was that of our ancestors, that the president of the United States is simply a chief executive and that his duty consists in executing the laws as they are written. I need not tell you, sir, that if you should be elected vice president it will be one of your duties as a sort of heir apparent to the crown to train yourself and influence your chief—Judge Parker—in the way of usurping the functions of the other departments of the government. Your opportunity will not be as great as that of the president himself, but as president of the senate, you may have some opportunity.

"In conclusion, sir, pray for war—nobody can tell what great things war will end in when once begun. It might result in making of your chief the first 'emperor and lord protector of the western hemisphere.'

"Remember above all things that our chief duty as citizens, but especially as rulers, is not to be 'weaklings' or 'cowards.' A weakling, sir, is a strangely domesticated animal who listens before he acts and who weighs evidence before he decides, who modestly venerates greatness—in others, who actually prefers 'piping times of peace' to the 'pomp and circumstances of glorious war.' Weaklings are 'men who fear the strenuous life, the only national life that is really worth the living'—the life of crown-colony-conquest, the life militant, in a word. We are getting to be as a people, your committee is glad to say, splendidly military. A flag, brass band and a choice collection of epaulets, escorting a secretary of war to and from the depot in Washington when he augustly leaves or arrives, appeal to the higher flights of our patriotic imagination as nothing else does or can.

Assails Speech of Root.

"It has been a pleasure to us to do our duty, to notify you of your nomination. This has been a pleasure, notwithstanding the fact that you had already been in a manner notified by Elihu Root, who, while pretendedly notifying Senator Fairbanks, 'could not set his mind off'n you,' as the darkies say, and whose speech consisted principally in saying, 'Go to, thou are an old man,' and in bemoaning the fact that you might possibly die before you got to be president. So might he for that matter.

"In further comment upon Elihu Root's notification of your nomination I will hazard the remark, in reply to one of exceeding good taste on his part, that it is better to run the risk of incurring, as in due course of the flesh we all must, physical 'inability,' than to have been born with that peculiar metal 'inability' for any possible task in life which consists of taking ourselves too seriously and nobody else with respect of reverence.'

Davis' Reply to Williams.

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Committee: The official notification which you bring of my nomination for the vice presidency of the United States by the national democracy gives me a feeling of the sincerest gratitude to my party for the honor conferred. At the same time it brings to me a deep sense of my responsibility to my party as a candidate and to my country in case of my election.

"A spirit of determination to succeed in the campaign before us appears to pervade the rank and file of our party in all sections of the country. Of that rank and file I have for many years been a member and have at all times devoted my humble powers to party success, believing that success to be for the country's good. Unexpectedly called as I am now to the forefront, I am impelled to an acceptance of the obligation by a sense of gratitude to my fellow workers and the hope that it may be able the better to assist in restoring to power that party whose principles and past history guarantee a safe, wise, economical and constitutional administration of the government.

"I find it, therefore, a great pleasure, standing here upon the borderland of the two Virginias, to receive and accept the commission you bear and to send greetings through you to the democracy of the entire country. It is not significant of a closer and truer brotherhood among us that for the first time since the civil war a nominee on the national ticket has been taken from that section of our common country that lies south of Mason and Dixon's line—a happy recognition of the obliteration of all sectional differences which led to and followed that unhappy struggle?

Declares Himself for Gold.

'As an introductory to the few remarks I shall make I desire to say that I heartily indorse the platform upon which I have been nominated and, with the convention and its nominee for president, regard the present monetary standard of value as irrevocably established.

"In the campaign preceeding the last election much stress was laid by republican speakers upon the prosperous condition of the country and forebodings were heard of the ill results, especially to the laboring man, which would follow any change in the political complexion of the government.

"It is true that the times then were good, but it is no less a fact that, while there has been no change in the party in power, many of the evils prophesied have come under republican rule. Four years ago factories, mills, mines and furnaces were in active operation, unable to supply the demand, but now many are closed and those that are open are being operated with reduced force on short hours. Then wages were high, labor was scarce and there was work for all.

"Now work is scarce, many wage earners unemployed and wages reduced. The apprehension which now prevails in business circles and the present unsatisfactory industrial condition of the country seem to demand a political change.

"In the language of our platform, 'the rights of labor are certainly no less vested, no less sacred and no less inalienable than the rights of capital.' The time is opportune to emphasize the truth of this utterance. The most sacred right of property is the right to possess and own one's self and the labor of one's own hands—capital itself being but stored-up labor. For years I worked in the ranks as a wage earner and I know what it is to earn my living in the sweat of my brow. I have always believed—and my convictions came from the hard school of experience—that, measured by the character of work he does and the cost of living, a man is entitled to full compensation for his services. My experience as a wage earner and my association with labor have alike taught me the value of democratic principles, for in them the humblest has the strongest security for individual right and the highest stimulus to that independence of spirit and love of self-help which produce the finest private characters and from the base of the best possible government.

Furnishes a Few Figures.

"The receipts of the government for the year ending June 30, 1902, the first fiscal year of the present administration, showed a surplus over expenditures of $91,000,000, but for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, instead of a surplus, there was a deficit of $41,000,000. From July 1, 1904, to August 10, or for about a month and a third of the present fiscal year, the expenditures of the government have exceeded the receipts by $21,715,000. There could be no stronger evidence of the extravagance into which the republican party has fallen and no more potent argument in behalf of a change to the party whose tenets have always embraced prudence and economy in administering the people's affairs.

"Our republican friends are prone to refer to the great commercial growth of the country under their rule and yet the census reports show that from 1850 to 1860, under democratic rule and the Walker tariff, the precentage of increase was greater in population, wealth, manufactures and railroad milage, the factors which affect most largely the prosperity of the country, than in any decade since.

The cost of government has largely increased under republican rule. The expenditures per capita for the last year respectively of the administrations given, taken from the reports of the secretary of the trasury, are as follows:

In 1860, under Buchanan, $2.01.
In 1892, under Harrison, $5.77.
In 1897, under Cleveland, $5.10.
In 1901, under McKinley, $6.56.
In 1904, under Roosevelt, $7.10.

"The republicans now claim great consistency in their attitude upon the currency question and the president in his recent speech of acceptance said that they know what they mean when they speak of a stable currency, 'the same thing from year to year,' and yet in the platforms of their party in 1884, 1888 and 1892 they favored the double standard of value. In the platform of 1888 they said 'the republican party is in favor of the use of both gold and silver as money and condemns the policy of the democratic administration in its efforts to demonetize silver.'

Some Bouquets for Parker.

"I congratulate your committee and the constituency it represents in the selection by the delegates to the national convention of the nominee for the presidency. He is a man of courage, yet prudent; of high ideals, yet without pretense; of the most wholesome respect for the constitution and the majesty of the laws under it and a sacred regard for their limitations; of the keenest sense of justice, which would rebel against compounding a wrong to an individual or to a nation; positive in conviction, yet of few words; strong in mental and moral attributes and yet withal modest; possessed of a sturdy constitution and magnificent manhood and yet temperate in his actions and dignified in his demeanor.

"It is not the orator or man of letters but the man of reserve force, of sound judgment, of conservative method and steadiness of purpose, whom the people have called to the office of the presidency, notably in the contests between Jefferson and Burr, Jackson and Clay, Lincoln and Douglas, Grant and Greeley, Cleveland and Blaine.

"Dire predictions were made by our political opponents of what would happen at the St. Louis convention, but they misudged the temper of the party and the people. While there had been differences in preceding campaigns, at St. Louis they were all harmonized and a common ground was found upon which all could stand and do battle for democratic principles. A platform was adopted by a unanimous vote, embracing the issues of the day and presenting to the people a declaration of principles which in the language of the times is sane, safe and sound.

Sees Chance of Victory.

"With a candidate whose personality appeals to the good sense and sound judgment of the American people, a platform whose principles are for the greatest good to the greatest number and a reunited party earnest for the restoration of good and economical government we should succeed and the principles of democracy again triumph.

"I beg my countrymen as they value their liberty to guard with great care the sacred right of local self-government and to watch with a jealous eye the tendency of the times to centralize power in the hands of the few.

"Mr. Chairman, it is an added pleasure to receive this notification at your hands. You have been conservative and courageous as leader of our party in the house of representatives, a position which few men have filled with the signal ability that you have displayed.

"It will be my pleasure and duty at a time not far hence to accept more formally in writing the nomination which you have tendered in such graceful and complimentary terms and to give my views upon some of the important questions now commanding the attention of the country."

"WHITHER ARE WE DRIFTING?"

The Commoner.

ON A SOUND FOUNDATION.

Democracy Will Triumph Because It Stands for the Right of All the People.

The speech of Hon. Champ Clark, notifying Judge Parker of his nomination to the presidency, is regarded by many as a political gem. We herewith give the salient points of the address:

"Presidents come and presidents go, but the great republic—freighted with the hopes of the human race for liberty—goes on forever.

"All history proves that a government bottomed on popular suffrage is a government by party. Experience shows that he serves his party best who serves his country best. The names most fondly cherished are those of men who devoted their time, their energies, their talents, their fortunes and their lives to the promotion of the public weal. Stronger incentive to high and patriotic endeavor no man hath than the hope to stand through all the ages in that goodly company.

"Out of the masterly debates and profound deliberations of the St. Louis convention emerged a reunited party, which goes forth conquering to conquer. The flower of the democracy assembled there to consult on the state of the country and to take measures for restoring the government to the principles enunciated by the fathers, from which it has drifted far in these latter days.

"We enter upon this campaign with the strength which grows out of the union of a mighty party, with the enthusiasm born of truth, with the courage that emanates from a righteous cause, with the confidence of men animated by noble purposes and lofty patriotism.

"The principles of democracy are grounded in eternal truth. As formulated by the father of democracy they are not for a day, but for all time, and are as applicable in this hour as when he proclaimed them in his inaugural address, which his become a classic. The necessity of putting them into practice is as pressing now as it was then. To once more make them the basis of our political action is the pleasant but arduous task assigned you by the democracy of the land.

"To serve the whole American people, without discrimination, faithfully and well; to distribute the blessings of the federal government impartially among all our citizens; to lighten the burdens of government by reducing taxation to the minimum and by rigid economy in the public service; to administer the powers conferred by the constitution justly, wisely, fearlessly, vigorously and patriotically, without diminution and without usurpation. To maintain freedom of thought, freedom of speech and the freedom of the press; to promote the sacred cause of human liberty everywhere by the wholesomeness of our example; to vindicate and glorify the theory and practice of representative government; to secure its blessings to our posterity for all time—these always have been, are, and forever must be, the aims and purposes of the democrats.

"These aims and purposes have been carefully, clearly and comprehensively set forth in the declaration of principles which was unanimously reported to the St. Louis convention in July last by the platform committee after more than 16 hours spent in its consideration, in which every great live issue is frankly and boldly discussed, and which was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted by that convention composed of delegates from every constituency under our flag.

"There was a splendid array of presidential candidates before the St. Louis convention, supported by loyal friends and ardent admirers. An unusually large number of men were placed in nomination for the greatly coveted honor. You were chosen with such enthusiasm as foretells success. Having on the only ballot received the two-thirds majority indispensable by democratic usage, your nomination was made unanimous with the heartiest approval of your illustrious competitors. Absolute acquiescence in the decisions of the majority, the vital principle of republic has ever been a cardinal tenet of democracy; and the signs of the times indicate that you will be supported at the polls by the democratic hosts with the same unanimity with which you were nominated.

"The hope is not too extravagant for entertainment that in this campaign our candidate will have the support not only of every democrat in the land, but also of every voter, by whatever political name called, who believes that the constitution of the United States is a living reality and that it applies equally to high and low, to great and small, to public official and to private citizen."

LABOR LEADERS ON GUARD

A Good Many Republican Congressmen to Be Retired by the New "Labor Lyceum."

The American Federation of Labor, which has an organization in every city and many villages, does not permit political action, but is non-partisan. The leaders have found, however, that congress will not heed their request for legislation unless that individual member of congress is brought to fear defeat if he does not vote for such laws as labor demands. The labor leaders at Washington after two months of executive meetings and consultations have organized the "Labor Lyceum and Bureau of Information" whose objects are set forth to be: The discussion of economic question as they relate to the educational, social and industrial conditions of the wage-workers of the United States to collect and disseminate legislative data relative to labor measures submitted to the congress of the United States; to ascertain, as far as possible, the attitude of senators and representatives toward such measures, and forward such information to their respective constituencies and to advise the use of the initiative and referendum in the election of federal and state legislators."

One clause of the constitution provides that anyone who is a member of a trades union in the United States may become a member of the Labor lyceum. The work of the lyceum developes largely upon the executive committee of which the president is ex-officio chairman. All complaints and statements calling for action are referred to this committee, which is charged with the duty of investigation. Before action is taken the lyceum must vote on the report of the committee.

The inspiration of the organization is said to have been the treatment of labor interests by congress on the injunction and eight-hour bills. The record of congress is being scrutinized closely at present, and without partisan feeling the ban is expected to fall heavily on at least a half dozen congressmen who are having all they desire to combat with in the shape of partisan opposition.

In its account of this organization the Washington Post quotes Mr. McGuire, the president of the lyceum, as saying:

"We expect to enter the close districts and do something that will count. The laboring man could not enter political fights heretofore in an organized body, because such a thing would not be permitted of a union. His interests have suffered. Then, again, there are a number of congressmen who came here and have done everything in their power to defeat the ends of the laboring man, and then return home to tell the laborer how much he has been doing for him. We intend to put a stop to that kind of work."

That action will certainly make it uncomfortable for most of the republican leaders, who, while pretending to be favorable to labor, have managed to defeat all the legislation that labor asks.

Republican Party and Labor.

It is a remarkable thing how great a friend Roosevelt is to the laborers and unions and how good a friend he and Mr. Fairbanks are to Gov. Peabody, of Colorado. The republican governor of Colorado that put union men into "bullpens" and deported hundreds of them from their families and homes, was an honored guest at a big banquet of the leaders of the republican party at the Chicago convention. The leaders in that convention thus tacitly indorsed the outrages perpetrated by the Colorado governor and now the miners and other labor unions all over the country are asked to indorse these leaders in voting for their candidates for president and vice president.—Brazil (Ind.) Levy and Cohen Try to Make Up, But Soon Strike a Discordant Note.

Levy and Cohen came out of the synagogue on New Year's day. It was the day of atonement, of forgiving, of making up, relates the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Levy approached Cohen and extended a great flat hand.

"Cohen," said he, "we haf not spoken for dvesdy years. Come! Ve make fredts."

Cohen silently shook.

"Now, Cohen," continued the reconciliant, "ve go ofer to Bungleheim's unt haf a drink."

Arm in arm they crossed the street. Drinks were ordered and set before them. Cohan, convinced at last of the sincerity of the other's advances, spoke for the first time.

"Levy," he said, "I am glad of it. I raise my glass to you, Levy. Vish me somedings."

"Mit all my heart,' replied Levy, and raised his glass in turn. "Cohen, my dear frendt," said he, "I vish you shoost vat you vish me!"

The grieving smile faded from Cohen's face and he set his glass down with a bang.

"By Abraham!" he exclaimed, "Now you're shtarting it all over again!"

The Findable ...God...

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Ellison.)

Chicago, Sunday, Aug. 21, 1904.

Text: "They sought Him with their whole desire, and He was found of them."—II. Chron. 15:15.

THE quest for God is never a fruitless one. Man has never yet sought God with persistency and devotion but that he has found Him in all His gracious mercy and tender love. The search for God need not end as does the search for the fabled pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, or the persistent effort to discover the fountain of perpetual youth. Ah, how vain and disappointing is much of the struggle and search of human kind! Much seeking, but little finding. Feverish, persistent quest for fading joys and perishable possessions, and never realization of desires or satisfaction of soul! It is because the things sought for are either unattainable, or, if attainable, are disappointing and unsatisfying when gained. It is the search for the glittering gem, which, when within the grasp, proves naught but the worthless bauble of tinsel and gilt. Search for happiness, wealth, power, business, social or intellectual preferment and success, and when the prize is won at last, after the first delightful thrill of possession has passed, it proves unsatisfying. The ideal is never attained. It is always just beyond the reach. But not so the search after God. God is the attainable and the satisfying reward of every hungry, seeking soul. He is the "Findable God." But how many there are who doubt this. How many believing it, yet grow weary in their search, and fail to reach the goal of God's presence. But there are those who seek Him with their whole desire and He is found of them. Many, like Job, cried out, as they struggled through darkness and discouragement and suffering: "Oh that I knew where I might find Him!" The way seems so long. Faith's eye grows dim and the heart faint and discouraged, but at last the soul merges into the light of His presence, and God's voice is heard, even as Job came face to face with Him in the whirlwind, and heard Him speak His rebuke and pronounce His blessing. The seeker after God always comes into the Divine presence, if faith fail not and the heart turn not from its purpose. "Seek and ye shall find" was Jesus' encouraging promise. The seeker shall be rewarded, but how much is involved in the seeking!

THE declaration of our text that "He (God) was found of them" has reference to a spiritual apprehension and appreciation of the Divine God-head. Man may and does find God in the nature about him. God is everywhere in His universe. The efforts of the atheists and the Darwinian scientists have never succeeded in eliminating God as a Factor and Conscious Presence in the heavens and the earth which "declare His handiwork" and reveal His wisdom and power. God is found in every starry height and every retreating and shadowy depth. His presence is found upon the wide expanse of the fathomless sea; upon river, lake and sparkling rill. The rugged mountains mark the coming of His mighty tread through the earth, and the gentle valleys display the verdure and beauty of His omnipotent hand. The woods are vibrant with the life which has been bestowed by Him. The birds in joyful note; the insects with their busy hum or lazy swinging on the gentle breeze; the thrifty ant, with hurried passage through his forest jungle of grass-on definite business bent; the animal creation from the little squirrels that find their cozy home in the friendly, hospitable heart of the great tree, or the sleek-coated gopher that burrows beath the mellow sod, or the rabbits that scurry away before the intruding presence of man, and then stop long enough to raise their saucy, inquisitive heads above the thi grass and woodland flowers to watch you as you pass; up to the graceful, swift deer that takes one fleeting glance at you as you invade his leafy arbor and then dashes away with the speed of the wind to some more secluded retreat—all, all speak of God and declare His presence in the world which He has made.

AND man may find God all about him. He may be conscious of His presence. He may realize that God is everywhere in His nature. He may be among those who in loving appreciation hold communion with nature's invisible forms and hear her speak a varying language, with God as the keynote of it all. But such recognition of God, such finding of Him, is not the experience to which our text has reference. God is to be found and known in a deeper and fuller and richer sense than this. Man's quickened soul finds a God to Whom the natural heart and mind of man are a complete stranger. "Who by searching can find out God?" The searching of the natural man will never be rewarded by that finding of God which reveals Him in His saving, cleansing, keeping, fructifying power. So the finding of God means more than the superficial, the intellectual conception of God. It means the quickening of the heart to the deepest sense of the need of God, and the expanding and enlarging of the heart to the realities and consciousness of God. When the whole desire goes out after God, then is He found of those thus yearning for Him. Have you found God, or are you still a stranger to Him? And if a stranger to Him here, a stranger to him in the life to come? God may be found. He waits for the sinner to find Him in saving power; He waits for the saint to find Him in increasing fullness and power. He is the "Findable God," and if man finds Him not, he alone is to blame; he has not sought Him with the whole desire.

OUR text introduces us to one of the bright pages of Judah's history. It paints for us in the colors of the glorious rainbow the picture of a people moved by one impulse, the desire to find God. The saddest sight before the angels, if not before man, is that of the person or nation who is a stranger to God. The grandest resolve which ever moved in human breast is the purpose to find God, and the most glorious discovery, the most blessed experience into which the soul of man can enter is that of finding God. Judah under apostate and Godless kings had lost its God. The nation was a stranger to the true God, and had chosen for itself the false gods of the heathen nations about it. They delighted to indulge in all the licentious pleasures of the heathen worship. They wanted to be like the nations about them. They put worldliness before Godliness, the desires of the flesh before the eternal needs of the soul. And the result was that they knew not God. But the Spirit of God, moving upon the heart of the young king Asa, led him to resolve to seek the Lord. What an influence one life can exert! How one determined soul can encourage and help those who are weaker to choose the right! An Asa in Judah could lead a nation toward God until it could be declared: "They sought the Lord with their whole desire, and He was found of them." And you and I can, by seeking God with all our hearts, not only find Him, but inspire others with the same desire to find God and encourage them to seek with the whole heart until He is found of them.

AND to whom is He the Findable God? Are there any who may not seek and find? Verily, there are none, for God has declared that "Whosoever will may come." He waits in the early morn for the seeker after Him. He continues in His secret pavilion during the morning toil and the noon-tide heat and the afternoon's unceasing activities. He watches during the darkening of the evening hour, and He who keepeth His children neither slumbers nor sleeps through the long night. And always He waits for the soul that is seeking Him. He sees him from afar; He hears the eager step of hope as it pushes onward; He sees the arm of faith outstretching to discover the secret retreat of God, and as it reaches higher and yet higher in its earnestness to obtain, it feels the sure, unfailing clasp of the Divine arm. God has been found. He may always be found by the seeking soul. He is the Findable God to the sinner. No soul so vile but that it may find God and be cleansed from all its guilt. No soul so far down the pathway of sin but that it may find its way back to God. Oh, how God yearns to reveal Himself to the seeking sinner. The father of the prodigal son rushed down to meet the returning boy when he was yet a great way off, and God always meets the seeking sinner while he is yet struggling along the pathway of repentance. No sin-sick soul ever turned from the old life to seek God but that it found the blessed Christ at the turn in the road ready to receive him and lead him to God. And God is the Findable God to the saint—the regenerate, the saved soul. Ah, how often we have to seek God! So frequently comes the break in our fellowship with Him. So prone are we to fill our lives and thoughts with things earthly and forget the things Heavenly. We get away from God. And we must find Him again, before we can know peace of mind and joy of soul. Judah seeking God with the whole desire and finding Him is but a faithful picture of how every soul may seek and find its God.

SEEK the Lord! But how? In prayer. God cannot be found out in the busy rush of business, out in the mad whirl of pleasure, when the heart is all centered in its own affairs and its own pursuits, but God can be found as the soul withdraws itself to its closet and there communes with God alone. David says: "My soul waiteth in silence for God only." The silence of the hour alone in earnest seeking after God brings the soul into His blessed presence. We must seek God in prayer. It is the vital air of the Christian's life. God is lost because prayer is neglected. God may be found through seeking Him in prayer. And again, we must seek Him by a surrendered will. The self-willed, rebellious heart never can gain the presence of God. He shuts Himself away from such, and leaves them to plunge on in the peril of their own willfulness. But the surrender of the will is not all. There must be obedience—seeking God by the pathway of obedience. Do not think you are truly seeking God if you are refusing to obey His commandment. Behold Judah, as they seek the Lord with their whole desire! It was a busy nation—busy in obeying God. The idols were broken down, the false altars removed, the high places destroyed. It was a nation in obedience seeking God. Jesus declares: "If a man love Me, he will keep My Word; and My Father will love him; and We will come unto him and make Our abode with him." Obedience, keeping God's Word, will bring into the presence of the Father and the Son. What is it in your life that is keeping you from finding your way back to God? Within your inmost heart you know what it is that has shut God away as a conscious presence in your life. Give it up! Obey Him and God will be found of you, and peace and joy will come to your heart and life. Judah sought and found the Lord, and then Scripture goes on to declare that "Jehovah gave them rest round about." It is always so. The soul that has found God has found that rest which God alone can give. Will you not seek the Lord in prayer, in surrender, in obedient faith? He will be found of you! He will give you rest!

POINTS ON COMING STYLES.

Novelties in Millinery, Dress Materials and Furnishings for Autumn.

The bird of paradise waves upon a majority of the handsomest Directoire hats worn by Parisiennes. It will probably be adopted here in the autumn, reports the New York Sun.

The high crowned hat has undeniably found pronounced favor in France and the fad will doubtlessly reach us later, although American women have not, so far, taken kindly to the innovation.

Velvets and velveteens will be greatly worn in the coming season and are ideal materials for the Directoire coats, concerning which one hears so much prophecy.

The extremely high corset, much like a bodice without sleeves or shoulder straps, has been launched by certain Parisian autocrats and is worn with a full chemisette and sleeves of embroidered muslin or batiste.

"Cretes" are one of the latest developments of 1830 trimmings. They are merely narrow scalloped frills of silk sherred and set on upside down so that they stand up like exaggerated headings.

Narrow, scalloped, superimposed frills used in great numbers are another of the 1830 ideas recently revived.

Many of the new gloves are lined with contrasting color or have a frill of lace set on with shirred ribbons and falling over the glove tops.

Mitts are not universally worn, but many fashionable women have taken them up for wear with elbow sleeves.

The Greek key design in braiding or embroidery is much favored by French dressmakers.

The indications are that the new shades called mulberry will be popular colorings in the autumn and that the warm browns and reseda greens will renew their last season's success.

Dove gray chiffon made over silver gauze combines beauty and service in a summer frock.

Chemisettes, tuckers and undersleeves of genuine old openwork or other embroidery upon muslin are in great demand.

One of the latest innovations in ombre or shaded effects is shown in the shaded sashes, which are of faintest hue about the waist, but gradually deepen to a dark shade of the same color at the ends.

The new coaching parasols are of very heavy silk in plain color, with exceedingly long wooden handles matching the silk in color and tied with a big bow of silk like the cover.

Sleeve frills have lost caste because of excessive popularity, and turned-back cuffs at Directoire suggestion are having great vogue as a sleeve finish.

Openwork English embroidery on black linen is considered chic for mourning wear.

SENT BACK FOR THE PURSE.

Decoy in Dry Goods Store Draws Out Strongest Trait of Human Nature.

Picking up a wornout, empty pocketbook, a salesman in one of the large dry goods stores the other day thought he would have a little fun with it, relates the Chicago Tribune. He therefore placed it on the counter, half concealed by the goods lying on it. Presently a shopper entered. Her eyes lighted on the wallet as by instinct, and while pricing half a score of articles she endeavored to cover it, quite artlessly, of course, now with her handkerchief, then with her satchel, and again with her umbrella. The salesman, without appearing to notice her actions, each time removed the pocketbook out of danger and into light. Finally, she adopted new tactics, and picked it up with the remark:

"Yes?" replied the clerk, interrogatively. "Thank you." And he took the leather and disappeared with it for a moment. Upon his return the woman asked, with a slight show of interest:

"Was there much in it?"

"Only three dollars," replied the salesman, carelessly, with the ease of one ease of one who has been used to lying all his life.

"And who will get it if it isn't called for?" asked the shopper.

"The firm," is the epigrammatical response.

The woman went out. In ten or 15 minutes a boy came in and asked:

"Was a pocketbook with three dollars found here this morning?"

"Yes," replied the salesman, "but it has been called for."

"Oh," said the boy, and retired.

And the salesman smiled audibly.

Sorrel Soup.

The Germans make an excellent soup of sorrel in this wise. Put a tablespoonful of good drippings in a frying pan and when hot add one pint of sheeps sorrel, one onion sliced fine and a few leaves of lettuce and parsely chopped. Toss and steam for ten minutes, then add two tablespoonfuls of flour. As soon as cooked turn into the soup kettle and pour in three pints of boiling water. Season with salt, pepper and a grating of nutmeg, and cook for half an hour. When ready to serve add one cupful of milk and a beaten egg, first pouring some of the hot liquid over the egg, so that it will not curdle. Serve with croutons.—Washington Star.

Club Sandwich.

Take two thin slices of bread lightly buttered, lay a leaf of lettuce on one cover with salad dressing, then a slice of any cold meat you prefer, then a layer of sliced tomatoes covered with salad dressing, next another leaf of lettuce, and last the other slice of buttered bread.—Boston Globe.

MUST EMPLOY UNION MEN.

Milwaukee Judge Enjoins Tailoring Company from Hiring Nonunion Labor in Its Shop.

Court Commissioner E. E. Chapin, of Milwaukee, recently issued an injunction requiring William Marnitz, Charles Marnitz, and Charles Gusta, tailors, to refrain from employing any but union workmen. They are also enjoined from violating the terms of a contract which it is claimed they entered into with the Milwaukee Custom Tailors' union.

Attorney W. R. Rubin, who represented the union and obtained the injunction, expresses the belief that this is the first case in the history of labor unions wherein an employer of labor has been restrained from employing nonunion men.

It is alleged in the summons and complaint, upon which the restraining orders is based, that since the signing of the agreement or contract the Marnitz company has become a member of a secret organization composed of tailors and employers of men under the name of the Milwaukee Tailors' Protective association, the main object of which is to disrupt the tailors' union and to break the agreements entered into between the employers and the union, to deplete the funds of the union, and "to reduce labor to the pitiable position it occupied before it was elevated to its present dignity by labor unions."

BOY INFLATES HIS FACE.

Philadelphia Lad with Cracked Lips Gets Tissues Full of Air on Blowing Machine.

With his face and eyelids swollen to almost twice their normal size, 16-year-old Walter Irwin, of Philadelphia, was taken to the hospital recently, suffering excruciating agony. Irwin's condition was caused by exercising his lungs on a blowing machine in a store near his home. There were several slight lacerations in his lips, which were partially healed. The air forced its way between the tissues and in a few minutes the left side of his face began to swell. One of his companions became alarmed and urged Irwin to go to a hospital.

On the way to the hospital the boy's eyelids began to swell and the pain increased alarmingly. When he reached the institution the eyes were almost closed.

Pressure was applied to the cheeks with tight bandages. Finally the air was forced out through the small openings in his swollen lips, and after two or three hours of this treatment the pains were stopped. The swelling in his cheeks was then gradually reduced. The physicians do not know of a similar case on record.

Novel Sweeping Apparatus.

A comparatively novel mechanical device used in the new Hotel St. Regis, in New York, is the pneumatic sweeping apparatus. It consists of a system of pipes having a branch in every room connected with vacuum pumps in the basement. In order to operate it the servant, instead of sweeping the floor with a broom and raising assiduously as much dust as she removes, merely attaches a small flexible pipe to the outlet, turns on the valve, applies the nozzle to the dusty surface, and the rubbish is sucked off to the basement. There it is discharged into large sacks, which are taken from the building with other refuse.

Good Fighting Food.

One point appears to have been settled conclusively by the Russo-Japanese war, remarks the Chicago Tribune. It is that a diet of rice does not spoil a nation's appetite or capacity for fighting.

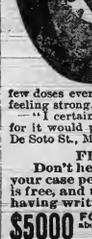
Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.



"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 208 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO WOMEN.

LETTER FROM CALIFORNIA.

Port Harford, Cala., Aug. 6, 1904.

To the Editor of the Recorder:

To comply with the request of some of the good people of Boone the following brief account of my trip to the Pacific coast is given below:

Let me preface these lines with the statement that in the seventeen states through which I passed in my round trip from California, I saw no prettier landscape and homes than in my native county of Boone. The undulating surface with its carpet of green, dotted and flecked by verdant groves, lies as a picture beautiful, restful and calm, such as only the great artist, Nature, himself could paint.

Leaving Boone and passing on to the St. Louis Exposition, we are at the Mecca to which all eyes are turned. Magnitude is its chief characteristic. If one half of the exhibits were left out and the remaining half on one-fourth the ground, it would be more satisfactory to those of limited time. I would say to those contemplating a visit there to get a guide-book and out-line some plan for seeing the various buildings. Three or four at the most is all that can be seen in one day. When we remember that some of them cover 16 acres and a distance of 8 miles required to see the exhibits, the necessity of limiting ourself to a few buildings each day, is realized.

My next stop was at Calwood, Missouri, where I spent three weeks with father, a brother and sister and their families. Then to Kansas City, whose numerous boulevards, bordered with maple and elm, together with beautiful residences and well-kept lawns afford the most delightful of drives. Leaving Kansas City at 6 p. m. our train arrived in Denver at 1 p. m. the next day. This is a typical western city both in climatic and social conditions. It lies on the western border of the central plains at an altitude of 5,129 feet and 40 miles from the Rocky Mountains, whose lofty snow-capped peaks smile upon this youthful city that sets at her feet, drinking the crystal water, and breathing the limpid air flowing from those venerable heights. During the two hours' ride on the scenic railway one sees Denver, a new, clean, up-to-date city. The buildings are almost exclusively of brick. The streets are shaded with maple and cottonwood trees.

One is impressed with the enterprise and apparent prosperity here, though there was some complaint of the crippled condition of business, owing to the miners' strikes during the past year. Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and Manitou are situated about 75 miles south of Denver. I saw nothing remarkable about these towns. The houses are mostly cottages built for invalids, who go there in great numbers during the summer months. Pike's Peak, of course, is lofty and grand, clad with a mantle of snow. Being the highest of the peaks of the front range of the Rocky Mountains, it stands as a sentinel of the grand parade of mountains that lie to the west with their summits bathed in waters of eternal snow.

Passing on from Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak, we soon reach the famous Garden of the Gods, Cave of Winds, Rainbow Falls, Balance Rock and Cheyenne Canon, all picturesque, ever varying as kaleidoscopic views. A hundred miles further on and we are in the midst of a storm in the heart of the Rockies. This is certainly a sublime sight. The mountains rise heavenward into the very clouds, whose vapor condensed into mantles of mist and sheets of rain, shrouded her dark outlines as she lay in everlasting sleep, and the lightning, as a flaming sword, and the thunder as the artillery of a mighty hoast, all combine to give inspiration to the moment and awe to the scene.

Just before sundown we came into Leadville, a city on the mountain side, in the midst of mines of gold, silver and lead. Most of them are being operated, and the smelting works are running in full blast. A few miles out from Leadville, through snow-sheds and a tunnel, and the summit of the Rockies is passed, and the descent is begun into the Platau Region.

What a brave heart the Mormon leaders must have had, when they first tracked across this arid, treeless tract of desolate land, a veritable desert, drenched by occasional storms that scar and seam the surface that lies scorched beneath a semi-tropic sun. Into this dreary waste came a band of Mormon pilgrims, seeking land in which to build a temple, where they might teach and preach the tenets of their religion with impunity, and forty years they spent in patient toil to erect a temple that stands a monument to their zeal and architectural art. The temple is built of granite brought from a quarry about twenty miles distant. It took four yoke of oxen four days to convey a single large stone from the quarry to the temple grounds. When we consider the cost of this building, $4,000,000, and its size, 186 feet long, 99 feet wide, the walls of the main building 107 feet, tower 210 feet, the footing wall on which the building rests, 16 feet wide and 16 feet deep, and the thickness of the walls varying from 6 to 9 feet, we get some conception of the sacrifice required of a poor people, who gave their brawn for 40 years.

The feet of a Gentile may never enter this temple. It is exclusively for the rites and ceremonies of the Mormon church. Religious services are held in the Tabernacle. It is 250 feet long, 150 feet wide and 80 feet high. Its acoustic properties are such that a pin dropped in the front is distinctly heard in the rear of the building. Its seating capacity is about 8,000.

The most noticeable feature of Salt Lake City is the width of its streets, with the telegraph poles in the center of them. On either side of these poles there is about the width of 5th street, Cincinnati.

A trip on the observation car about the city and out to Saltair, a distance of 15 miles on Salt Lake, are features that none should miss. Hundreds of bathers are seen floating about in the lake. Yes, floating, for they can not sink; all one has to do is to keep his head up and he floats as a cork on the surface.

Salt Lake is drying up—at the present rate of shrinkage it will disappear in 25 years. There are vast areas of alkali stretching for miles around its border, which in recent years were part of the lake. The streams that feed the lake are being diverted from their course for irrigating purposes, thus leaving this inland sea to perish. And when it is gone what a tract of glaring waste must lie for countless years without flower or bird, or living beast. For this body of salt water must leave a deposit upon which no form of life could possibly exist.

From Salt Lake City to Ogden, and over some 400 miles of desert, to the Sierra Nevada mountains is about twelve hours ride. And then through 40 miles of snow sheds with snow-clad peaks on every side, over the Summit and down the Pacific Slope, across the Sacramento valley into San Francisco, and down the coast to Port Harford on San Luis Bay, and my journey of over 6,000 miles is done.

The pebbly beach, and breaking waves and murmuring sea welcome me home. But the welcome of sea and beach and tide is incomparable to that received from the dear friends and kindred souls in the land of old Boone.

BASE BALL.

Managers Curley and Hume brought their ball tossers down last Saturday and tackled the Grays again, and got it in the neck once more. Neither of the clubs did itself justice, although the ground conditions were all that could have been desired. Gray was the only man of the local team that was in form. Of the 27 Walton men who faced him he struck out 16. Following is the score:

Grays	2	1	2	5	0	0	2	*	—	12
Walton	2	0	0	0	2	1	0	0	1	— 6

Hits—Grays 11; Walton 4.

Struck Out—Gray 16; Fullilove 10.

Three Base Hits—Wade, Smith, Clore.

Two Base Hits—Hensley, Clore.

The Grays kissed the Walton boys good-bye last Saturday, and told them they would see them again when the roses bloom.

The uncertain weather caused managers Rouse and Crisler to call the game with the Athletics off at 10 a. m., Saturday.

The Burlington Grays and the Boones will play here next Saturday. Pools—7 to 10 in favor of the Grays.

Dr. Furnish is repairing his houses in Burlington.

M. S. Gibson and family have been greatly annoyed by bees in their residence the past two years. Upon investigation recently they were discovered to be hived between the ceiling of the first story and the floor of the second story. The floor was taken up, a tub of honey secured, and a large swarm of bees.—One of our peripatetic citizens became so enthusiastic over the National holiday that he pawned his coat for two drinks, his hat for two more, and his suspenders for another one.—Rising Sun Recorder.

Miss Nannie Goodridge and May Cason were calling on Mrs. Rachel Parsons, Wednesday evening. The evening was spent very pleasantly by hostess and guests with music, vocal and instrumental.

Bro. Acrs, when you take Commissary mail out of the Burlington office, please remind the P. M. that you have taken out a certain person or persons mail, and that we be notified of the fact when we call for the mail, so as to relieve us of worry and trouble. By so doing you will confer a favor.

The two ladies that came down the pike on horseback and turned down the Wooiper road, but before making the turn rode down almost in front of our door, in order that we might see them and say something nice about them should have tipped their hats and announced their names, which would given us a better opportunity of judging their good qualities of mind and heart.

We think we know a thing or two as well as Bro. Tolin. We name the nominees for county officers at the coming primary election as follows: County Judge—P. E. Cason; County Clerk—B. W. Adams; County Attorney—D. E. Castleman; Sheriff—M. F. Wingate; Superintendent of schools—D. M. Snyder; Assessor—Elmo Gaines; Surveyor—W. R. Vest; Jailer—Sam Adams. Of course Snyder, Vest, and Adams have no opposition yet but if they do the result will be the same. The above named gentlemen need not worry or lose any sleep.

Taken with Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by all Druggists.

Suicide Prevented.

The startling announcement that a preventive of suicide had been discovered will interest many. A run down system, or despondency invariably precede suicide and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self destruction take Electric Bitters. It being a great tonic and nervine will strengthen the nerves and build up the system. It's also a great Stomach, Liver and Kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by all Druggists.

Our young friend, Earl Whiting, has had his paper changed from Petersburg to 1109 Main street, Cincinnati.

PLANTING THE STANDARD.

VICTORY NOW SEEMS SURE

Democrats Have Better Than an Even Chance to Carry the Country in November.

New York's removal from the doubtful column to a secure position in the democratic file of states narrows calculations greatly. Heretofore the narrowest republican estimate of the relative strength of the parties has conceded only the solid south with its total of 151 electoral vote, to democracy, and has placed New York in the doubtful column together with Delaware, Maryland and Nevada.

New York adds 39 votes to this conceded total of democracy, making 190 out of the 239 votes necessary to a victory, while the democratic acquisition of New York has a vital effect on several other states. In view of the reasonable certainty that New York will go for Parker by a safe majority it is reasonable add New Jersey Connecticut and West Virginia to the doubtful column,

Maryland should be taken out of the doubtful column and conceded to democracy. Thus the democratic total assured may be placed at 198 votes, while the doubtful column may be revised as follows:

Delaware	3
Nevada	3
New Jersey	12
Connecticut	7
West Virginia	7
Total	32

These are states which are "doubtful" with a democratic leaning. Some republican estimates have placed Nevada in the democratic column. Delaware and West Virginia are extremely likely to go as Maryland goes; and the Democratic chance in Connecticut and New Jersey is apace with the lead in New York. It is almost an impossibility for the republicans to carry these two states without carrying New York.

A further doubtful column may be computed of states which are uncertain, but in which the chance is not so favorable to democracy:

Colorado	5
California	10
Idaho	3
Montana	3
Oregon	4
Utah	3
Wisconsin	13
Total	41

Thus the two sets of doubtful states comprise 73 votes. Democracy requires 41 of these doubtful votes in order to win.

Several combinations, easily within reason and the possibilities, make up the required number. Let democracy carry the first set of doubtful states and it needs but nine more votes.

Let democracy carry Wisconsin, in the second set, and it could win without Delaware or Nevada in the first set.

Let democracy carry Wisconsin and Colorado, in the second set, and it could win without Connecticut, or West Virginia, or Delaware and Nevada, in the first set.

A liberal estimate, conceding Illinois and Indiana to the republicans, gives them 205 electoral votes. Thus they require 34 additional votes to win. If the republicans lose the first set of doubtful states, then they cannot afford to lose more than seven votes in the second set of doubtful states. The loss of Colorado and Idaho or Montana or Oregon or Utah would be fatal. The loss of Wisconsin would be fatal.

The St. Louis Republic Says that in order to win, the republicans must hold together the "sure" states, and must carry the entire west with the exception of Nevada.

Upon the whole the democrats may be said to have better than an even chance. The chance would be about even—the republicans having 205 against democracy's 198 "sure" votes—were it not for the fact that as New York goes many of the doubtful states will probably go. New York is the big and powerful asset and its turning is likely to influence other of the big commercial and industrial states. Not even Indiana and Illinois are assured to the republicans in the event of a democratic New York. The loss of either one of them, or of Ohio, would be absolutely fatal to the republican party; where as democracy can win easily without them.

CALL IT A GREAT SPEECH.

Democratic Leaders Pronounce Democratic Candidate's Remarks a Powerful Document.

Following are the comments of prominent democrats on the speech of acceptance delivered by Judge Parker:

Champ Clark, chairman of the notification committee—A magnificent speech, and it will make even a better campaign document. It was forceful and true. The republicans will have great difficulty in answering it.

Thomas Taggart, chairman of the democratic national committee—Judge Parker's speech lessens our work in the campaign by 50 per cent., and I believe now he will surely be elected. It was a strong statement of facts put in a judicial and unanswerable form.

Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall—A splendid speech and a great vote-getter. It had the true ring of sincerity.

Senator Patrick McCarren, of Brooklyn—An excellent speech; one of the best and most forceful it has ever been my pleasure to hear. It embodies all the issues which the people will be called upon to decide at the fall elections. It is the best evidence of the wisdom of Judge Parker's nomination. His great courage is shown in the treatment of issues.

David B. Hill—It was a wonderful speech, and treated upon all issues before the people to-day. It was a speech of which any man might be proud—excellent, admirable, grand.

Hugh J. Grant—It was a strong document and a timely one. I believe that his views upon second terms for presidents insures Judge Parker's success at the polls.

John Whalen—The man is a platform in himself. His speech was a serious and convincing statement.

Former United States Senator Lindsey, of Kentucky—Judge Parker's speech was superb. It was the great democratic declaration that the country has been waiting for. It was the first cheering thing that a democratic candidate has done for eight years.

Perry Belmont—I believe that Judge Parker means what he says, and the evident sincerity of the man is enough to encourage all democrats and make them hopeful of success.

Norman E. Mack, national committeeman from New York—The greatest speech ever delivered in acceptance of a presidential nomination that I have ever heard. It will bring back to us hundreds of thousands of votes.

Frank Campbell, former state chairman—I was never so impressed. At the conclusion of the address I found tears in my eyes and myself shaking hands with the judge.

Daniel Campau, of Michigan—It contained the views of an extraordinary man who will prove an extraordinary president.

James W. Gerard—As a lawyer, I believe that it is one of the most powerful documents ever penned.

William F. Sheehan, chairman of the democratic national executive committee—It was the speech of a statesman. In it the man showed himself a true leader. It cannot fail to win the admiration of the country.

An Honor to Democracy.

Ever since Judge Parker's telegram declaring that the presidency must come to him right or he would not have it, his greatest peril has been that of an anticlimax. Could he hold the ear of the country which he had so instantaneously gained? Or would his act of bold initiative be followed by frivolities of speech? His highly dramatic first appearance on the national stage made it the harder, yet the more necessary, to fix the eye of the spectators when he stepped forth a second time. But all doubts of his ability fittingly to follow up his great stroke are solved by his speech of acceptance. It is the utterance of a man who does his own thinking, who has something to say, and who says it with the utmost frankness. The country will pronounce him a man worth listening to, and will gladly hear him further.—N. Y. Post.

Sin of Class Distinctions

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Aug. 28, 1904.

Text: "My brethren, hold not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons. . . . If ye have respect of persons, ye commit sin."—Jas. 2:1, 9.

WHAT a great leveler, and unifier and simplifier is the glorious Gospel of Jesus Christ! Where the faith of Jesus Christ prevails and His Spirit rules in the heart all manmade and man-rocognized distinctions are swept away and the brother of low degree is exalted and the saint of high degree is brought low, and both meet in sweet fellowship with Jesus as guest, as well as host. What is more dishonoring to the Christ, who emptied Himself of all glory, and power, and majesty which He possessed with the Father from the beginning and took upon Himself the form of man and became servant unto all men, than for those who claim fellowship with Him, who identify themselves as His followers and acknowledge Him as their Saviour and Lord and Master, to make distinctions between people according to the standards which prevail in the world? What could be more displeasing to Him, think you, than for one who wears the livery of the redeemed to estimate and judge men by the mere externalities of what they possess, or what they are, and let such judgments bias their conduct towards them? We know such distinctions are unworthy the calling and profession of a Christ-man or a Christ-woman; we realize that we are under condemnation because we have the respect of persons; we know God's Word cries out against the sin; and yet what condition is more prevalent among Christians to-day than this caste spirit, this tendency and disposition to let the "gold ring" and the "rich raiment" influence our attitude and conduct, to the disparagement and dishonoring of the poor brother who is rich in faith towards God and possesses in rich fullness the hidden graces of the heart? The Apostolic Church came early to experience this weak and worldly tendency among its members. In fact before the organization of the church on the day of Pentecost, Jesus met this defect among His own immediate disciples. He had to rebuke them time and time again for seeking preferment, and for estimating people by externalities, rather than the internal qualities of heart and character.

THE world judges people by what they possess in tangible assets, whether they consist of gold, of power, of physical or intellectual attainments which give social and business preferment. And it is hard to unlearn the lesson of the world. It is hard to give up her measuring rod and her balances, and measure and weigh things after the Divinely accurate means of the Gospel of Jesus Christ and His unfailing and unerring Spirit of love and service. The natural tendency is to have respect of persons. Even Samuel the Prophet made this grievous mistake when sent by God to anoint the new king of Israel. He judged by the eye, he used the world's standards of measure, and was prone to pour his consecrating oil upon the finest physical specimens of Jesse's family, but God checked him in his ignorance and folly, by saying: "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but God looketh on the heart." "God is no respecter of persons", when it has to do with the possessions and attainments of this world. In fact, how often it has pleased God to choose the foolish things of this world that He might "put to shame them that are wise; and God chose the weak things of the world that He might put to shame the things that are strong; and the base things of the world, and the things that are despised did God choose, yea and the things that are not that He might bring to nought the things that are: that no flesh should glory before God." How unseemly, nay, how wicked, that those who are in Christ Jesus, who profess His name, should recognize the distinctions which prevail among men and should be governed by them.

THE admonition of James is needful and timely. "My brethren, hold not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons." "For if ye have respect of persons, ye commit sin." And perhaps there is no one thing today for which the church of Jesus Christ is blamed so much or is so harshly criticised than this one sin of class distinctions. The world can forgive most every other weakness, but when the rich are honored and cherished to the exclusion of the poor and humble brother; when the talented and cultured are welcomed with flattered and flattering obsequiousness, and the untutored, uncouth saint is despised and forgotten and ignored; when the church counts its success by the numbers of its "selects," and bulks the rest of its membership as so much necessary ballast to keep the ship steady and obedient to the helm—when the world sees this, its cry of condemnation is heard, and the church is denounced as an exclusive and excluding organization, and no place for the poor and the weak and the untearned. And while we do not recognize the right of the world to judge the church, and realize that the prejudice which prevails against it makes the world prone to criticise and [illegible] defects wherever they may exist or seem to exist, still it is true that many churches, yea, may we not say, most churches, are tinctured with this tendency, to class distinction. In some churches it is more marked than in others. To the degree that the Spirit of God rules in the hearts of the members, to that degree is the church free from this marring and dishonoring condition. But hardly a church but shows this weakness, this natural human failing to some extent.

THIS sin of class distinction is one into which the Christian falls so naturally and easily. How much more prone we all are to render to the rich and well dressed, to the cultured and educated, to the commercial or professional man or woman of prominence, the homage and courtesy and attention which we feel are due them, while we turn with scant courtesy from the poorly dressed stranger, from the unprepossessing and uncouth. We feel flattered by the attendance upon the church of the richly dressed, the social leader, the banker, the doctor and lawyer and railroad magnate. We feel that we must show them assiduous attention, we must make them feel that we appreciate their social and business and professional standing. Naturally and perhaps unconsciously this attitude is manifested. You whisper to Mr. or Mrs. So-and-So that there is Mr. Wealth, or Miss Fashionable, or Mr. Wiseman, or Miss Society, and that "we must not let them get out without our prettiest and most flattering speech and most cordial invitation to come again." And while thus busy, and, as you flatter yourself, so judiciously engaged, some humble brother or sister is slipping into an obscure seat unnoticed and unknown. And while you are smirking and bowing and exchanging the formal courtesies of the day with the prominent, and rich and well dressed, the unnoticed and unknown man or woman in homespun slips quietly by you and away, with never a Christian greeting, never a warm handshake, never an invitation to come again.

SEEMETH it to you that such class distinction is only a weakness, and not a sin? Think you that it is a light thing in the estimation of Christ? I tell you nay. James calls it sin, S-I-N, and all sin is devilish and abhorrent to God. If Christ came to church we think we would welcome Him with open arms; we think the little select circles would reach out to welcome and greet Him, but inasmuch as that is not done to the least of His brethren—the weak, the lowly, the poorly-dressed, the ignorant, it is not done unto Him, nor would it be done. I knew a woman who would not remain in the Bible class in Sunday school because the colored sexton, a child of God, and one who loved his Saviour and enjoyed the study of God's Word, came and sat on the outer edge of the circle and listened to the exposition by the teacher. She forgot that in him the Christ was represented, and that respect of persons was dishonoring and displeasing to Him. It was sin. "God is no respecter of persons." He does not regard the outward conditions, the raiment, the worldly possessions, the position, the intellectual attainments. He looks beneath all that man sees and searches the heart, and if Christ is there enthroned, God accepts that man. And it is sin for man to make distinctions which God does not make or recognize. "Harken, my beloved brethren," says James to the Christians of that early church, where this insidious sin of respect of persons was performing its destructive work; "did not God choose them that are poor as to the world to be rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom which He promised to them that love him? But ye have dishonored the poor man." And this same solemn rebuke needs to be spoken to every Christian heart. This sin of respect of persons is a corrosion, a dry rot which will eat the very heart and life out of one's religion and leave him cold and lifeless spiritually.

RESPECT of persons does then prevail among Christians, and in the churches of to-day. It is not God's way. It is sin, black, awful sin. Displeasing and dishonoring to God and destructive of spiritual life. And what is the remedy? How may the Christian avoid or eradicate this weakness, this sin? Let us see what James says about it and what Jesus said. James reminds the ones to whom he is writing, and who evidently were offending in this matter of respect of persons, that "if ye fulfil the royal law, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself,' ye do well." Here then is the antidote for the poison of this sin. Here then is the means of eradicating the deadly disease. Let the Spirit of Christ so rule in the heart that love for your neighbor will be as strong as the love for yourself. And did you ever stop to think that the root of the evil of having respect of persons was in selfishness, and that love of self which seeks only those things and those persons which gratify and please the external senses? The Spirit of Christ in the heart and love for your neighbor—your lowly, humble, unprepossessing, uncouginial, uneducated, uncouth brother—as you love yourself, will quickly destroy that un-Christlike attitude of your heart and life. The Spirit of Christ, as manifested in humble service, is another remedy for this unholy and unwholesome caste spirit. Oh, let the Spirit of Christ be manifested in your life by love to your neighbor and kindly, helpful service, and you will find that the desire and disposition to have respect of persons will have been eradicated. "My brethren," let Christ rule in the heart and life, and "Hold not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of Glory, with respect of persons." For, "if ye have respect of persons, ye commit sin."

THE BIBLE WAS MUCH USED

There Was No Baby Chair in the House and It Served a Good Purpose.

A minister of one of the leading congregations of this city was recently making a call on one of the prominent members of his flock and was greeted at the door by the five-year-old daughter of the house, who was doing the honors as hostess in the absence of her mother, relates the Philadelphia Press. Spying a well-worn family Bible near at hand, the minister commented on the fact that there must be a good father in the house, which contained proof of having used the Bible to so great an extent.

"Oh, yes," said the child, "papa has us on the Bible three times a day."

"Indeed!" replied the parson. "How edifying. And, pray, what times does your good father call upon this grand volume?"

"Always at meal times," answered the radiant daughter. "You know, we never had a baby chair in the house, so pa just sits the Bible on a dining-room chair and that makes it just high enough for us children. My baby brother Jim sat on it this morning. We all had our turn at it."

Too Much Sense.

An old colored man, watching the monkeys at the zoo the other day, was heard to drop this corollary to the Darwinian theory: "Dem children got too much sense to come outer dat cage. Write fokks cut der tails off and set 'ou to workin' and votin' and following constitewtions."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time.

"The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

"The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, failing and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly is it said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

Filipinos at St. Louis World's Fair

Wonderful Music Rendered Daily by Islanders on Plaza of Philippine Building.

THERE are some people who still assert that the United States obtained nothing through the annexation of the Philippines, but a lot of naked savages. In spite of the government's display at the World's Fair, which shows, in addition to the four wild tribes, the refined Visayans with their beautiful fabrics and their delicate embroideries, the loyal brown soldiers of Uncle Sam and the cultured commissioners and officials, there are some purblind individuals who refuse to see that the Filipino is anything but a nuisance and a menace to our country.

That he could be capable of civilization and uplifting seems utterly ridiculous to—those who have studied him? No, to the class who dare not visit the Philippine reservation at the World's Fair for fear of being convinced against their will. That a great many of the natives of the islands could already be cultured and refined would be set down as utterly preposterous by this class.

The scoreheads need not be bound and carried by violence across the facsimile Bridge of Spain, through the Walled City to the heart of the most wonderful section of the entire exposition. They should only be enticed to listen for an hour to the playing of the Constabulary band. No man with an ounce of appreciation in his soul could hear that band without being convinced that the 81 men who compose its membership are far above the ordinary in both intelligence and sentiment. A nation or a race may be judged by its music. A natural feeling for rhythm and harmony is not an attribute of a chaotic or unbalanced mind. It is discord that leads the way to senseless vandalism and causeless rebellion.

In behalf of the Filipino it must be said that he is a natural musician. Even the savage head-hunters, in their peculiar tribal dances, manifest a remarkable feeling for rhythm. There is none of the Indian's wild noise and broken time in their beating of brass tomtome and their somewhat monotonous singing. They possess the musical instinct that, with time and training, may be developed into just what the members of the two Philippine bands already possess.

The Scout band is an exceptionally good military band, such as we have heard before. The Constabulary band is in a class by itself. It is not to be compared with any of the other exposition bands. Its concerts are held daily in the large bandstand in the Philippine plaza, and those who have heard one concert will gladly forsake the most interesting exhibit and walk the entire distance from the heart of the grounds to the reservation in order to hear another.

The men who compose the constabulary and who have done so much to promote law and order in the islands are to be distinguished from the natives in the regular army by their uniforms. The military Filipino wears the blue of the American soldier. The members of the civil police force wear the khaki. It is these little men in yellow attire who have come to the World's Fair to show Americans what we, as a nation, have really acquired as an accidental result of Admiral Dewey's spectacular victory.

The members of the Constabulary band were all finished musicians before Lieut. Loving, their leader, took them in hand. Each one was an artist in his own line, and all of them had seen service in the military bands of the Spanish regime. However, there was a tremendous task for the bandmaster. The men possessed execution without idea. They could read notes faultlessly, and could keep perfect time; but that is only a small part of concerted playing.

Naturally quick to catch new ideas, they soon grasped the meaning of the "attack," on which the effect of a band's work so largely depends. Then they learned all the mysteries of shading, from the most delicate tone to the most powerful crescendo, and it is in this that their playing is so marvelous. Even the tender, sympathetic passages of a selection the tone is subdued to the most exquisite murmur, from which it rises, without a crash and without a blare, sweeping majestically upward and onward, until the enraptured listener is engulfed in a mighty billow of sound. Nothing could be more inspiring than the burst of melody in such a climax as that which occurs in the sextette of Lucia, and no band ever handled its climaxes better.

In the most powerful tone, there is not the slightest suggestion of brassiness. It is all liquid music. This is due almost wholly to the instrumentation, which is absolutely faultless. More than half the instruments are reeds, and instead of the large number of saxaphones, the instrumentation includes four sarrusaphones and two sousaphones. Moreover, the clarinets are not used merely for accompaniment, but actually carry the second voice.

The music produced is not simply that of a brass band, but is varied for effect to resemble strings, human voices and even the pipe organ. Among the players there are several excellent violinists, and the personnel of the band is sometimes rearranged into an orchestra of 40 men and also into a guitar glee club.

The leader, Lieut. Loving, is a native of St. Paul, and a graduate of the New England conservatory of music. To his genius and devotion much of the success of the Constabulary band is due.

Would that every American citizen might listen to one of his matchless programmes, drink in all the harmony and all the splendor of the best band in the United States, yes, and stay to the close. The close is the most impressive part of the concert. No one could listen to the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by that band of Filipinos, the pavilion surrounded by other Filipinos, their hats over their hearts and their heads bowed, and doubt that they are loyally American.

BANANA A PROMINENT FOOD

Long Regarded as a Luxury by Natives of Tropics—Bread and Coffee Facts.

Long regarded only as luxury for children or proper food for the dark-skinned natives of the tropics, the banana has advanced to a place of prominence as a great food product. The United States and other great nations having colonies in the tropics have been investigating the food value of the banana and the results obtained are so satisfactory that the nutritious banana is taking its place as a staple food among all civilized nations.

To overcome all objections, the banana has been especially dried and prepared for food by making it into a fine flour out of which bread is made, and other process turns the soft mushy banana into a wholesome coffee.

The St. Louis Exposition is being used by the manufacturers of banana bread and banana coffee to introduce this new food to the world. Now this nutritious bread and coffee are served daily to visitors in the Palace of Agriculture, as one of the many object lessons in food at the World's Fair.

Many Varieties of Potatoes.

Three hundred and fifty varieties of Irish potatoes, big and little, are exhibited in the New York section of the Palace of Agriculture at the World's Fair. The specimens are the result of cross breeding of standard types.

Features in Food and Drink.

The World's Fair is full of new things, new features and interesting experiments in the way of food and drink. Prominent among the new beverages introduced at the Exposition are banana coffee and prune coffee.

At one of the California county exhibits in the Palace of Agriculture the prune coffee is furnished by the county, to teach the public the value of this experiment as a pleasant beverage.

The banana coffee is served in the same building, but at a different exhibit, the purpose being to show the wonderful food value of the banana.

COFFEE DISPLAY EXTENSIVE

South and Central America Exploit Their Great Product—Porto Rico Represented.

The value of the St. Louis Exposition as an advertising institution and school of instruction is fully appreciated by the great coffee growing countries of South and Central America. These countries are showing their coffees to the thousands of World's Fair visitors and creating new demands for the better varieties produced, which now find a market at home or in England and Germany.

The countries claim as great merit for their high grade coffees as is possessed by the famous Mocha and Java, and they seek to give the public an object lesson in the use of coffee. Brazil serves coffee every afternoon to all visitors at the Brazil building, free of charge, in order that they may sample a better grade of Rio.

Porto Rico also has an extensive coffee exhibit, with the hope of promoting a larger trade with its new mother country.

Pygmies Discard Tents for Huts

The Pygmies from Africa at the World's Fair became tired of living in the tent provided for them and have built themselves small huts of saplings, covered with grass and rushes. In order to give the huts the proper dimensions, a novel system of measurement was employed. The corner poles were stuck in the ground and the architect then lay down on his stomach, stretching out both arms to see if the hut would be large enough.

Organ Recitals Daily.

Five regular recitals are now given each day upon the large mechanical organ in the splendid French section of the Palace of Liberal Arts at the World's Fair. The recitals begin at 10:30 and 11:30 o'clock a. m. and at 2:30, 3:30 and five p. m., and consist of selections from well-known operas and other classical and popular music. The space about the organ is always filled with people. In addition to being a very perfect instrument from a musical standpoint, it is elaborately decorated.

LEARNED IN THEIR YOUTH.

Habits of Economy and Carefulness That Are Never Wholly Eradicated.

It is curious what a wonderful hold habits and ideas acquired in early life have on people, even in the middle age, says a writer in the New York Tribune. One would think that the many changes and multitudinous cares and interests that absorb them, would entirely efface any childish memories, especially when, as is often the case, they are quite unimportant, and have no moral or even particularly intelligent meaning or influence.

"You will laugh when I tell you what gives me the most uncomfortable feeling of prodigality and reprehensible waste in the household," said a matron of many years' experience, "and that is when I see the candle ends wasted. I can stand anything better than that. I tell the maids always to put fresh candles in the bedrooms, and to keep the burned ones for kitchen and cellar use, and also for their own candlesticks. When I find, despite all my directions, they often throw away perfectly good ends when they clean the candlesticks, it makes me very cross, and yet, in most things, I am rather easygoing. It all comes from my having lived with an aunt for a few years, who taught me that it was a sinful waste to throw away candle ends."

"I know just how it is," laughed the hearer, "for I feel exactly the same way about rubber bands, the careless way they are snapped off a parcel or roll of papers and thrown aside positively pains me. When I was young, rubber bands were expensive, and I was always told to take care of them, and the impression has remained intact to this day, although now, of course, there is no reason for it."

"I have always noticed," said a younger woman who was present, "how it vexes older people when you cut a string instead of untying it. I suppose that is also the result of tradition. They look upon the former as a waste of good material, while I look upon the latter as a waste of good time."

"It always annoys me to see people take more butter than they are going to use," acknowledged an old woman who was one of the party, "and I know that feeling is entirely due to the nursery rules when I was a little child."

"And only think," added a matron of 53, "what a creature of routine I am. Why, I always end up my prayer at night with 'God bless papa and mamma, and make Anna a good girl,' all going to show that that habit is one of the strongest and most enduring characteristics of our nature."

WAS AN AWKWARD MOMENT

In Which the Invited Guest Was Given Assurance of Being Unwelcome.

The late Samuel M. Jones, the golden rule mayor of Toledo, was once discussing, in a public address, awkward moments, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"The most awkward moment I know of," he said, smiling, "came in the experience of a worthy old Presbyterian minister of Columbus. I have heard this minister describe the moment more than once, and I am sure it must have been very awkward, indeed.

"It seems that the old gentleman dined with a brother clergyman in the country, and after dinner walked in the garden with his host till rather late. The host, finally, asked him to stay all night and he consented.

"They went back to the house together to arrange about the spare chamber and so on, and afterward they took another turn about the garden.

"'Well,' said the host, at last, 'suppose we turn in. Yonder is the hallway. Just go in there and hang up your hat and wait for me. I want to speak to the gardener and I'll join you in a minute.'

"So the guest, alone, entered the hall. He groped his way, for it was very dark. By the door stood the wife of his host. She mistook him for her husband in the gloom, and taking up a huge Bible from the table she brought it down across his shoulders with a whack.

"'There,' she said, 'take that for asking that ugly wretch to stay all night.'"

FOR FASHION'S FOLLOWERS

Attractive Bits of Finery That Are Now Taking the Feminine Fancy.

Crash linen petticoats trimmed with cluny are nice for runabout wear.

The pompadour girl now wears a soft, lightweight "rat" of naturally curly hair.

The French nets, both plain and printed, are among the leading novelties of this summer season.

One of the peculiarities of the summer coats is that most of them have their sleeves lined with taffeta, but the other parts of the coat are left unlined.

All black evening frocks are frequently set off with girdles of pompadour ribbon, while dull grays and indifferent blues will get life from touches of orange.

A new tint seen in closely woven silk tissues is called onion brown. This is in the shade of the delicate skin which covers some varieties of the vegetable, and it is usually combined with pure white.

Among evening shoes no style is better liked than the colonial slipper, with its broad, high tongue and toe incrusted with steel. At the base of the tongue, between it and the toe, there is a little square bow which is also beaded.

Fruit Juice.

If nothing else is put up for cold weather, a few jars of fruit juice may be managed. For strawberry juice make a syrup with two quarts of water and four pounds of sugar. Boil to the thread, add two quarts of strawberry juice, and boil for 40 minutes. Bottle and seal while very hot.—N. Y. Post.

OLD WORLD ODDITIES.

A ledger kept in the Irish language was produced at the Roscommon Assizes, in Ireland, and the witness had to go on the bench to translate the terms for the judge.

An attempt is being made in Vienna, Austria, to persuade servants to pay 20 cents a month toward an old-age insurance; but after three years of work the sum needed to start the enterprise has not been secured.

In the Rhodesian Government Gazette is published a proclamation prohibiting the practice of sorcery throughout the territory, including the throwing of bones, the use of charms, any manner of conjuration and trial by ordeal.

British army reform proceeds apace. The newest regulations forbid a soldier to wear his cap on the back of his head, even when he is on furlough, to carry cigarettes behind his ears, to put his hands in his pockets or to go without his waist-belt.

Two Mohammedan criminals at Olmutz were in consternation the other day on hearing that, like all other prisoners, they would have to have their mustaches shaved off. They pleaded that that would be an indelible disgrace, and that their wives would leave them. They were finally allowed to keep them.

While S. F. Cody, the inventor of man-lifting kites, was practicing the other day with a flight of kites at the Crystal palace, Sydenham, lightning struck the topmost kite and, passing down the cable, fused it near the ground and released the kites. Fortunately they had no human burden at the time.

War is once more being waged in England on ivy and on elder bushes near cathedrals and other fine buildings. The ivy is accused of being a "destructive boa-constrictor weed," while the elder is condemned because its roots have a naughty habit of forcing themselves into masonry chinks.

PLANTS AND ANIMALS.

Cultivated strawberries have twice as large a percentage of sugar as the wild berries.

The seeds of the Para rubber tree yield an oil which has properties similar to those of linseed oil.

Reptiles seek the light, but independently of heat. In winter they often leave comfortable and warm retreats to seek the sunlight.

In captivity elephants always stand up when they sleep, but when in the jungle, in their own land and home, the lie down. The reason given for the difference between the elephant in captivity and in freedom is that the animal never acquires complete confidence in his keepers, and always longs for liberty.

The monkey lives in the forests of nine-tenths of Africa, from the mountains of the Atlas ranges in the north of the Orange river of the south; and is also seen in great numbers and variety throughout India, Bruma and Cochin China, the islands of the Indian archipelago and parts of southern China and Japan. Strange to say, he draws the line at New Guinea and the neighboring tropical coasts of northern Australia, where he is conspicuous for his absence, though the conditions there seem to be favorable for his prosperity.

FEMININE FANCIES.

One black taffeta gown with two bodices is a saving investment.

Stoles of shirred chiffon in light and dark colorings have replaced the boa.

Underelseeves have taken a pretty strong hold, and few really dress-up frocks are seen without some species of the coquetry.

Pale gray suede shoes embroidered in steel and ornamented with either a silver or steel buckle are much in demand.

Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic

Paxtine is in powder form to dissolve in water — non-poisonous and far superior to liquid antiseptics containing alcohol which irritates inflamed surfaces, and have no cleansing properties. The contents of every box makes more Antiseptic Solution — lasts longer — goes further — has more uses in the family and does more good than any antiseptic preparation you can buy.

The formula of a noted Boston physician, and used with great success as a Vaginal Wash, for Leucorrhœa, Pelvic Catarrh, Nasal Catarrh, Sore Throat, Sore Eyes, Cuts, and all soreness of mucus membrane.

In local treatment of female ills Paxtine is invaluable. Used as a Vaginal Wash we challenge the world to produce its equal for thoroughness. Has a revelation in cleansing and healing power; it kills all germs which cause inflammation and discharges.

All leading druggists keep Paxtine; price, 50c. a box; if yours does not, send to us for it. Don't take a substitute—there is nothing like Paxtine.

FOR JAILER.

We are authorized to announce SAM ADAMS, of Burlington, as a candidate for reelection as Jailer of Boone county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

With the primary election coupled with the Presidential campaign, Boone county ought to be a liveiy piece of territory, politically, this fall.

The candidates will make good use of their time at the fair this week, although at large gatherings of people is a very poor place for electioneering.

The cause of good government in Kentucky got a heavy iolt in the Eleventh district a few days ago, according to the statement of either Hunter or Edwards.

I find nothing better for liver derangement and constipation than Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets,—L. F. Andrews, Des Moines, Iowa. For sale by all Druggists.

Of course Dr. Hunter did not steal the Congressional nomination from Edwards in the Eleventh District. He simply took it away from Edwards after the people had given it to him.

Every politician who visits the east, no matter what is his politics, when he returns home he pretends to be much pleased with the presidential outlook. Somebody does not know how to construe indications it is very evident.

Wm. J. Bryan by a decision of the Connecticut Supreme Court loses out in his suit to secure the $50,000 bequeathed by Philo S. Bennett to Bryan in a sealed letter and held by Bryan until Bennett's death and then presented to his widow.

The fair is a great place for renewing old acquaintances, and many persons who have moved from the county attend it every year, as there, some time during the four days, they are apt to meet the most of their old friends in the county who have been spared.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. J. C. Revill has been ill for several days.

Mrs. Beulah Day, of Covington, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Jackson.

Lennie Eddins and Clifford Hedges visited Big Bone springs, last Sunday.

Mrs. D. E. Castleman's sister, Mrs. Lillard, of Anderson county, is her guest.

Miss Mamie Helms, of Petersburg, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. W. Clark.

A. R. Rouse contemplates recuperating at the seashore for a season after the fair.

Miss Ella Taliaferro, of Erlanger, was the guest of Miss Essie Parish, last week.

Mr. J. W. Duncan was very much indisposed last week, hardly able to get about.

Rev. Slater, of Florence, and his cousin, were among the RECORDER's callers Monday.

W. B. Kelly, of Locust Grove neighborhood, was in town Monday. He is improving slowly.

Mrs. Laura Martin and daughter, Miss Birdie, are home from Lakeland for a few days' visit.

Hade Hodges, of East Bend, was the guest of Charles Birkle and wife, last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Mollie Gullion (nee Campbell) and daughter, of Carrollton, are guests of Mrs. Legrand Gaines.

Attorney John L. Vest, of Independence, was transacting business in Burlington, last Thursday.

Mrs Allphin and son James spent several days last week visiting friends and relatives on Mud Lick.

Johnnie Duncan has returned home from the South. His head quarters is now at Lexington, this State.

William Stephens and Owen Allen, of Petersburg, were transacting business at the court house, last Thursday.

Shelby Cowen, of Rising Sun, came over last week to spend a portion of his vacation with his grandmother and other relatives here.

E. L. Rouse, of Gunpowder, was among the visitors in town last Saturday. He reported the drought still drevailing in his neighborhood.

M. F. Wingate and Elmo Gaines, candidates for Sheriff and Assessor respectively, were in town Monday renewing their acquaintance with the boys.

W. P. Cropper, that affable northender, was in town Friday. It is said that at one time he was seriously considering entering the race for county clerk.

O. P. Conner is located in his new home, having moved his personal effects last Thursday. He is pleasantly located for a long time to come. Mark the prediction.

Bruce Henry, of Franceaville neighborhood, was in town last Thursday. Bruce fell in, indirectly with a candidate before he got his horse hitched, and was relieved of that job.

Sorry we were not home, Sunday, when Bro. Smashey, editor of the Lawrenceburg Press, and his two little sons were in town. They made Mr. F. A. Hall, of the RECORDER, a pleasant call.

Jordon Beall, of Hebron neighborhood, was in town last Friday. Mr. Beall was in poor health for some time but says he is feeling as well as he ever did in his life. He lost 64 pounds of flesh as a result of his illness.

C. H. Acra, who has been in the harness as a correspondent for the RECORDER since a time to which the mind of man runneth not to the contrary, made the office a brief call, one day last week. Like some others near at hand, Charlie begins to show that he has been here quite a spell.

The most enjoyable gathering of the season was that at Leslie Nichols', on Sunday, it being his 22nd birthday, the 28th of August. Those present were Robert Nichols, wife and daughter, Noah Clore and wife, Sam Hensley and wife, Clayborn Campbell, wife and little daughter, Leicester Nichols and wife, representing four generations. The dinner was all that an epicure could wish. The music in the evening, on organ and singing, was delightful.

At one yard this year John Baldon threshed 2 bushels of wheat and one bushel of rye, supposed to be the smallest 1904 wheat and rye crops in the county.

There have been no new developments in the Hathaway gold fields in the last few weeks. It is said that all that is now needed is capital with which to develop them.

B. B. Allphin had a well driven on his Mudlick farm last week, and at the depth of 48 feet a strong vein of Big Bone water was struck, and the well was put down no further, the water being entirely satisfactory to him.

Puts an End to it All.

A grievous wail oftimes comes as a result of unbearable pain from over taxed organs, Dizziness, Backache, Liver complaint and Constipation. But thanks to Dr. King's New Life Pills they put an end to it all. They are gentle but thorough. Try them. Only 25c. Guaranteed by all Druggists.

Mr. Edward Wilson, of Miss Anna Rouse, daughter of Elbert Rouse, both residents of Burlington and Hathaway, were married at 2 p. m., last Sunday, at the residence of James Strouse and wife in Burlington. Rev. M. D. Early officiated.

Uncle Alfred Cason, who lives two miles west of Burlington, has a very large crop of nice peaches, this year. Edgar Berkshire and brothers are also on the market with a large crop. Tanner and Zimmer, Constance fruit dealers are hauling these crops.

Julius Rouse, of Payne's Depot, Scott county, was in town one day last week. He says he has fine prospects for corn, while his 50 acres of tobacco, about one-third of which was in the house, is very fine. He is farming very successfully on a large scale.

The Death Penalty.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant cuts or puny boils, have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best Salve on earth and will prevent fatality, when Burns, Sores, Ulcers and Piles threaten. Only 25c at all Drug Stores.

No Substitute Offered.

Say what you will about druggists offering something "just as good" because it pays a better profit, the fact still stands that ninety-nine out of a hundred druggists recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when the best remedy for diarrhoea is asked for, and do so because they know it is the one remedy that can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. Sold by all Druggists.

A protracted meeting of several days' duration closed at Gunpowder church last Sunday night. Rev. Daniel did the preaching. The attendance was large throughout the meeting. The following persons united with the church and were baptised Sunday afternoon in the presence of a large congregation: Mr. and Mrs. Lute Tanner, Mrs. Willis Delph, Misses Mamie, Anna and Ada McMullen, James Baily, Jas. Beemon, Mrs. Jeptha Tanner. Mrs. Borders, who joined some time since, was baptized also.

Grangers Field Day.

The Patrons of Husbandry of this county have set apart Saturday, September 10th, as a Field Day, and the Harvest Home Grounds, near Limaburg is the place where the ceremonies of the occasion will be observed. Hons. Aaron Jones, Master of the National Grange, and John Bigg, Lecturer of the Ohio State Grange, will be among the orators of the day. This will be distinctively a farmers' gathering, and will be made both entertaining and profitable to both old and young who attend. Good music and a basket dinner are among the features of the day, and everybody is invited and will be most cordially welcomed.

BASE BALL.

The Boones and the Grays played their long-talked of game last Saturday afternoon, the score resulting 16 to 1 in favor of the Boones. The Grays put up fine ball for about three innings, when their first error, an overthrow to first base, seemed to put them out of the game to get back no more.

Hits—Boones 14; Grays 5.

Struck Out—Boones 2; Grays 6.

Singles—Clore, Jackson, Smith, Kirk, Passons, Slayback 2, Clutterbuck, Houston, 3, Hughes 4, Kirk, Luck, Kirk, 2. Hughes made a tremendous batting record. He was at the bat five times and made a single, a double, a three bagger and a home run. Houston and Ernst and Sheberly and Pitton were the batteries.

The Boones and the Erlanger ball teams will play two games at Burlington next Monday—10:30 and 2:30 p. m.

Mrs. Harriet Norris Marshall wife of Arthur P. Marshall, Esq., died at her home in this city Tuesday morning Aug. 22nd, 1904, aged 85 years. Mrs. Marshall was born in Boone County Ky., was the daughter of Col. John Norris, one of the pioneer settlers of that county. She was for many years an esteemed member of the First Baptist church of Aurora. As a wife, mother and member of the church, she was faithful and greatly beloved. She leaves to survive her, her husband A. P. Marshall, one son, Hubert J. Marshall and two grandchildren, and three sisters, Mrs. William Appleton, Mrs. L. N. Bush and Mrs. Marcus Collins. Her funeral took place Wednesday from her late residence Rev. S. E. Davies, conducting the services.—Aurora Bulletin.

Mrs. Marshall and husband, were for many years, citizens, of what is now known as Waterloo neighborhood.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terrors since Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy in all cases of bowel complaint in children has made it a favorite wherever its value has become known. For sale by all Druggists.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local application, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

At The Fair.

One Judge again this year.

All roads lead to the fair this week.

The poultry show will be larger than usual this year.

Otto Crisler is the "come-back" man again this year.

Burlington is represented in all the refreshment stands but one.

A big show of fine horses always bring out the people in Kentucky.

A strenuous effort will be made to keep the dust down at all times.

Fred Utz will mark up the premiums on the score board again this year.

The same force of money changers will be encountered at the gates again this year.

Neither of the big premiums are liable to be captured by Boone county horses.

Friday and Saturday are expected to break the record in the matter of attendance.

It would not be a fair if James Clore was not there as the chief refreshment dispenser.

The refreshment stands want dry, hot weather, while other people desire quite the contrary.

B. F. McGlasson will wear the presidential badge again, it being his ninth consecutive year.

Sheriff Allphin will have charge of the force of police, and good order for the four days is assured.

The merry-go-round arrived a week before the fair so that the hobby horses would get use to the grounds.

Of all the directors none are as popular with the ladies as J. O. Griffith, hence he is given charge of Floral Hall year after year.

The premium list of the Boone Fair is larger than any of the country fairs, and the accommodations for patrons and stock is equal to any.

The plank floor in Floral Hall will add much to the comfort of the exhibitors. Heretofore the dust has been very annoying to lady exhibitors.

Alvin Perry, secretary, and A. B. Rouse, treasurer, with their assistants, Scott Chambers and N. E. Riddell, will be found at their old posts.

The grounds presented an inviting appearance Wednesday morning, but when the fair closes next Saturday they will be in a dilapidated condition.

J. H. Tanner will officiate as Ringmaster again this year, while Chas. Waller and Geo. Barlow will again appear in the role of Stock Marshal and Stall Agent, respectively.

Vice-President Blankenbeker takes great interest in the show at the stock pens as well as elsewhere, while directors Riley, Percival and Walton vibrate between Floral Hall and the ring.

Several fine horses from up the country are on the grounds and several others will arrive to day and to morrow. This week's will be the greatest horse show ever witnessed in Northen Kentucky.

There is enough rock in sight on Woolper creek to build 100 miles of good turnpike.

Geo. Craig, who was found dead in East Bend, one day last week, is supposed to have committed suicide.

Mrs. Martha Gaines, wife of Hon. Joseph A. Gaines, died at 4 o'clock a. m., Tuesday, in her 81st year. Funeral tomorrow, Thursday, at 11 o'clock. Besides her aged consort, Mrs. Gaines leaves two sons, O. W. Gaines, of Bullitteville, this county, and Atty. A. W. Gaines, of Chattanooga, Tennessee, and Mrs. George Kreyleich, who was living with her father and mother. Mrs. Gaines was a member of the Baptist church, and her long life was that of a christian lady.

A Call for a Primary Election.

Pursuant to a call of J. L. Frazier, chairman of the Boone County Democratic Committee, the Committee met in Union, Kentucky, Saturday, August 20th, 1904 at 2 o'clock p. m., present and presiding,

J. L. Frazier, Union;
J. W. Berkshire, Petersburg;
Jeff Eddins, Burlington;
Dr. B. A. Dulaney, Florence;
J. H. Rogers, Walton;
C. H. Acra, by proxy, Bellevue;
C. W. Riley by proxy Bullittsville.

The following resolutions were offered and adopted:

First.—That a primary election be held in the various precincts in Boone County, Kentucky, on Tuesday, November, 8th, 1904, between the hours of 6 o'clock p. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., standard time, for the purpose of nominating candidates for the county offices, to-wit:—Representative, County Judge, County Clerk, County Attorney, Sheriff, Jailer, Coroner, Superintendent of Public Schools, Surveyor, Assessor, Magistrates and Constables in districts Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, to be voted for at the regular November election, 1905.

QUALIFICATIONS.

Second.—That all known Democrats and all legal voters who will support or who have voted for the nominees of the regular November election, 1904, and the nominees of this primary, and all Democratic youths who will be legal voters at the regular November election, 1905, shall be entitled to vote in this primary.

Third.—That the members of this committee shall select the election officers for his precinct and said committeeman shall make all the necessary arrangements for holding the primary in his precinct.

Fourth.—That the expenses of said primary shall be paid by the candidates to be voted for in said primary, and the assessment for each office shall be levied by the chairman of this committee in as near proportion as possible to the emoluments of said office.

Fifth.—That the chairman of this committee is appointed a committee with power to select such assistance as he may deem necessary for the purpose of conducting the said primary.

Sixth.—That all candidates shall announce their candidacy and pay to the chairman of this committee on or before the 24th day of October, 1904, his assessment before his name is printed on the ballots, and no announcement of payment of assessment shall be received by the chairman after the 24th day of October, 1904.

Seventh.—That these resolutions be printed in the Boone County Recorder and a sufficiency thereof for the purpose of notice be posted on in conspicous places in the various precincts in the county, as is required by the primary election laws.

J. L. FRAZIER, Chairman.

There Are Other Mixed Spices but they are not Our kind

You can buy the other kind for probably, one-half what we sell at, but then you want Quality—it is not all in the quantity—you should look carefully to what you put in your stomach—your syster assimilates all impurities as well as the pure and in these days of adulterations you are very apt to get impure goods.

We sell the genuine, pure, unadulturated mixed pickling spices at

A PERILOUS RIDE.

Two Ladies and Three Children Drifted 30 Miles in a Heavy Sea.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 26.—After drifting 30 miles in a rowboat in one of the heaviest seas ever known on Green bay, two young ladies and three children landed safely Thursday night at Graceport, eight miles from Sturgeon bay. The members of the party were Gertrude Sawyer, 19, of Menominee, Mich.; Inez Woessner, 17, and two young sons and a daughter of Frederick Baker.

Thursday morning they left Fernwood, a resort about five miles from here, where Mr. Baker has a summer home. They rowed out until they got into the heavy sea when they were unable to return. They were soon lost sight of from the Marinette shore and three tugs and many sailboats were sent out to search for them. They could not be found and it was feared that all had been lost.

The heroine of the adventure was Miss Sawyer, who is a senior in the Menominee high school. She compelled the four others to lie down flat in the boat and then steered it with an oar. They were picked up on the beach by a farmer and taken to Sturgeon bay.

CONSTABULARY AMBUSHED.

Capt. H. Barrett Was Killed in the Fighting.

Manila, Aug. 26.—A detail of constabulary has been ambushed on the Island of Leyte by a superior force of bandits. Capt. H. Barrett, of the constabulary, was killed in the fighting. There has been trouble in the province of Misamis, Island of Mindanao, where bandits have looted several towns. The native authorities were defied and Pablo Mercado and his family were kidnaped. Mercado was accused of being too friendly with the Americans. Three Chinese stores were burned. Four natives were murdered, the rest of them being burned alive. Col. Harbord, of the constabulary, is now on the trail of the bandits. Lieut. Thornton, of the constabulary, has met death by drowning near Dagupin, Island of Luzon.

He Has Been Awarded His Eighth Medal For Discoveries.

Geneva, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Dr. William E. Brooke, director of Smith observatory and professor of astronomy at Hobart college, has just been awarded the prize medal by the astronomical society of the Pacific for his discovery of the latest comet known as the Brookes comet of 1904. This is the eighth medal bestowed upon Dr. Brooke for his astronomical discoveries. Dr. Brooke has now discovered 24 comets, a larger number than any other living astronomer.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

Reported That He Will Be Appointed Governor General of Canada.

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 26.—The report is revived here that the duke of Marlborough may be appointed governor general of Canada. When first mentioned some months ago the report was received with incredulity, but since then it is said developments have occurred which render the appointment more probable. One of them is that the dupke has been training at the colonial office.

SERIES OF ACCIDENTS.

Four Picnickers Killed and Others Injured in a Grove.

Four Children Drowned by the Capsizing of a Boat—Yacht Run Down by a Steamer and Four or Five People Drowned.

Jamestown, N. Y., Aug. 26.—Four persons lost their lives and several others were injured, two of them probably fatally, in a tornado that swept through Chautauqua county on Thursday.

Parkhurst's grove, where the Stockton picnic was being held, was directly in the path of the storm. Five thousand people were on the grounds when a terrific wind storm swept through the place.

The storm came up suddenly. Trees in the grove were struck by lightning, many of them were blown down and the rain fell in torrents. The people who took refuge under the trees at the first sign of the storm were caught by the falling branches and injured.

Many horses were killed in the same manner. Some of the animals stampeded, trampling upon the injured people lying upon the ground.

Some of the buildings in the vicinity were blown down and others were unroofed. Hundreds of forest and fruit trees were torn up and corn and oatfields were laid waste, entailing a loss of thousands of dollars.

At the assembly grounds at Chautauqua many trees were uprooted, and a portion of the fence around the grounds was demolished. The men's club here was badly damaged.

Cleburne, Tex., Aug. 26.—Four children were drowned Thursday evening by the capsizing of a boat in the Brazos river near Acton, Wood county.

The dead: John Franklin, 9; Kitty Franklin, 10; Joe Franklin, 8; B. F. Goodman, 12. There were six boys and girls all told in the boat at the time of the disaster. In going down stream one of the boat's oars struck a snag and the vessel immediately turned over. Two boys, names unknown, swam ashore. The bodies of the victims were recovered.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 26.—The captain of the steamer Ogleby hailed the captain of the barge Marcia in the Detroit river shortly before midnight and reported that the Ogleby had run down a sail yacht containing four or five people off the head of Belle Isle. The vicinity has been carefully searched by launch parties and no trace of the craft can be found.

CHINAMAN DETAINED.

He Represents His Country at the St. Louis World's Fair.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 26.—One of the chief men of China's mercantile world, a commissioner by the emperor of China to represent his country at the St. Louis exposition, was taken from his berth in a sleeping car at Black Rock Thursday and detained for hours in the immigrant pen at that place. He was released and went at once to New York. The commissioner has been at St. Louis for months and recently decided on a flying trip to New York to inspect the docks there. He did not take his passports with him.

DYNAMITE CAPS EXPLODED.

An Attempt to Create a Panic and Rob Bookmakers.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—By the explosion of some dynamite caps, and in the panic that followed it, three persons were injured Thursday afternoon at the Hawthorne race track. It is supposed that the caps were thrown on the floor of the betting ring with the idea of creating a panic, during which the cash boxes of the bookmakers might be robbed. An attempt was made to rob one bookmaker, but it failed.

Cloudbursts and Washouts.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 26.—Cloudbursts and washouts in Tonapah and along the lines of the Tonapah and Carson and Colorado railroads, are the most disastrous in the history of these districts. People at Tonapah and Goldfields are on the verge of starvation. They are being temporarily relieved by the rushing in of supplies via Croon Springs, Silver Peak and Candelaria by wagon [illegible]

Call For a Populist Convention.

Joliet, Ill., Aug. 26.—The national committee of the populist party has issued a call for the Ohio state convention at Columbus, August 31. This makes three state populist conventions on that day, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio.

May Address the Peace Congress.

Boston, Aug. 26.—It was announced Thursday night that Secretary of State John Hay will make an attempt to be present and make at least one address at the International Peace Congress, which opens in this city October 3.

Shot and Killed His Father.

Paris, Tex., Aug. 26.—Thomas Watson, 50, was shot and killed here on Thursday by his 16-year-old son Albert. The father was chastising the boy's sister and the lad took a double barreled shotgun and fired the fatal shot.

THE EFFORT FAILED.

Unsuccessful Attempt to Settle the Chicago Stockyards Strike.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—The conferences of the committee appointed earlier in the week to attempt a settlement of the stockyards strike, with the parties to the dispute resulted in nothing. There is no present prospect that they will result in anything in the future, and the chances of an agreement between the packers and the strikers appear very meager. The strike leaders appeared before the committee Friday morning and stated their side of the case. They did not suggest to the aldermanic committee that it make any overtures to the packers, but simply gave their side of the case.

The representatives of the packers then appeared before the committee and after a session that lasted three hours Mayor Harrison said: "The packers have said just what they said before, that they are running their plants and have nothing to arbitrate, and that there is no reason why they should confer with the men."

"Then it is all off?"

"That is about what it amounts to."

"We heard a review of the entire strike trouble," continued the mayor, "and the packers say that in every community except Chicago and Omaha the strike is practically over, and they claim that with 75 per cent of the men that they employed in Chicago before the strike they are now turning out 92 per cent. of their normal output."

The labor leaders Friday night announced that in all probability the strike would be "settled peaceably" before Wednesday of next week. They declined to explain the cause of their belief, but were positive in their statements that the strike would not be called off. President Donnelly, of the Butchers' union, has called all the members of the butchers' executive board to meet in this city next Wednesday.

DISTURBING THE PEACE.

Four Prominent Young Men Arrested in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—Paul Harper, 15, son of Dr. W. R. Harper, president of the Chicago university, and three friends, Fred Taylor, 17, son of a New York broker, and Fred Gates, 17, and Frank Gates, 15, sons of Frederick G. Gates, business manager for John D. Rockefeller, were arrested at the World's fair Friday on charges of disturbing the peace and destroying property. The Jefferson guards who made the arrests claim that the boys broke down a side door at the Moorish palace on the Pike. The boys declare that they became lost in the mazes of the exhibit and pushed through a door in order to get out.

BLOWN UP BY DYNAMITE.

A Hotel Near Elmira, N. Y., Was Practically Demolished.

Elmira, N. Y., Aug. 27.—The Avenue hotel at Elmira Heights, three miles from here, was practically demolished by dynamite early Saturday morning and the explosion shook the city from center to circumference. The explosive was placed against the hotel under the window of the proprietor, Pearl Scott, who was in his bedroom. A hole ten feet wide was blown through the building, but Scott escaped injury. A stone building in the rear was demolished and windows were shattered in all directions. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

DIED FROM HIS WOUNDS.

Was Accidentally Shot During the Mobbing of Jim Glover.

Cedartown, Ga., Aug. 27.—John Sexton, a young farm laborer, who was shot during the lynching of the Negro Jim Glover here last Monday night, died at his home in East View. The shooting of Sexton occurred during the reckless firing of the mob. Whether Sexton was taking part in the lynching is not known. It is thought, however, that he was standing near the Negro and one of the pistol bullets intended for the Negro struck Sexton.

Fire at the World's Fair.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—A fire caused by the leaking of an engine, broke out in the Manufacturers' building at the World's fair grounds at 2 o'clock Saturday morning in the leather exhibit of Booth & Co., of Gloversville, N. Y., causing a loss estimated at $500. Prompt action by the World's fair fire department confined the damage to this exhibit.

Big World's Fair Attendance.

St. Louis, Aug. 27.—Unprecedented crowds thronged the World's fair grounds this week. Official figures for the first four days show an average daily attendance of over 127,000 and a total attendance of 510,361.

IN THE SECOND ROUND.

Jack Munroe Went Down and Out Before Champion Jeffries.

The Fight Showed That the World Has Yet to Produce a Man Who Will Displace Jeffries as the Champion.

San Francisco, Aug. 27.—Like the veriest amateur in the prize ring, Jack Munroe, of Butte, Mont., went down and out before Champion James J. Jeffries Friday night in the second round. The man from the mining district made such an extremely sorry showing that the great throng in Mechanics Pavilion roundly booted him as he protested to Referee Graney against the decision that had been given in favor of Jeffries.

The two giants had not been in the ring two minutes when it was foreseen that the aspirations of Munroe would be quickly disposed of. The miner was scared and awkward and Jeffries in the first round had him twice on the canvass taking the count.

Jeffries directed his bombardment against the stomach of his opponent and each shot was followed by a blow on the jaw that sent Munroe to his knees. Jeffries went back to his corner after the opening round with a sneer and a laugh on his swarthy face while Munroe's seconds busied themselves with smelling salts and restoratives. When the two came together for the second round the laugh on the champion's visage changed to a look of determination that boded ill to the miner.

Forty-five seconds after the gong sounded Munroe was lying on the floor, a bloody, bruised mass of humanity, with Jeffries standing over him, ready if necessary to put the quietus on the championship ambitions of his adversary. The miner was too dazed to rise to his feet and the time-keepers counted him out, but the husky man from Southern California did not understand that the victory was already his, nor did Munroe realize that his pugilistic star had so early set, and the two men, in a moment or two, facing one another and Jeffries landed a terrific blow on the jaw of his staggering opponent. It was this time that Graney came forward and ordered Jeffries away, telling him that the fight was ended in his favor.

Munroe tottered to his corner with blood streaming from his face and fell into his chair dazed and helpless. His seconds immediately began working on him to freshen him and when he came to a realization that the fight had gone against him he arose and, going over to Referee Graney, began to protest. The huge crowd understood that from his protesting gesticulations, etc., the purport of his talk to Graney, and a mighty volume of jeering and hissing evidenced the sentiment of the spectators, many of whom had placed money on the miner that he would stay at least double the number of rounds before the champion. From the time the bell rang for the commencement of the battle to the time that the count of ten had been uttered against Munroe, only four minutes and 45 seconds had elapsed. The fight demonstrated, if nothing else, that the world has yet to produce a pugilist who will displace James J. Jeffries as champion of the world.

A great throng witnessed the contest. Estimates of the number in attendance range from 7,000 to 8,000, and it is believed that the gate receipts will approximate $35,000.

The miner's showing was a disappointment to those who had the confidence that he would at least repeat in some degree his performance in Butte, when Jeffries failed to put him out in four rounds. In the first few moments of the opening round he made some show of aggressiveness, but that he was thoroughly scared was evident from the manner in which he broke ground and awkwardly endeavored to guard himself when Jeffries advanced toward him.

Jeffries did not extend himself at any time of the short contest, nor did he deliver a blow that required the full strength of his powerful arm. The shots that sent the miner down were of the short arm variety that found easy lodgment on the jaw of the man from Butte, but there must have been terrific impact behind them which was shown by the way the 200 pounds of flesh went down with a thud on the canvass.

COULDN'T LIFT THE POUNDS.

Doan's Kidney Pills Brought Strength and Health to the Sufferer, Making Him Feel Twenty-Five Years Younger.

J. B. CORTON.

J. B. Corton, farmer and lumberman, of Deppe, N. C., says: "I suffered for years with my back. It was so bad that I could not walk any distance nor even ride in an easy buggy. I do not believe I could have raised ten pounds of weight from the ground, the pain was so severe. This was my condition when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly relieved me and now I am never troubled as I was. My back is strong and I can walk or ride a long distance and feel just as strong as I did twenty-five years ago. I think so much of Doan's Kidney Pills that I have given a supply of the remedy to some of my neighbors and they have also found good results. If you can sift anything from this rambling note that will be of any service to you, or to anyone suffering from kidney trouble, you are at liberty to do so."

Hypnotizing Rabbits.

An American physician, who has been accustomed to experiment with rabbits, generally found that chloroform killed them before he had a chance to operate. Disgusted at the wastefulness of this method, he tried hypnotism on one rabbit that he had left and found, to his surprise, that with a few passes of the hands he could easily hypnotize the little creature so perfectly that it lost all capacity for movement or sensation. If rabbits can be hypnotized, it will seem perhaps a little less incredible that some diseases of horses may yield to mental treatment. —London Tit-Bits.

The Durian.

The durian is a fruit of malodorous fame which is found in the islands of the East Indies. It is of a round or oval shape, green and prickly on the outside, but having a soft, cream-colored pulp of a delightful taste. Were it not for the disagreeable odor it would probably become one of the most popular fruits, but so strong and lasting is the nauseating smell that should one take even a taste of durian he would be unable to mingle with society for some time after.

Japanese Rocket.

A manufacturer of pyrotechnics in Nagasaki, Japan, makes a rocket, from which, when it explodes in the air, there flies away a large bird which resembles a homing bird in its movements. It is said that the secret of this wonderful production has been in the possession of the eldest child of the family for more than 400 years.

Evidently Needed Teaching.

The vacation schools and the warm weather brought an obnoxiously odoriferous youngster to teacher, who sent her home to be washed.

On the returning, less aromatic, said the youngster to teacher:

"Me mudder wants to know if I come her to git teached or git smelled."—N. Y. Sun.

Where the Conflict Rages.

"You weren't always such an early riser."

"No," answered Mr. Bliggins. "But out where I live now you've got to get up early to wake other people with the lawn mower instead of being disturbed yourself."—Washington Star.

LEARNING THINGS

We Are All in the Apprentice Class.

When a simple change of diet brings back health and happiness the story is briefly told. A lady of Springfield, Ill., says: "After being afflicted for years with nervousness and heart trouble, I received a shock four years ago that left me in such a condition that my life was despaired of. I could get no relief from doctors nor from the numberless heart and nerve medicines I tried because I didn't know that the coffee was daily putting me back more than the Drs. could put me ahead.

"Finally at the request of a friend I left off coffee and began the use of Postum and against my convictions I gradually improved in health until for the past 6 or 8 months I have been entirely free from nervousness and those terrible sinking, weakening spells of heart trouble.

"My troubles all came from the use of coffee which I drunk from childhood and yet they disappeared when I quit coffee and took up the use of Postum." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Many people marvel at the effects of leaving off coffee and drinking Postum but there is nothing marvelous about it—only common sense.

THREE DAYS' BATTLE.

Kuropatkin Compelled to Draw in His Advanced Position.

General Disappointment is Expressed By the Newspaper Corresponden ts at the Withdrawal of the Russian Troops.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 29.—All the news from Liao Yang, official or otherwise, shows that Gen. Kurbpatkin is gradually drawing in his advanced positions to the inner ring of his defenses.

After three days of heavy fighting, the latter part of which was impeded by rain, the Russians were compelled to disable six guns, which it was impossible to take from the high positions, over the muddy roads, but during the fighting on the southern front they captured some Japanese guns. It is reported also that they destroyed some Japanese mountain batteries.

Gen. Kuropatkin has not yet disclosed whether he intends to make a decisive fight at Liao Yang.

General disappointment is expressed by the newspaper correspondents at the withdrawal now in progress. The statement that the reserves were not called upon to hold some of the positions which were abandoned seems to show that there is a strong force at Liao Yang which is not yet being utilized.

A Russian correspondent, in describing the two days' fight of August 25 and 26, says:

"The fight developed not only the immense strength of the Japanese artillery, but involved several hand-to-hand fights and bayonet charges.

"The first movement was made by Gen. Nodzu from Erdah on the morning of August 25 with about a division and a half. The Japanese concentrated the fire of nearly six guns on the Lain Dian Sian position. Among these guns were mountain batteries and heavier cannon, the latter including four Howitzers. The Cossack's checked the first attempt of the Japanese infantry to advance in the direction of Tounsinpu. Gen. Kuroki then joined in the attack and led a general assault, pressing heavily on the center of the left flank, while at the same time attempting to turn the extreme left. The advance began at 10 p. m. on August 25 the Japanese following their usual custom of trying to force in the night a position which had proved impregnable during the day. The rifle fire gradually increased until midnight, when the principal attack was made on our left. The Japanese came up in solid masses, throwing themselves against our position with wild shouts of 'Banzai.' Every attack was rolled back with tremendous loss. At one place the Japanese line broke and fled in panic, leaving the dead in heaps. We followed with bayonet up to the next line of intrenchments and then there was a lull until 4 o'clock in the morning, when reinforcements joined the attackers. The Japanese again advanced slowly and stubbornly, covered by a hail of artillery fire. We remained in our positions until 1 p. m., and then retired without even bringing up the reserves. We fell back from Anpilan Bass, Mayolin, Sisolindzy, Tsegow and Chilipui to the next position, as had been arranged beforehand. Our losses were about 1,500. The Japanese losses are not known, but they were heavy."

London, Aug. 29.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Kobe, in a dispatch dated Saturday last, says: "Following is the position of Port Arthur:

"The Japanese have captured all the outlying fortifications but the Russians still hold the citadel on Antsehan, Golden hill forts and the forts on Tiger's Tail and Liaoti mountain. The Japanese are in possession of the parade grounds and barracks under the Antsehan fort on the outskirts.

"The fall of Port Arthur is believed to be imminent. It is believed that the garrison will make a desperate sortie before the end comes."

Will Wed a Marquis.

Paris, Aug. 29.—The reported engagement of Martina Potter Jones, daughter of J. D. Jones, the wealthy Washington man, to Marquis de Jaeta, is arousing great interest in Florence. The marquis is a member of the oldest noble house in Sicily.

Priest Barricaded in His House.

Pittsburg, Aug. 29.—The priest of St. Nicholas Croatin church, Alleghany, is barricaded in his house under the belief that an attempt to kidnap him will be made. The situation is the culmination of several months of trouble in the church.

Nine Bodies Recovered.

Antwerp, Aug. 29.—The fire in the oil tanks near here continued Sunday, but it is now practically ended. Nine bodies have been recovered and several are still missing. The loss is estimated at 10,000,000 gallons and the damage nearly $3,500,000.

Falling Off in Shipment of Tea.

New York, Aug. 29.—The importers here say importations from America this year will probably be 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 pounds less than the preceding 12 months. The experts say this falling off is only indirectly due to the war between Japan and Russia.

Destitute of Smokeless Powder.

London, Aug. 29.—The Tokio correspondent of the Standard says: Unofficial reports state that since the explosion of their magazines at the foot of Liaoti hill, the Russians appear to be destitute of smokeless powder.

THREE TRAGEDIES.

A Double Murder and Two Suicides at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Aug. 28.—Mrs. Amanda Harter, aged 38, and James Leonard Druein, aged 29, were found dead in their flat in The Normandie, on Race street, Sunday, under circumstances that indicate murder and suicide. With them lived Fannie Harter, aged 14, the niece and foster daughter of the woman. Mrs. Harter came here originally from Macon, Ga. Her husband was in business here, but left her, charging her with infidelity. The girl is held as a witness but claims to know nothing about the double crime. It is reported that she and her foster mother were jealous of each other on account of Druein, who came originally from Lebanon, Ky., and while employed at the post office here rented a room of Mrs Harter. While the police will not state that the girl is held on auspicion, there is a report that she may be involved. The theory most credited is that Mrs. Harter, in a jealous fit, gave the girl a beating, that Druein interfered, strangled Mrs. Harter to death, and afterward cut her head into pieces with a hatchet. After he had cut Mrs. Harter's body in a horrible manner, it is claimed that he wanted the girl to escape with him. When she refused to go he killed himself by shooting.

One theory is that he thought he would be caught if he remained with the girl, and that he did not want to leave her. Letters were found showing that he had been intimate with Mrs. Harter, and afterward became infatuated with the young girl. The girl openly mourns his loss, but has nothing to say of her foster mother.

The girl would make no statement until Sunday night, when she said she was sleeping Saturday night with her foster mother when Druein carried her to his rooms, locked her in and killed Mrs. Harter. Then he unlocked his room and asked her to go with him. When she refused he begged her to commit suicide with him, and "threatened her life, but finally did her goodbye and shot himself.

The body of Conrad Ringle was found in Finley Methodist church Sunday when the janitor was opening the place for the morning Sunday-school. It developed that he remained after the Wednesday night prayer meeting and took carbolic acid with suicidal intent. The empty bottle was found by his side.

Margaret Claybourn Story, who claimed to have been an actress, died at the city hospital Sunday from poison self-administered. She also claimed relatives of prominence at Louisville and Lexington, Ky.

Macon, Ga., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Amanda Harter is the wife of F. H. Harter, of Macon, a well known decorator, who has lived in Macon three years. He intended to join his family this fall. When seen Sunday he was unable to account for the affair, saying his domestic relations had always been pleasant. Mrs. Harter and daughter had never visited here.

BATTLESHIP LOUISIANA.

Most Powerful Vessel in the American Navy Launched at Newport News.

Newport News, Aug. 29.—Miss Juanita La Londe, a member of a most distinguished Creole family of New Orleans, crashed a bottle of native wine on the prow of the Louisiana Saturday, and amid a storm of cheering, shrieking whistles and the music of a band, the great battleship, the most powerful fighting vessel in the American navy, glided easily from the dry dock of the Newport News Shipbuilding Dry Dock Co.

A special train bore Gov. W. W. Heard, Lieut. Gov. Sanders, Miss La Lande and a party of prominent Louisianans to Newport News. Gov. A. J. Montague and his staff, Rr. Adm. Harrington, a delegation of naval officers from Washington and a party of officers from Ft. Monroe met the guests.

SEATTLE-SITKA CABLE.

The Final Splicing Was Made Ten Miles Out of Seattle Sunday.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—The final splicing of the Seattle-Sitka government cable was made Sunday in the harbor ten miles out of Seattle. The cable touches at Sitka, Juneau and Skagway. From the latter point a telegraph line leads over White Pass and at Tagish joins the Canadian government line returning to the boundary. From the boundary the government has a line to St. Michaels and the government wireless connects St. Michaels and Nome.

David B. Hill to Retire From Politics.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29.—David B. Hill Sunday announced that he intends to retire from politics January 1, next, and that no matter what the result of the coming campaign may be, he will relinquish the leadership of the democratic party in New York.

The Archbishop of Canterbury.

Quebec, Aug. 29.—The archbishop of Canterbury, accompanied by his wife, Rev. Mr. Holden, domestic chaplain, Rev. Mr. Alford, vicar of Windsor, and J. Stewart Murray, of New York, arrived here early Sunday.

THE SPEED CONTEST.

Barney Oldfield Lost Control of His Automobile.

Two Men Were Killed and Oldfield Painfully Hurt—The Machine Went Through a Fence and Was Completely Demolished.

St. Louis, Aug. 29.—Blinded by the dust thrown by the swiftly moving machine of A. C. Webb, of Toledo, O., Barney Oldfield, of Cleveland, O., lost control of his machine in a false start of the fifth event of the World's fair automobile speed contests Sunday and crashing through the outer fence of the course, instantly killed John Scott, a watchman employed at the park, and inflicted injuries upon Nathan Montgomery, a Negro, from which he died a few hours later. Oldfield was painfully injured and his machine completely demolished.

The accident occurred after a false start. The flagman vainly attempted to signal Oldfield and Webb, who were leading, that the start was not allowed, but they did not see his flag and continued around the course at a high rate of speed.

Shortly after passing the first turn of the mile track Webb secured the lead by a narrow margin and the men were in a relatively same position when passing the three-quarter pole. In making the turn, Webb's machine skidded and raised a blinding cloud of dust that completely blinded Oldfield and half smothered him.

Not being able to see that he had completed the turn, Oldfield continued his course and crashed through the fence.

When Oldfield failed to appear after Webb had emerged from the dust cloud there was considerable excitement, but as it was announced that he was not seriously injured and shortly afterward he was driven to the clubhouse in an automobile it was not generally known that the accident had resulted fatally.

The race, after a short delay, was run, being won by Webb by a large margin. It was the most important event of the day, the prize being the Louisiana Purchase exposition trophy valued at $500.

After the races Barney Oldfield said: "This race is my last. I am through with the game, as fas as racing is concerned. I may take part in exhibitions, but no more contests for me."

This is the second serious accident that Barney Oldfield has figured in. At Grosse Pointe, Detroit, a few years ago, his car left the course, killing a man. Oldfield had three of his ribs broken.

ILLICIT SALOONS WRECKED.

Wives of Prominent Business Men of Cuba, Kan., Did It.

Cuba, Kan., Aug. 29.—Four illicit saloons were wrecked by women here and much liquor destroyed. Mrs. E. O. Fites and Mrs. William McDonald, wives of prominent business men, armed with hatchets, first entered without warning the place run by Ben Hull. Without ceremony they began to smash everything in sight, and soon they had demolished bar and fixtures, and broken every bottle and opened every keg to be found. Later they were joined by 25 other women, and the entire party raided the other three places in Cuba. The stocks and fixtures at each were destroyed in prompt order. Finally the women spilled into the street a great quantity of keg beer that had been confiscated and stored at the city jail.

HOTEL KEY FOUND.

Attached Was a Card Saying, "Good-Bye World, Water Won't Tell, 882."

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Aug. 29.—A key has been found in the park near the American falls with a card attached on which was written, "Good-bye world, water won't tell, 882." The police learned that the key belonged to the Prospect house. It fitted the door of a room engaged by L. M. Halery, of Charleston, W. Va. Halery, who came here two weeks ago, mysteriously disappeared, leaving his baggage behind him. The authorities think he committed suicide.

Caused the Woman's Death.

Chicago, Aug. 29.—Excitement attending the quick accumulation of wealth and its sudden loss through speculation on the open board of trade is said to have been the cause of the death of Miss Marguerite Relly, who killed herself in Harlem a few days ago.

Vast Forests Ablaze.

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 29.—Forest fires are raging in British Columbia more furiously than ever. It is estimated that $60,000,000 worth of timber is burning, a loss in royalties to the province of over $500,000. At Point Grey seven miles of fires are now burning.

Man Afflicted With Leprosy.

LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 29.—Matthew Nuhraski, a furnace man employed in the Illinois Zinc Co.'s plant in Peru, was found to be suffering from pronounced leprosy by a commission consisting of all the physicians in LaSalle and some county officials.

Philippine Commerce.

Washington, Aug. 29.—During the nine months ended March last the total commerce of the Philippine Islands shows an increased value of more than a million dollars according to a statement given out Sunday.

FOR MOVING THE CROPS.

The Shipment of Currency Has Begun Rather Vigorously.

Washington, Aug. 27.—"The shipment of currency for moving the crops has begun rather vigorously," said Treasurer Roberts Friday afternoon. "We have sent already this week to New Orleans against deposits in New York $521,000 and to Chicago against deposits in New York $1,500,000. In comparison with last year it will be seen that the New Orleans movement is much above the same and that the Chicago movement much more active. The total payments in Chicago last year from January to September 1, against deposits in New York, were $1,200,000. We have already sent in that period this year, including this week's movement, $1,800,000 and it is possible that more may go between now and the 31st of August. There has been a total to New Orleans since January 1 of $4,011,000. The amount last year for the period up to the close of August was $4,119,000."

THE TURBINA.

Board of Naval Engineers Experts Completed An Examination of It.

Washington, Aug. 27.—A board of naval engineering experts has just completed a thorough examination of the Turbina, one of the latest developments in the use of the steam turbine as applied to vessels. The results of the inspection will be made known in detail in a report on the whole subject of turbine power which the board will prepare, but meanwhile it may be stated that the performance of the turbine was regarded as highly satisfactory. There was a complete absence of vibration, a most important consideration in gun pointing and in the comfort of the crew. Furthermore, almost no repairs are necessary to the engines, there being no friction except in a few bearings. There is no pounding and thudding of engines, nothing but a soft rush of steam through the pipes, so that noise is suppressed, another valuable consideration in naval combats.

OCEAN METEROLOGY.

The Control of it Transferred to the Weather Bureau.

Washington, Aug. 27.—By the transfer as recommended by the government wireless telegraph board of the control of ocean meterology through wireless teregraphy from the hydrographic office of the navy to the weather bureau, announcement of which was made Friday, it is expected to secure a more thorough forecast relating to storms approaching from the seas.

In commenting on the transfer Prof. Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau, said the result would be an uninterrupted wireless communication with all classes of vessels, whether merchant marine or battleships, when within 500 miles of either the Pacific or the Atlantic coasts."

A CARNEGIE MEDAL.

Miss Gertrude Sawyer May Wear One For Her Bravery.

Marinette, Wis., Aug. 27.—Miss Gertrude Sawyer may wear a Carnegie medal for her bravery in piloting her party of children across Green bay in rowboat on Thursday during a heavy sea, when the waves were 29 and 30 feet high, and all steamers remained in port. It was her courage and nerve that saved the lives of the entire party, as she remained at the oars until her hands were raw, taking charge of the boat and keeping up the spirit of all by assuming a light heartedness she did not feel. Her friends will send a full account of her exploit to the trustee of the Carnegie fund and ask that she be granted the highest honor.

ALLEGED BANK ROBBERS.

Six of Them Were Captured By Officers at Lacrosse, Wis.

Lacrosse, Wis., Aug. 27.—Armed with Winchesters, a party of city officers captured six supposed bank robbers Friday camped on the banks of the Wisconsin river. Upon them were found all sorts of burglar tools and a safeblowing outfit. They gave their names as follows: Joseph Sheldon, James Smith, William Murphy, John Morgan, Fred Kingley, Frank King. The police believe the gang is the most desperate captured here for years.

Urges a Massacre of Christians.

London, Aug. 27.—A Tien-Tsin correspondent says placards have been discovered at Tsinanfu, province of Shantung, urging the massacre of "Foreign devils after the seventh moon" and that the native Christians are fleeing.

A Violent Earthquake.

Mexico City, Aug. 27.—A violent earthquake is reported from San Martin in the state of Oaxaca. The shock was accompanied by deafening subterranean rumblings. There was great alarm for a time, but no serious damage was done.

At Johannesburg.

Johannesburg, Aug. 27.—Rr. Adm. Chadwick and other officers of the United States South Atlantic squadron arrived here Friday as the guests of Lord Milner, British high commissioner for South Africa. A banquet was given the officers.

Disarming Russian Warships.

Shanghai, Aug. 27.—The work of disarming the Russian warships Askold and Gromvoi will begin on Monday. The Japanese declare that there will not be a repetition of the Eyeshiteini incident at Che Foo.

STATE NEWS HAPPENINGS.

SURRENDERS TO THE SHERIFF.

He Was Indicted For Murder Several Years Ago.

Winchester, Ky., Aug. 27.—Moses Feltner, under indictment for killing Jessie Fields in Breathitt county some years ago, arrived here Friday evening and surrendered to Sheriff McCord. He gave bond and was released.

When the indictment was found Feltner employed the late J. B. Marcum to defend him, and gave bond in the sum of $5,000 for his appearance, but owing to Marcum's enforced absence from Breathitt county, he did not return for trial and his bond was forfeited. A reward of $500 was offered for his apprehension, but not until Friday did his whereabouts become known.

Shortly before Marcum was assassinated in Jackson, Feltner published an affidavit to the effect that he, with others, had been employed by certain men in Breathitt county to kill Marcum. Feltner will be a witness for the plaintiff in the suit of Mrs. J. B. Marcum against Judge James Hargis, Alex Hargis, F. F. French and Ed Callahan for $100,000 damages for alleged conspiracy to kill her husband, which is set for hearing at the September term of the Clark circuit court. Feltner declines to make a statement, only saying that he has been out west.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

Kentucky Feudist Killed and Four Men Are Held For Murder.

Owingsville, Ky., Aug. 26.—A telegram Thursday states that in the mountains of Wayne county Levi Wooldridge was shot to death from ambush on his way home. The assassins were concealed in a thick grove near the road, and there are evidences that they waited several hours for their victim to pass. Wooldridge was shot with a Winchester rifle. The ball passed entirely through his head from the rear. The body was found a few minutes later by a man whose attention was attracted by the report of a gun. Wooldridge's team ran almost a mile before they were stopped.

Al and Marshall Brummett, Virgil and Marshall Hall and Alvin Bean have been arrested, charged with the murder. Wooldridge, it is said, had long been identified with mountain feud troubles.

His Death Was Natural.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25.—The remains of Charles J. McGovern, ex-policeman, who died suddenly at the hospital here, have been claimed by his sister, Mrs. John Feltus, for burial in Cincinnati. The reports that he was poisoned are rejected by the police, and the coroner's autopsy shows that acute nephritis was the cause of death.

Held to the Grand Jury.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 26.—Before the United States commissioner Thursday George W. Allen, who was arrested here one week ago, was given an examining trial upon the double charge of making and passing spurious coin and was held to grand jury in bonds of $1,500.

Combine Tobacco Werehouse.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 27.—It was announced Friday that the Continental Tobacco Co. will at once begin the erection of a warehouse in this city, in which it will handle all the tobacco purchased by the company in this and several adjoining sections. The warehouse will cost about $15,000.

Badly Hurt By a Fall.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Aug. 27.—Frank M. Quarles fell from a peach tree from which he was gathering fruit and was badly hurt. His left wrist was broken. His head was cut and his tongue bitten almost in two. Mr. Quarles is president of the board of commissioners of the Western asylum.

Tha Strike Averted.

Covington, Ky., Aug. 27.—It was stated Friday night that the grievance existing among the employes of the Houston-Stanwood & Gamble plant has been amicably adjusted. The only grievance now existing among the other molders is at the Weber plant in Newport.

Killed From Ambuah.

Williamsburg, Ky., Aug. 25.—William Bryant was shot and killed from ambush by a man said to be one Freeman, near the Pulaski county line. Bryant was returning from church in a wagon loaded with people when he was fired upon.

Goes Up For Life.

Mt. Olivet, Ky., Aug. 27.—The jury at Mt. Olivet in the case of Thomas Dobyns Mayhrier, who shot and killed Jailer George W. Thompson, returned a verdict at a night session of court, sentencing him to a life term in the penitentiary.

LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES.

They Are Taxable Under the Laws and Constitution of Kentucky.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 25.—State's Attorney General Haya Wednesday delivered an opinion in response to a query put by Auditor Hager that policies of life insurance are taxable under the constitution and laws of Kentucky, the assessment of each to be its guaranteed or estimated cash surrender value. The opinion, if sustained by the courts, to which the question will be taken at once, will affect thousands of policy holders in Kentucky, the assessment being made in the hands of the holder. The question was raised by a mountain county assessor and by Biacoe Hindman, of Louisville, state agent for the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York. The assessor sought to assess for taxation under general tax laws of the state two paid-up policies of insurance, one of which bears interest.

KENTUCKY BANKS.

A Report Compiled Shows That There Are 341 in the State.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 27.—A report compiled in the office of secretary of state shows that 341 state banks in Kentucky that have cash on hand to the amount of $2,232,331, and have assets amounting to $64,977, 517. These banks paid in July $415,000 in dividends. During the past year 47 new state banks have been organized with a total capital stock of $810,000. The report also shows there are 11 trust companies in the state that have $232,000 cash on hand and their assets amount to $10,211,574.

CHARIVARI LEADERS.

The Bride's Father Caused Their Arrest and They Were Fined.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 26.—Green Lee and Ollie Cates, a popular couple of this city, were married Wednesday night, and after the ceremony Watson Hauners, Robert Cates, Ira Matthews, James Graham, Clyde Matthews, Will Holmand, Misses Addie Hauners, Birdie Hauners and Hople Hauners, well-known young people, charivaried the couple. They became so boisterous that the bride's father had the party arrested. They were each fined $5 in the police court Thursday.

Assaulted a Minister.

Mayfield, Ky., Aug. 25.—The town is worked up to a high pitch over the local option fight made here Saturday. Rev. A. S. Petty was assaulted Tuesday night by a whisky man, and Wednesday the courts were crowded. Many are being sent to jail.

A Test Suit Filed.

Newport, Ky., Aug. 25.—Oscar Barrett filed suit here against the Campbell Turnpike Co., to recover $3,000 damages. The suit is fied to test the right of the defendant corporation to charge a prohibitive toll for the passage of automobiles over its roadway.

A Big Assesment.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 25.—The assessment of the federal officeholders and employes of Kentucky has been fixed at five per cent. of their salaries for three months preceding the election in November, according to the statement of a government employe.

George Stone Nominated.

Somerset, Ky., Aug. 26.—The Eleventh congressional democratic district convention, which was held here on Thursday, was one of the most harmonious and enthusiastic in many years. The nominee was George Stone.

Victory For the Unions.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 26.—After several days' uneasiness among coal miners, operators and citizens at Sturgis the coal miners' strike has been settled and about 200 miners have returned to work. A victory for the unions.

Sunday-School Convention Opens.

Henderson, Ky., Aug. 25.—The 39th annual convention of the State Sunday-School association was opened Wednesday evening in St. Paul's Episcopal church by a prayer and song service. About 400 delegates are present.

Their Golden Wedding Celebrated.

Taylorsville, Ky., Aug. 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Z. G. Milton, of Van Buren, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Thursday. They are a popular couple and a large crowd was present. Many handsome presents were received.

A Boost For Louisville.

Louisville, Aug. 27.—Louisville will become the southern distributing warehousing point of the steel corporation after January 1, 1906. Arrangements have been made for the building of a large warehouse on the river front.

THE CANDIDATES.

A Few Words About Each.

Look Over The List and Take Your Choice.

As the Democrats of Boone county are aware, Judge Cason desires to succeed himself for four years, beginning January 1, 1906. He has been very attentive to the duties of the office and asks the Democrats of the county to honor him with a renomination and election. Having educated himself for the practice and being a man of good judgment, he is especially fitted for the office which he is filling with so much credit to himself and his party. He has no spot on his record as a Democrat, and has done what he could in the past to advance the interest of his party. His past official record is an index to what may be expected of him if chosen for a second term.

F. E. Curley, of Walton, is a young Democrat who aspires to be Boone's next county attorney. He graduated several years ago from the Cincinnati Law School, and hung out his shingle at Walton, where he practiced law a few years when he went to Arizona for his wife's health, which being restored he returned to his native county about six months ago and resumed the practice of his chosen profession. Mr. Curley is a Democrat of the regulation stripe, and if nominated and elected he will serve the people of the county with ability and fidelity. Mr. Curley is a son of T. F. Curley, of Walton, many years a justice of the peace in that district, and who is, and has been for a quarter of a century or more, one of the leading business men of his town.

D. E. Castleman, the incumbent, is a candidate for renomination and election to the office of county attorney. He has made a fearless official, and has sought to hew to the line in every case that has required his official attention, and has looked closely after the county's interests. If honored with a second term he will continue to attend to county affairs that come up in his department with the same zeal that has marked his term of office. Mr. Castleman is a good stumper and has rendered the Democratic party valuable service in campaigns in the past, his services being sought in the neighboring counties on several occasions.

J. H. Rogers, of Walton, is an aspirant for county clerk. Having been a candidate for that office once before, Mr. Rogers has an extensive acquaintance in the county. He is one of Boone's cleverest bachelors, and will make a good clerk. He is a son of W. M. Rogers, who knows every man, woman and child in the county, as a result of his long service as agent for the Boone County Insurance Company. Politically he never knows that a ticket other than that at the head of which he finds the rooster is printed on the ballot. His record is o. k. morally, politically and everyother way.

B. W. Adams, the present county clerk, is a candidate for renomination. Blufe is an agreeable and accommodating official, and his sojourn in office has made him especially familiar with the county records. He has the brand C. S. A. on him, but as that is a dead issue he is making his race upon his merits as a man and an official. If the party sees proper to entrust him with the office for another term, Mr. Adams will continue the discharge of its duties without fear or favor.

B. B. Hume, of Walton, is in the field for sheriff, and has announced Hubert Brady, of Rabbit Hash, and Jeff Eddins, of Burlington, as his deputies if elected. Mr. Hume is sheriff Allphin's deputy, and a very efficient official has he proven himself. He is a pleasant man with whom to do business, and his position as deputy has given him a thorough knowledge of the duties of the office of sheriff. His proposed deputies are both good men and will make painstaking officials, and if the Democrats see proper to intrust these three with the responsible office of sheriff, no mistake will be made.

M. F. Wingate, of Petersburg, is announced as a candidate for sheriff with W. D. Cropper, of Burlington precinct, as deputy. Mr. Wingate is one of the most popular men in the north end of the county, as was shown by the almost unanimous vote he received in his precinct when he was a candidate for sheriff [illegible] years ago. W. D. Cropper, [illegible] be his deputy if he is [illegible] and elected, is about as [illegible] Wingate, and the [illegible] can be urged [illegible] he is a bachelor, [illegible] politics. If [illegible] be the [illegible] sheriffs the Democrats will find they have chosen well in the selection of the men to look after the affairs of that office.

Elmo Gaines, whose name appears first in the list of announcements for assessor, is one of the county's deserving young men, and is well qualified for the office, having served as deputy under both assessors Willis and Watts. He was a close second in the race for the office when the incumbent was nominated. His friends pick him for a winner and the man who beats him will know that he has been in the race. He will make a good assessor and is an excellent gentleman.

Ben Lee Cleek, candidate for assessor, is said to be the first person of that name that ever asked for an office in Boone county, although his family for many years have been active Democrats and popular among those with whom they are acquainted. Mr. Cleek is a farmer and a well posted man. His location in the county gives him a commanding position in the race, and his strength will increase as he becomes acquainted with the voters. He is an industrious campaigner and will make a close canvass.

George W. Ward, of the Rabbit Hash precinct, a most excellent gentleman, is making the canvass for assessor. Mr. Ward has lead a quiet farmer's life and is very popular in his precinct where he was raised. Being a man of general information and a close observer of the trend of business affairs his fitness for the office is unchallenged and should he pull down the prize the people will find in him a faithful official, whose ever aim will be a just and correct administration of his office.

D. M. Snyder, superintendent of common schools, is seeking a renomination and election. He has made a good officer, and is very much interested in the matter of education, and is laboring hard for the advancement of educational interest in Boone county. He devotes his time to the duties of the office, and has pushed, with success, the increasing interest in public education which has been on the upward beat in Boone county for several years. He is a moral, upright gentleman, such as meets the demands of the official position he occupies.

W. E. Vest, who has served the county so well as surveyor, is asking the Democrats to indorse his official acts by nominating him for another term. Billie knows every person in the county regardless of age, sex or previous condition of servitude, and there is not a bridle path that winds through the county's vine clad hills, nor threads her fertile valleys, with every course of which he is not perfectly familiar. Onlocal real estate topics his information surpasses that of any man in the county. To say that he is a good surveyor is only stating a fact known of all men, and if nominated he refers to his past record as a guarantee as to what is to be expected of him in the future.

Sam Adams, the popular jailer, does not want the county to dispense with his official services for at least another term, and has announced for renomination. Sam is an official who has proven himself worthy of the public's confidence, and looks after the duties of his office with as much care and promptness as if the salary attached was as large as that of a congressman. He appreciates the responsibilities of his position and meets them without hesitating, no matter how grave they are. Everybody who has had business in the courts or about the court house speak a good word for Sam.

In this issue appears the announcement of J. C. Hankins, of Hebron, as a candidate for county clerk. In the matter of popularity no man out classes him among the people with whom he is acquainted. His record as a Democrat is spotless and his qualifications for the office for which he asks a nomination are unquestioned. If nominated and elected Mr. Hankins will make an excellent county clerk and the people of the county will soon learn to regard him as one of their best official servants.

Ben A. Floyd, of Gunpowder, than whom there is not a cleverer man, is a candidate for assessor. He is an old school gentleman and Democrat, worthy the support of the people for the office to which he aspires. He is a farmer, well posted in values and if made assessor he will discharge the duties of the office to the satisfaction of all.

LIVER TROUBLES

"I find Thedford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent much with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Thedford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Thedford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Thedford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Thedford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to excel it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

THEDFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Do You Know

that we could buy "Pepper" and sell it to you at 5c a pound and make 100 per cent? Why buy the vile, adulterated stuff because you save 10 or 15c a pound. Do your own reducing—mix the dirt, &c., with it yourself if you want to reduce the price.

Every ounce of that "Cheap Pepper" you eat only leads you that much farther off the "Road to Wellville" and brings you nearer the doctor and the druggist.

BEECH GROVE.

We are needing rain.

Miss Etha McAtee has been on the sick list for several days.

Arlie Adams and family, of Covington, are visiting J. W. Ryle and family.

Fred McAtee and wife, of Indiana, are visiting James McAtee and family, of Beech Grove.

Smith Walton from over on Clore's Ridge fell out of a barn and hurt himself last week very badly.

Mat Ryle and family and Miss Hattie Marshall are attending the Ten Mile Association in Gallatin.

Several from this neighborhood attended the funeral of Frank Merit Adams, who died at his home last Sunday morning. He leaves a wife and two girls and a host of friends and relatives to mourn his loss.

o o o

RABBIT HASH.

Colin Kelly improves slowly.

Solon Stephens, sr., who has been very ill is improving.

J. A. Wiseman lives notwithstanding his age and weakened condition.

George Walton fell in their barn and was so badly hurt that a specialist, Dr. Whitaker, had to be summoned that his life might be saved.

The people of Rabbit Hash and thereabouts have been hauling gravel and making pike. They have made a mile or more of splendid road.

We hear that Wm. McConnell has purchased of John McConnel the farm known as the Mary Calvert farm and that John has bought a 200 acre tract in Boyle county, adjoining his brother Angie.

The man who thinks that Ward is not in the race for Assessor, will find that he is mistaken after Nov. 8. He has his precinct solid which speaks well for him and is steadily gaining ground elsewhere.

o o o

HATHAWAY.

Sept. 5.—A few have cut some tobacco.

Mrs. Robert Houston is very much improved.

Peaches are plentiful and cheap enough for most any one to buy.

Geo. L. Smith and Nathan Smith went to Aurora, last Monday on a business trip.

Mrs. Nathan Clements spent Thursday evening as a guest of Mrs. Alice Houston, of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, of Dayton, Ohio, were here visiting relatives and friends and attended the fair, last Saturday.

Miss Edna McElroy left home Friday morning for New Liberty, Owen county, to commence a six months school on the 5th of September.

The gold mine was blasted one evening last week and in consequence there was a much richer find, which will be assayed in a few days to ascertain its worth.

Mrs. Daniel Mead, of Indiana, and Miss Esther Mead, of Kansas City, Kansas, spent a couple of days last week visiting relatives in this neighborhood.

Two of our items in last week's Recorder were wrong. They should have been Hubbard in the second item instead of Herbert and Miss Conner instead of Jones in the ninth.

ROBT. W. CLEMENTS.

Robert Clements, son of the late David Clements, died Aug. 2, 1904, aged 33 years and 10 days.

He was married March 4th, 1891, to Miss Myrtle Neal, daughter of Pinkney Neal. To this marriage there are three living children.

Thirteen years ago he professed faith in Christ, and united with the Big Bone Baptist church, and was a faithful follower of the meek and lowly Jesus continually exemplifying the truest type of manhood. After a heroic struggle of several months against an insidious disease, which, one day flattered and the next day pushed him to the very depths of despondency, he surrendered his life to God. Before he died he said: "I would love so much to stay with my family, for I feel that I am needed, but if it is the Lord's will I am resigned to go." It is unnecessary for me to say one word in commendation of Robert's life, for all who knew him admired him for his uprightness and purity of character. He was a kind and devoted husband and a loving and indulgent father, and will be greatly missed by his neighbors and friends as by the family of the braken home. He was laid to rest in Big Bone cemetery, near his father and mother, who have both been called to their final resting place not more than two years ago.

Rest there my beloved relatives,

And amidst thy heavenly bliss
Will not look for the Entrance of those whom thou loved on earth.

Dear Robert, how we miss him,
And the step we knew so well,
No more his voice to greet us—
In heaven he has gone to dwell.

When our tears for him are falling,
It seems his voice I hear,
Saying, "put your trust in Jesus,
Don't cry for me, my dear.

He will not forsake you my dear—
His promises are not in vain—
Thus he strove to comfort her
When his body was racked with pain.

Thoughts of leaving wife and childr'n
Bore heavily on his mind,
Though to God's will he bowed,
And died in Him resigned.

James Burns gave the young folks a party last Wednesday night. All present report a jolly time.

The death angel came into this vicinity last Friday night and claimed as its victim, an infant child of James Feely and wife. It was seven months old. Burial Sunday.

Wooltper and Ganburg ball teams came together Saturday afternoon for a long talked of game. Both sides did good stick work throughout the game but were not very good in the field. The work of Deck and Bruner for the visitors did not exceed that of Rector and Rector. Slaughter and Hensley for the home team. Excitement ran high throughout the game. Score, 14 to 4 in favor of Gasburg.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cholera, Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffered one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." For sale by all Druggists.

WALTON GRADED SCHOOL NOTICE.

The attention of patrons is called to the fact that the Walton Graded School will open next Monday, Sept. 12, at 9 a. m. It is important that all pupils be present at that time. Pupils who fail to enter at the beginning will be required to pass an examination on all work done by class in the meantime. The vacancy in the Faculty caused by the resignation of the music teacher, Miss Nellie DeMarque, has been filled by Miss Olive Robertson, of Carlisle, Ky. Miss Robertson comes highly recommended by the College of Music of Cincinnati, and it is fully expected that she will maintain the high standard of her predecessor. All patrons are cordially invited to visit the school at the opening or any other time convenient to them. Respectfully,

W. P. DICKEY, Principal.

The Prayer Habit

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Sept. 4, 1904.

Text: "Evening, and morning, and at noon will I pray and cry aloud; and He shall hear my voice."—Ps. 55:17.

DAVID had what may be called the prayer habit. In the text before us we are given a glimpse of his inner life. The secret of his close fellowship with God, of his clear understanding of the deep things of God, of his joy in life and his sweet trust and confidence in the face of every danger and every difficulty and every experience, is discovered in this bit of autobiography which he here gives us. In another place the Psalmist declares: "My voice shalt Thou hear in the morning, O Lord; in the morning will I direct my prayer unto Thee, and will look up." Or, as the revised version puts it, "Will keep watch." The morning watch with prayer as the ladder by which the soul may climb to the Divine presence and there obtain the needed strength and grace and guidance for the duties of the day. The noontide rest with prayer as the calm, peaceful, refreshing breath of God coming to the soul in the fever and struggle of the daily conflict and giving new hope and new vigor and new purpose to the life. The evening quiet with prayer as the gentle, soothing influence stealing over the soul and drawing it away from the things of time to the things of eternity, and causing it to rest in simple trust in the Father's care. "Evening, and morning, and at noon" David would withdraw himself from the active, busy scenes of life and alone with his God he would hold sweet and restful and helpful fellowship with Him.

THINK you this thrice daily bending of the knee and the lifting of the heart to God was the perfunctory obedience to duty's stern call? Think you that the early morning watch and the noontide rest and the evening quiet with God alone were seasons trying and unenjoyable? The traveler over the dreary desert waste of sand, with burning heat and blinding light, looks forward with joy to the refreshing under the sheltering shade of the palms and by the cool, gushing spring which is to be found just ahead on that bit of green and verdant oasis. The children of Israel rejoiced with exceeding great joy when, after the weary marches over the waterless and treeless and rocky desert, they came to Elim where were wells of water and inviting shade and luscious fruits. Think you that the traveler dreads the oasis rest and refreshing? Think you that Israel's hosts found the hours at Elim too long, and tedious and unrefreshing? Nay, verily, for the oasis and Elim were places of refreshing, of rest, of joy and blessing, and the places of preparation for the onward journey, and the oases and Elims of prayer are the places of refreshing, and rest, and encouragement and preparation for the duties of life.

THE Christian cannot prosper and make progress toward the promised land which God has given as a heritage to His children, unless the soul comes to these places of refreshing, to these oases of prayer. They should be set in the journey of the everyday life, so that the shades of the evening hour, as they draw down and shut the light of day from view, will find the soul encamped by the side of the reviving and quickening springs of water of God's presence. There the soul may rest in safety until another day calls the pilgrim to take up his journey. Then the morning watch may be set. Then the soul may drink deep and long at the well of prayer, and gain strength and encouragement and guidance for the journey of the day. And at noon the soul should turn aside from the bustle and strife and struggle of life and seek out the oasis of prayer. There, as nowhere else, it may meet its God, may tell Him its hopes, its trials, its failures, may unburden itself, and may obtain new inspiration and strength and guidance for the afternoon's duties and cares and responsibilities. Daniel with the multitude of responsibilities of statecraft resting upon him, with the problems of the great Babylonian kingdom demanding his attention, found time, three times a day, with his windows open towards Jerusalem, to seek his God in prayer. Nay, rather, it was a privilege and necessity, this thrice daily communion with God, if Daniel was to continue the wise and successful statesman and governor that he had proved himself under the leading and direction and blessing of God.

HOW full the Scriptures are of precept and example, enforcing the importance and necessity of prayer. How every great event and epoch recorded in sacred history has come as answer to prayer. Of the Godly line of Seth it is testified that they began "to call upon the name of the Lord." And ever since that day there have been God-fearing men and women who have known and believed God, and who have prevailed in prayer with Him. Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, having received the promise of God of a posterity and a nation, obtained that promise through faith, and through prayer, which was an evidence and expression of that faith. Jacob in prayer prevails and is called a prince of God because He prayed the prayer of faith and held on to God until the prayer was answered. Moses, again and again, offers prayer in behalf of Israel and obtains for them forgiveness and blessing, where the wrath of God was about to consume them for their disobedience. Joshua and the long line of Judges were men of prayer, and through their prayers of faith God was able to send deliverance from enemies and to bless. David, in his prayerless moments, planned to be a temple builder of God, and the prophet of God, ere he had talked the matter over with God in prayer commended the king for his worthy ambition, and assured him that he should realize his heart's desire. But the prophet after an interview with God must endure the humiliation of going to the king and reversing his judgment and commendation and tell the king that he could not build God's temple. And King David must go in and sit before the Lord, and find as he communed with Him that instead of a temple builder he was to be a Messiah giver.

THE prayers of Godly kings time and time again stayed the destroying hand of the enemy and delayed the judgments that had been pronounced against Israel for her sins. The prophets, through prayer, were able to shut the heavens of rain and dew and then to pray and bring the rain and the dew. Through their ministry of prayer the prophecies and purposes of God were realized. It is declared of Daniel that he "understood by the books the number of the years whereof the word of Jehovah came to Jeremiah, the prophet, for the accomplishing of the desolations of Jerusalem, even 70 years." Prayerful study of God's word had revealed God's purposes concerning Israel, and Daniel goes on to say: "I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fastings and sackcloth and ashes." And pleading God's promises he prayed for the deliverance of Israel from captivity, and God heard and answered that prayer in the wonderful way recorded in the books of Ezra and Nehemiah. Jesus' coming was ushered in by the prayers of God's children who were "looking for the consolation of Israel." And the devout Simeon in the temple as he prayed was given the vision of the coming one and had been assured that he should see Him ere he died. And the prayer of faith found its realization as he took the infant Jesus in his arms and blessed Him, pronouncing that wonderful prophecy over Him which is finding its fulfillment to this very day.

JAMES declares that "the effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." The testimony of God's word from Genesis to Revelation proves the truth of this declaration. All of the men who have wrought with and for God have been men of prayer. And every Christian in his own experience may prove that it is true; yea, it is not only his privilege, but his duty to do so. His Christian life must be barren indeed, and he must be almost a stranger to God and out of fellowship with Him, if the prayer of faith is not rising to the Father and receiving its answer. All men who have wrought with and for God have been men of prayer. Jesus was much given to prayer, whole nights being thus spent, while the weary disciples were unconscious in sleep. Repeated reference is made to Jesus' prayers and seasons of prayer, but I doubt if any adequate idea can be formed from these detached references to the utter dependence which Jesus placed in these seasons alone with the Father. If the complete record of every moment of Jesus' three years' ministry were before us, I believe we should be startled and amazed, yea and condemned, for our own prayerless lives, by the large place which prayer took in His ministry. Christ was victorious through prayer. He prevailed because He prayed, and we must not forget that prayer marks our pathway to victory; it is the way in which we may prevail with God. One of Jesus' most earnest admonitions to His disciples is to pray and not to faint.

BUT in spite of the overwhelming testimony of Scripture and of those today who have proved again and again the power and efficacy of prayer, how prayerless are the lives of many of God's children. I heard the story, a true story, of a little boy Christian and his joy in receiving answer to prayer. He was trudging along with a heavy basket on his arm; it was a lonely country road and darkness was falling fast. Home was yet a long way ahead. He tugged at the basket and struggled on until it seemed to him as though he would drop. What could he do? Well, he might have done a good many things. He might have sat down and cried. He might have grown cross and impatient. Ah, how many of us would under like circumstances? But he did not. He was a little Christian who prayed, and when he got into a place where he did not know what to do he would talk to Jesus about it. So he set his basket down by the roadside, and kneeling behind some bushes asked help to get home. He was so absorbed in his little prayer that he did not hear the carriage on the soft turf road draw near the spot and then stop. His prayer ended he came out to begin again his weary tramp homeward, and there before him was a carriage waiting. The driver had seen the basket and stopped in wonder. And as he saw the little boy come from the bushes he invited him to ride with his basket into town. And the prayer was answered. It is in just such little experiences of life where God wants us to talk with Him and ask His guidance and help. And He will never fail us. Form the prayer habit, and your life will be filled with peace and joy which come from a sense of the fellowship of God and His overruling care and providences. With David let us say: "Evening, and morning, and at noon will I pray, and cry aloud, and He shall hear my voice."

The morality of a corporation will be no higher than the morality of the men who compose it.

THE COST OF THE TARIFF

Average of Over $[illegible] Taxes a Year Paid by Each Family in the United States.

If the protectionists cannot show that all are protected by the tariff it must be admitted that protection is not applied equally, and unequal taxation is an abomination. From the very nature of things protection cannot be universal, or there would be no benefit for anyone. If every one was taxed for the benefit of every one else no one would be the gainer. The policy and practice of the protective tariff is to make the many pay for the benefit of the few.

How few receive any advantage from the protective tariff of the 29,000,000 which the census of 1900 shows are engaged in gainful occupations—that is the workers and laborers of the United States. It is admitted that but very few farmers receive any benefit from the tariff and yet there were 10,300,000 persons engaged in agriculture. Men and women in the professions numbered 1,258,000. Can it be shown that the 111,638 clergymen, the 114,460 lawyers, the 132,000 doctors and the 446,133 teachers have had their incomes increased by the protective tariff?

The 5,580,000 persons in domestic and personal service, of whom 1,560,721 were servants and waiters, 131,116 barbers, and 155,153 housekeepers and stewards—has the Dingley law raised their pay? How many of the 4,766,000 people in trade and transportation have received a cent from Uncle Sam? There were 630,127 clerks, 254,880 bookkeepers, 611,139 salesmen and the 582,150 railroad employes, all paying their share of tariff taxes, but receiving no benefit in return.

Now we come to the 7,085,000 persons employed in "manufacturing pursuits," about one-fourth of the whole number of workers. But a very large proportion of these derive no benefit from the tariff, for the 346,834 dressmakers, the 229,649 tailors, the 600,900 carpenters, without taking time to select thousands more, cannot be said to have any advantage from the tariff.

But all these and every one else paid towards an average for each family in the United States $16.52 tariff tax to Uncle Sam in 1902 and the tax the workers paid was in some cases even more than the masters paid for the rate of duty is often higher on the cheaper goods, and yet the protectionists say the tariff is to protect labor.

But what Uncle Sam receives is a small tax compared to what the trusts charge each family through the protection the tariff gives them, which is computed by the most expert statisticians to be for 1902 $94 for each family, or nearly six times as much as the government takes in at the custom houses.

No wonder the cost of living is high and that those with small incomes find it difficult to pay this monstrous tax which the republican policy of high protection imposes. We might stand the tariff tax the government gets if it did not protect and foster the trusts in plundering us.

THE SHIP-SUBSIDY BILL.

Sure to Be Passed If the Republican Trust Boodlers Control the Next Congress.

Of course Secretary Shaw directly represents the president in his public announcements and speeches. When he spoke at the banquet given by the New York chamber of commerce last November at Delmonico's he was enthusiastic for the ship-subsidy steal if no other way could be devised of increasing the merchant marine. As the junketing committee of congress headed by Senator Gallinger has been holding meetings all over the country on purpose to gather evidence in favor of the ship-subsidy bill there is no doubt but such a measure will be forced through congress if money and influence will do it. President Roosevelt has virtually indorsed the programme that Secretary Shaw spoke of with so much favor, and the only means left to stop the steal is for the people to defeat those who voted for it. Nearly every republican member of the United States senate is on record as voting in its favor, and several of them are candidates this year for reelection—such as Senators Aldrich, Ball, Bard, Bayard, Clapp, Clark, Depew, Foster, Hale, Kean, Kearns, Lodge, McCumber, Proctor, Quarles and Scott. The bill was not voted upon in the house of representatives. The republican majority there feared the people, for it is claimed that a majority are pledged to do so when it comes up at the next session. Every candidate for congress should be made to pledge himself to vote against a subsidy bill in whatever form it may be presented, and also that members of the legislature will not vote to reelect senators who favored it. It is bad enough to be plundered by the trusts through the protective tariff, which is an indirect form of subsidy, but to rob the people directly by granting an enormous subsidy to the Morgan steamship trust would be a crowning infamy that the voters should guard against.

——The trusts have been fostered by the tariff and multiplied by the neglect of public officials to enforce the law.—Judge Alton B. Parker.

——If the department of commerce and labor wishes to get a true idea of prices and the cost of living, let it consult the woman who does the marketing.—Philadelphia Ledger.

——President Roosevelt's administration for four years has added $75,000,000 a month, or $400,000 a day, or $2,500 an hour, more to the cost of government than was paid during the last four years of President Cleveland's administration.—N. Y. World.

REPUBLICANS IN ANGUISH.

Leaders of the G. O. P. Are Very Much Worried Because They Are Minus a Bogey.

Republicans are beginning to be alarmed at having nothing to be alarmed about. They know that they have kept themselves in power for eight years because they succeeded in making the country's flesh creep at the thought of what the democratic party might do; and now they are wondering how they can possibly live without being scared to death. They feel lonely without their dear old bogey-men. A tranquil life is the last thing they want. Their political ideal of happiness is to be like the man in the "Ancient Mariner" who "doth walk in fear and dread" because he knows a frightful fiend doth close behind him tread." Hence their melancholy reception of Judge Parker's speech. It showed them that their last fond hope of passing the summer in a state of fright has vanished, and they are naturally inconsolable at discovering that there is nothing to mow at them or make them afraid.

The New York Post says that the idea of the country's being safe with a democratic president is gall and wormwood to the republican managers. They meet too many of their own party who say: "Well, I guess we'll have a pretty good president whoever is elected." And such people, so deplorably at ease in Zion, actually have the hardihood to tell republican politicians that it is a good thing for the country when the rival candidates for the presidency is a man so irreproachable and sound as Judge Parker. This will never do. The nation must not think of being contented except when it is affrighted; and as for republicans putting their armor by, taking it easy, and spending on European trips what they ought to give to the campaign fund—why, that is enough to make good party workers despair of the republic.

It was really cruel of Judge Parker to disappoint them as he has done. Not satisfied with robbing them of their money issue, he has not given them a single peg upon which to hang the charges, which they had carefully prepared, of his being an agitator and a leveler. They somehow hoped that he would step off the bench to display himself as an arrant demagogue, but now they can only turn mournfully away to bewail his being so "negative" and so maliciously "dexterous" in not giving them a handle.

LABOR HONORED BY DAVIS

Democratic Candidate Writes Letter on the Way He Has Always Treated His Employes.

The following letter from H. G. Davis, democratic candidate for vice president, has been made public at Roanoke, Va.:

Elkins, W. Va., Aug. 15, 1904.—Mr. I. V. Johnson, Roanoke, Va.—My Dear Mr. Johnson: I am glad to have your letter calling my attention to the publication placing me in an attitude of hostility to the laboring class. No one who knows me personally or is at all acquainted with the circumstances of my life will put any credence in the statements to which you refer. I think I can well claim that I belong to the laboring class. For many years I worked in the ranks as a wage earner, and I know what it is to earn my living by the sweat of my brow. On the other hand, I have been a large employer of labor, in railroads, coal mines, lumber mills, etc., and have never had any serious trouble with our men. I can recall but two instances in which there were strikes, and these were of short duration and peaceably settled. No man has ever been discharged from our service because he was a union man, or been evicted from a company house for any reason. I think you will find that the conditions of the railroad man and the miner in connection with the enterprise I have directed will compare most favorably with those in other localities of the country.

I have always believed, and my conviction came from the hard school of experience, that, measured by the character of the work he does, and the cost of living, every man is entitled to full compensation for his services.

I am charged with having instituted proceedings which led to an injunction against strikers by Judge Jackson, of this state. The fact is that I had nothing whatever to do with the case and knew nothing about the matter until I read of it in the newspapers. The injunction did not apply to the men in our employment or pertain to them in any way. On the contrary, I remember on one occasion one of our superintendents suggested an injunction against our men and I declined to consider it.

H. G. DAVIS.

Colorado Not All Mines and Lawlessness

Agricultural Interests of the State Widely Known Under Irrigation.

JUST at present this state up on the crest of the Rockies stands for alternating mob rule and military assumption; nevertheless there is a big Colorado which is peacefully pursuing its work-a-day life, the major portion of the commonwealth, have given the state such unenviable notoriety.

Colorado is of wide extent, and what goes on in three counties need not be typical of what takes place in her 57 other counties. She has an area equal to that of New York plus all of New England, and her resources are varied. To the popular imagination she consists of mines and scenery and very little else, but though her ores are justly famed, her picturesqueness likewise, yet these are by no means the last words about this great state.

Agriculture has almost caught up with mining in this region that so short a time ago represented the wild and woolly west in its most extreme aspect; perhaps has gone ahead of the latter. Enterprise has turned water on the big reaches of bunch grass and sage brush, and the desert has become a fruitful land. Although Colorado has 155 mountain peaks, although these peaks lift their heads into the eternal snows, yet in the 103,645 square miles constituting her large area there is fine opportunity for the farmer, plain and valley land that richly repay his tilling of the soil. Years and years ago, the Mexicans, realizing this, made use of crude irrigation methods, were the precursors of ditch companies and state canals now doing the work on a large scale.

IRRIGATION TRANSFORMS COLORADO'S DESERTS.

In 1870 the first agricultural census of Colorado was taken and showed 1,783 farms; the census of 1900 showed 24,700 farms of 9,474,588 acres, valued at $106,344,035. As a beet sugar state, Colorado has come recently to the fore, now holds third place among the states, in 1902 the sugar production amounting to 29,643 tons. The sheep raising industry is of great importance; the number in 1900 was given as 2,498,200 head. Dairy interests are increasing steadily, the value of the dairy product for 1901 was over $5,000,000; and to the many creameries and cheese factories in the state there has lately been added a large condensed milk factory. The above facts and figures being cited to carry out the promise that Colorado is not entirely given over to miners and mine owners, to rough communities and warring factions.

Of course we must acknowledge that the life of the shepherds in western America is not the idyllic, gentle life tradition pictures the shepherd's to be, newspaper readers well knowing of the feud between cattle men and sheep men—but agricultural Colorado certainly is not as a whole so very different from orderly rural communities elsewhere. Public sentiment is for peace and progress, not for war; the farming interests have no small voice in affairs. State canals are constructed and operated in the furtherance of Colorado's development, legislation keeping to the fore the need of the farmer citizen.

A few years ago Mr. Julian Ralph, who traveled up and down the state to get a true impression of the land, wrote in his characteristic way of the speedy agricultural development there: "Colorado is sufficiently developed to form a valuable object lesson for the study of the early results of the forces we see at work in the brand new commonwealths close by. They are young, but the rights in Montana, [illegible] Washington, but in Colorado the [illegible] ing sold as used. In the same manner wineries are prophesying where [illegible] done with imperial peaches, and [illegible] grass and sage-brush, but in Colorado county fairs are being held upon waste lands." The writer goes on to tell of the fruit exhibitions these county fairs are noted for, tells of orchards of fruit of size, variety, and delicious flavor, emphasizes throughout his article his belief "that already the surer, more lasting resources of agriculture is the heaviest asset of the state."

Colorado, with her eight large rivers and their tributaries, has water of bountifulness to change the face of the desert in northern Colorado like what Prof. Thomas, of the Colorado state agricultural college, speaks of as "the [illegible] famed agricultural region—the first settled, the best developed, the most productive, the most prosperous, the most inviting of all the agricultural portions of the trans-Missouri country, and where agriculture by irrigation is to be seen at its highest, most progressive, most successful stage." This seems superlative language, but the west grows big things.

It was in the region thus glowingly described some disappointed forty-niners turned from dreams of gold to visions of farm wealth, and half a century ago laid the foundations of the present prosperity. Stage by stage the irrigation system has been perfected, and to-day farmers of this locality enjoy annual crops, vast reservoirs storing water for time of drought.

The Colorado farmer raises wheat, oats, barley, alfalfa, potatoes, sugar beets, all kinds of vegetables and small fruits, and several of the larger fruits. The sugar beet industry is a recent one, but one that has made great strides and which is being encouraged by the state. The towns situated in Colorado's farming regions are examples of prosperity and progress, present pictures of excellent results obtained in a comparatively brief period, indicate that the spade as well as the pick has proved a valuable tool in the state.

A beautiful country it is, a country with a unique charm, that with farm lands close bordering high mountain peaks; and to the fanciful it seems a land suggestive of the diverse elements within its borders, the grim, mysterious mountains standing for the dangerous, uncongenial labors of the miner; the green fields of waving grain bespeaking the busy but rewarded labor of the agriculturist. And as the fields encroach more and more upon the ranges, perhaps after a while the miner will have been superseded by the farmer.

It may be of interest just at this time, in the midst of the Colorado labor troubles, to mention an experiment begun in 1902 by the Colorado Fuel & Iron company along the line of social betterment for its employes. This company, which employs between 16,000 and 17,000 men, scattered throughout Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico, established a sociological department, placed under the lead of a member of the Volunteers of America; this department to have for its work the establishment of kindergartens, boys' clubs, girls' clubs, night schools, sewing and cooking classes, traveling libraries, traveling art collections, courses of popular lectures, reading rooms and gymnasiums. A home for disabled workmen, cottages and club rooms, have been included in the plan and a weekly paper, "Camp and Plant," has been published. We have had a surfeit of Colorado wars; why not exploit this instance that there exists in the state strong social feeling as well as unsocial, the brotherhood-of-man idea.

This "Switzerland of America" is continuing its tourist business irrespective of the free use of arms in the disturbed mining regions, traveler and innkeeper still pursuing the tenor of their ways. Pilgrimages are made thither by Englishman and easterner, by summer collager and winter sojourner; and Colorado's transient population is of the number and quality that certainly exerts no small influence on the tone of the land.

COLONY HOUSE FOR CHICKS

The Value of Movable and Portable Houses Demonstrated by Twenty Years.

The value of movable houses may well be learned by plant growing. We start the early part tomatoes and cauliflower plants in very small boxes, keeping them there until time to transplant to their cold storage frames and later in the field, where they finish their growth. What would we expect of these plants to amount to if left where the seed was first started? It is needless to answer this question for any same person knows. That is just what we do with our chicks when we attempt to raise them around the buildings with older fowls.

I have these buildings set all over my place, about 100 feet apart. I wish I had room to put them farther apart. After my chicks have reached a certain age they are transferred to these houses, where they are allowed full freedom just as soon as they are old enough to know when to go in and out of the rain and storm. If farmers would keep more fowls and employ this plan, scattering the young and old stock out over the grain and grass fields, a great deal less damage would be done by insect pests than there is to-day. We have not the numerous varieties of birds to-day to do this work as used to be the case. Oh, no! The girls are wearing them in their hats now! So we ought to supply some domesticated birds to do the work, and thereby reap a twofold benefit and our fowls would be far healthier for it.

About eight years ago the grain fields in the neighborhood were being devoured by the army worm. I placed colonies of pullets in my neighbor's fields all about me and the pullets went after the worms as schoolboys would go after a box of strawberries. Such feasting you never saw, and the best part of the bargain was I had to supply no feed for several weeks. Water and grit was all I had to see to, and such growth I never got before nor since, and eggs commenced to come about 30 days earlier than usual. Furthermore, I received thanks from my surrounding neighbors for saving at least a portion of their grain.

My colony houses are built of six-inch drop siding; sills, studding and rafters are two by four. Ground plan is six by six feet square, facing south or southeast, five feet high in front, three feet high in rear, with a window, six-lighted, in front and door two feet six inches wide and four feet high at the east side, as shown in the cut. It is best to have the window so it can be slid wide open at will and closed as easily, so we can ventilate to meet the changes of the weather. All the furniture that goes with these little houses is two perches, six feet long, made of two by four scantling, and a brooder and drinking fountain. Each house has a yard to the south 12 feet long. No house is ever complete without this yard, for when the chicks are first moved to the houses they are probably not old enough to be given unlimited range, and it will not do to confine them in their house for it is sure to stunt their growth. If a yard is at hand they can be given the same care and treatment they were accustomed to in the regular brooder house and we know just where they are.

Following this practice the operator is not affected by inclement weather, no matter how severe or wet or windy; all work can be done indoors. Even in our severest Wisconsin winter weather, I have brooded chicks with grand success by this plan.

In building the colony houses some people try to improve over my plans and build them larger. Don't do it. It may be all right to build them larger if you are sure you never want to use them in cold weather, but if built larger and nothing but the heat that escapes from the lamp in the brooder to keep it warm it will not be warm enough for your little chicks to enjoy a great deal of time outside of their brooder, and we must encourage them to get out as much as possible.—C. E. Matteson, in Ohio Farmer.

Very Wearing on the Soil.

Dr. Richard T. Gotthelf, of Columbia university has a broad knowledge of oriental tales and proverbs. One day he told an old Persian story about a pessimistic farmer. "Good friend," a visitor said to the farmer, "you are fortunate this year." He pointed to the heavy and rich grain fields spreading all around him and said: "You [illegible] "Alas, [illegible] "Why [illegible] "Because [illegible]

A HINT FOR BEEKEEPERS.

How to Secure Full Records of the Honey-Maker Without Swarming the Colonies.

Apiarist Edwin Bevins claims to have discovered two ways in which laying worker colonies can be disposed of so as to get all the service out of the bees that they can render and yet keep the numbers of the colonies up to what it was before.

One way is to place the hive containing the laying workers over a strong colony with a fertile queen, placing a newspaper with a small hole in it between the two hives, says the New York Farmer. The bees will unite peaceably, and when considerable worker-brood appears in the upper hive the hive can be placed on another stand and the bees will rear a queen from the brood, if the old queen can be introduced about three days after the removal of the hive.

The other plan involves the taking of a couple of frames of hatching brood from a hive and placing them in another hive over a strong colony, with a frame having a wire cloth nailed to both sides of it between the two hives.

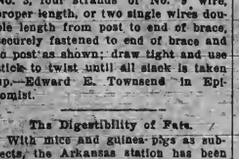
Thus a fertile queen and her escort are released on two combs, and in a few days there will be a nucleus strong enough to take care of the queen. This hive is then set down by the side of the hive holding the laying workers.

Every two or three days a frame with the bees must be transferred from the laying-worker hive to the nucleus. By the time all but two of the frames are placed in the new hive the queen is at work there, and everything is harmonious.

As regards the two frames taken to form the nucleus, they can be returned to the places from which they were taken, or these places can be filled by the frames remaining unused in the laying-worker hive.

THE DRAINAGE OF SWAMPS

Farmers Who Have No Experience in the Work Should Engage Services of Engineer.



There is no general rule to guide in experienced persons in the draining of swamp lands. The quality of swamp land varies as much as do upland. As a general rule here, cranberry and moss swamps are not the ones to drain for agricultural purposes, unless underlaid near the surface with well rotted muck and clay subsoil. Swamps covered with good timber, not scrub, and all kinds of grass swamps, are almost always all right for farming. A good swamp farm well drained is all right. Clay subsoil swamps are preferable to sand or hardpan.

Loose soil should not be drained too deep the first two or three years, but gradually deepen the drains as the soil settles, which on some swamps is considerable. Above all things do not burn off the top soil, as such marshes are nearly ruined, if not quite. It is true some swamps are ruined by draining, while others are benefited from the first. As I said above, it depends much on the kind and quality. Neighborhoods that have no experience in such matters would do well to engage the services of an experienced engineer. As to my own experience as a swamp farmer, will say I have been quite successful, with no reason to complain. I grow hay, corn, potatoes, vegetables, etc.—George Mutchler, in Orange Judd Farmer.

The Digestibility of Fats.

With mice and guinea pigs as subjects, the Arkansas station has been conducting some very interesting experiments to determine the digestibility of various edible fats and oils, both animal and vegetable. The cooked oils were found to be more easily and completely digested than the raw oils. Fluid oils and soft fats proved more digestible than heavy oils and hard fats. The vegetable oils were found not to be inferior to animal fats as heat producers, and to be equal or superior in digestibility. The effect of an increase in the melting point of a fat on the percentage of digestibility became less as the melting point approached or rose above the temperature of the body.

TO BEAUTIFY THE HOME.

Tones in Draperies, Rugs, Pottery and Other Articles of Household Utility.

Half the success of furnishing a room depends upon the selection of the right color scheme, according to the point of the compass which the room faces. Thus in a north room, owing to the scarcity of sunlight, yellow or red must be the prevailing tone, while a sunshiny apartment calls for blue or green. The latter tone can be used in either a north or a south room, if the right shade is chosen, a rich hue being the best in a room facing north. Draperies of yellow or rose color are required to produce the necessary contrast. Red is the preferred hue for halls, which are seldom too well lighted, and is most effective when a deep warm tone is selected, says the Brooklyn Eagle.

HER MATRIMONIAL CHANCES

Five Suitors in Twenty-Five Minutes Was the Proud Record of This Woman.

There is a childlike simplicity about the peasant folk of Montenegro. A woman who has traveled among them says that both men and women, on her arrival, asked her, with perfect frankness, the most personal questions. When she explained that she had come by train and steamboat, the inference was that she had great wealth, relates Youth's Companion.

"And you have come so far to see us? Bravo! Are you married?"

"No," said the traveler.

There was great excitement and much whispering.

"Wait! wait!" cried a woman. Then, at the top of her voice, she shouted: "Milosh! Milosh!"

A tall, bronzed boy about 18 years old, edged his way through the crowd. His mother stood on tiptoe, and whispered in his ear. He looked coy, and twiddled his fingers.

"Ask her! ask her!" cried men and women, encouragingly.

Milosh plucked up courage, thumped his chest and blurted out:

"Wilt thou have me?"

"No, thank you," said the traveler, laughing, and Milosh, much relieved, retired, amidst the jeers of his friends.

"Milosh, thou art not beautiful enough," said the men.

Then they suggested Gavro, as being more likely to please. Gavro made his offer, and was smilingly rejected.

The crowd was enjoying itself vastly, and took much pains to provide the lady with a really handsome suitor. She, on her part, looked about, and chanced to catch the eye of a goodly youth.

"No! no!" cried a woman, seizing his arm. "He's mine! he's mine!"

Amid shouts of laughter he was withdrawn from competition, then another youth said frankly: "I have no money, but perhaps you have enough."

And he is good and beautiful," his friends hastened to add.

But he, in his turn, was rejected, and the enthusiastic crowd pushed forward another candidate. Five suitors in 20 minutes made, the traveler thought, a noble record.

THE DEAF MUTE HUSBAND.

Had One Advantage, He Didn't Have to Look When His Wife Scolded.

At a social gathering some time ago, a number of deaf mutes were present. Refreshments were served during the evening, and in handing a small glass of wine to one of the guests a deaf mute gentleman happened to spill a few drops on his wife's skirt. The wife, relates the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is also a deaf mute, and it was evident that she took the mishap in a rather irritable way. She wrinkled up her forehead and at once made a series of remarkably swift movements with her nimble fingers. The husband, looking exceedingly apologetic, made a few motions in return.

One of the guests, who had noticed this little by-play, slyly slipped out a bit of paper and pencilling something on it, handed it to a friend.

This is what the latter read:

No matter how badly afflicted, woman can still scold."

The friend scribbled in return:

"Yes, but in the present case the husband is luckier than the average. He doesn't have to look."

Mrs. Weisslitz, president of the German Womans' Club of Buffalo, N. Y., after doctoring for two years, was finally cured of her kidney trouble by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

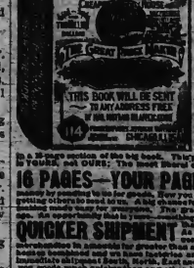
Of all the diseases known with which the female organism is afflicted, kidney disease is the most fatal. In fact, unless prompt and correct treatment is applied, the weary patient seldom survives.

Being fully aware of this, Mrs. Pinkham, early in her career, gave careful study to the subject, and in producing her great remedy for woman's ills—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made sure that it contained the correct combination of herbs which was certain to control that dreaded disease, woman's kidney troubles. The Vegetable Compound acts in harmony with the laws that govern the entire female system, and while there are many so called remedies for kidney troubles, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the only one especially prepared for women.

Read What Mrs. Weisslitz Says.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For two years my life was simply a burden, I suffered so with female troubles, and pains across my back and loins. The doctor told me that I had kidney troubles and prescribed for me. For three months I took his medicines, but grew steadily worse. My husband then advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and brought home a bottle. It is the greatest blessing ever brought to our home. Within three months I was a changed woman. My pain had disappeared, my complexion became clear, my eyes bright, and my entire system in good shape."—MRS. PAULA WEISSLITZ, 176 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Proof that Kidney Trouble can be Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.



"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel very thankful to you for the good your medicine has done me. I had doctored for years and was steadily growing worse. I had trouble with my kidneys, and two doctors told me I had Bright's disease; also had falling of the womb, and could not walk a block at a time. My back and head ached all the time, and I was so nervous I could not sleep; had hysteria and fainting spells, was tired all the time, had such a pain in my left side that I could hardly stand at times without putting my foot on something.

"I doctored with several good doctors, but they did not help me any. I took, in all, twelve bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of Liver Pills, and used three packages of Sanative Wash, and feel like a new woman, can eat and sleep well, do all my own work, and can walk two miles without feeling over tired. The doctors tell me that my kidneys are all right now. I am so happy to be well, and I feel that I owe it all to your medicine."—MRS. OPAL STRONG, Dalton, Mass.

MALCHUS SOUTHER, Secty.

The State Board of Election Commissioners appointed James A. Huey, Democrat, of Union, and G. G. Hughes, Republican, of Burlington, County Election Commissioners for the ensuiug year. By virtue of his office Sheriff Allphin is chairman of the County Board.

N. E. Riddell's announcement as a candidate for county attorney appears in this issue. He has been a member of the Boone county bar for about nine years, and is competent to discharge the duties of the office to which he aspires, and which he will do credit to if elected.

The Republicans over in the Eleventh district charge each other with all sorts of fraud and the people are disposed to believe that both sides are telling the truth on each other. It is claimed that ballot boxes were stolen and burned, and that the votes of whole precincts were changed wantonly and openly.

The country seems to be full of snakes. A man in Mercer county found three sucking his cow; in another county a snake was found in bed with a child; in Woodford county while out hunting, a man killed four snakes; up in Menifee county a woman was attacked by a rattle snake and was nearly frightened to death, and in another county fifty large chickens in a coop were killed by a lot of snakes.

In this issue appears the announcement of John C. Byland, of Walton, as a candidate for the Legislature. He is a very excellent gentleman, and a Democrat from away back. If the Democrats send him to the Legislature they will find him at all times in the faithful discharge of his duties as a legislator, and an earnest advocate of measures that are calculated to better the condition of the State. No mistake will made by nominating him.

This is the idea of a writer in the Country Gentleman: So far as my observation goes, farmers generally have their corn rows too close. One of the principal reasons is to avoid extra plowing, since many furrows are required for wide rows. A little thought will show that if corn be planted in seven-foot drills and in four foot drills, so as to give the same number of stalks in each per acre, the stalks in the seven-foot drills will have much more loose earth to root in than the stalks of the four-foot drills, because wide rows admit of much more thorough cultivation than narrow rows and this extra quantity of loose earth thus produced will tell. A suitable narrow plow should be run several times in the bottoms of the drills, thus constructing loose beds for the corn; this is an important feature and should not be omitted.

From one to two tons per acre of properly balanced stable manure may be applied in the drills and well mixed with the soil. It is well known that stable manure contains an excess of nitrogen. Consequently if the manure be applied in its natural state there will be a waste of nitrogen, which is the most costly element of fertility.

It requires about the same amount of feed to produce a pound of flesh on a steer as on a sheep. The investigators show that to be true as a rule. But sheep will thrive on weeds and grass that cattle will not touch, and when the fact is remembered that sheep produce a clip of wool every year in addition to mutton the balance is in favor of sheep.

It is often said that it does not pay to raise sheep on high priced land. It that is true it does not pay to raise cattle or hogs on the same land. It costs no more, pound for pound, for one than the other.

Fat lambs always find ready sale at good prices, and choice lambs are generally scarce at high prices. If lambs are kept till they grow a fleece, the price of the wool is generally the profit of the sheep over the fat cow or the fat steer. Of course sheep will not fatten on weeds or brush or thrive in cold, wet lots upon neglect. But they will show up in the sales pens favorably with steers or cows if they are given the same feed and the same care, or even less.

Sheep can be fattened in less time than cattle. It is generally found that the steer is not finished in 100 days, but must be topped off with about two weeks' extra feeding. The sheep can be ready and prime for the market in 100 days.

Sheep return more fertility to the soil than any other animal. The cattlemen on the big western farms are just beginning to find that out, and many of them, particularly in Texas, have sold their cattle and gone into the sheep business. These same men were shooting up the sheepmen on the ranges only a few years ago at that.

Sheep are the friends of the small farmer and the farmer who has none too much money and cannot afford to go into cattle. Our people are learning to like mutton because our farmers are learning how to grow and fatten it, and the demand will increase rapidly. There is no doubt that sheep can be raised with profit on any farm where cattle and hogs can be made to pay.

Hon. J. W. Kennedy, who so ably represented this county in the last two sessions of the General Assembly declines to be a candidat for reelection.

We have the rigs- carriages, buggies, phaetons, light wagons - some swell runabouts too. Prices right. "Hartke" quality.

The Erlanger ball team accompanied by a strong delegation of good natured and enthusiastic rooters, came to Burlington, last Monday, and celebrated Labor Day, by getting shut out in the morning's game, but pulled down a victory in the afternoon by a score of 9 to 8. Brady was in his old form and pitched the shut-out. The Boones began the afternoon game with Houston in the box, but he had won a hard game the day before and was not in condition and in the fourth inning Brady was put in the box but he could not hold the visitors down, they getting seven hits off of him, while the Boones made a single and a three bagger off of Rose, who took the box in the place of Cefalo in the fourth inning. In this game Erlanger made 13 hits and the Boones 11. Seven of the Erlangers struck out, and 6 Boones. About 300 people witnessed the afternoon game.

SHOOTING TOURNAMENT.

Lieut. William Cookson Won the First Prize.

Seagirt, N. J., Sept. 2.—The first competition of the interstate shooting tournament of the National Rifle association of America, and the New Jersey State Rifle association, was won by First Lieut. William Cookson, inspector of rifle practice of the Sixth battalion, national guard of the District of Columbia, with a total of 95 out of a possible 100.

The contest which ended late Thursday was open only to inspectors of rifle practice. Each competitor fired 10 shots at 500 yards and 10 shots at 600 yards, making his own choice of military rifle and ammunition. Capt. C. B. Winder, of Ohio, won the second prize, Capt. William B. Martin, Second New Jersey, the third, and Lieut. K. X. V. Casey, of the Seventy-first New York, the fourth prize. Cookson will receive the prize badge and $25, Winder $10 and Martin and Casey $5 each.

PUBLIC DEBT STATEMENT.

There Was An Increase of $6,511,969 During the Month of August.

Washington, Sept. 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business August 31, 1904, the total debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $987,392,382, an increase for the month of $6,611,969. This increase is accounted for by a corresponding decrease in the amount of cash on hand. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $895,157,630; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,841,270; debt bearing no interest, $388,369,845; total, $1,285,369,746. This amount, however, does not include $1,007,390,969 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding, which are offset by an equal amount of cash on hand which is held for their redemption.

RAILWAY MEN TO MEET.

SEVERAL GOVERNORS.

They Will Be Gen. Corbin's Guests During Military Maneuvers.

The Military Attaches of the Governments of Spain, Russia, Germany, England, Turkey, Mexico and France Will Be Entertained.

Headquarters Camp, Gainesville, Va., Aug. 31.—Gen. Corbin Tuesday fixed September 10 as the date for holding the final review of the 25,000 troops to participate in the annual maneuvers of the army, and Wellington, Va., as the place for holding the review. This decision was reached after the broad, sloping acres adjoining the railroad track at Wellington had been inspected by the general, accompanied by Col. Knight, a member of his staff. The inspection trip was made in an automobile and the headquarters of Gen. Grant at Manassa was visited before the return was made to headquarters.

The review is to be a spectacular feature of the maneuvers and great preparations are making by the Southern railway to transport large crowds from Washington and the east.

Gainesville, Va., Sept. 2.—Squadrons of cavalry bivouacked Thursday night throughout the maneuver zone. The search for position is growing keen, and both the Seventh cavalry, at Thoroughfare, who are to be a part of the "Brown" army in the maneuvers, and the 15th, at Manassas, who are to wear the blue, are remaining away from camp, that they may have the benefit of the entire day Friday in their study of the country.

The conference in Gen. Corbin's tent Thursday was participated in by both division commanders, Grant and Bell, and the four brigade commanders of each division, Col. Wagoner, chief umpire, and Gen. Corbin's staff officers, settled all open questions. The opposing commanders wanted to know the minute they will be allowed to move when the first problem is declared on. The time was fixed at midnight of the 5th.

There is to be no declaration of victory by Col. Wagoner, the chief umpire. The result of the day's operations are to be summed up by the umpires as accurately as possible and a statement made giving the disposition and use of forces made by each side. This is as near a determination of a military contest as is practicable where blank cartridges are used in lieu of lead.

The commercial telephone and telegraph wires are not to be used for the transmission of information by either side, the supposition being that in actual warfare these means of communication will be destroyed.

During the maneuvers Gen. Corbin is to entertain the military representatives of several governments at headquarters camp, the governors of eight states and other distinguished guests. Each guest will have a tent, in which has been placed a small iron bed, a chair and a tent table, with bucket, wash basin and tin cup. The military attaches are Col. Monte Verde, Spanish; Col. Ruapopoff, Russian; Col. Foster and Maj. Williams, English; Col. Alta Mira, Mexican; Col. Aziz Bey, Turkish; Maj. Von Etzel, German, and Capt. Fournier, French.

Governors of the following states will be visitors to Gen. Corbin's camp during some portion at least of the maneuvers: Connecticut, Massachusetts, West Virginia, Georgia, Vermont, Maryland, South Carolina, and New Jersey. Each governor will be accompanied by two aides.

FOURTH OF JULY VICTIMS.

The Number of Deaths and Persons Injured in the United States.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—The Journal of the American Medical Association publishes the statistics gathered by it regarding accidents on the last Fourth of July. The total number of deaths from lockjaw was 91 as against 48 the previous Fourth. But there were 93 deaths from other causes against only 60 last year. The total deaths were 183, and the total number of persons injured not fatally was 3,986.

To Kentucky Heroes.

Monroe, Mich., Sept. 2.—Eight thousand persons gathered in Monroe Thursday to attend the ceremonies incident to the dedication of a monument erected by the state of Michigan in honor of the brave Kentuckians and other soldiers who lost their lives in the massacre of the River Raisin in 1812. There were delegations from northern Ohio, Kentucky and many towns in southern Michigan.

Washington, Sept. 2.—[illegible] Clem, chief quartermaster of the Philippine division, has been reprimanded by Gen. Humphrey, quartermaster general, for his action in [illegible] the United States to pay the claim of $423,000 on "unexpended balances" of the appropriations for the war of the fiscal year, when, as stated at the war department, the money was actually needed to meet necessary expenses for army transportation and other work of the quartermaster's department.

The money having been turned into the treasury is now beyond the control of the war department officials and will have to be reappropriated by congress to meet existing obligations.

ALFRED PICARD ARRIVES.

He Is the Representative of President Loubet to the World's Fair.

New York, Sept. 2.—Alfred Picard, commissioner general from France to the St. Louis exposition, and as such the special representative of President Loubet, several French and other European delegates to the inter-parliamentary union for the promotion of international arbitration, to be held in St. Louis, and the band of the Republican Guards of Paris, which is likewise bound for St. Louis, arrived Friday by the French line steamer La Savoie. This is M. Picard's first visit here. He was the principal organizer of the universal exposition in Paris in 1900 and is chairman of the state council of the French government.

FIRED AT THE SULTAN.

The Bullet Glanced Off His Coat of Mail Which He Wears.

Paris, Sept. 2.—The Paris edition of the New York Herald prints the following from its Geneva correspondent: A high official of the Ottoman court has received news of a serious fight between the sultan's Albanian guard and Bosnians, which continued almost to the doors of the harem. Many were killed or wounded. It is said that one Albanian shot at the sultan, the bullet glancing off the coat of mail which he always wears. The sultan has asked the prince of Montenegro to supply him with a guard.

A MINIATURE MINT.

It Will Be in Operation at the Exposition in Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., Sept. 2.—That there will be a government mint in full operation at the Lewis & Clark exposition is the assurance given to President H. W. Goode by Secretary Shaw of the treasury department. The visit of Secretary Shaw to the exposition grounds had the effect of gaining his sanction to the establishment of the mint. The mint will be an active exhibit, and will be placed where the processes of making money may be viewed by all.

Goggles for Chickens.

Among the recent inventions which poultry fanciers find interesting at the world's fair is a pair of goggles to be placed on chickens to prevent them from picking out the eyes of one another. Pugnaciously-inclined birds on a farm can do a great deal of harm to the others, and, as a protection against damage being sustained to the eyes, it is proposed to equip the members of the flock with the goggles.

Russian Students' Holidays.

A movement is on foot in Russia to diminish the excessive number of holidays for students. During a four-years' course at a Russian university, the work done covers only one year and 285 days. In France the time covered is two years, 94 days; in England, two years, 158 days; in the United States, two years, 210 days; in Germany, two years, 230 days. Denmark stands at the head of the list, with two years, 364 days.

Must Behave.

Preachers in Stroudsburg, Pa., are taking the summer boarder question seriously. One of them preached on "Are Summer Boarders and Visiters a Help or a Hindrance to this County?" He took occasion to say that these guests were welcome, of course, but they were expected to behave themselves while taking their outings.

BUILDING FOOD

To Bring the Babies Around.

When a little human machine (or a large one) goes wrong, nothing is so important as the selection of food which will always bring it around again.

"My little baby boy fifteen months old had pneumonia, then came brain fever, and no sooner had he got over these than he began to cut teeth and, being so weak, he was frequently thrown into convulsions," says a Colorado mother.

"I decided a change might help, so took him to Kansas City for a visit. When we got there he was so very weak when he would cry he would sink away and seemed like he would die.

"When I reached my sister's home she said immediately that we must feed him Grape-Nuts and, although I had never used the food, we got some and for a few days gave him just the juice of Grape-Nuts and milk. He got stronger so quickly we were soon feeding him the Grape-Nuts itself and in a wonderfully short time he fattened right up and became strong and well.

"That showed me something worth knowing and, when later my girl came, I raised her on Grape-Nuts and she is a strong, healthy baby and has been. You will see from the little photograph I send you that a strong, chubby youngster the boy is now, but he didn't look anything like that before we found this nourishing food. Grape-Nuts nourished him back to strength when he was so weak he couldn't keep any other food on his stomach." Name given by Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FOURTEEN ARE DEAD.

Fire in a New York Tenement House.

Nearly a Score of Others Were Injured, Some of Them Probably Fatally, Among the Number Five Firemen.

New York, Sept. 5.—Fourteen persons were killed and nearly a score injured in a fire in a five-story double tenement in Attorney street, at an early hour Sunday morning. It was one of the worst fires in the loss of human lives that has occurred on the East Side in several years, although the property loss was slight.

The dead included four women, one man and nine children, ranging in age from three months to 12 years.

Many of the injured were taken to hospitals, and it is though that several of these will die. Among the injured were five firemen, who were on a fourth floor balcony when it fell with them.

The small number of men among the killed and injured was due to the fact that most of the men who lived in the building following the Attorney street custom in hot weather, were asleep on the roof, while but few of the women and children were there. Those on the roof were unable to escape by descending through the burning building, and made their way to safety over neighboring roofs. Meanwhile the members of their families, who had remained in their rooms, found escape cut off, and panic reigned throughout the structure.

The fire started about 3 o'clock in the morning, and there was considerable delay in sending in an alarm, although the district is one of the most thickly populated in the crowded East Side of New York. When the firemen reached the scene some of the tenants were jumping from the windows and from the ends of fire escapes that reached only to the second floor; others were crouching in the smoke in the small rooms and narrow halls.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by the explosion of a lamp that had been left to light the hall on the second floor, and the sleeping tenants were not aroused until the hallway was ablaze and escape through the building cut off.

The fire was soon extinguished, and the search for the dead began. Most of the dead were found on the two upper floors. While the search of the building was going on, four firemen were at work on a fourth floor balcony, when it gave way. Another fireman on the balcony on the floor below was also carried down, and was probably fatally injured. The other four were badly hurt, but will recover. Two of them fell upon a pile of bedding in the court yard, and their injuries were caused chiefly by the iron work of the balcony falling upon them.

SUDDEN FIT OF INSANITY.

Attempted to Kill Husband, Shot Policeman and Defied Arrest.

Boston, Sept. 5.—In a sudden fit of insanity Sunday Mrs. Minnie McKenzie tried to kill her husband at her home, on Falcon street, East Boston, then shot and fatally wounded Patrolman Alfred M. Sturdivant, and finally barricaded herself in the front room of her tenement, where she remained for more than five hours, standing off a squad of ten policemen. She was finally captured by the use of garnicide injected through holes in the barricaded door. When overcome by the fumes, she was found to be armed with two large revolvers, and had a large amount of ammunition. During the barricade she fired more than 50 shots, many going wide into a crowd of 5,000, which gathered about the house.

CROWN PRINCE BETROTHED.

The Announcement Was Made at a Dinner Given by the Emperor.

Altona, Prussia, Sept. 5.—During a dinner which Emperor William and the Empress Augusta Victoria gave at the Kaiserhof Sunday night to the leading officials of Schleswig-Holstein, the emperor announced the betrothal of Crown Prince Frederick William to the Duchess Cecilia, sister of the reigning grand duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin. The announcement was received with great enthusiasm.

THE STRIKE CALLED OFF.

New York Packing Plants Will Run On an Open Shop Basis.

New York, Sept. 5.—Discussing the calling off of the beef strike here, a representative of the United Dressed Beef Co. said Sunday that it would take a little time to provide places for all of the strikers to whom they could give positions. There would have to be a weeding out of all but the competent men.

"In calling off the strike," he said, "the men go back to work on the open shop basis. That is understood, and no walking delegates will be allowed to enter the plants."

Chicago, Sept. 5.—The return to work of the 3,500 strikers in New York City will have no material effect upon the general situation in the stockyards strike, according to President Donnelly, of the butchers' union. In an address Sunday afternoon before an audience composed of 5,000 strikers and their friends, Mr. Donnelly declared that despite the desertion of the New York members of the union, he would make no change in his plans to tie up the meat industry of the country this week.

RIOTOUS SCENES.

Switches Torn Out and a Meat Train Held Up in Chicago.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—Four switches on the Chicago Junction tracks, in the vicinity of the stockyards, were torn out Sunday night, signals, track and all, by some unknown persons in an effort to wreck trains carrying meat from the packing plants. The absence of the switchlights was discovered in time, however, to prevent an accident, and a guard of policemen was placed along the tracks to prevent any further attempt at train wrecking.

Earlier in the day a meat train was held up in the same spot, and one car was derailed and its contents confiscated by a mob of several hundred men, who flocked to the place as soon as the accident occurred.

SENATOR CLARK.

Denies the Story That He Was Assaulted at Missoula, Mont.

Butte, Mont., Sept. 5.—A story having been widely published to the effect that Senator Clark, of this state, had been assaulted in Missoula, and had sought protection in a hotel, Senator Clark has authorized a press representative to make a denial of the story. In a signed statement Senator Clark says:

"The story was an unwarranted perversion of the facts. Mr. Geoffrey Lauzier and Mr. Wethey were with me, and they will confirm my statement that the man did not speak a word to me, and that I did not speak to him. He addressed his remarks solely to Mr. Wethey. That I ran into the hotel asking for help is false."

BATTLE WITH HUNTERS.

A Special Policeman Killed and His Brother Fatally Injured.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—In a battle with five hunters, whom they mistook for thieves, in the yards of the Chicago & Alton railroad at Corwith, Ill., late Sunday, Joseph Burns, a special policeman, was shot and killed, and his brother, Peter Burns, was fatally injured. The Burns brothers, it is said, ordered the hunters, who were walking along the tracks, to go away from the property of the railroad, and when the latter failed to comply promptly with the request, the two watchmen opened fire with their revolvers. The fire was returned by the hunters, who carried shotguns, and the two officers were hit by the first volley.

BY KING LEOPOLD.

President Francis and Director F. J. F. Skiff Decorated.

St. Louis, Sept. 5.—At a banquet given Sunday night by M. Jules Carlier, commissioner general from Belgium to the World's fair, President D. R. Francis, of the exposition company, was decorated with the Order of the Grand Officer of Belgium, and Frederick J. F. Skiff, director of exhibits of the exposition, was decorated with the Order of Commander. The orders were conferred by King Leopold.

Not the Color She Wanted.

Chicago, Sept. 5.—An angry woman with red hair Sunday afternoon began breaking up the fittings in the E. Canonas drugstore. A patrol wagon was called, but she fled before it arrived. The police said she was angered because hair dye had turned out red instead of chestnut locks.

Richard Croker's New Move.

Dublin, Sept. 5.—Richard Croker has taken a country house in County Dublin, formerly the residence of Justice Murphy, and he expects to take up his permanent residence there soon. The house is close to the Leopardstown track.

STATE NEWS PICK-UPS.

THERE WAS NO CEREMONY.

The Breakfast For the Wedding Guests Was Not Eaten.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3.—A wedding breakfast, which had been prepared at the home of Miss Amelia T. Schneider-Hahn, at 443 East Walnut street, was untouched, but the would-be bride and groom were on hand to greet those invited.

Miss Schneider-Hahn and J. A. Schuessler, an insurance man of this city, were to have been married at 6 o'clock at St. Boniface church, but Father Slavin, after an investigation, announced that according to the laws of the church the ceremony would not be performed, as Mr. Schuessler was a divorced man.

This announcement on the eve of the approaching marriage came as a shock to the couple. They did their best to notify all of the invited guests that the marriage had been postponed, but did not succeed entirely, and a number of persons, who went to the church came to the house for the wedding breakfast. They were under the opinion that the ceremony had been performed. Miss Schneider-Hahn informed them that the marriage was off—at least for a time. An attempt will be made to secure a dispensation.

SHOT IN THE BREAST.

A Well-Known Horseman Instantly Killed Thomas Oldham.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 2.—Ed Orkies, a well-known horseman, shot and instantly killed Thomas Oldham, at Curdsville, early Thursday morning. The killing was the result of troubles of long standing.

Oldham went to Orkies' saloon in an intoxicated condition and Orkies asked him to leave the place. He made at Orkies with a lantern and was striking at him over the bar when the latter picked up a shotgun and fired. The barrel of the gun was within six inches of Oldham's breast. The entire load of shot tore a hole in his breast four inches in diameter and set his clothes on fire.

Orkies came to the city and surrendered Thursday morning and his trial was set for Friday.

THE K. OF P. DEFICIT.

Attachment Suit Brought Against the Entertainment Committee.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3.—An attachment suit was filed Friday against the committee which had charge of the recent biennial encampment of the Knights of Pythias, as a result of the deficit in the entertainment fund. It is by Thomas H. Rees, who seeks to secure $766 for tents furnished the uniform rank and $54 for extra equipment and decorations on Maj. Gen. Carnahan's tent. The discrepancy between the amount subscribed for the entertainment and its cost is $9,200. Funds of the Citizens' national bank were attached Friday morning.

Hunter Accidentally Killed.

Hindman, Ky., Sept. 2.—Tade Coburn was shot and instantly killed while squirrel hunting by his companion, James Conley. They became separated and Conley, seeing an object crawling in the grass and thinking, so he claims, that it was a ground hog, fired at it, the charge taking effect in Coburn's neck. Conley is under arrest.

Historic Tavern Razed.

Shelbyville, Ky., Sept. 1.—The Wayne building, on the corner of Main and Fifth streets, is being torn down to make room for a more modern and commodious structure. The old building is one of the most historic in Central Kentucky. It was erected more than 100 years ago.

Goebel Monument Commission.

Lexington, Sept. 1.—The Goebel monument commission met here to review the work of Signor Moretti upon the clay model. Some unimportant changes were suggested. The commission adjourned until September 8, when the model will be ready for final inspection.

Baptists Convened at Buckeye.

Lancaster, Ky., Sept. 1.—The Tate's Creek Centennial Baptist association, composed of the counties of Garrard, Madison, Boyle, Lincoln and Jessamine, convened at Buckeye, this county, for a three days' session. An immense crowd is present.

Penalty Fixed at Death.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 1.—Robert Mathley was Wednesday found guilty of the murder of Emma Watkins and the penalty was fixed at death by the jury. Mathley killed James Gregson and Emma Watkins at Owensboro, June 26, without provocation.

For Wood and Coal.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 3.—The Clearfield Lumber Co. has purchased 10,000 acres of fine timber and coal lands in Carter county for about $13 an acre. They will build a railroad to connect with the C. & O. New coal mines will be opened and timber cut and sawed.

Growers of Tobacco to Meet.

Guthrie, Ky., Sept. 2.—A meeting of planters and all others interested in the matter of advancing the price of tobacco, is called to be held at the fair grounds at Guthrie on Saturday morning, September 24.

INCIDENTS OF A WEDDING.

Bride and Groom Thrown Into a Pond By a Runaway Team.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2.—A runaway, a crash down an embankment, a splash into a large pond, an hour passed on the roadside after a narrow escape from drowning were a few of the exciting incidents in the marriage of Fred Bosemeyer to Miss Anna Miers, which was solemnized in St. George's church.

The groom and his brother drove to the bride's home in the country and she got in their carriage. Near the intersection of 28th street and Gibson's lane the pole of the carriage broke. The heavy carriage came down upon the horses and the driver was unable to control the animals.

Down the hill they darted at breakneck speed. Suddenly the horses swerved and carried the carriage over an embankment and into a pond.

The driver waded ashore, and after a long search found a plank, on which the groom, the bride, the best man and the bridesmaid reached the bank. It was no easy matter, and they were ankle deep in the mud when they got out of the water.

ELEVENTH DISTRICT CASE.

Every Inch of the Ground Is Being Gone Over.

Irvine, Ky., Sept. 1.—The case of Godfrey Hunter and D. C. Edwards, candidates for congress in the Eleventh congressional district, was called Wednesday morning by Judge Robert Riddell, of this place. There were present representing Mr. Edwards, W. H. Holt, of Louisville; W. L. Brown, of London, and John C. Eversole, of Booneville. Representing Mr. Hunter, were preset; M. H. Rhorer, Middlesboro; James D. Black, Barbourville; C. B. Hill, Winchester; G. W. Gourley, Beattyville, and W. M. Ramsey.

It was very apparent from the outset that there will be an interesting trial, each side being ably represented and each watching with greatest care the actions of the other.

The Hunter attorneys presented numerous affidavits to the court, alleging fraud, fear of violence and intimidation if they undertook to count the election returns in London. The Edwards side presented claims of fraud ad other issues.

ALL NEGOTIATIONS OFF.

Suit Against Southern Pacific For Back Taxes Will Be Pressed.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2.—State Revenue Agent Bezot will now press suit against the Southern Pacific for back taxes on a valuation of $315,000,000, and it is hinted the company may reincorporate in another state. Bezot was willing to settle on a $100,000,000 basis, but the company wanted to pay $30,000 to settle all back taxes and $10,000 annually hereafter. This compromise the revenue agent refused to make, and all negotiations are off.

Long-Lived Farmers.

Hartford, Ky., Sept. 3.—Living in this county, near the little town of Beda, are three brothers who have remarkable ages. They are John, Ned and Ike Sheown and their ages are respectively 84, 82 and 80 years, their average age bein 82. The aggregate age of the three men is 246 years.

Ex-Gov. Bradley's Condition.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 3.—Friday night it was said that former Gov. Bradley may not be able to take the stump for the republicans owing to ill health. He spoke at Barboursville Friday, but friends say he would suffer a complete collapse should he attempt half a dozen speeches.

Was Easy For George Grant.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 3.—The fight between George Grant and Miner Williams, which took place here, resulted in a victory for Grant in the first round. Two short jabs, followed by a well-directed blow over the heart, sent the Cynthiana man to the floor and he took the count.

Corner in Grass Seed.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 2.—Twenty of the largest land owners in Clark county, Indiana, have formed an orchard grass seed combine and expect to corner the market. They have 2,000 sacks, each containing from eight to ten bushels, and are holding it with a view to receiving $1.50 per bushel.

The Monroe Celebration.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 1.—Secretary of State H. V. McCheaney and Edward Leigh, the governor's private secretary, left Wednesday for Monroe, Mich., to attend the unveiling of the monument to the Kentucky soldiers who fell in the battle of the River Raiser in 1813.

Swallowed Laudanum.

Covington, Ky., Sept. 3.—Mrs. Bert Timberlake, of 342 Pike street, swallowed a drachm and a half of laudanum Friday afternoon. It is believed that she will recover, although she was in a very dangerous condition when she was found.

A Missouri editor announced that for just one week he would tell the truth. Here are a few items from that issue:

John Bonin, the laziest merchant in town, made a trip to Belleview yesterday. John Doyle, our grocerman, is doing a poor business. His store is dirty, dusty and notoriously oderiferous. How can he expect to do much? Rev. Styx preached Sunday night on Charity. The sermon was punk. If the reverend gentleman would live up a little closer to what he preaches he'd have bigger congregations. Dave Sonkey died at his home in this place last Saturday. The doctor gave it out as heart failure. The fact is he was drunk and whisky is what killed him. His home was a rented shack in Roudy street. Married—Miss Sylvia Rhodes and James Canaban, last Saturday evening at the Baptist parsonage. The bride is a very ordinary town girl, who doesn't know any more about cooking than a rabbit, and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty by any means, and has a gait like a fat duck. The groom is well known here as an up-to-date loafer. He has been living off the folks all his life and don't amount to shucks. They will have a hard life while they live together and the News has no congratulations to offer for we don't believe any good can come from such a union."

The issue in which the editor told the truth was the last he ever made. Now, in the spring time, when the dew drops sparkle in the tender grass, when the sweet throated birds make a melody all the day, subscribers to this paper while it was published drive out into the country a short way to catch a glimpse of a piece of black skin which hangs suspended from a barbed wire fence. It is all that remains of the once manly form of the Missouri editor who "told the truth for one week."

The latest thing to cause widespread alarm in parts of Tennessee is the cabbage snake, and so acute has become the fear in certain places that the vegetable cannot be given away and is being fed to hogs. In Trousdale County a farmer from Rocky Creek drove into Hartsville with a wagon load of 60 head of fine cabbages, and, when informed of the alarm which had been caused by the finding of snakes in heads of cabbage, admitted that the same state of affairs existed in his own region, and as his own family had been afraid to use the cabbage he had decided to sell them. Not one of the cabbages could be given away.

A question now agitating the mind of the tobacco trade of Louisville is whether or not the Continental Tobacco Co. will again attempt to corner the Burley market. Indications seem to show that they will again wage that style of campaign when the time comes for marketing Burley. If the effort is successful and the same process is continued every year, it will drive many of the independent concerns out of business through the inability to secure supplies. The independents are, however, wide-awake to the situation, and the extra large crop this year, coupled with their usual vigilence, will tend to make the accomplishing of the coup very difficult for the Trust.

Tobacco and corn cutting has commenced here. It is our opinion that fodder will not be much good this year.

J. J. Walton has hauled quite a lot of logs to Parson's mill, to be made into lumber to be used in repairing his barns.

Wood Sullivan is having a new summer kitchen and smoke house built on the site of the one that burnt some time since.

Cecil Snelling attended the Sunday school convention at Petersburg Thursday, and reports a large attendance and a good time.

Clocks and watches in the Commissary neighborhood will be called for, repaired and delivered without extra cost. Thomas, Agent.

Hayden French, of near French, Indiana, was visiting his uncle and aunt, Ben Cason and wife, of Middle creek, from Friday until Sunday of last week.

Bro. Tolib, we do not claim to know it all. We made our forecast too early to know all that might come up. We may miss it on one or two but not no more.

The candidates who will be beaten will have one thing to console them: They will not be accused of playing unfairly. The men who get there will be the ones thus accused.

Forest Rice, son of Solon Rice, and Miss Bertha Setters, daughter of James Setters, all of McVille, were married in Rising Sun, last Monday. We wish them happiness and prosperity.

Robert Rice, of Patriot, Ind., and Miss Sadie Marshall, of Middle creek, were married in Aurora, Thursday, evening. After the ceremony was performed they went to Patriot. The boys have everything in readiness to give them an old time charivari when they return.

GUNPOWDER.

E. O. Rouse shipped a load of good sheep to market last Monday.

Mrs. A. D. Rouse is disabled, the result of lifting a heavy weight.

James Rouse and wife, of Grant county, visited relatives here last week.

The drought is becoming very serious. Pastures are all dried up and water is very scarce.

R. O. Beemon and wife returned home last week after an extensive trip through the Western country. They also visited the World's Fair.

B. O. Tanner and L. P. Aylor exhibited their prize winning sheep at the Alexandria fair last week, and captured several premiums.

W. N. Surface and wife attended the Alexandria fair last Saturday, and William succeeded in winning a $15 premium on his famous coach horse.

The most enjoyable affair of the season was the barbecue given by the citizens of Limaburg and vicinity last Saturday. The dinner was most tastefully prepared under the supervision of Owen Aylor. It consisted of beef, pork and lamb with the necessary trimmings. The orators of the day were D. E. Castleman and F. E. Curley, who very ably presented their claims for the office to which they aspire. B. B. Hume was called on to address the audience but excused himself by saying he did not know his piece, yet.

o o o

BELLEVIEW.

Joe Mauer and wife visited over on Woolper, Sunday.

T. L. Utz and family, of Florence, are visiting at Ben Corbin's.

A crowd from here picniced at Split Rock, Sunday. They went up on the Daisy.

Struck out by Crosby, 8, Conner, 4. The first team will probably play at Petersburg next Saturday.

Henry Clore and wife, of near Burlington, visited T. W. Cook and wife, Saturday night and Sunday.

Quite a large crowd attended the ordination of deacons by the Baptist church at this place last Saturday.

There is talk that if the Boones and Petersburg play the third game of their series that it will be played here. Nearly everyone in this section is a base ball enthusiast, and a large crowd would witness it, and the ground being inclosed would make it a financial success.

The first and second teams played here, Saturday evening and the game was highly interesting from beginning to end. Conner was in good form and pitched a good game, letting his opponents down with 3 hits, while the first team got 8 hits off of Crosby, of Aurora, who pitched for the Juniors. Following is the score by innings:

FRANCESVILLE.

Lottie Brown, of Sand Run, is quite sick.

This district, No. 17, is in need of a teacher.

Gaines, of Carrollton; Mrs. New, of Texas; Mrs. Johnnie Garr and son, of Crawfordsville, Ind.; Mrs. Sidney Blankenbeker, Mrs. Lizzie Gaines, and Mr. Cassius Cropper, of Louisville, all formerly of this county.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Colera, Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffered one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend Mr. O. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." For sale by all Druggists.

The County Convention of the Christian Sunday Schools met with the church here, Wednesday and Thursday of last week, and was largely attended. Wednesday night, Rev. Rains, of Cincinnati, talked on what Missions had done; on Thursday night Rev. Edgar Riley preached a nice sermon on "Who Christ is." He is a bright young man and will make his mark in the Theological world. Cincinnati, Covington, Lawrenceburg and Aurora sent representatives.

About 300 enthusiasts witnessed the rottenest game of ball ever played on the home grounds, last Saturday, between Pete and the Boones, and especially between teams that make pretentions of playing ball. Had the Boones any base ball gumption they could have won easily, as they made five runs in the first inning. Gordon's pitching was under difficulties, as he had been sick for two weeks, and he had poor support in the field. Hughes was wild at times, but the aggregation behind him was wilder, and lost the game from their stupidity. Houston, the Bullittsville pitcher, pawed up the earth around home plate, but his hits were all bingles but one and that was a foul, but the umpire called it fair. Justis went in the box for Pete in the last of the game and not a single hit was recorded against him. Score, 10 to 9 in favor of Pete.

A DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

Man Under Indictment for Murder Kills His Wife and Himself

Louisville, Ky. Sept. 8.—William E. Neal, under indictment for the murder last winter of Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney James K. Shrader, Wednesday shot and killed his wife, Nellie Robinson Neal and then ended his own life. The tragedy occurred in a boarding house on West Broadway, where Neal and his wife had been living since Sunday, as Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, of Nashville, Tenn. Mrs. J. G. Baird, the landlady, said:

"The couple came to my house Sunday and paid for 'wo days' board. They acted in a peculiar manner.

"Mrs. Neal had been complaining of being ill. She came down Wednesday looking haggard and worn, saying her husband was too ill to come to the table. She wanted to take him a light lunch. My daughter was in the adjoining room, when she heard them talking in whispers. A silence ensued. One shot rang out and soon another. The interval was short."

Mrs. Neal was Nellie Robinson, daughter of Prof William Robinson, of Hopkinsville, Ky. Judge J. T. O'Neal, counsel for the defense in the Shrader case, said:

"I will never have the opportunity of clearing Neal of the charge of wilfully murdering James Shrader. Only Wednesday I came into possession of facts which put another aspect on his case."

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 8.—Mrs. Nellie Robinson Neal had been living in Indianapolis with her mother and brother for several months, having left her husband last winter.

Mrs. Neal left Indianapolis several days ago, saying she would visit an aunt in Louisville, and Monday her mother, Mrs. Joseph Robinson, received a telegram from her daughter saying she would be home Monday night. Mrs. Robinson, the mother of Mrs. Neal, left Wednesday night for Louisville.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Sept. 8.—The report of the Neal double tragedy at Louisville, which reached here Wednesday night, caused a great sensation. When William E. Neal came to Hopkinsville over a year ago, as a sporting man, and met Mrs. Nettie Robison Wood, he was infatuated from the first. He had several fights with young men about town on her account. He and Mrs. Wood were familiar figures in daily drives through the streets, and on at least one occasion they were fined for exceeding the speed limit. They eloped one day and married, and went to Louisville to live.

THE LEECH CUP MATCH.

The Trophy Was Won by George E. Cook, of the District of Columbia.

Seagirt, N. J., Sept. 8.—The Leech cup match was won Wednesday by George E. Cook, of the District of Columbia, shooting under the colors of the Manhatan Rifle and Revolver association, of New York City. The company team match was won by Company I, Second regiment, national guard, of the District of Columbia, with a total of 310 points, out of a possible 350.

Cook finished in the lead with a score of 94. His prize consists of the Leech cup, to be held for one year, and a gold badge. H. E. Simon, of Ohio, won the second prize, $25, also with a score of 94. Cook, however, rolled up the biggest total at the longest range, and, therefore, was entitled to precedence. The third prize, $15, went to J. R. Williams, of New Jersey; the fourth prize, $10, to R. L. Pile, of the District of Columbia, and the fifth prize, $5, to C. B. Winder, of Ohio.

A PLAGUE OF MOSQUITOS.

One Woman Went Insane and Two Infants Have Died.

Mazatlan, Mex., Sept. 8.—A plague of mosquitoes is reported from the town of Eldorado, this state. The insects are said to be of extraordinary size, and appear in swarms at night. One woman, it is reported, has been driven insane by the attacks of mosquitoes, and two infants have died from the poisonous effects of their bites. The residents of the town have appealed to the state authorities for aid, and the authorities have asked for experts from the City of Mexico. The plague seems to be confined to the town and vicinity, the insects originating in nearby swamps.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 8.—About 40 of the prominent southern manufacturers of colored cotton goods met here Wednesday, and organized under the name of the Southern Colored Cotton Goods Weavers' association.

MANEUVERS ENDED.

Gen. Grant Awarded First Victory and Gen. Bell Second.

The Maneuvering and Sham Fighting of Friday Was the Most Spectacular of the Campaign—Historic Stone Bridge.

Corps. Headquarters, Gainesville, Va., Sept. 10.—The second maneuver problem ceased at 9 o'clock Friday with Gen. Bell, commanding the brown army, demolishing Gen. Grant, commanding the blue army, east of Bull Run. This result awards victory to the attacking force in each of the two problems, and makes Gen. Grant the first victor and Gen. Bell the second, far as results can be estimated without bullets.

The manoeuvering and fighting Friday was far the most spectacular and exciting of the campaign. The day of the second problem had developed nothing but a rear guard action on the part of Grant, while Gen. Bell had spent his time endeavoring to make a demonstration on the left wing or to take the south of the blue line. During the night the situation was changed. Gen. Grant's main position remained the same, behind or to the east of Bull Run. He withdrew his first brigade, under Gen. Wint, who had fought the rear guard action the day before, to the famous stone bridge across Bull Run, along whose eastern shores the trenches dug by the federal troops still remain, and in which Gen. Grant posted Gen. Wint's line after it had been driven across the bride with the loss of one brigade.

Gen. Bell executed a magnificent march with the forces which the day before were on the left wing of his enemy. He threw them, during the small hours of the night, from the left to the right of Grant's position. When daylight came they were put across Bull Run at Sudley, or to the extreme north of the manoeuver scene. His center remained practically the same, and fought a brigade action at Stonebridge. It was the point here that the fighting of the day began. The brown forces charged up to the bridge, which was constructively blown up, but were repulsed and ordered back. A second charge likewise did not meet the approval of the umpires, but the third was accomplished by a most brilliant action. A part of the brown force, a section of the 9th infantry, had delayed in the woods, gone down stream and waded across. They crept up on the east bank, and got in position not 20 yards behind the blue defenders when the 8th Massachusetts and 12th New York, who were making the charge on the west side, came up the third time. It did not take the umpires a second to rule out the entire blue force at this point, and the brown army crossed at Bull Run at will.

In the meantime the force which had crossed to the north, at Sudley, had been coming down toward the hill and the pike. They struck Grant's line to the rear, and the manoeuver ended when this force appeared in a flanking movement on the blue line, which was facing a brown line that had crossed at the stone bridge.

A LACK OF DEMAND.

There Was a Decrease of Anthracite Coal Production During the Year.

Philadelphia, Sept. 9.—The statistics on the production of anthracite coal during the month of August, issued Thursday, show a decrease of 837,548 tons compared with the same month last year. The tonnage for August was 4,831,854. The production for the year up to September 1, was 38,212,228, against 42,431,849 for the corresponding period last year. The decrease in production is due to the numerous suspensions of operations because of lack of demand.

To Increase the Force.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. has notified the foremen of its shops in this city to largely increase their forces immediately. It is expected that all of the men who were furloughed in June will be ordered to work.

New York, Sept. 10.—While kneeling beside her mother's grave in Washington cemetery at Gravesend, Yetta Belkowitz, 18, was crushed to death by the family monument, a heavy granite shaft, toppling over.

COLORED MAN LYNCHED.

Horace Maples Hanged by a Mob at Huntsville, Ala.

Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 8.—After setting fire to the jail and smoking out the prisoner while the fire department was held at bay with guns, and the sheriff, his deputies and the soldiers outwitted, a mob, estimated at over 2,000 persons, lynched Horace Maples, the Negro accused of murdering John Waldrop by stringing him to a tree on the courthouse lawn Wednesday.

The action of the mob was taken, notwithstanding strong protests made by Solicitor Earl Pettus and H. Wallace, Jr., in stirring speeches, in which law and order were pleaded for eloquently.

The crowd began to gather Wednesday afternoon and night, as soon as the details of the crime spread throughout the country in which Waldrop had a number of friends, and before the militia, which was ordered from Birmingham by Gov. Cunningham arrived, the mob had swelled to enormous proportions.

While the sheriff and his deputies pluckily stood their guard they were powerless before the mob and the fire. The local military company was called out, but they were outwitted by the men, who conceived the idea of smoking out the prisoner.

At 10:25 o'clock the jail was fired in the back part, burning fiercely, a dense smoke spreading through the upper stories and cells of the building. The fire department was not allowed to approach within a block of the scene, and was driven away with bullets. The crowd on the outside would allow nobody to enter or come out until the person of Horace Maples was surrendered to the crowd. The sheriff and his guards would not give in, but, in some manner, the Negro got through a window and jumped out of the building into the crowd. He was chased down and a rope thrown around his neck, and he was pulled up to the county courthouse. There was an immense crowd on the lawn.

While Maples was confessing his crime and implicating a white man and two more Negroes, John H. Wallace, Jr., and Solicitor Earl Pettus delivered impassioned addresses, trying to dissuade the mob. They were hooted down in turn, but finally, when Solicitor Pettus called on all who were in favor of the law taking its course to hold up their hands, about half of the big crowd of several thousand did so. There was cheering for a moment, but the men with the rope pulled the Negro away, threw the end of the rope over a limb, and drew him up. The Negro was dead in a few minutes. A crowd will make an effort to capture the Negroes accomplices, but no more disorder is feared.

During the attack on the jail, United States District Judge Shelby issued an order for United State Deputy Marshals to protect United States prisoners in the burning building, and obtain names of all parties engaged in endangering the prisoners' lives.

Danville, Va., Sept. 8.—W. T. Harris, Wicker Armes, Dan H. Taile, Bud F. Pruitt, George C. Miller, R. J. Lynch and Whit Meyers, were convicted Wednesday in the corporation court of being participants in the mob when attempt was made several weeks ago to lynch the Negro boy Seals, charged with murder, confined in the city jail. The men were sentenced to pay a fine of $50, and to serve a term of one day in jail.

PECULIAR PHENOMENA.

Great Billows Are Rolling In From the Sea In California.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 8.—From many points along the southern coast Wednesday came reports of damage by great billows, which are rolling in from the sea, occasioned by some peculiar phenonemena, possibly volcanic disturbances far out in the ocean. While there is scarcely a cupful of wind, enormous waves, in some instances 40 feet high, roll ceaselessly against the shores. Word comes Wednesday that the wharf at Huenema is doomed to total destruction. At Terminal Island the sea has wrought considerable havoc, and hundreds of men are at work piling up sacks of sand to form breakwaters. Several cottages are inundated. At Long Beach and at Ocean Park the pleasure wharves have been much damaged, and no one is permitted to go on them. The heavy seas have been running for several days, but Wednesday they were higher than before, and mode damage may be done.

CARBOLIC ACID.

Its Sale Is Forbidden, Except On a Doctor's Prescription.

New York, Sept. 8.—As a result of the great number of cases of suicide, in which carbolic acid has figured as the agent of destruction, an amendment has been made to the sanitary code, forbidding the sale of the drug, except on a physician's prescription. This amendment applies to a solution in which carbolic acid is present in a quantity in excess of 5 per cent.

Ex-Gov. Taylor Weds.

BUTCHERS' STRIKE.

It Has Been Officially Declared Off by President Donnelly.

Estimated Loss to the Men in Wages is About $5,000,000, and About $7,500,000 to the Packers in Loss of Business.

Chicago, Sept. 9.—The strike of the butcher workmen, which had been on for the last two months, was officially declared off Thursday by President Mischel Donnelly, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of America. Thursday morning Mr. Donnelly conferred with the members of the national executive committee, asking their consent to an announcement of the end of the struggle, and then, having received favorable answers from all, he declared that the strike of the members of his organization would end at midnight.

During the strike approximately 53,000 persons have been involved in the struggle, which is estimated to have cost the men about $5,000,000 in wages, as against an estimated loss of $7,500,000 to the packers in loss of business, and in increased expenses. The greater number of men idle in Chicago during the strike was 26,600, and the total in the country outside of this city is estimated to be about the same.

The original cause of the strike was a demand by the butchers' union that the packers pay to the unskilled workmen 18½ cents an hour. The packers refused an agreement, but offered to arbitrate the question.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Hundreds of live stock handlers who went out on a strike, appeared at the office of Manager Skinner, of the Union Stock Yards and Transit Co. Friday to apply for their old positions. He had previously announced that he would employ all the old men needed. Members of other unions were not so much in evidence when work was begun at the packing houses Friday. Most of the men did not know that the strike was off. President Donnelly has received a telegram from the last member of the international executive board of the butchers, giving permission to call off the strike. None of the stock handlers were taken back, being informed that they would be sent for when needed. It is understood that before going to work they will be required to sign an agreement setting forth that they return as individuals, and not as an organization.

The complete surrender of the butcher workmen came after a dramatic scene. The allied trades conference had taken the management of the strike practically out of the hands of President Donnelly, and were endeavoring to continue the strike in the hope of getting some concessions. Donnelly saw that the end could not be averted, and at once wired all the members of the national executive board of the butcher workmen's organization, asking permission to call off the strike. He soon received replies which warranted him calling off the strike, and then going to the room of the allied trades conference, he dramatically announced that voting on the question of continuing the strike would not do any good, as he had received authority and would call off the strike.

When informed of the action of the conference board of the allied trades in formally ending the strike, President Donnelly, of the butcher workmen, said:

"Although we have not won all we went out for, we go back as an organization. Both sides have learned a lesson. The butchers will build up a better and a stronger organization from the experience of the past. I do not believe the packers will discriminate against the union."

Chicago, Sept. 12.—All probability of complications at the stockyards was removed Sunday, when the packing house teamsters voted to return to work Monday morning. The offer of the packers to take back now as many teamsters as are needed and to hire the others as necessity demands, was made known through a committee that had visited the packers, and the proposition was accepted without opposition. The packers were at once notified that the men would report at 9 o'clock Monday.

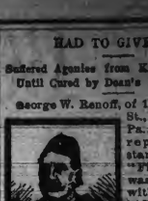
VICTORY FOR THE EMPLOYERS.

Differences at the Republic Iron and Steel Co's. Plant Adjusted.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Victory for the employers was the outcome of the conciliation plan of adjusting wage differences between the Republic Iron & Steel Co. and its 20,000 skilled union employes at Ashtabula, O. The members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron & Steel workers employed by the Republic Iron & Steel Co., were forced to submit to a reduction in wages. The decrease in pay will be from 2 to 13 per cent. The most skilled workers will suffer the greatest reductions.

Lamont Not a Candidate.

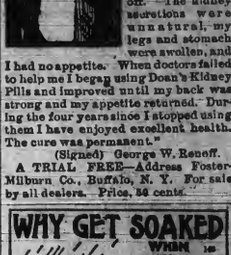
New York, Sept. 10.—Daniel Lamont, in an interview printed Friday morning, declares that he is not to be considered a candidate for governor, and that under no circumstances would he consent to accept the nomination.



A Call for Proposals.

Washington, Sept. 9.—The Panama canal commission Thursday called for proposals for 11 steam shovels for canal construction, and directed the purchase of a large quantity of dynamite and powder.

HAD TO GIVE UP.



Suffered Agonies from Kidney Disorders Until Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills.

George W. Reneff, of 1938 North 11th St., Philadelphia, Pa., a man of good reputation and standing, writes: "Five years ago I was suffering so with my back and kidneys that I often had to lay off. The kidney secretions were unnatural, my legs and stomach were swollen, and I had no appetite. When doctors failed to help me I began using Doan's Kidney Pills and improved until my back was strong and my appetite returned. During the four years since I stopped using them I have enjoyed excellent health. The cure was permanent."

Deviled Tomatoes.

Remove the skins from three tomatoes and cut each in three slices; season with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and saute in butter; place on a dish and pour over the dressing; cream four tablespoonfuls of butter and add two teaspoonfuls powdered sugar, one teaspoonful mustard, one-quarter teaspoonful salt, a few grains of cayenne, one egg yolk, hard boiled, rolled to a paste, one whole egg, beaten slightly, and two tablespoonfuls vinegar; cook until it thickens.—People's Home Journal.

Rubber for Tires.

Automobile makers are beginning to worry already over a possible substitute for rubber for tires. It is claimed that the demand for this material has increased rapidly the last few years, the importations into the United States alone the last year being $9,000,000 over those of 1903. This means, it is said, that rubber trees are being overtaxed and that there is danger of their dying out. The consumption of rubber for vehicle tires is phenomenal in its magnitude.

Self-Made Men.

An erroneous idea prevails among some people that self-made man is a success and the college-made man is a failure. Many men fail—some of them are college men and some are not. It all lies in the man and his determination to win. This determination leads him, if a college man, to apply his learning; if not a college man, to acquire the necessary knowledge by special study and application. One thing is certain, the unqualified man never wins.—Common Sense.

Escalloped Cheese.

Butter a porcelain baking dish, put in the bottom a layer of cheese cut up equally small, dust with salt and paprika (a mild red pepper), add another layer of bread and cheese and seasoning; beat two eggs light and add to a pint of milk, pour this over the bread and cheese; bake for half an hour in a moderate oven.—Household.

Cost of Mail Distribution.

The United States employed 10,555 men in distributing mail last year. The cost, distributed among 1,400 lines, was $63,594,000. In 373 accidents to mail cars, 18 clerks were killed and 75 seriously injured.

WHAT'S THE USE

To Keep a "Coffee Complexion."

A lady says: "Postum has helped my complexion so much that my friends say I am growing young again. My complexion used to be coffee colored, muddy and yellow, but it is now clear and rosy as when I was a girl. I was induced to try Postum by a friend who had suffered just as I had suffered from terrible indigestion, palpitation of the heart and sinking spells.

"After I had used Postum a week I was so much better that I was afraid it would not last. But now two years have passed and I am a well woman. I owe it all to leaving off coffee and drinking Postum in its place.

"I had drank coffee all my life. I suspected that it was the cause of my trouble, but it was not until I actually quit coffee and started to try Postum that I became certain; then all my troubles ceased and I am now well and strong again." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

FRIGHTFUL DISASTER.

A Column of Japs Blown Up by a Russian Mine.

Japanese Rifles, Legs and Arms Went Hurtling Through the Air and the Hillsides Were Strewn With the Dead.

Cronstadt, Sept. 12.—The Baltic fleet, under command of Vice Adm. Bojestvensky, sailed Sunday afternoon. The destination of the fleet, nine battleships, four cruisers and several torpedo boats, is the far east.

Chee Foo, Sept. 9.—A Japanese column, numbering approximately 700 men, while marching along at night on a road in the valley between Long Hill and Davison Hill, met a frightful disaster, through the explosion of an electric land mine on September 1. The mine was carefully laid by the Russians three weeks ago. It covered nearly a mile of available marching space. The explosive was placed at the bottom. Rocks were placed next, and on top of these clay was packed so carefully that the ground gave the impression of not having been disturbed. The indications of Japanese activity in this vicinity put the Russians on guard. Near midnight the outposts rushed in and reported that the Japanese were approaching. The Russians withheld their fire for some time. Suddenly they threw a searchlight up the valley. The Japanese opened with a rifle fire. The Russians waited until apparently the whole Japanese column was in the danger zone. Then the mine was exploded.

The force of the explosion knocked a number of Russians down, and the sight of Japanese rifles, water bottles, legs and arms hurtling through the lighted space made by a searchlight, was an awful spectacle. Some rocks landed inside the Russian lines. There was one appalling moment, during which the garrison itself was stunned, then a death-like silence. The searchlight coldly lighted up the road and hillsides strewn with dead. The following day the Russians buried the dead, but, owing to their dismembered and mutilated condition, the Russians were unable accurately to estimate the number of killed. A few Japanese escaped.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 9.—Besides the formation of two fresh army corps, as the first answer to the Japanese success at Liao Yang, the Russian army at the front will be reorganized, probably in the form of two armies, in command of Gen. Linevitch and Gen. Baron Kaulbars, respectively, with Gen. Kuropatkin as commander-in-chief. Gen. Kaulbars will go out with the two army corps now organizing in the government of Kazan, Odessa, Vilna and Kief.

The work of burying the dead was left to the Japanese, but the task was almost impossible. The awful rains have handicapped the work of cremation, on which the Japanese relied, and only in shallow trenches burials were possible under the circumstances. Not only is this work one of the greatest difficulties, but it is almost valueless from a sanitary point of view, the storms undoing it soon after it is accomplished.

Tokio, Sept. 12.—An approximation of the Japanese casualties in the battle of Liao Yang, based upon reports of the chiefs of the medical corps of the three Japanese armies, was concluded Sunday. It covers the fighting from August 26, and shows that the killed and wounded amount to 17,539 men, divided as follows:

In the right army, under the command of Gen. Kuroki, 4,866 men; in the center army, under the command of Gen. Nodzu, 4,992 men, and in the left army, under the command of Gen. Oku, 7,681 men. These casualties include 136 officers killed and 464 officers wounded. The fact that the army under Gen. Oku sustained the heaviest losses is accounted for by its assaults upon the Russian defenses to the south of Liao Yang.

Telegraphic report received here Sunday from the headquarters of the Manchurian army declare the Japanese to be in full possession of the Yangtai coal mines, and estimate the Russian loss to the fall of Liao Yang at over 25,000 men. The estimate of losses does not include those suffered by the Russians in the rear guard actions fought after the evacuation of Liao Yang.

Chefoo, Sept. 12.—A Chinese officer who left Port Arthur the night of September 6, arrived here Sunday and reports that Japanese troops to the number of 5,000 control Louisa bay. He says the Japanese are making use of a balloon, which he describes as a cigar-shaped affair with a car suspended, and says that a "fat foreigner, wearing a mustache," runs the balloon.

The Japanese entrenchments line the hills in every direction and reinforcements are constantly arriving from Port Dalny. The Japanese hospitals at Port Dalny are filled with wounded, and transports are engaged in removing the wounded to Japan as fast as possible.

Viceroy Alexieff Resigns.

London, Sept. 12.—A dispatch to Reuter's Telegram Co., from St. Petersburg, says it is said that Viceroy Alexieff, in view of the paramont military exigencies in the far east, has placed his resignation in the hands of the emperor.

Russian Transport Arrives.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.—The Russian transport Lena, Capt. Berlinsky, put into this port Sunday for repairs. The Lena is 31 days from Vladivostok. She has a crew of 497 men and 21 officers, and carries 36 guns.

THE POSTAL CLERKS.

After Electing Officers the National Association Adjourned.

St. Louis, Sept. 10.—After electing the following officers, the annual convention of the United National Association of Postal Clerks adjourned Friday sine die: Arthur J. Donohue, Chicago, president; Forest L. May, Dayton, O., Marsin A. Desmond, St. Louis, and John G. Baker, Cleveland, O., vice presidents; N. C. Loeffler, Chicago, secretary; Peter Wynne, New York, treasurer.

A resolution was adopted urging the post office department to adopt rules so that clerks engaged in night work will not be required to work more than three months consecutively at night.

WRITTEN CONTRACT SIGNED.

The Motormen Will Receive $3.50 for 10 Hours' Work.

New York, Sept. 10.—A written contract covering the conditions agreed to last Saturday by officials of the interborough Rapid Transit Co. and representatives of the unions of all classes of employes on the elevated road, was signed Friday. The main points in the agreement is that it prevents the motormen from striking in the next three years, and provides that in the subway service, no strike shall be called by any of the unions during the life of the contract on the wage or the time questions. The motormen are to receive $3.50 per day for 10 hours of work, instead of for the nine-hour day, which they demanded.

THE MOB OUTWITTED.

Prisoner Put on a Train at Bainbridge, Ga., and Hurried Away.

Bainbridge, Ga., Sept. 10.—Sheriff Fordham Friday morning received a telegram from Judge Spence, at Camilla, ordering him to call out the militia to protect Whitney Williford, a Negro, under arrest on the charge of murder, as a mob from Mitchell county was said to be on the way to Bainbridge to lynch hom.

Orders were given for the militia to hold itself in readiness to respond to a hurry call. Meanwhile the prisoner was put on a train and hurried to Tallahasse, Fla., whence he will be returned to some unknown point in this state. Thus the mob was outwitted.

THREE TOBACCO CONCERNS.

A Plan Will Be Put Before the Stockholders to Consolidate.

New York, Sept. 10.—By the action of the directors of the American Tobacco Co., the Consolidate Tobacco Co. and the Continental Tobacco Co., meetings of the stockholders of the three organizations have been called for September 30, at which plans will be put before the stockholders for a consolidation of the three big concerns into one corporation, to be known as the American Tobacco Co.

The earnings of the three companies amounted to something over $22,000,000 in 1903.

OVER A MILLION DOLLAR FIRE.

A Conflagration Raged All Day at Progresso, Mex.

Progresso, Mex., Sept. 10.—A fierce fire broke out here at an early hour Thursday, and, fanned by a strong breeze, raged unchecked all day, and did not yield to the efforts of the volunteer firemen, whose apparatus was wholly inadequate to cope with a conflagration of such magnitude. The fire wiped out an entire block of business houses, which, for the most part, were two-story structures occupied by firms engaged in the general merchandize business. The loss is estimated at over $1,000,000.

ENGINE TURNED OVER.

Two Trainmen Killed and Another Seriously Injured.

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 10.—Two men were killed and another seriously injured in a wreck on the Southern railroad, between Dogwood and Wilton, on the Birmingham and Selma division Friday afternoon. The train was runnig 30 miles an hour when the engine jumped the track and struck the crossties, turning completely over, crushing the engineer beneath it. Several other employes of the road are said to have been bruised, but not seriously hurt.

The Week's Business Failures.

New York, Sept. 10.—Business failures in the United States for the week ending September 8, number 144, against 189 last week, 165 in the like week in 1903; 197 in 1902. Failures in Canada for the week number 14, as against 17 last week.

Broke World's Pacing Record.

Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Prince Alert Friday broke the pacing record for geldings, going the mile at the state fair track in 1:59½, which beats the record by ¼ second. The first quarter was made in :29¾.

ENDS IN A TRAGEDY.

Eight Out of a Dozen Pleasure Seekers Drowned.

A Launch Run Down by a Steamer, the Big Vessel Striking the Little Boat in the Middle, Cutting it in Half.

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—The Delaware steamer Columbia, on its way from this city to Bristol, Pa. Sunday night, crashed into a steam launch about 10 miles north of here, grinding it to pieces and causing the drowning of eight of the dozen occupants of the small boat. All of the party were Philadelphians.

The dead are: Joseph Fortescue, owner of the launch; Wade Auday, Thomas Duffy, Thomas Corvesci, Anna Young, Joseph Pfromer, Mrs. Josep Pfromer and Engineer Jas. Briggs.

The accident was the tragic ending of a day's pleasure trip on the river. The launch, which was owned by Joseph Fortescue, and the party, had been made up from among a few of his friends. The day was spent in a cruise up the river as far as Trenton. The return trip was begun after nightfall, the pilot of the boat keeping close to the Pennsylvania shore on the run down the river. When a point was reached near Andalusia, the Columbia suddenly loomed up on the darkness. Fortescue jammed his wheel to starboard, but just a moment too late. The big steamer struck the launch squarely in the middle, and cut it in half, throwing all the occupants into the water.

A terrible shriek went up as the boata struck, which almost caused a panic among the passengers on the Columbia. Dozens of life preservers were thrown overboard to those in the water and a boat was quickly lowered. When the rowboat reached the spot only four persons could be found in the darkness. It is believed that several victims were crushed by the paddle wheels on the Columbia.

The four taken from the water are Thomas and Mrs. Dunn, John Heaton and George Young.

The survivors of the launch claim the launch was burning the necessary river lights, as does also Capt. Campbell. The latter declared Sunday night that the accident was unavoidable.

TRAIN HELD UP AND ROBBED.

The Bandits Secured Between $4,000 and $6,000.

St. Paul, Sept. 12.—A special from Winnipeg, Man., says: "At 9:30 p. m. Saturday the Canadian Pacific westbound Continental express was held up by four masked men in the woods, four and a half miles west of Mission Junction. Three of the men crawled over the tender of the locomotive, and at the points of revolvers ordered Engineer Scott to stop the train, which he did. The express messenger was compelled to open the express car. From the safe the robbers secured $4,000 or $5,000 in gold dust, and about $1,000 in currency. The mail clerks were similarly compelled to open the mail car, which was relieved of its contents of registered mail sacks.

THE ELECTRICAL CONGRESS.

The Foreign Delegates Arrive at the World's Fair Grounds.

St. Louis, Sept. 12.—A party of 200 British and European electrical scientists, delegates to the International Electrical congress, which convened at the World's Fair Monday, arrived Sunday night. The delegates were met at the train by the local reception committee of the World's Fair, and were conducted to their hotel. The electrical congress will continue throughout the week, and the delegates will then leaves for Pittsburg, Washington and Philadelphia, where receptions have been arranged in their honor.

CRUISER MILWAUKEE.

The New Warship Launched at the Union Iron Works.

San Francisco, Sept. 12.—Two pretty girls sent the United States cruiser Malwaukee to the sea Saturday. The warship glided into the bay just 15 minutes before the bour of noon, while sirens shrieked and people shouted. Little Miss Lilly Jeffrey, daughter of the vice president of the Union Iron works, gave the signal that started the cruiser on her short journey, and Janet Mitchell, daughter of the late United States Senator John Mitchell, sent the christening bottle of champagne crashing against the bow.

Visited Lincoln's Tomb.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 12.—One hundred and fifty electrical engineers from Europe came to Springfield Sunday to visit the tomb of Abraham Lincoln. At the tomb they were met by Gov. Yates, who delivered a short address. The crowd then left for St. Louis.

DISASTROUS FLOODS.

Rio Grande River on the Worst Rampage of its History.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 12.—A special from Alpine, Tex., says:

The Rio Grande is on the worst rampage in its history, and great destruction of property has already occurred at Presidio Del Norte, Ojinito and many other smaller settlements situated on both sides of the river for a distance of 300 miles along its course. The valley is narrow along the river through the great bend region of Texas, and the losses by destruction of crops there will not be heavy. According to information Sunday from a mounted courier, who came direct from Presidio Del Norte, more than 100 houses of that town, including the United States customs house, were washed away by the flood. The flood is said to have swept away whole settlements of houses occupied by Mexicans between Presidio Del Norte and Bouquillas.

No reports of loss of life have been received. The valley south of Del Rio is wide, and in a high state of cultivation. It is also thickly populated. Heavy property losses will occur when the flood reaches there. A warning has been issued to the settlers below, and they are busy moving out of the valley, and preparing for the expected inundation.

THE REPUBLICAN CAMPAIGN.

It Formerly Opened With the Issuance of Roosevelt's Letter.

Chicago, Sept. 12.—With the issuance of President Roosevelt's letter of acceptance Monday the republican national campaign may be considered as formally opened. It then depends upon the various state organizations to arrange for their meetings and the national committee will assign the speakers who are to do the work. Partly in furtherance of this number of state chairmen are being called in to see National Chairman Cortelyou, who has been in Chicago for the past week.

FOUND DEAD BY A WATCHMAN.

Superintendent of the Dead Letter Office Probably Suicided.

Washington, Sept. 12.—The dead body of David P. Leibhardt, 50, the superintendent of the dead letter office of the postoffice department, was found Sunday night by one of the watchmen, who was making his rounds just after midnight. Evidently it was a case of suicide, for there was a bullet hole in the right temple, and a pistol, with one or more barrels discharged, lay on the floor beside him. Mr. Leibhardt was a native of Indiana, from which state he was appointed to the post office department.

ANTI-SEMETIC RIOTS.

Many Persons Were Injured and Shops Were Pillaged.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 12.—Anti-Semetic rioting took place at Rovno, in the government of Volhynia, September 4, during which many persons were injured and shops pillaged. A similar outbreak occurred at Smela, in the government of Kieff, where the troops were called. Ninety-eight houses and 145 shops were pillaged, and several persons were seriously, and many slightly wounded by the troops. Many of the rioters were arrested.

BRITISH POLITICS.

Irish Nationalist Party in a Fair Way to Control the Parliament.

Boston, Sept. 12.—John E. Redmond, the Irish leader in the British house of commons, declared Sunday night at a crowded mass meeting in the Boston theater, that in view of the present complex political situation in Great Britain, the Irish nationalists party is in a fair way to control the next British parliament. This would be due, he explained, to the complications arising from the stand taken by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain and his followers on the question of free trade.

BY THE "BLACK HAND."

Barber Shop of Joseph Stravoli, New York, Wrecked by Dynamite.

New York, Sept. 12.—The barber shop of Joseph Stravoli, on the ground floor of a five-story building, in Third avenue, was wrecked by an explosion just before 1 o'clock Monday morning, and 20 families living in the house were thrown into a panic. Six weeks ago Stravoli received a letter signed by a crudely drawn "black hand," in which he was ordered to deposit $500 between two stones at First avenue and 38th street.

The World's Fair Attendance.

STATE ITEMS OF INTEREST.

STUDENTS STRIKE.

Revolt Against Laboratory Fee That is Charged at Kentucky College.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 10.—Seventy students revolted Friday against the $5 charge that is being made upon each for an alleged laboratory fee, and they refuse to allow any further matriculation or balloting for rooms in the dormitory of the Kentucky State college by the students already matriculated. An appeal will be made to Gov. Beckham and Attorney General N. B. Hayes for a ruling.

When the students presented themselves for matriculation Friday, President J. K. Patterson sent them to D. C. Frazee, the business agent, and the latter demanded the $5 laboratory fee. The students refused to pay and a break was made for the dormitory, where the commandant, William R. Burtt, was conducting the drawing among the boys for rooms. The strikers placed themselves in a body at the door of the room and refused to allow any one to enter or to leave until an agreement had been made that the drawing should be suspended until the issues between the college and the students had been settled.

THE RAILROAD COMMISSION.

It is Investigating the Complaint of the Lumbermen's Club.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10.—On complaint of the Lumbermen's clnb against the Louisville Car Service association, the Kentucky railroad commission will determine the question of whether it has authority to require the latter to extend from 48 to 72 hours' time allowed by railroad companies running into Kentucky for the unloading of cars containing lumber and other freight before adding charges for car service. It is understood that the extension will be ordered. The railroad companies affected deny the authority of the state commission to interfere, and the question will be litigated in the courts. Argument of the question was made here Friday before the commission.

LOUISVILLE MAN KILLED.

He Fell From a Parachute to a Terrible Death.

Tuscola, Ill., Sept. 8.—At the Douglass county fair Wednesday Joseph Elsle, of Louisville, Ky., was almost instantly killed while descending in a parachute.

Elsle had ascended in a balloon, and when at the height of 200 feet was shot from a cannon. He caught in the top of a tree when near the ground and fell 100 feet, his neck being broken. He had a family at Louisville. The thrilling episode was witnessed by many thousands of persons.

Mrs Day Denies It.

Louiaville, Ky., Sept. 10.—A friend of Mrs. W. R. Day, wife of ex-State Treasurer Day, writing from Winchester, says that Mrs. Day denies the published statement that she had notified the police of New York of her husband's absence from home, and had asked that he be diligently searched for.

Accidentally Shot Himself.

Ashland, Ky., Sept. 10. — Jesse Spence, aged 21, of this city, accidentally shot himself. While swinging his shotgun it was discharged, the full load taking effect in his abdomen. He will die.

THE GOEBEL MONUMENT.

Frock Coat Restored, and the Committee Are Satisfied.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 9.—The clay model from which the bronze statue of the late Gov. Goebel will be cast is now complete, and has been accepted by a portion of the committee.

The figure will show the image as wearing a frock coat, an idea which had once been rejected, but afterward restored by order of the committee. The facial expression has been improved, and it is now an excellent likeness of William Goebel.

Five members met Thursday and accepted it. These were Senator J. B. McCreary, Miss Sallie Jackson, Mrs. Edward Fennell, Mrs. Chas. Lewis and Arthur Goebel. There were not enough to make a quorum, but Senator McCreary, as chairman, decided that it was not necessary to have a quorum to accept the model, as the first acceptance would be made of the bronze statue.

Signor Moretti, the sculptor, will take the model to New York in a few days and there complete the work. It will return ready for being put in place during the month of October.

APPLIED FOR A RECEIVER.

Blue Grass Consolidated Traction Co. in Trouble.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 9.—Notice was Thursday served on the officials of the Blue Grass Consolidated Traction Co., that a motion for the appointment of a receiver would be made in court on Wednesday morning, September 21.

This company is incorporated for several million dollars, and George B. Davis, of Detroit, is the president of the company. Outstanding claims amount to only about $50,000, which the company is unable to pay.

The object of the company is to build interurban roads to nearby towns, and a small fortune has been spent in securing franchises in three counties, and for leveling the road bed and paying taxes for the incorporation.

The application for the appointment of a receiver has been threatened for some months, but has been deferred on promises made by Davis.

HIS THIRD TRIAL.

Charged With Complicity in the Murder of Lieut. Johnson.

Cadiz, Ky., Sept. 9.—The third trial of Lawrence Willis, charged with the murder of his uncle, Lieut. Johnson, was called Thursday, but on motion of the commonwealth, some witnesses being absent, it was continued until next Monday, and the trial of his mother, Mrs. Bessie Willis, who is indicted jointly with him, was begun. The jury, which was selected from a special venire summoned from Caldwell county, was completed Thursday afternoon, and the taking of the testimoney was begun on Friday morning.

Big Suit Filed.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 9.—McLen & Kilbourn, contractors and loggers, filed suit in the Breathitt circuit court against the Continental Realty Co. for $33,000, alleged to be due them from the realty company because of the latter's failure to take up large tracks of timber which McLen & Kilbourn had contracted for as agents for the Continental Realty Co.

Grocery Company Sued for Damage.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 10.—Vogt & Foley Grocery Co. Friday were made defendants in a suit for $500 damages, brought by two farmers, who alleged they purchased high-grade cantaloupe seed from the grocery. Two acres were planted in the seed, and cucumbers, instead of cantaloupes, were raised.

Victory for the Miners.

Central City, Ky., Sept. 10.—Circuit Judge Sandridge, at Greenville, declared the check weight law constitutional. This places a check weighman at each mine to inspect the quantity of coal dug by each miner, and is a victory for the miners over the operators.

Predicted His Death.

Lebanon, Ky., Sept. 8.—With the prediction that he was about to die still upon his lips, J. D. Underwood, 55, general manager of the Rogers Wheel Co., dropped dead Wednesday. Mr. Underwood was apparently in good health.

Rain Fell in Torrents.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 8.—A heavy wind and rain storm passed over the eastern portion of this and Bath county Thursday evening. Telephone wires are down, trees uprooted and tobacco badly damaged. The loss to farmers will be heavy. Rain fell in torrents.

Lived 106 Years.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 10.—Mrs. Margaret Carroll, aged 106, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Tierney. Mrs. Carroll was the oldest citizen of Jefferson county. She was born in Ireland and was the widow of Martin Carroll.

Shot His Tenant.

Hawesville, Ky., Sept. 10.—Friday afternoon, in a quarrel over a contract, A. D. Shearn, a young farmer, of Skillman, shot and mortally wounded George Jackson, a tenant. Shearn alleges self-defense.

THE Czar is threatening to go to the front. Well, that is the real place of safety about the Russian army.

ABOUT the busiest men in Boone county are those who are in search of office—they are letting no turf flourish beneath their No. 10's.

KENTUCKY made her presence known at the conclave of Knights Templars at San Francisco last week by winning first prize in the competitive drill.

KUROPATKIN, the Russian general, conducts a retreat better than he does an advance, but then he has had a great deal more experience in that.

A CARD.

To the Democrats of Boone County:

Having been widely and urgently solicited to become a candidate for Superintendent of Schools, I announce myself in this issue of the RECORDER as in the race. I realize that the people of the county have to adapt themselves to the idea of a woman's desiring to have her name upon the pay-roll of the county, but I trust to their fairness and broadness of mind to recognize the justice of my claim. It has been suggested that many of the school houses are situated in such inaccessible places that a woman can not visit them. How do the women who teach these schools and the little girl pupils reach them one-hundred of the worst days of the three-hundred and sixty-five? I am mentally capable and physically able to fulfill all the duties of the office, and promise to do so, should the voters of Boone county elect me. I respectively solicit your support at the polls on November 8th.

NANNIE D. BRISTOW

He Withdraws.

There being another member of our family aspiring for an office, I feel that we are asking too much at the hands of the people at this time, and will say it would not have occurred but neither of us knew of the others announcement until it was too late. With my sincere thanks to my friends who manifested so much interest in my behalf, and success to the remaining candidates, I withdraw from the race for Assessor. BEN A. FLOYD.

In | Order.
Bullittsville Precinct.

It appearing that C. W. McFee and more than twenty other bona fide voters of the Bullittsville voting district in Boone County, Kentucky, having filed their petition, asking a submission of the question whether cattle including horses, cattle sheep and hogs shall be permitted to run at large in said distr.ct, and the petition been deposited in this court, with a sufficient amount to defray the expenses of taking a vote on said question, and said matter having been submitted to and passed on by the Fiscal court, it is now ordered by this court that the election officers of said district open a poll at the next regular election to be held on the 8th day of November, 1904, in said district, for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the voters of said district upon the question whether or not they wish cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs to run at large in said district, and the clerk of this court is directed to have printed on the ballots for said district the question, "For or against the running at large of cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs in the Bullittsville voting district." It is ordered that notice of said election be given twenty days before the date thoreof by publication in the Boone County Recorder for at least four issues a copy of this order, which the clerk of this court is ordered to have done.

D. E. Lawell's sale last Wednesday afternoon was attended by a large crowd, and good prices prevailed. Corn brought 60 cents a bushel. Mr. Lawell is now a citizen of Lexington.

A good day next Saturday will insure a big crowd at the Harvest Home. The balloon ascension and parachute leap are special features that will prove drawing cards, and don't you forget it.

State Superintendent Fuqua has authorized the County Superintendent to grant a special license to those whose qualifications are satisfactory to the trustees, in order to have all the schools in the county taught during the school year.

Lost—On the pike between Petersburg and Burlington, last Saturday evening, a lady's purse containing lot of rubber bands and 2 safety vault keys on a ring. Finder will please return to J. F. Blyth in Burlington and receive a reward of $1.

The little two year-old son of County Attorney D. E. Castleman got hold of a box of mophine tablets, yesterday, of which he was supposed to have eaten. Dr. Furnish was called and pumped the little fellow's stomach out, and no evil effects resulted.

Those who saw C. E. Tanner's 1,100 pound Chesterwhite hog that was exhibited at the fair this year are at a loss to know how Charlie grew him so large, and he is telling them it is all in the stock—that there is no trouble about it with his strain of porkers.

The members of the Burlington brass band have the nerve. They have not only painted and papered the room in which they meet to peactice, but they spent last Thursday out in Jack Sandford's woods sawing and splitting wood to be used during practice hours this winter.

Onnie Rouse was about one of the best pleased exhibitors at the Boone fair this year. He is a great admirer of fine cattle and hogs, and not long since he went to Indiana and purchased a Poland China male hog that beat the boys who had been carrying off the blue ribbon year after year.

Owing to the dry weather for the past several weeks the tobacco crop in this county this year will not come up to the average in size nor quality. The leaf is short and narrow, and much of it has been cut green to keep it from being ruined by the hot sun. The good crop will be the exception this year in Boone county.

Miss Olga Kirkpatrick has received notice to establish a rural mail route from the Burlington office to begin October 15th. The mail will leave the Burlington office at 12:15 going out the Bellevue pike to the Commissary, thence to the Petersburg pike at Berkshire school house thence to Burlington. W. Hughes will be the carrier.

The nice premium of a dozen photos which Young & Carl, of Cincinnati, will give the best looking white baby shown at the Harvest Home next Saturday, has created a stir in the county among mothers whose babies come within the prescribed age, under one year. Take the babies, as everyone of them ought to be given a premium.

The new bridge that spans Fowler's fork of Gunpowder creek at Union was thrown open to the public, last Friday. A big fish fry and other appropriate ceremonies made the occasion one long to be remembered by the large crowd of people present. The bridge is a substantial structure, and will last for several generations, unless something unusual should befall it.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, paid results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. Only 25c at all Druggists.

A series of meetings beginning with last Sunday, is now in progress at the Baptist church, conducted by the pastor. The meetings will continue through the week and perhaps the week following. The public generally is most cordially invited to attend from day to day. Services at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. sun time. Every member of the church, who can possibly do so is expected to do what he can for the advancement of the cause. THE PASTOR.

Swallowed Concentrated Lye.

The Georgetown Times of last week gives the following account of what was thought at first to be an attempt to poison J. E. Rouse and family, mention of which was made in last week's Recorder:

"Beined a Harding, aged 18 years, an inmate of the House of Reform, in the employ of Mr. J. E. Rouse, of Payne's Depot, as a domestic, made an unsuccessful attempt at suicide Saturday morning by swallowing concentrated lye. The act followed the discovery that the dough which was about to be made into bread for the family was impregnated with lye. The girl was bound out to Mr. Rouse, who was to keep her until her term expired at the Reform School in three years. She had been working for the family about three months and Saturday morning she said that she wanted to leave and go and work for a neighbor. Mr. Rouse told her of course he could not let her go anywhere else, but would take her back to the Reform School if she wished. She then seemed to be satisfied about staying. Afterwards she was missed from the house and Mrs. Rouse going to the kitchen to look for her discovered that the dough which the girl was preparing to make bread for the day was turned yellow, and on investigation it was found that it contained concentrated lye. The girl later was found having been concealed in an out-house. She asked Mrs. Rouse for her clothing, saying she was going to leave; but Mrs. Rouse refused to give it to her and told her when Mr. Rouse returned home he would take her back to the Reform School. She replied, "I will drink lye before I go back there." The girl then got the can of lye and pouring some of it into a cup of water drank of it. A physician was summoned and did what he could for the girl. It is thought she will recover, but the injury may result in paralysis. Sunday morning Mr. Rouse took the girl back to the Reform School. It is not charged that the girl put the lye in the dough to cause the death of the family. She had washed the dough board with the lye and it might have gotten in the dough in this way."

Pleased With the Fair.

Editor Bourne of the News-Herald, of Owenton, Owen county, visited the Boone fair, and here is what he told his readers about it last week:

"It was our pleasure to attend the Florence Fair last Friday and incidentally to come in contact with some of Boone County's gallant yeomanry and to see some of her varied industries. While it is generally known as the Florence Fair, situated as it is near the little town of that name, now made famous as "Stringtown on the Pike," it is in reality the product of Boone County. In point of excellence it surpasses any county fair in the State. Its management is in hands of the leading citizens, composed of the business men and farmers who take just pride in its success. Here one will see the finest collection of horses ever assembled in one spot on a soil, known the world over as the home of the equine. No liquors are sold and no gambling allowed, and here once a year the people from all over the county come with their wives and daughters to renew their acquaintance and to see something of the development of their county.

"B. F. McGlasson, of Ludlow, a prosperous farmer and business man is the President. E. H. Blankenbeker, a leading citizen of Florence, Vice-President, and the offices of Secretary and Treasurer are held respectively by Alvin Perry, of Independence, and A. B. Rouse, of Burlington, two popular and efficient young business men.

"This association is one of the few successful ones, speaking from a financial standpoint, now held in the State, and this is no doubt due to the splendid management of its officers. We desire to take this opportunity of thanking them for the many kindnesses shown us during our stay in their midst and next year will advise Owen County to turn out, en masse, to the Boone County Fair."

A Meeting of Confederates.

At a meeting of the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry, C. S. A., at Sanders, Ky., on the 1st inst., it was unanimously decided, on account of conflicting with a meeting at New Liberty Sept. 29, the reunion at Sanders was postponed until Wednesday Oct. 12, therefore the call should read as follows:

Notice is hereby given that the next annual reunion of the Fourth Kentucky Cavalry, C. S. A., will be held at Sanders, Carroll county, Ky., on Wednesday, October 12th, 1904. It is earnestly desired that there be a full attendance of the old command as well as other ex-Confederates. Ample preparations will be made for their entertainment. Persons wishing to come the day before can find accommodations at the hotels at reasonable rates.

Done by order of the committee.

A CARD.

To my Friends in Boone County:—Accept my thanks for your liberal patronage during the last sheep and lamb season. I am proud to say my business during the season shows near 100,000 handled on commission and eastern orders, and I trust I have been of some advantage to my many customers in handling same. We have secured the services of Mr. Gus Sargent, who is well known to all hog shippers, he having represented one of the largest pork packers for many years, and he will take charge of our hog department at once. His buying orders will enable him, at all times, to secure the best market for all consignments, while it will enable me to look after the cattle interest, where I hope to be able to prove myself a benefit to anyone sharing his business with me, as I hope to build up an order trade, and I will be ever ready to take a chance to protect the interest of shippers.

Respectfully,

J. M. CONNER.

Cholera Infantum.

Base Ball.

The Boones went to Petersburg last Saturday and dropped another game to the team there, in the presence of a large crowd. The truth of the matter in regard to these two teams is this: When Petersburg plays bad ball the Boones will play a little worse, and when the Boones play good ball the Petersburg team will play a little better. Following is the score:

Boones 5 0 0 0 0 2 2 0 0— 9
Petersburg 4 0 0 4 2 0 0 0 *—10

Hits—Boones 12, Petersburg 7; Struck Out by Hughes 6, Gordon 0; Justis 6; Errors—Boones 8, Petersburg 5.

Children of the Light

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. H. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Sept. 11, 1904.

Text:—"Walk as children of light."—Eph. 5:8.

VARIOUS terms are used in the New Testament to designate the Christian. He is referred to as the redeemed, suggesting the former condition of enslavement to sin and the redemptive work of Christ whereby the soul was delivered from its bondage of sin unto death to liberty and life in Christ Jesus. He is called disciple because he is a convert and adherent to the teachings of Jesus. Jesus likened the disciple unto a branch of a vine to illustrate the intimate relationship which existed between Himself, Who was declared to be the vine, and His followers, and again He called His disciples friends, to assure them of the cordial and pleasant intimacy which existed between them and their Master. He also called them the sheep and pointed to Himself as the Good Shepherd to impress them with the thought of His tender care for them, His leadership, and His protection from every enemy. In the epistles we meet repeatedly with the expressions "sons of God," and "children of God," and are taught that those who have been saved through the cleansing power of Jesus' blood hold a peculiar and vital relationship with God. In the truest sense God is their Father, and because sons of God, they are "heirs and joint heirs with Christ" to all the riches of the Father's house. The term "bond-servant," or "slave," is also used, which conveys forcibly the truth that the Christian is "bought with a price" and that he no longer has a right to think of himself as apart from his Lord, or as doing anything independent of His will. Christ was declared to be the Light of the world because, as the manifestation of God's holiness and truth in the flesh, He was the great revealer of human corruption and sin. Light reveals, light purifies, light marks the safe pathway, and for this reason Jesus was called the Light of the world, and for the same reason His followers are declared to the "children of light."

THE apostle admonishes us to "walk as children of light." The whole life and course of the Christian is involved in that term "walk." So walk that you may enjoy the privileges which belong to the "children of light." So walk that you may meet the obligations which rest upon you. So walk that you may realize the needs of the peculiar relationship. So walk that the dangers which lie in your pathway may be successfully avoided. So walk that the blessings which are promised to them who love Christ and keep His commandments may be received and enjoyed. Oh, it means something to be a child of the light. It is more than wearing a badge or a button; it involves more than church membership, or long prayers in the marketplace or the chief seats in the synagogue. It means something to be known as a child of the light. First, then, what are the privileges? They are almost innumerable, but there are four which particularly command our attention: First, access to and fellowship with God; second, clear vision and a plain path; third, identity with God, and, fourth, the knowledge of the deep things of God. We have not time to adequately unfold all that is implied in this four-fold privilege of the children of light, but let us briefly suggest what it means, trusting that you will with the aid of the Holy Spirit come into fuller realization of all it means to be a child of light. Access to and fellowship with God. Words cannot begin to express and explain all that is involved in this privilege.

HE WHO has daily access to the very presence of an earthly king and is on terms of intimate fellowship with him, knows that there is no request which he may not make, no favor which he dare not ask, and he knows that if it is within the power of the king to grant them, he shall obtain his desires. What a privilege! Children of light having access to and fellowship with Him Who is the Light. And then clear vision and a plain path. Not children of darkness; blind leaders of the blind, and both falling into the ditch, but seeing plainly and following safely in the pathway marked out. And identity with God. Children of light part of the Light. This thought of identity with Christ is suggested in the opening verse of the chapter from which our text is taken, where we are told to be "imitators of God." And in another place Paul speaks of "Christ being formed in us." We sing, "More like Jesus would I be." This is the thought: Identity with God. And lastly, the privilege of knowing. There is a passion to know things in this our day. The spirit of the Greeks has descended upon us, and like the cultured ancients we are always eager to hear and tell some new thing. But the children of light have privileges of knowing such as the children of the darkness never dreamed of. The promise of Jesus when He left His disciples was that the Holy Spirit should be given unto them and "when He, the Spirit of truth, is come, He will guide you into all truth." God reveals the secrets of His Kingdom to His children. They know of the hidden mysteries. It is their privilege to know of the things of time and of eternity. For the "Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God," and He reveals them unto us. What privileges, then, are those of the child of light? Access to and fellowship with God; a clear vision and a plain path; identity with God, and the knowledge of God and eternal as well as temporal things. So much for the privileges.

WHAT are the obligations? Two facts present themselves in connection with the thought of the Christian as a child of light: First, that he is to be seen, and, second, that he is to give light. These two obligations appear more and more important as we study the Bible references to this two-fold responsibility of the Christian. He who was the Light of the world declared that His disciples were also the light of the world. They were to shine out in the world's darkness. They were not to be hid under a bushel, but to stand forth in the conspicuous place to be "seen and read of all men." The world sees or does not see the true Light just so far as we shine for Jesus or do not shine for Him. The children of light are the living exponents of the true Light. As you have sat in the darkened room and watched the image in the lantern slide thrown upon the canvas, how sharply and distinctly it stood out from the inky blackness all about. It was the only thing visible. Even the friend at your side was not distinguishable, but with the picture on the canvas, how different! And amidst the darkness of the world's sin the Christian is obligated to shine out as a bright and shining light, declaring the Christ by every act and every word. He is to be seen and he is to give that light which will light every man to the source of all light, the Christ. What a responsibility! What if the gleam from the lighthouse fails to shine forth! The storm-tossed ship out in the blackness of the night has no beacon light to steer by and plunges on the rocks and is lost with its precious human lives! What, if you, as a child of the light are not letting your light shine out into the darkness of the world's sin and human souls are lost?

AND with such obligations, what are our needs to meet those obligations? Two things are absolutely necessary: The oil of the Spirit and unobstructed channels through which this oil may flow to feed the light. When the disciples were to shine for their Lord they must receive the Holy Spirit, and so with every disciple of Christ. If he is to be a true child of the light he must have the indwelling presence of the Spirit to shed forth that light which will give light to others. As reasonable to expect your lamp to burn without the oil in the reservoir as to think that the Christian can shine without the Spirit of Christ to feed the flame. Over and over again this truth is emphasized in the epistles of the different apostles. "Be filled with the Spirit." This is the greatest need of every Christian. It must be had if he would be equipped for service. And the next essential is the unobstructed channel. Ah, how it becomes choked with our own selfish desires and ambitions! How the things of the world come in and dam up the river of God's fullness! What is it that is stopping the flow of God through your life? You know what it is, or if you do not know, God by His Spirit will reveal it unto you. My lamp would not burn satisfactorily the other night. The oil was in the reservoir, but it would not burn. Investigation showed that the wick was charred for a long distance down and stopped the flow of the oil to the top where the flame must be fed; and in how many lives there is the hard, charred surface, made so by sinful indulgences, and stopping the flow of God's Spirit into our lives. Oh, get the fullness of God, clean out the choked channels and meet the obligations God has placed upon you as children of light.

BUT there are dangers peculiar to children of light. It is said that every plant has its enemy, and surely every Christian has his perils which confront him. What are the dangers which confront the child of light? I want to mention two: Hid lights and extinguished lights. The hid light is the useless light. Of no practical value to the possessor and of absolutely no use to others. But how many hid lights there are! Christians who have not backbone and courage enough to shine for Jesus. Lights under a bushel, they go about and mingle with the children of darkness and try to be and do so as not to be conspicuous. Such lights are next door neighbor to the extinguished lights, the Christians who have backslidden and no longer walk in the fellowship with God or their brethren. They have loved this present evil world better than the Christ who had drawn them from darkness to His marvelous light, and so they have gone back to the darkness. There is danger of the children of light being drawn away from Christ, step by step, until the light is extinguished. If your feet are slipping, beware! If you are growing cold in your spiritual life, beware! But there are rewards for those who are faithful. "Be thou faithful unto death—that is, even to the point of yielding up your life in effort to shine for Christ—and thou shalt receive a crown of life." Yes, and there are rewards for this life as well. Righteousness always brings its own great reward. Godliness is profitable in all things, for this life and the life to come. And the children of light who realize their great privileges, who meet their obligations, who satisfy the needs of the soul, who prayerfully avoid the dangers, will surely reap the blessed fruits of their labors. Wa'k, then, as children of light!

HARRY L. KRAMER,

The Famous Cascarets Man, Who Invests a Thousand Dollars Every Day for Newspaper Advertising.

THE young man whose portrait is printed above is a living, breathing illustration of the success which can be obtained by practical faith and persistent and judicious investment in newspaper advertising. Mr. Kramer, only a few years ago, without capital, started, in a modest way, advertising in newspapers the merit of No-To-Bac, the original guaranteed tobacco-habit cure, building up dollar by dollar an enormous mail order business for that successful specific. His original line, "Don't tobacco spit and smoke your life away," through the medium of newspapers, became known throughout the English-speaking world, and brought in unprecedented results. The secret of his advertising method is "reinvestment," which is practically "doubling his bet" from day to day. When Mr. Kramer ran his first little advertisement ten years ago his capital was less than $100. He wrote the order on a rented typewriter operated by himself, and his advertising appropriation was $5.00. Three years ago he originated the famous Cascarets Candy Cathartic that "work while you sleep," and this year he employs over 200 people, including twenty stenographers and typewriters and a system of ten graphophones. His daily newspaper advertising investment is over $300,000 a year, and he is counted as one of the greatest practical, because successful, authorities on the science of advertising in the world. His delight is to see the working of the enormous advertising machine which he set in motion a few years ago, and his ambition is best illustrated by an expression made use of to a friend recently. He said: "My boy, we'll get rich when we make money faster than we can spend it for advertising."

Besides the No-To-Bac and Cascarets enterprises, Mr. Kramer scored another great business success in the Magno-Mud baths of Indiana Mineral Springs, Ind., the only place where this wonderful treatment for rheumatism can be obtained. The place, soon after No-To-Bac began securing recognition, was a mere wilderness in the hills of Indiana, but nature had provided the material, mud and lithia water, for the cure, and Mr. Kramer appreciated its possibilities at first sight. To-day there is at the Indiana Mineral Springs a $250,000 plant of hotels, bathhouses and cottages, electric-lighted, steam-heated, with beautiful park surroundings, patronized by the very best people of Chicago and St. Louis, as well as thousands of prominent guests from all other parts of the country.

Mr. Kramer is only 36 years old and his energy and vitality have not yet reached their climax. Many leading business men of America have been glad to join in his enterprises, displaying the highest confidence in the great future which this young man's remarkable advertising genius and capacity for work will bring forth.

CLAIMS CREDIT FOR HEIR.

As Recompense for Her Advice, Dr. Mary Walker, Asks Czar to Stop War with Japan.

Dr. Mary Walker is claiming credit for the fact that the czar's new baby is a son instead of a daughter. The doctor says if she had not volunteered her advice there would have been another grand duchess in the palace instead of a czarevitch.

All that Dr. Walker wants of the czar in return for the favor she has done is that he stop the war with Japan.

"Give Japan the harbor," Dr. Walker has written from Oswego to the czar.

She does not specify which harbor, but pretty nearly any harbor will do, she thinks.

The following is a copy of an open letter Dr. Walker has written to the czar:

"To the Czar of All Russia—Dear Sir: In congratulating yourself and the mother of your son, I most respectfully and earnestly request you to make peace with Japan.

"Give Japan the harbor.

"But for my professional advice you would not now be the father of a son heir. The world will rejoice and say that you would gladly have done this one year since as the price of the assurance of a son.

"I did not give information that has resulted so gratifyingly for the purpose of asking a reward of any nature, but circumstances are such at the present time that I expect you to grant therein above asked action.

HAS MONSTER PIGEON FARM

Pennsylvanian Has 10,000 Birds—Arrangements Perfect and Success Follows Experiment.

E. C. Cummings, of Worcester township, is conducting a pigeon farm on which there are now 10,000 birds. Mr. Cummings says that his is the largest lot of birds that are kept housed on one farm. He changed from chickens to pigeons, as the latter are 50 per cent more profitable.

There are four houses on the farm, two 160 feet long and two 300 feet long. The buildings are heated by hot water, but cold houses are to be tried. The houses have cement floors and are divided into pens, with capacities varying from 25 to 75 pairs.

The greatest care is exercised to keep the farm in the best sanitary condition, the houses being thoroughly cleaned weekly. Two men are required for the purpose and when not engaged in cleaning operations one waters and one feeds the birds. Carbolic acid and coal oil are used for spraying and these two agencies keep the birds healthy.

About 500 squabs are sold weekly, the young birds finding a ready market in New York at five dollars a dozen. The varieties raised here are homers, dragons, runts and crosses. Some of the runts measure 40 inches from tip to tip of wings, while there are many measuring 35 inches.

The farm covers 16 acres and represents an investment of $25,000.

SUMMER GIRL'S FAILURE.

Bigged Herself Up to Make a Hit, But Her Finery All Wilted.

Once upon a time there was a girl who decided that she would be the real thing in the summer girl line, relates a St. Paul Globe writer. Before the snow melted she was planning a wardrobe that would bring down any summer youth from a millionaire prospective to a Dry Goods clerk. She embroidered all her shirt waists by hand, and made seven sets of turn-overs before the summer styles were settled, only to learn that they were wearing 1830 yokes. She bought a white silk drop skirt for her muli dress, and then her poor old mother had to go without a new summer hat so that daughter could have the real thing in a lingerie hat to go with the silk drop skirt. Father was driven to the verge of nervous prostration by the domestic discussions of skirt yokes and the best thing in color combinations, and brother Jimmy lost his half-holiday chasing down cerise near-silk when she wanted cherry lining for her lawn dress.

The clerks at the stores all got to know her—she had so many goods exchanged—and when at last she pulled out for a Jersey town with two trunks and a dress suit case her old father said: "This is Heaven," and her mother stopped taking nerve cure.

But the girl found she was up against it after all. Her dresses faded and drooped in the sea air and so did her hair. Sitting up nights sewing had made her sallow, and she squinted from doing fine embroidery. The girl who made a hit with the few summer boys in sight wore the same linen dress three days running and had only one party dress to her name. But she had the real thing in eyes and dimples. So the girl who had meant to be it said she hated the seashore, and packed back to town to see a beauty doctor.

Moral: Fine feathers may make fine birds, but all women are not birds.

New Kind of Rubber.

During the past few months discovery has been made that there are in the interior of Brazil vast forests of trees from which can be produced a high grade of rubber known as "manicoba." The area is said to be very large, but cannot be defined, as the region has not been fully explored. The attention called to the first discovery has led to further exploration, with the result that from time to time comes notice of other sections where like trees occur in profusion. The output of manicoba rubber has rapidly increased during the last few years and bids fair to be a large item in the exports of Brazil.

Unless one is pretty familiar with the story of European settlements on the Atlantic coast, one reads with a sensation of surprise, says Youth's Companion, of communities in the Canadian maritime provinces celebrating the three hundredth anniversary of their settlement or discovery.

Annapolis, Nova Scotia—the old Port Royal—and St. John, New Brunswick, have just had such a celebration. To the head of the noble basin on which stands the one, and into the beautiful river on which sits the other, three intrepid Frenchmen, Samuel de Champlain, the Sieur DeMonts and Monsieur Poutrincourt, penetrated in 1604, and in both places established a foothold three years before the English colonists landed at Jamestown, Virginia, and 16 years before the Pilgrims set foot on Plymouth Rock.

In the history of both places are romances which would have tempted a Dumas and adventures that would not discredit Scott. Annapolis, in particular, is rich in incidents which appeal to the imagination and linger in the memory. First settled by the French, next captured by the English, then granted to a Scotchman, and later taken again by France, it played for nearly 200 years the part of a shuttlecock among the nations which were contending for supremacy in the new world.

French influence still shows itself in charming traits of character among the people and in many old family names. English rule is, of course, manifest in the excellent character of the whole modern city. Of the Scotch regime, although it was so brief the name of the province is a permanent reminder, and on the dilapidated old "French pier" some clumps of Scottish heather still survive.

For centuries France and England regarded each other as natural enemies, and fought for supremacy. At the recent celebrations both were represented, and so, too, were their children and heirs, the Dominion of Canada and this great republic. Indeed, the most notable characteristic of all the festivities was the constant manifestation of international friendliness and respect. It was this which most charmed the visitors, and which they will remember longest.

Not Quick Enough.

"Did you succeed in getting those darkies to pose for you, with the big slices of watermelon held to their mouths?" asked the friend of the amateur photographer.

"Yes; but I had poor success with the picture. The photo simply shows a blur where the heads should be."

"If you wanted to get a picture of darkies eating watermelon you should have used a moving picture camera."—Judge.

Just as Good.

"Have you a two-cent stamp?" asked the lady in the drug store.

"No, ma'am," replied the clerk; "but we have something just as good. Here are two one-cent stamps."—Yonkers Statesman.

AGRICULTURAL HINTS.

HINTS FOR FARM BUILDERS

How to Put a Durable Foundation Under Structures Put Up Some Seasons Before.

The illustration shows an excellent plan for putting a tight foundation under a barn or other structure that is already built. This is usually a difficult matter, particularly if the building is close to the ground. Foundation should extend down below frost line.

MAKING A FOUNDATION.

Dig a trench (t) close to the barn, as shown, and then under the barn to required distance to accommodate width of foundation. Exactly under edge of building at bottom of wide trench drive stakes and put down a rough board (w), as shown in cut. Fill in behind board with loose stones (s), putting on other boards and adding more stones until they stand level with the surface of the ground. The trench outside the barn is now filled in with earth, packing down solidly. Leave old boards where they are. Flat stones (f) can now be put in above the ground and cemented. Sometimes it is found more convenient to place these stones before filling in outside trench.—A. D. Brewer, in Farm and Home.

WASTE MUST BE STOPPED.

Many Farmers Fail Because They Do Not Practice Any Rational System of Fertilizing.

On the average the American farmer wastes each year more than enough to keep his family. Enormous wastes are going on in many ways, but the greatest one is the waste of farm-fertility.

Preserve what fertility is already in the soil, and put more in it. It may be that some farmers do not know the value of manure, as some are giving it away in order to get it out of the way. Others are burning the straw-stacks instead of using the straw for bedding, which would increase the value of the manure. I know this from observation. Farmers waste much of the value of manure by putting it in piles in the barnyard, and letting it take the weather for months. If the yard happens to be near a creek or pond, a great part of the fertility finds its way into it, and probably one-half of its value is lost.

I think that if some of our farmers could visit among the rural population of Germany, and note their methods for saving manure, most of them would take a lesson home with them. Most of the German farmers are successful, and their success seems to be due to the careful saving and applying of fertility.

Why cannot we stop this waste by saving and applying all the manure, by keeping more live stock, by cultivating our soil properly and retaining the elements of fertility, and by studying the subject and applying the thoughts gained? We must stop this waste if we want our land to be kept in a high state of fertility.—E. J. Waterstripe, in Farm and Fireside.

GIVE THE BOYS POULTRY.

One Way of Inducing Children to Work Contentedly and Happily on the Old Farm.

As usual, there is loud complaint from farmers that the children brought up on the farm are getting uneasy and want to try their wings elsewhere. This is not to be wondered at when these young people hear and read of what is going on in the world. The monotony of country life seems unbearable to them, especially when from the farm they obtain only plenty of hard work, the food they eat and the clothes the wear. True, one may say that is about all anyone gets out of life, but if we can plan some way by which the young people can make a start for themselves they will be much more contented.

The Indianapolis News thinks that poultry offers a way of trying out the feeling of the young folks at small expense. Give them a chance to raise poultry and have the proceeds for their own use, and in a year or two they will have become reconciled to country life and be willing to make it their future or they will have shown their utter lack of adaptability for it, in which case the best thing for them and for the parent is to let them leave the farm and take up the work for which they are better fitted, but don't lose your grasp on the young people without first giving them a chance to do for themselves on the farm and show what is in them.

New Remedy for Insects.

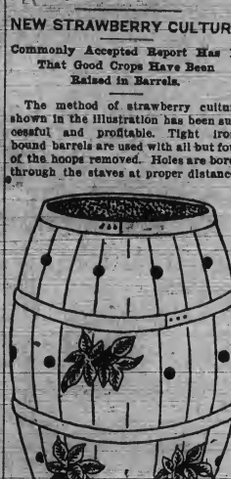
The fact that the odor of moth balls is extremely repugnant to house insects has suggested to some ingenious mind the use of this remedy against outdoor pests. A New York farmer who was much annoyed by the ravages of striped beetles on cucumbers employed moth balls with such success that his neighbors are imitating him. He placed a clam shell (hollow side up) in the center of the hill, with about five balls in each shell. This might be tried with other injurious insects.

BIG MONEY IN ASPARAGUS.

Most farmers would think $45 an acre for manure would be an extravagant outlay of money. But down in New Jersey they spend that much for stable manure at $1.50 a ton, and consider it a good investment. Naturally they do not raise corn or wheat or oats on that sort of soil. They raise asparagus, and get from $500 to $640 per acre returns from it.

Experiments from four different kinds of fertilizer show that stable manure brings the largest returns. The different fertilizers used were as follows: Manure, $45 per acre; complete fertilizer, $12.93; complete fertilizer, bone and potash, $18.39; complete fertilizers, bone and potash and nitrate of soda, $21.91.

There is a constantly increasing demand for asparagus, the market holds good, and is likely to for years, yet hundreds of farmers who own good land near large cities go on year after year raising corn, oats and other crops which yield them a bare living. Asparagus is a sure crop, a sure sale and always profitable.



The soil should be plowed in the fall and sub-soiled, then turn double furrows five feet apart, and place the roots five inches below the surface. Strew about one-half the fertilizer in the bottom of the furrow, mix it with the soil and place the remainder on top after the roots are planted. Manure can be applied after the plants have started to grow with good advantage. Place the roots about 30 inches apart in the rows. Before the growth starts in the spring, work the ground thoroughly with disc and harrow, and then cover the rows slightly with the single cultivator shovel set to throw dirt outward. Cultivate every ten days thereafter, and keep the soil in fine condition.

If bleached asparagus is desired, throw a ridge of soil over the row as soon as growth is started, and cut as soon as the shoots show through this ridge a length of six or seven inches. If green asparagus is wanted, cover with only about three inches of soil, and cut the shoots four or five inches. From 25 to 30 cuttings per year can be taken from a good asparagus bed. The soil requires plenty of manure every season.—Clinton M. Shultz, in Farmers' Voice.

NEW STRAWBERRY CULTURE

Commonly Accepted Report Has It That Good Crops Have Been Raised in Barrels.

The method of strawberry culture shown in the illustration has been successful and profitable. Tight iron-bound barrels are used with all but four of the hoops removed. Holes are bored through the staves at proper distances as shown, plants are set in these holes and the barrels filled with soil to the top. The average yield of berries is over one-half bushel per barrel. The greatest advantages claimed for this method are that no mulch or cultivation is necessary, that the berries are always clean and free from sand, and are far more readily picked than when grown in the usual way. A tile is placed in the center of the barrel as it is filled with soil. This permits an even distribution of water from top to bottom, an abundance of which should be supplied at all times.

Plants Which Go to Sleep.

Some plants go to sleep every night. The well known sensitive plant, or mimosa, in daylight opens its fragile leaves which are hard at work eating, absorbing the carbonic acid of the air into plant food. At night the mimosa sleeps and digests what it has eaten, and the leaves fold up double against each other; the stem droops and the leaf is limp and apparently dead. Similar to this is another plant, found as a weed all over the country east of the Rocky mountains, known as the partridge-pea or large-flowered sensitive-pea. The leaves are not so sensitive to the touch, but close quickly if the stem is cut. This is not a troublesome weed.

Putting Away Sweet Potatoes.

In reply to a query concerning how to put away sweet potatoes to keep for winter use: In the first place dig before frost. Dry and lay them away. Line a box or barrel well with paper, and put in a layer of potatoes, about four deep and then a layer of paper enough to make a good division and so on until the box is full. Put them where you want them for winter and keep the room warm—not below freezing at any time, and 40 to 70 degrees is better. Keep in a dry place and you can have sweet potatoes until harvest—provided you don't eat them.—Charles E. Williams, in Ohio Farmer.

OPENING OF THE DRAMATIC SEASON.

FOLLOWED SHAW'S ADVICE.

Preaching Prosperity and High Prices Results in Disaster and Suicide in Iowa.

Republican prosperity and accompanying high prices that Secretary Shaw thinks are so prevalent and that he says are the result of republican policies have had a disastrous effect in Iowa. When business is good and people are prosperous it would naturally be expected that the banks would participate in the prosperity, but in Iowa it seems to be the reverse. Seven bankers have taken their lives in that state during the past seven months, and all their banks have been found, upon examination, to be hopelessly insolvent. A press report from Sioux City, published in the Washington Times, enumerates the gruesome list:

Harry Mayne, cashier of the Bank of Lynn Grove, Buena Vista county.

George D. Wood, president of the First national bank, of Colfax, Jasper county.

Frank L. La Rue, president of the Corning state savings bank.

George C. Wood, cashier of the St. Charles savings bank St. Charles, Warren county.

Henry C. Spencer and Charles H. Spencer, cashier and assistant cashier of the First national bank of Grinnell, Poweshiek county.

G. F. Utterback, cashier of the Sigourney savings bank, Sigourney, Keokuk county.

The dispatch adds that five of these bankers "blew out their brains" and "two committed suicide by drowning." In every case the men had been esteemed among the most reliable and honorable citizens of their community, and the unfortunate bank officer had been driven to take his own life after a long and hopeless struggle to save his institution and restore his credit.

The loss to the depositors and stockholders of these banks must have been enormous, for we are told that all the banks "have been found, upon examination, to be hopelessly insolvent." Yet, Secretary Shaw prates of prosperity and points to present high prices as a sure indication of it.

Now Shaw, before he became secretary of the treasury, was a small banker, and being acquainted all over the state of Iowa he must have known the general condition of the banks and their unsoundness. It was known in Wall street, it was known by Dun and Bradstreet, but Shaw evidently did not know what was going on, or if he did, feared to "hurt the party" by warning the poor deluded victims, the farmers and business men of Iowa, of what might be expected. The secretary of the treasury is supposed to be the watchman on the tower of finance, to warn his countrymen and save them from danger.

"Watchmen what of the night?" asked the Iowa farmers. "All's well," promptly came from Watchman Shaw. "Thanks to the beneficent protective tariff we are on the highest point of prosperity. Listen to Gov. Cummins and the apostles of the "Iowa idea" and you will have trouble, but follow me and you will have high prices and prosperity."

Secretary of Agriculture Wilson is another member of Roosevelt's cabinet who is another boomer—the whole brood are impregnated with it—listen to him: "The farmer's pocketbook is full, he is a capitalist only hunting for investments, flooding the western banks with more money than they can can handle and sending millions to the east for investment." A good many Iowa farmers must now wish they had sent all their millions to the east instead of flooding the western banks with their hard-earned money.

The high prices came all right, too high for the banks and the customers. Instead of prosperity came disaster. The tariff fostered high prices, begot extravagance and speculation. Lands advanced to unheard of prices, far beyond their true value, where it was impossible for the owner to produce enough to pay interest on the investments. The banks under Shaw's exhilarating promise of continued high prices loaned to the land and stock speculators on boom estimates of values and those that are able are still paying interest. Other bankers speculated with their customers' money; some of them have paid the forfeit with their lives. Secretary Shaw is still talking high prices and prosperity and is, as the leading member of Roosevelt's cabinet, to stump the country for the republican ticket. Stand pat is his slogan and prices will still advance and the republican tariff is panic proof, all you voters have to do is to "let well enough alone"—that is vote the republican ticket. Dollar wheat and 60-cent corn is the result of the beneficent republican policy. Fools rush in where angels fear to tread and Shaw is to rush 75 speeches at the poor dupes who will listen to his vaporings, and other bankers will speculate until the inevitable comes, if Shaw is followed.

DRIFT OF PUBLIC OPINION.

—Judge Parker is to be congratulated that the chief organ of the trusts, the unprincipled New York Sun, bolts his candidacy.—Wheeling Register.

—Banker Morgan probably doesn't care whether the administration publicly recognizes him or not, so that he gets the business.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

—Jefferson was red headed. Parker kinda-o' shapes up that way, and the indications are that Roosevelt will be when the votes are counted.—N. Y. Telegram.

—Senator Taliaferro, of Florida, gives Chairman Taggart the straight tip that "no condition will arise in the south which will need the attention of the national committee."—Nashville Banner.

—Now comes the startling news from Washington that "at the outbreak of the Spanish war Senator Fairbanks offered to resign his seat in the senate to go to the front." But he is too thrifty now to resign his senate job to go to the rear next November 8.—Los Angeles Herald.

—The dispatches tell us of a Missourian who recently died at the age of 87 without ever having seen a locomotive. But stranger things than that happen every day. For instance, we've had attorney generals of late years who never saw the criminal clause of the Sherman anti-trust law. —The Commoner.

—A real live campaign issue: Do the American people want to "stand pat" on a tariff schedule and trust conspiracy which enable our manufacturers of steel rails to sell their product, as they are doing, to the Canadian Pacific railway at seven to eight dollars less per ton than they charge American railroads?—N. Y. World.

—The republican party believes that the United States will be made greater, stronger and safer by gobbling problematical territory across the seas and mixing without cause in international difficulties. The party refuses to cultivate the friendship of our nearest neighbors. It would ostracize Canada and invite the enmity of nations to the south. If that is diplomacy, diplomacy is not wisdom. —St. Louis Republic.

Signs That Will Not Fail.

Shifting of distinguished citizens from one side to the other is of little significance. It occurs in every campaign and on too small a scale to be effective. But when a republican candidate for elector in West Virginia withdraws from the ticket because he will not support Mr. Roosevelt, and a republican candidate for judge in the same state, who was formerly a gold democrat, says that he will support Parker and Davis, is it not unreasonable to suppose that the incidents indicate the loyalty of West Virginia to Mr. Davis and the withdrawal of the gold democrats from the republicans?—Philadelphia Record.

ALTON BROOKS PARKER.

He dwelt within the hearts of men
A golden scepter sealed his lips
Till honor bade him speak, and then
From off his party's foes he strips
Their strength—stripped by his golden pen.
Approved, maligned he fears no fight
The leader of a noble cause—
Panoplied in his virtues bright.
Unmoved by slander or applause,
To justify the freeman's right.
And execute his country's laws.
—Brooklyn Eagle.

HINT ON THE SAFE SIDE.

Loser by Fire Thought Iced Drinks Should Have Hand-Grenades for Chasers.

"Fire insurance contains many surprises to the lay mind," said Marshall S. Driggs, president of the board of underwriters, according to the New York Sun. "One man who came to me for a policy on some ice houses which he had just acquired almost refused to credit our statements in explaining the high rate. Ice houses are extra hazardous risks because they are liable to spontaneous combustion. It happened in this case that the applicant received a telegram while we were still discussing the matter. He was informed that his new properties had burned to the ground. It chanced to be a very hot day and we adjourned for refreshments.

"'I will have a tumbler full of cracked ice with a pint of Apollinaris,' I said to the waiter.

"'Why not a hot lemonade?' suggested the stricken ice house man.

"'With the thermometer 99!' I protested.

"He waved his hand.

"'Consider the risk!' he said. 'The fire rate on ice is six, seven, even ten per cent. per annum. At least, if you are going to risk spontaneous incineration, you had better drink a few hand grenades for a chaser.'"

It takes a man with a new-fashioned appetite to bemoan the lack of old-fashioned cooking.—Chicago Tribune.

Always Food for Laughter.

When Johnny was a child they laughed at the ridiculous things he said. When he was a youth they laughed at his half-baked opinions. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am one of the many of your grateful friends who have been cured through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and who can to-day thank you for the fine health I enjoy. When I was thirty-five years old, I suffered severe backache and frequent bearing-down pains; in fact, I had womb trouble. I was very anxious to get well, and reading of the cures your Compound had made, I decided to try it. I took only six bottles, but it built me up and cured me entirely of my troubles.

"My family and relatives were naturally as gratified as I was. My niece had heart trouble and nervous prostration, and was considered incurable. She took your Vegetable Compound and it cured her in a short time, and she became well and strong, and her home to her great joy and her husband's delight was blessed with a baby. I know of a number of others who have been cured of different kinds of female trouble, and am satisfied that your Compound is the best medicine for sick women."—MRS. ELIZABETH H. D. G. EDWARDS, Passenger Traffic Manager, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Last Monday Mr. Geo. Thomas, renewed his canvass for the sale of boxes on the rural mail route which is to start from Burlington on the 15th of next month. He took orders for about 20 several months ago. He has a sample box with him.

In the announcement column this week will be found the announcement of Miss Nannie D. Bristow, of Union, as a candidate for superintendent of public schools in Boone county. Miss Btistow is an accomplished lady and a very popular teacher of several years' experience, and is well qualified for the duties of the office, and if elected she will look closely to the educational affairs of the county so long as they are entrusted to her. There are now over thirty lady superintendents of common schools in this State, and Miss Nannie would be pleased to see Boone county add one more to the number. So far as politics is concerned she is a good Democrat.

Election Officers.

The county board of election commissioners, Sheriff B. B. Allphing and G. G. Hughes, of Burlington, and James A. Huey, of Union, met last Monday and appointed the county election officers for the ensuing year as follows:

Bullittsville — Julius Utzinger, Geo. McGlasson, judges; Walter Crigler, clerk; Geo. Hossman, sheriff.

Burlington—O. P. Conner, Frank Maxwell, judges; C. J. Craven, clerk; Clint Weaver, sheriff.

Petersburg—E. T. Krutz, Joseph Mahan, judges; A. B. Parker, clerk; Jonas Stevens, sheriff.

Bellevue—Cyrus Kelly, Jake Cook, judges; T. Z. Roberts, clerk; James Rogers, sheriff.

Carlton—Ben Stephens, Edward Lee, judges; B. F. Nelson, clerk, Richard Stephens, sheriff.

Hamilton—A. H. C. Miller, Jas. Taylor, judges; W. L. H. Baker, clerk; W. W. Grimsley, sheriff.

Union—L. B. Dickerson, J. Q. Elstun, judges; John. H. Aylor, clerk; Sam Hicks, sheriff.

Beaver Lick—J. D. Finnell, J. W. Clark, judges; C. A. Slater, clerk; William Wilson, sheriff.

Verona—Joseph Kennedy, Lafe Kennedy, judges; C. W. Waller, clerk; Claud Hume, sheriff.

Walton—William Tillman, J. J. Hudson, judges; S. L. Edwards, clerk; James Watson, sheriff.

This meek and quiet life on earth ended in a peaceful death. August 9th, 1904, at the home of her father-in-law, Edward Taylor, in Walton, Ky. In this death earth loses one of its brightest jewels, a home one of the best wives and mothers; the family its joy and stay. Blessed was it to those who were privileged to associate with such a meek, gentle and loving life. Lord, in the midst of our griet help our faith to carry our minds and hearts up to that "Fathers house of many mansions," where "absent from the body she is present with her Lord." She was born January 20th, 1876, of pious parantage, and in a christian home, surrounded by religious influences. She was by her faith in christ led to unite with the Baptist church at the early age of 16 years. (Oct. 1, 1892). Surely in her life we saw ever manifestations of the fruit of the spirit, "Love, Joy, Peace, Long-suffering, Gentleness, Goodness, Faith, Meekness." tar as many as are led by the spirit of God they are the children of God. She was united in marriage Nov. 8th, 1899, to Russell Taylor, of this county. Two beautiful children blessed this union. Those little ones are bereft of a mother's love and care, but are being tenderly cared for by loving hands and sad hearts. May the Lord sustain her mother in her remaining days of this life, who so tenderly and devotedly nursed her during her last illness. May all the sorrowing family take comfort in the truth that, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord," and "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints." To live in hearts we leave behind, is not to die.

HER FORMER PASTOR.

It begins to look very much like wheat will have to be sowed in the dust this fall.

[In Memory of Mrs. J. A. Gaines.]

The busy hands in quiet rest are folded,
The calm voice hushed in dreamless sleep,
The eyes scene closed on earth's changing panorama,
While o'er her couch reigns silence deep.

When in our lives a summer has ended—
A long and perfect day with Peace replete,
Is tender mood we watch its dimming glories,
And crown its close with memories sweet.

So would we view her day now finished,
Not with a vain regret or mournful thought,
But with a thankful heart we give God praises,
For this long life with good deeds fraught.

And one stook by love was her way guided,
Faith too, stood ever at her side,
While o'er a bright star illumed her pathway,
And heavenly gospel light denied.

For her was the unclouded violet,
Of the silver white borders, near we stand,
The waiting step and Palm of Victory,
Has passed into the Silent Land.

A FRIEND.

Quite a good crowd attended the annual Field Day exercises of the Patrons of Husbandry at Harvest Home Grounds last Saturday, and heard good speeches on the objects of the order, and what it has accomplished for the benefit of the farmers. The addresses were delivered by Hons. Aaron Jones, Worthy Master of the National Grange, and John Bigg, Worthy Lecturer of Ohio State Grange. These gentlemen are good talkers and were given excellent attention throughout their remarks, which contained much to encourage the members of the order to push forward in the work which they have begun and for the accomplishment of which they have organized. At noon an excellent dinner was served to which everyone present was given a cordial invitation. The Burlington brass band made music for the occasion and acquitted itself in a most creditable manner.

The Mannin Reunion.

Sunday, July 21st, 1904, the Mannin Brothers held their 11th annual family reunion on the Alf Whitlock grounds just above North Bend on the banks of the Ohio river. The five remaining brothers, Samuel, Doc, Amos, Dick and Jasper, were there with their families, or portions of them. Since their last meeting one brother, Tubal, has passed into the Great Beyond. When all arrived there were twenty-one of the relatives and nine visitors. A few hours were spent in social talk then dinner was proposed by some hungry one, and baskets and boxes were brought forth and their contents spread on an upturned boat, that did service for a table. Fried chicken, pickles, pies, cakes and other things too numerous too mention disappeared as if by magic. If you don't believe me ask Jordon Beall—he was there. After dinner a few more hours were spent in music and singing interespersed with jokes and reminiscences. It does one good to meet such old friends as Holland Goodride, Alf Whitlock, Jordon Beall and son Howard. The presence of Luther Terrill, jr., was a pleasant addition to our party as was also that of Tobe Moreland, and family. Some of us are growing old, and the "silver cord" will soon break that binds us to this earth, but we hope to meet again next year without the loss of one.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all Druggists.

The dust has been very annoying for a month.

A Boy's Wild Ride For Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a sou riding for life, 18 miles to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Indiana, endured death's agonies from asthma; but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him, He writes. "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

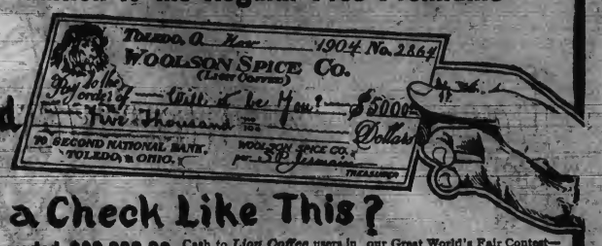
MRS. CECELIA STOWE,
Orator, Entre Nous Club.



176 Warren Avenue,
Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22, 1902.
For nearly four years I suffered from ovarian troubles. The doctor insisted on an operation as the only way to get well. I, however, strongly objected to an operation. My husband felt disheartened as well as I, for home with a sick woman is a disconsolate place at best. A friendly druggist advised him to get a bottle of Wine of Cardui for me to try, and he did so. I began to improve in a few days and my recovery was very rapid. Within eighteen weeks I was another being.

Cecilia Stowe

Mrs. Stowe's letter shows every woman how a home is saddened by female weakness and how completely Wine of Cardui cures that sickness and brings health and happiness again. Do not go on suffering. Go to your druggist today and secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui.

These are the existing conditions in the coming primary at the present time.

BULLITTSVILLE.

Candidates are coming thick and fast.

Cutting corn is the order of the day here.

The frost was on the pumpkin vine a couple of mornings last week.

Several from this neighborhood will leave tomorrow for a week's visit at the World's Fair.

Enough rain last week to settle the dust, but not enough to do the grass and springs any good.

A Mr. Kirk and wife, of Ohio, spent several days last week visiting her sister, Mrs. James Day.

Drs. Carl and Ray Grant, of Louisville, were visiting their Uncle, Thos. Grant, here one day last week.

The frost last Thursday and Friday mornings made the tobacco growers hustle to get their tobacco in the house.

C. A. Gaines moved his family to Ludlow, last Saturday. Ernest Brown, of Idlewild, took charge of Mr. Gaines' house.

School commenced at the Bullittsburg school house Monday, Sept. 12th with about 20 scholars, Wm. Gaines, teacher.

Wingate and Cropper have a cinch on the sheriffs race in this precinct. If Mr. Esme is not careful he will not learn his piece until the big show is over.

Some of our citizens are taking considerable interest in the series of ball games between Aurora and Lawrenceburg. Jim Houston is pitching for Aurora.

Will Gaines has a stalk of corn on exhibition at Baisley's store that measures 17 feet in length and has two fine ears on it. He says he has others that will beat this one.

Menter Graves was taken suddenly ill while calling on his neighbor, Thos. Grant, last Friday night. Drs. Hays and Hafer were called and found him with pneumonia.

It seems that there are some who are in doubt as to who will be nominated for the county offices. We can enlighten those who are in the dark: For county attorney, D. E. Castleman; for sheriff, M. F. Wingate; for assessor, B. L. Cleek; for school superintendent, D. M. Snyder; for county clerk, J. C. Hankins. This is straight goods of the all wool and a yard wide variety.

MIDWAY.

Died of consumption, last Thursday morning, Marion Levi Johnson, one of our brighest and most promising young men, aged 23 years, 4 months. Death, under any circumstances, is sad, but especially is it sad when it comes to a young person apparently entering upon a life of usefulness, and is the pride of the family. The many excellent traits of character with which he was endowed endeared him to all who knew him. He united with the M. E. church at Hughes Chapel when he was 18 and made an exemplary member. He bore his affliction with fortitude, and expressed a readiness to go at his Master's command, and talked with his friends about the beyond as cheerfully as one starting on a pleasant journey. So we can all join in saying:

Servant of God, well done!
Rest from thy loved employ,
The battle tought, the victory won,
Enter thy Master's joy.
The voice at morning came,
He started up to hear;
A mortal arrow pierced his heart,
He fell, but felt no fear.

Tranquil amidst alarms,
It found him on the field,
A veteran slumb'ring on his arms.
Beneath his red cross shield.
His sword was in his hand;
Still warm with recent fight,
Ready that moment at command,
Through rock and steel to smite.

At morning came the cry,
"To meet thy God prepare!"
He woke and caught the captain's eye,
Then strong in faith and prayer,
His spirit with a bound,
Burst its encumbering clay,
His tent at evening on the ground,
A darkened ruin lay.

The pains of death are past;
Labor and sorrow cease;
And life's long warfare closed at last,
His soul is found in peace.
Soldier of Christ, well done.
Praise be thy new employ;
And while eternal ages run,
Rest in thy Savior's joy.

He is survived by all the members of the family to mourn their loss, and to whom we extend our heartfelt sympathy in their hour of affliction. The repains were taken to Hughes Chapel Saturday morning by undertaker John Allison, of Covington, and after an appropriate discourse by Bro. Everett Bedinger, were laid to rest in the chapel cemetery in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives.

WALTON.

A dinner was given at the home of Mrs. Jane E. Johnson, Sunday, September 18th, in honor of her daughters, Mrs. Maxie Arnold, of Hackney, Kansas, and Mrs. Ben Vest, of Shelby, Nebraska; also to celebrate the birthdays of two of her children, Maxie A. and W. B. Johnson, which come on the same day of the week. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Johnson, of Covington; Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Records, of Sparta, and W. B. Johnson, son and daughter, of Glencoe; Rev. T. C. Ecton, of Georgetown; Harry Records, of Latonia, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Franklin, Mrs Maud Seila, and Miss Ella Crisler. A pleasant day was spent by all present.

A Boy's Wild Ride For Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Indiana, endured death's agonies from asthma; but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes. "I now sleep soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

GRANT.

Sept. 19.—A nice rain fell here yesterday.

Mrs. Eva Clore is visiting relatives in the city.

Mrs. John Clore spent several days last week in Lawrenceburg.

Cyrus Kelly took 20 baskets of fine peaches to the city last night.

James Smith, jr., and wife visited Mrs. Klopp on Woolper, Sunday.

Al Nixon and wife, of Woolper, were Sunday guests of Roland McCarty and wife.

Louie Welsh resigned as wharfmaster at Aurora, and is now mate on the Daisy.

Mrs. Alice Cook has a very sore hand and has not been able to use it for several days.

The river is so low that the large boats have trouble trying to get over the bar above town.

The candidate we have met the last week are J. C. Hankins, J. H. Rogers, B. L. Cleek and G. W. Ward.

Miss Iris Sandford returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit with her uncle Robert Sandford, in Covington.

The Schwartz sale was well attended and things brought good prices. A lunch was served at the noon hour.

Your reporter will soon make a tour of the county in the interest of the Recorder and the Youth's Companion.

Cincinnati parties purchased Al Rogers' crop of peaches on the hillside back of town at 45 cents a bushel at the landing here. The crop is estimated at 1,000 to 1,500 bushels.

B. W. Adams, the old war horse, was shaking hands with the boys here last Saturday. Blufe grows older in years, but not in looks nor actions has he changed one whit since last campaign.

After November 8th the Daisy will take a small crowd up Salt river for a little outing. Elmo Gaines will probably be pilot as he knows the channel. Edson has been making several trips with Caddie and may accept the position of engineer. B. L. Cleek will be first mate. But the entire crew may be changed on November 8th.

BELLEVIEW.

L. L. Snyder is quite feeble.

We were blessed with a fine rain Sunday.

James Rogers' new barn is nearing completion.

Your reporter attended the funeral of Hon. James A. Wilson near Rabbit Hash, last Sunday. A large crowd of relatives and friends were present to witness the remains laid in their last resting place.

Leslie Acra, of Middle creek, was down Monday and reported his mother very much worse. She has been confined to her bed for about 21 months but is patient and hears her illness with christian endurance.

Elbert Ryle who is teaching the Bellevue school will have a spelling match or spelling school on the 30th inst. at night. All are cordially invited to attend. Come and spend a few hours in an entertainment that is both pleasant and profitable.

Most everybody in this neighborhood attended Mrs. Schwartz's sale last thursday. Everything brought good prices. Old corn brought 68 cts; sheep $5 15 per head; milch cows from $25 to $32; hogs brought big prices. Mrs. Schwartz, Johnnie and Miss Annie leave this week for Tacoma, Washington, where they will make their future home. We are sorry to see such good citizens and neighbors leave, but they take with them the best wishes of their Boone county friends.

GAINES.

It has pleased God in His infinite wisdom to call from our midst one of our most faithful and beloved mothers in Isreal, Martha Lue Gaines. She was born near Versailles, in Woodford county, Ky., December 28th, 1823, united with the Baptist church at Hillsborough at the age of 16; was married to J. A. Gaines, of Boone county, November 2nd, 1848; after which she united with the church at Sand Run. In a few years after moving to the home in which she died, she joined the church at Bullittsburg, where she remained a faithful member for over 60 years. She was spared a long illness and death found her with heart and hands full of work for the Master. As a wife, mother and neighbor she was the enbodiement of duty, self-sacrifice and love. For many years a teacher of the Bible class, always ready to aid in the interest of religion, her heart and purse always open to those in trouble, we know that our loss is her eternal gain, therefore be it Resolved, That we as a church extend to the bereaved family our tenderest sympathy, and that we all bow submissively to the will of our Heavenly Father, Who doeth all things well. Also that a copy of this preamble and resolution be spread upon our church book, a copy be given to the bereaved family and a copy be sent to the Western Recorder and Boone County Recorder for publication.

Done by order of the Bullittsburg Baptist church, in conference, Saturday, September 3rd, 1904.

Committee—Ella K. Duncan, Carrie K. Gaines.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cholera, Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffered one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." For sale by all Druggists.

The two telephone companies have the north end of the county pretty well 'phoned.

Personal Mention.

Miss Bessie Berkshire has been very sick for several days.

M. F. Wingate, candidate for sheriff, was in town Monday morning.

John Mannix, the Hebron telephone expert, was in town last Monday.

S. W. Tolin, wife and daughter left for the World's Fair, last Saturday.

Dr. Gordon McKim, of Cincinnati, visited his parents here last Sunday.

L. N. Crigler, of Covington, was in town a few hours yesterday afternoon.

Dr. E. W. Duncan returned from French Lick springs last Friday evening.

Miss Grace Beemon was the guest of her sister, Mrs. John Hogan, last week.

J. W. Taliaferro, of Erlanger, was in Burlington last Thursday night and Friday.

Cecil Gaines is attending school, and assisting J. C. Revill in the bank occasionally.

C. H. Youell, of Limahurg neighborhood, was among the visitors to Burlington, Monday.

Ira Pope, of Rabbit Hash precinct, was among the visitors to the county seat last Thursday.

F. E. Curley, of Walton, candidate for county attorney, struck the town about noon, Monday.

James L. Riley and John Hogan were in Gallatin county a few days ago on a hog buying expedition.

William Clore, a leading farmer on Clore's Ridge, made the Recorder a short call, one day last week.

John C. Byland and F. E Curley of Walton, were guests of Burlington Masonic Lodge, last Saturday night.

John L. Vest, of Independence, was delving into the records in the Boone county clerk's office last Thursday.

Mrs. Annabel Kirkpatrick returned home Monday evening from a delightful visit with relatives in Indianapolis.

Owen Blankenbeker, of Gunpowder, neighborhood, was talking politics with the boys in Burlington, yesterday.

Marce Riddell is closing out his stock of watermelons at reduced prices so he can build a fire when the mornings are cool.

Thomas Blyth, of Nebraska, is the guest of his sister, Mrs. Dudley Rouse, and viewing the scenes of his childhood.

F. P. Walton and wife, of Covington, and son, Dr. A. B. Walton and wife, were guests at Dudley Rouse's Sunday.

Miss Barbara Birkle, daughter of J. M. Birkle, of Hebron, and Robert J. Steffen, of Covington, were married a few days since.

H. G. Cropper, of North Bend neighborhood, has moved to Home City, O., to secure better educational facilities for his children.

F. E. Curley, of Walton, candidate for county attorney, camped on the trail of his opponents in this part of the county, last week.

Frank Cason, and son, of Covington, were in Burlington one day last week. Mr. Cason was looking after his Boone county business interests.

A. C. Porter arrived last Monday evening from the vicinity of Indianapolis, Indiana, where he has been at work on a farm for several months.

J. J. Rucker, of Constance precinct, was in town last Thursday. He is having considerable trouble with his eyes, they having been sore for some time.

Mrs. H. W. Blyth and daughter, Louise, returned to their home in Aurora, last week, after a pleasant visit of several days with relatives in this county.

O. M. Rogers, of Erlanger, came over yesterday and received several nice cattle which he purchased a few days since of Henry and Charles Clore and Asa Cason.

Atty. O. M Rogers, of Erlanger, who does a little farming as a diversion, was in this part of the county, last Thursday, buying all the feeding cattle he could find for sale.

J. H. Rogers, of Walton, candidate for county clerk, made a tour of the north end of the county, last week, while his opponents Adams and Hankins kept a close watch on his movements.

Thomas Blythe, of Nebraska, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Dudley Rouse, and his brothers, Jerry and Geo. Blyth, of this place, having come here from Michigan, where his wife is sojourning in search of health. Last Saturday's Kentucky Post says of him: "Capt. Thos. A. Blythe, of Cairo, Neb., was in Newport Saturday looking up some old-time comrades in the Civil War. He was formerly from Newport, and enlisted in the Twenty-third Kentucky and for a while was stationed at Camp Spring. After the war he drifted West, and located in Nebraska, where he has been successful. Some of his old comrades were Capt. Robert Townsend, Capt. Wm. N. Air, Capt. John Link and Phil Keene, all of whom are still living. He was very much interested in the city, which, he says, has undergone a mighty change. He remembers Judge A. S. Berry during the war, and will visit in Newport and Boone County until the Judge comes home."

The Boones and the Petersburg ball team will try conclusions again next Saturday. Each team will present some new players.

Mrs. B. W. Adams issued a license yesterday for the marriage of Mr. L. C. Scothorn, of Idlewild, and Miss Johanna Doering, of Florence.

The Burlington cornet band surprised the people at the Harvest Home last Saturday. The quality of music it furnished was entirely satisfactory. Some pronounced it better music than that at the fair.

NATURAL AND SPIRITUAL SIGHT

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Bloom.)

Chicago, Sunday, Sept. 18, 1904.

Text:—"What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man, which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man but the Spirit of God."—II. Cor. 2:11.

IN explaining spiritual things and spiritual processes and operations in the human heart and life, it is logical and reasonable for man to start with the natural and the material and through the processes and operations there met with to learn of and understand the things which pertain to the soul and God. Our text contains a query and a declaration. It is a proposition in the form of a question and then a logical deduction from that proposition. The first is a thought which the natural man can grasp and understand. And perhaps it would be well to clearly define just what is meant by the natural and the spiritual man, inasmuch as the terms are used in apposition, and indicate extreme conditions—that is, man apart from and independent of God, and man in union and harmony with God. The natural man is what he is and may be of and in himself; the spiritual man is what he becomes under the power and touch of God. The natural man is unregenerate: that is, he is unborn to the realities and the needs and the obligations of the unseen things of God's spiritual kingdom. He is dead on the Godward side as far as vital contact with the cleansing and saving power of God through Christ is concerned. The spiritual man is regenerate; that is, he has been born into a new experience and new relationship with God. The consciousness of God has come to be more than intellectual and moral. The sense of the need of God has been awakened, and new aspirations and hopes have taken possession of the soul. When we speak, then, of the natural man we mean the man who is a stranger to God, and by the term spiritual man we mean the man who is acquainted with God. It is possible to know of God and know about God and still be a stranger to Him.

I KNOW of the king of England. I believe most implicitly, although I have never seen him, that such a person exists. I know a great deal about him, but I cannot say that I know him, I am a stranger to him. And so it is with the natural man. He may know of God. He may believe in the Supreme Being, he may have a certain reverence for Him, he may know a great deal about God, and he may seek to the best of his natural desire and ability to keep God's law, and in spite of it all he may be an utter stranger to God. To know God he must meet God in that wonderful operation known as regeneration and salvation. Through the doorway of this experience the soul must pass before it can really know God. Through this door the Spiritual man has passed, but not so the natural man. He may be near the door, he may be lingering on the threshold of conviction, but until he has passed through the door and been born again, he is a stranger to God. So much for the natural and the spiritual man. Now, as our text implies, the natural man is able to know and understand the things which pertain to man. The literal rendering of the first clause of our text is, "who of men knoweth the things of man, save the spirit of that man?" This is the man of one sight, the natural sight. Because he is a man and has a spirit of man within him he is able to know and understand the things of a man.

MAN cannot know how the bird feels as it soars in the heavens, or sings in the tree top, or gathers its food, because he has not the bird spirit. Prof. Garner has spent weeks in his iron cages in the jungles seeking to learn what he calls the monkey language and to get upon a speaking acquaintance with the Simians of the forest. He has learned a wonderful lot about the monkeys. He has caught upon the sensitive wax of tha graphophone the chatter of the creatures that Darwin tried to prove were the very ancient ancestors of the human race. But he has not accomplished what he set out to do, nor will he, for he has not the monkey spirit which is an essential condition. He cannot understand Mr. Monk in the way that his long-tailed brother, swinging at his side, can understand him. He cannot talk to him as his chattering neighbor does. The monkey spirit puts the monkey species on terms of intimacy and fellowship, and the painstaking professor, should he spend a lifetime in the midst of the monkey jungles, will not succeed, until he discovers some way of ingrafting within himself that same monkey spirit which makes all monkeydom akin. And the man spirit enables a man to understand man and the things of a man. This spirit of man equips him for the relations of this life. It gives him insight into and understanding of those things which pertain to man. He has natural sight. To the query of our text, then, the natural man can respond intelligently and say: "Of course man knows man and the things of man by the spirit of man which is in him." And Paul, having made this point, goes on to draw a reasonable deduction. If man by man's spirit which is in him knows the things of a man, then it must require the Spirit of God to know the things of God.

HOW hard it is to get tha natural man to recognize this principle, and how many Christians have never come to recognize it or understand it, either. There is great confusion in the minds of Christians everywhere as to the natural and the spiritual sight. The Spirit of God has revealed the condition of sin and Christ the sacrifice for sin. Under the regenerating power of the Holy Spirit the soul has been born into the kingdom of Jesus Christ, but from that point on there is a strange and unseemly mixture of the natural and the spiritual sight—the old nature predominates over that of the new nature wherein dwells the Spirit of God, and it results in all kinds of mistakes and errors. But it is not God's will that it should be so. God has given to us His Spirit that through His ministry we may come to know the deep things of God. This is what is implied in the term spiritual sight. It is a gift from God. It is the result of looking at the things of God through the revealing presence of the Holy Spirit. But to return to the natural man and the natural sight. The fact that he does not recognize the reality and meaning of spiritual sight is often an effectual barrier to his salvation. Perhaps he is well versed in scripture and has sought to understand the things of God with his intellect. Bob Ingersoll, with the splendid brain with which God had endowed him, endeavored to do this very thing. Few men were ever better versed in the Scriptures than he. Few Christians have Scripture texts at their tongues' ends as did he, and yet because Ingersoll did not recognize this truth, that it was not his spirit and his intellect which was to understand God and God's Word, but the Spirit of God which would becoma his teacher if he would only receive Him—because of this, he never knew God. How many there are in the same condition.

AND by this we would not imply that man's intellect and all his natural forces are eliminated as a factor in the finding of God. These are the mediums of God's communication to you, but not as predominating and willful factors, but as submissive and obedient agents for the operation of God's Spirit. It is here that the second or spiritual sight begins. Dear friend of natural sight, as you understand the things of man through the spirit of man which is in you, even so you must come to know the things of God through the Spirit of God. You must have second or spiritual sight. Will you not recognize the reasonableness of this proposition, and yield the natural sight to the point where God by His Spirit can reveal to you the things which pertain to God. Quit trying by your own effort to know and understand God, and with submissive and humble spirit let the Holy Spirit become Interpreter and Teacher to your soul. Imagine the man born blind trying with his sightless eyes to see and understand the appearance and beauty of nature all about him. Think of his refusing to believe that there were any other eyes which could see better than could his poor sightless ones. Think of his standing in the presence of Jesus and declaring that he was satisfied with his view and understanding of things, and did not believe there could be anything better. I fear that the compassionate Christ would never have stooped down and anointed the poor beggar's eyes with clay. He never would have washed in the pool and come seeing. Ah, we need the sight which Christ alone can give us by His Holy Spirit if we would come seeing the things of God.

IN SPEAKING of the natural, unregenerate man, in the verses preceding our text, Paul declares that "eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." But the apostle goes on to say of the regenerate man that "God hath revealed them unto him by His Spirit." And then comes the query and the declaration of our text. But how slowly and how indifferently the Christian receives the revelation which the Spirit, as He searches the deep things of God, seeks to make to the soul. How little we are satisfied with. How limited is our view of salvation. When God has set a table loaded with the richness and fullness of His inexhaustible spiritual dainties, how content we are to stoop down at the table's edge and pick up only the barest crumbs which have chanced to fall at our feet. We might sit at the table and partake of all the feast. We might through the aid of the Holy Spirit see and enjoy the wonderful—"things which God hath prepared for them that love Him," but we do not. We are satisfied with the crumbs, and we make out the rest of our meal on the weak and beggarly elements of the world and go sight-seeing with the natural man. We use his eyes and ears and tongue and brain. Oh, how much the Christian willfully shuts himself away from! What fulness God has planned for him and how empty he remains! God wants us to have His sight, His view of things, to know His peace and joy, and fullness. My brother, give up the desire and tendency to see with the natural eye; make the natural man with his materialistic tendencies and his fleshly appetites and lusts take a back seat, and enthrone the Holy Spirit in your heart, that you may see with clear vision and know and understand God.

THE NEW MAN ON HORSEBACK.

CHANGE IS SURE TO COME

Voters Are Tired of Fraud and Grafting in All the Departments of the Government.

The democrats are united as they have not been before for ten years, and Parker and Davis will receive tha normal vote of the party with a good many recruits from their opponents. The republicans are split into factions on several issues. Nearly all the old Hanna machine men are disgruntled, as they see a young element of their party in the saddle and they will not pull hard on the traces unless they are paid for their work either in money or promises. In West Virginia, Delaware, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Wisconsin the rival republican factions are intent on defeating each other and one or the other faction have no faith in or love for Candidate Roosevelt, though most of them declare they will vote for him. In these and other states there are minor factions and important republicans who, while keeping within party lines, are opposed to their candidate for president and do not mind saying so in private conversation. The glamour of the Rough Rider has worn off and the business interests of the country have more weight in politics than the imperialistic element.

That is the great danger to the Rough Rider. The farmers have discovered that the trusts are bleeding them and that the high price of wheat is more than offset by the increased cost of what they buy. The workingmen are organizing politically for their protection, for the republican majority in congress refused to listen to their prayer for legislation for the eight-hour bill, the anti-injunction bill and other lesser laws labor thinks necessary for its salvation. All the republican leaders favor the open shop and most of them are openly in sympathy with the Parry organization of protected trusts and manufacturers.

Wages are being reduced and strikes are numerous and the cost of living is still advancing, which does not inspire confidence in the economic policies of the republican party of those who are suffering from loss of wages and increased cost of food.

The trusts have decreased the profits of the small storekeepers, while rents and household expenses are higher than ever before and the opportunities for increased business are monopolized by the great department stores which can purchase from the trusts at much less than the small storekeeper has to pay.

People with limited incomes find their expenses have increased while their revenues are stationary. All these people are inquiring why the trusts should be protected by the tariff in selling their products at the highest possible price here and a much lower price in foreign countries. Many of the voters have discovered that the tariff prevents competition and fosters monopoly and the increased cost for their products which the monopolists charge is a much greater tax than the government receives.

The revenues of the United States are declining and the expenses are greater than ever before in time of peace. Not only have the expenses of the government increased much faster in proportion than the population, but neither President Roosevelt, nor his cabinet, nor the republican majority in congress have offered any solution of the problem. They are all intent on "letting well enough alone," and have paralyzed the industries of the country with a do-nothing policy by fighting all proposals for reform.

The government departments are extravagant and filled with grafters which the republican party has refused to investigate, although evidence was plentiful that but a beginning had been made in exposing the frauds through a partisan investigation of but two bureaus of the post office department.

Knowledge of all these sins of the republican party is finding lodgment in the hearts of many voters and they have determined on a change. Upon the surface of the political field all is still and serene, but there are mutterings in the homes of the farmers, the cottages of the artisans and the tenements of the laboring men that bode ill for the republican candidates. The still small voice of reason is working more changes of sentiment than the hired and blatant notes of the trust apologist can overcome, blare he never so loudly, and there is a quiet determination to "turn the rascals out."

JUDGE PARKER'S TELEGRAM

Facts Regarding Its Transmission to St. Louis Which Can Be Maintained by Proofs.

The Brooklyn Eagle is in a position to affirm and to maintain by proof these facts:

That Alton Brooks Parker wrote the famous gold standard dispatch to William F. Sheehan, then in St. Louis, on Saturday morning, July 9, at 11 o'clock, and sent the same from the Esopus telegraph station.

That the dispatch was so written and so sent on Judge Parker's own initiative, without consultation or communication with a single soul.

That the dispatch was not written and sent in pursuance of a pre-arrangement and that those who advocated and advanced his cause in St. Louis had no foreknowledge of it.

That Judge Parker reached his determination to send the dispatch after he had been informed by the New York papers of Saturday morning, and by that means alone, and had comprehended in its entirety the situation as to the platform in St. Louis.

That Judge Parker did not anticipate or foresee the final action of the committee in its 16 hours session; that he did not have and could not have had knowledge of the events as they developed on Friday and Friday night at St. Louis, until eight o'clock Saturday morning; that during the 30 hours preceding the sending of the dispatch he had no communication whatsoever with any leader of the New York delegation, with any leader in the convention, or with any person of that convention or with any person in the east on any matter which could be construed as political.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

—President Roosevelt is quoted as writing that President Jackson was illiterate. Must be true. Made his mark at New Orleans.—N. Y. Herald.

—Motion raises temperature. The republican committee keeps Mr. Fairbanks moving with the idea that he may warm up before the campaign is over.—N. Y. World.

—Big trusts contribute $10,000,000 toward Mr. Roosevelt's campaign. The magnates are paying for those white house lunches and for what they took away.—St. Louis Republic.

—On his way to Oyster Bay, Mr. Roosevelt was delayed by a flood. There may be a tidal wave next November—but it won't keep Roosevelt away from Oyster Bay; quite the contrary.—Albany Argus.

—An esteemed contemporary has been mourning the decline of fiction during recent years. But the mournful plaints, be it understood, were made before the republican campaign text-book was issued.—The Commoner.

—A New York supporter of the administration affirms with great confidence that imperialism is a myth because it could not exist in free America. Nobody is afraid of it here. But it can exist in the subject Philippines.—Philadelphia Record.

Cause of the Gold Outflow.

Gold continues to go out of the country. When the democrats were in power the republican organs shrieked themselves hoarse over such a terrible calamity. They couldn't think of anything else. They writhed and frothed and grew hysterical and had all sorts of nightmares and fits. Now, the fact is that republican management—bad management—has caused this outflow. The gold will come back, but not under present conditions.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

People's Money Is Wasted.

The republicans admit the increased cost of running the government under the present extravagant administration, but claim that it is necessary, as the growth of the country demands it. But the cost per capita should not increase faster than the population increases, as it should be relatively cheaper to run an 80,000,000 country than one with 40,000,000 of people; but the cost is increasing at a much greater ratio than the population, which shows extravagance and waste of the people's money.

BUTTONS AND MEDALLIONS

Will Be Dominant in the Trimmings of Modish Costumes for Fall.

Though it is coming fall and one looks for all new modes there are many old ones that still hold their sway and grow, if possible, stronger with the seasons. One of these is the button vogue and tha other is the vogue for medallions, says tha Brooklyn Eagle.

In buttons there is a greater variety than ever. They come larger and more elegant, costing prices that ought to buy a gown. In the other extreme there are buttons that are very small, but made of very nice material, and these are used abundantly for trimming purposes. Little brass buttons are used to trim a girdle; little brass buttons are employed upon a stock; small buttons of blue and white are used for vest and jacket trimmings and buttons that are extremely beautiful decorate street blouses and walking gowns. The handsomest of the new buttons are made of three or four materials, showing, frequently, a filigree over gold or over silver. And others are made of different colored stones, all inset, while still others are of metal, with designs set with precious stones.

The silk buttons and the hand-painted buttons and the buttons that are covered with the dress goods are all very much used and, since they are inexpensive, as well as beautiful, they are becoming fast favorites.

One very charming button is the button of white silk, painted with a flower. This makes a handsome decoration for a calling dress and it is a button that can be used upon gowns of even nicer destination.

For nice evening waists, the hand-painted button is set in a little rim of Valenciennes lace, shirred and gathered around the button. Again one sees the button set in the middle of a rosette ribbon. Either way it is very pretty.

Lace medallions will be employed as numerously as ever, but there will be more method in their madness than formerly. Once upon a time anything went in the medallion line.

In these days, and during the coming season, the medallion trimming must be a well ordered affair, arranged systematically and with a view to a completed design. One very pretty method shows a row of circular pieces of lace, arranged across the bust of a bodice with narrow strips of lace connecting them.

Wasn't Used to Automobiles, But Knew How to Charge for Stabling One.

"There's some people," said Mr. Harrington, "that'll get all they can out of a boarder for his board an' charge him extra for the toothpick. If I hadn't had insurance on the place, I'd a let that feller put his automobile in our barn here."

"Does it hurt the insurance?" asked Mrs. Harrington, relates Youth's Companion.

"Course it does. If anything should set fire to the barn, while the automobile is there, nary a cent of insurance do you get. That's why I sent him over to Betty Young's. She ain't got any insurance, an' I guess she could take the risk fer the money she got. An' she got it.

"I saw the feller this morning an' I asked him how he made out. He'd left his machine there for a week lacking one day, while he went back and got some parts.

"'How'd you get on?' I says to him.

"He sort o' laughed an' said: 'All right.'

"'Miss Young treat ye well?'

"'Oh, yes. But she has a queer notion of making out a bill.'

"'Overcharge ye?' I says, knowing Betty's ways.

"'Well,' he says, 'she's charged me for things that I clearly ain't had, though she may ha' lost 'em.'

"Then he handed me the bill Betty had made. It was queer.

"'Supper, breakfast and night's lodging, 75 cents.' That was all right.

"'Keeping one automobile in the barn six days and nights, a dollar and a half.' That was all right, I suppose. Then came other items.

"'Damage for burning green wood, on acount of not being able to get to the dry wood-pile because I was afraid of tha automobile, two dollars.

"'Cost of one calico skirt, tore in going 'round the automobile to get the scythe, on account of being afraid to go near the thing, sixty cents.

"'Mental anxiety, one dollar.

"'Total, five dollars an' eighty-five cents.' Quite an expensive week for the young feller, but I guess those that can afford to run one of the things can afford to pay for stabling when they're laid up for repairs."

Was Coming to Her.

Marion is a precocious little tot of four years who had been spending the summer at a Long Island resort. Country folks as well as city ones have had their share of rain these past few weeks, and Marion objected to the cooping up that the storms necessitated. One day recently she decided to ignore the rain and go for a walk on her own account. She evaded her nurse and mother and without hat or coat started for the highway. Just then her mother discovered her and the runaway's trip was cut short.

"Marion, what do you think you'll get for this caper?" asked her mother, in her severest tones.

"I dess I'll get an umbrella," was the nonchalant reply.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Delicious Water Ice.

Take a dozen oranges and half dozen lamons; prepare as if to make orangeade. Sweeten to taste, but make a little sweeter than for drinking, as the sweetness always freezes out somewhat. Dilute with water, and add a quart of grape juice. The color is so beautiful that it seems almost to add to the flavor.—Good Housekeeping.

CHEAP POULTRY HOUSES.

Valuable Suggestions from an Illinois Lady Who Has Made Hen-Keeping a Success.

I keep about 300 fowls and have several small houses such as shown in accompanying illustration. The houses are built, some of pine and some of oak lumber. They are 7 feet wide and 10 feet long, 7 feet high in front and 4½ feet at back. Sills are 2x4-inch oak, caps 2x4-inch pine. They have one window of six lights 24x30 inches in front, 3 feet from the ground; one small window without glass, but a wooden shutter, 2 feet square, in end opposite door, for air and ventilation; two exits for fowls in front. Have platform length of house 3 feet wide under perches to catch droppings. This is kept covered with dirt or dust.

Between dropping boards and floor is a platform for nests. All platforms and perches are removable. Houses have earth floors. Each house has one large door placed in the end, close to the front. The exits are 12x16 inches, placed close to the ground. On stormy days the door is kept closed, the fowls going in and out through the exits. The windows have strong, fine meshed wire nailed on the outside.

These houses are about 5 rods apart, and there are no fences between them.

HOUSE FROM THE OUTSIDE.

yet there is little trouble in keeping the flocks separate. Each house shelters 60 hens, and I keep ten cockerels with four flocks. They have unlimited range. The eggs hatch better than when a cock is kept for every 12 or 15 hens. The interior of the house is also shown. The platform is whitewashed and dust or sand is sprinkled on it. The perches are 2 or 3 inches in diameter. Between the floor and dropping platform is another platform 2 feet wide on which the nests are placed.

The nests are sometimes boxes made of short pieces of board, but usually are small hoxes bought at the grocery for 5 cents each. In the corner opposite the door is usually a barrel of road dust. The hens use it for a dust bath, and I use it for the dropping boards. They also use it for a nest box, which I disapprove of.

The cost of two houses was as follows: Lumber, $7.85 (the pine lumber was second-hand, and I got it for half price); nails, 30 cents; glass and putty, 69 cents; hinges and locks, 40 cents; paper, cement and nails, $7.25; freight on paper and cement, $1.25; total of $17.74 for material; six days' labor at $1 per day would add $6, making the total cost $23.74, or not quite $12 for each. Two other houses made of new lumber and battens instead of paper, which cost $20.25; oil and paint, $1.13; 14 pounds nails, 56 cents; three windows, $1.05; wire netting, $1.05; hinges, locks and hasps, 59 cents; 6 days' labor, $6, making the total cost $31.04, or $15.52 each.—Mrs. E. E. Datton, in Orange Judd Farmer.

FINE FEED FOR THE HENS.

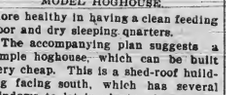
Unthreshed Grain Produces Results That Will Surprise Those Who Have Never Fed It.

Save a small amount of unthreshed grain for the poultry. You will save the thresher's bill on it, and the poultry will even pay you a nice profit for the privilege of working it over for their own benefit, by an increased supply of eggs, and thriftiness and growth among the flock. Wheat is best for this purpose, but rye and oats are also excellent. If so desired, you can select some of your poorest grain for this purpose, as the main object is to furnish the poultry with some interesting employment. Save enough of the unthreshed grain to furnish one good-sized bundle for every 30 hens in the flock daily. Whole grain can with advantage be scattered among the straw. It will prevent the greedy ones from glutting themselves, while the small and weak ones have a chance to get their share of the grain. After the straw has been thoroughly worked over and all grain picked out, it should be all raked up and removed before bringing in a fresh bundle. If possible, the unthreshed grain should be placed under a shed or in a barn to keep dry. If unthreshed grain cannot be obtained, dry fresh straw and chaff will be a good substitute to sprinkle the grain among, if frequently changed, but it will not give as good results as the unthreshed grain, owing to the amount of healthy exercise which the unthreshed grain will furnish.—Midland Farmer.

SOME FACTS FOR BREEDERS

Why Close Attention Should Be Paid to the Individual Merits of Farm Animals.

The breeder of cattle sooner or later comes to realize the fact that individual merit must be the chief thing considered in an animal. At first he is inclined to stake everything on pedigree, but after a time he comes to realize that pedigrees are indicative only of certain facts in the past history of the breed, but are not enough to use as a foundation in building up a herd. A remote ancestor of his animals may have been a wonder in his ability to make meat, but it will be seen, after a little figuring, that a very small part indeed of the blood of that animal can be in the animals he owns. If in-breeding is not practiced, the tenth generation after an animal each of his progeny will have in him less than one-thousandth part of the blood of that sire or dam and the rest will he from the blood of animals not particularly noted.



Therefore individual merit must receive a large amount of attention. Some one has said that a pedigree running back 15 generations would contain over 32,000 names, which will show how little of the blood of any remote ancestor any one animal can have. Pedigrees are of value, but sometimes they are a positive injury to the breeder, who keeps an animal with a pedigree when he would have killed the animal before breeding it if it had no pedigree.

But for all this the buyer of cattle, if they are to be used for breeding purposes, puts great weight on the pedigree, though there may be little in it. There is always a chance that something unusual may come out of it, and the ordinary buyer is ready to take the chance. In many cases pedigrees are profitable only in the sale of an animal, and that only because of the sentiment of the buyer. We believe there is more danger of losing sight of the individuality of an animal thaw of losing sight of a pedigree. Therefore we say, pay close attention to the individuality of the animal that is to be used for a breeder, and if he does not, in conformation and other qualities, come up to the type desired, fatten him or her for the shambles.—Farmers' Review.

A CHEAP HOUSE FOR HOGS

The Structure Here Described Will Pay for Itself in the Course of a Single Season.

Every farmer who raises a dozen or more hogs through the season should have a suitable place for them to sleep and eat. A neat and comfortable house can be built from native lumber, the cost of which can be made perhaps in one season by the number of pigs saved during farrowing time, and by economy of feed. Besides, the hogs will be more healthy in having a clean feeding floor and dry sleeping quarters.

The accompanying plan suggests a simple hoghouse, which can be built very cheap. This is a shed-roof building facing south, which has several windows to let in plenty of sunshine. The height from floor to plate is nine feet in front and six in the rear. The feedroom is 12x12, the sleeping-room 8x12, and the alley four feet wide. Farrowing pens are 6x8 feet each. The dotted lines mark movable partitions. Each pen and room should be well lighted. Small doors in front open into lots. If desired, a feeding crib or grain bin may be built on the end of the house adjacent to the feed room.—Orange Judd Farmer.

SUNSHINE IN THE STABLE.

Light Is Essential to the Welfare of Horses and Other Animals Confined Within Walls.

Sunshine is just as essential to horses and other farm animals as it is to human beings. Do not lose sight of this fact when building stables and pens. This is too often done, and stables for both horses and cattle are too dark. The eyes of horses are not infrequently injured by being kept in dark stables. Our houses, as a rule, are much better lighted than our stables, yet we all know how uncomfortable it is to go out of a well lighted house into the glare of sunshine, especially if there is snow on the ground. The effect is even worse on horses and cows. Aside from any special effect on the eyes, light and sunshine in stables are of vast importance to the general health and thrift of farm stock, and they should always be constructed with a view to admitting as much as possible of both. In old barns and stables where the stock quarters are dark, and, as a necessary consequence, damp, it would be a good idea to put in some windows to admit light and sunshine into them. The present is a good time to attend to this, and the considerate person will do it.—Thomas W. Lloyd, in N. Y. Tribune Farmer.

Wheat Produces Cheap Pork.

If pork or bacon produced by wheat will be as marketable as that produced by corn the latter will take second place in the pork-growing process. At the Oregon experiment station 3.70 bund of wheat a day produced one pound of hog meat daily, whereas it took 3.68 pounds of corn to produce the same result. The period of the test was 21 days. Another fact disclosed was that the hogs fatten almost half as fast again the first half of the fattening period as they do during the second half. The heavy lard hog takes more feed than the younger smaller bacon hogs.

SCAVENGERS OF DESERT.

How the Coyotes and Crows Keep an Eye on One Another in Quest of Food.

It is probable that one never fully credits the interdependence of wild creatures, and their cognizance of the affairs of their own kind and other kinds. Mrs. Mary Austin, in "The Land of Little Rain," says that the scavengers of the desert all keep an eye on one another.

Never a coyote comes out of his lair to hunt, in the country of the carrion crows, but looks up first to see where the crows are gathering. It is a sufficient occupation for a windy morning, on the listless, level mesa, to watch the pair of them eying each other furtively, with a tolerable assumption of unconcern, but no doubt with a certain amount of good understanding.

When the five coyotes that range the Tyon from Pasteria to Tunawai planned a relay race to bring down an antelope strayed from the band, an eagle swung down from Mount Pinos, buzzrds materialized out of invisible ether, and hawks came trooping like small boys to a street fight. Rabbits sat up in the chaparral and cocked their ears, feeling themselves quite safe for once as the hunt swung near them.

Nothing happens in the deep wood that the blue jays are not all agog to tell. The hawk follows the badger, the coyote the carrion crow, and from their aerial stations the buzzards watch each other.

Very clean and handsome, quite helping his relationship in appearance, is Clark's crow, that scavenger and plunderer of mountain camps. It is permissible to call him by his common name, "Camp Rohrer;" he has earned it. Not content with refuse, he picks open mealsacks, filches whole potatoes, is a gourmand for bacon, drills holes in packing-cases, and is daunted by nothing short of tin.

All the while he does not neglect to vituperate the chipmunks and sparrows that whisk off crumbs of comfort from under the camper's feet.

The Camp Rohrer's gray coat, black and white barred wings and slender bill, with certain tricks of perching, accuse him of attempts to pass himself off as a woodpecker; but his behavior is all crow. He frequents the higher pine belts, and has a noisy strident call like a jay's; and how clean he and the frisk-tailed chipmunks keep the camp! No crumb or paring or bit of egg-shell goes amiss.

The cunningest hunter is hunted in turn, and what he leaves of his kill is meat for some other.

BESSIE PLAYED BARBER.

And When She Got Through with the Boys They Were Perfect Frights.

Bessie is the six-year-old daughter of Chubbs, who owns a fine house on the eastern side of Central park, just off Millionaire's row, relates the New York Press. Bobby is the four-year-old darling of Blubbs, who lives a block away. Harry is the curly-haired gem of Hubbs. The three families are mutual friends. The children are sent to the park under the charge of one nursemaid. This estimable person takes her sewing with her and sits on a bench while the three children wander off to play.

One afternoon the nurse espied a friend. She dropped her scissors on a bench and hurried off to see her. She was gone ten minutes, according to her own account. Meanwhile Bessie had discovered the scissors.

"Let's play barber," she said, "and I'm the barber."

So far as Bobby and Harry are concerned Bessie is usually anything she wants to be. When the nurse returned she almost fainted. The six long, golden curls that had adorned Harry's head when he entered the park were hanging gracefully over the back of the bench. Bobby's own "slubbed" hair—cut straight across the back, with a hang in front—looked like a well-worn feather duster.

"What shall I do?" shrieked the nurse, to a policeman who responded to her screams.

He was a deliberate policeman. He calmly surveyed the wreck and then observed:

"Do? Why, take the kids home, and be thankful ye didn't bring a razor."

Artesian Water a Fertilizer.

Investigations carried on during the last year by Mr. S. W. McCallie, assistant state geologist of Georgia, acting in cooperation with the United States geological survey, have revealed the presence of interesting and perhaps valuable properties in some of the artesian waters in the Coastal Plain of that state. Water taken from a deep well at Baxley showed on analysis 5.5 parts per 1,000,000 of phosphoric acid, which would indicate that it might be used for fertilizing as well as for irrigating barren fields. In other words, it may be acceptable to the desert land as both food and drink. It is estimated that a layer of this phosphoric acid-bearing water 12 inches deep over one acre of land would exert a fertilizing effect equal to that of 200 pounds of commercial fertilizer.

Bees in Court.

In Neosho county a new courthouse has been built to take the place of the stone structure erected many years ago. Some years ago a swarm of bees took possession of a place under the eaves of the building. The colony rapidly multiplied into other colonies until the bees are busily at work under the eaves of every side of the building, and their incessant buzz can be heard in the courtroom when the occupants are noiselessly, breathlessly waiting for some final decision from court or jury.—Chanute (Kan.) Sun.

WELL MAKES AMAZING CURE

Builder's Laborer Had One Leg Shorter Than the Other—Water Lengthens It.

A wonderful cure has just been effected by the waters of St. Winifrede's well, in the little Welsh town of Holywell, the fame of which dates back hundreds of years. The patient is James Plunkett, a builder's laborer of Manchester, who became almost a helpless cripple after falling from some scaffolding 12 months ago last December. He was treated at the Ancoats hospital without success, and a fortnight ago he made the pilgrimage to Holywell on crutches, and his right leg five inches shorter than the left. He was dipped in the well and given a course of baths, and was soon able to discard his crutches, which are now to be seen in the crypt of the well. His injured leg began to resume its proper shape, and he was enabled to place it to the ground. At present Plunkett is still an inmate of the hospice on the hill above the well. He now walks with the aid of a stick, having only just the suspicion of a limp. He has been home, and the change in his condition created great excitement in the district of Oldham road, where he lives.

ANT BITES BOY'S TONGUE.

Onslaught of Winged Pest May Necessitate Removal of Organ of New York Lad.

As a result of a bite by one of the "winged ants" which have been a plague in the Bronx and Harlem, N. Y., for some time, Frederick Snyder, 14 years of age, of Boston avenue, Bronxdale, may have to have his tongue cut out. The boy was bitten on the tongue. At first he did not mind the irritation, thinking it would be only temporary. Later the tongue began to swell, and with the inflammation he experienced much pain. Soothing lotions were applied in vain. A physician was called in the next day, and he administered treatment, but despite this the swelling continued, until now it is feared that, to save the boy's life, the tongue may have to be amputated either wholly or in part. This is the first serious case of biting resulting from the winged ant plague.

EIGHTH HUSBAND AT 30.

Remarkable Marital Career of Handsome Senora—Insurance Agent Refuses Last Spouse.

A woman at Logrono, Spain, has married her eighth husband. Her last marriage took place when she was only 16 years of age, and she has been busy marrying ever since. Her last husband died of heart disease within two months of his wedding, and none of the others enjoyed more than two years of married life. The woman, who is now a little over 30, is very handsome, and belongs to a distinguished family. Her two brothers are professors at the Madrid university, and her father was a talented author. A life insurance office has refused to insure the life of her latest husband, who is a well-to-do photographer.

Less Risky.

An Italian college student chinned himself 42 times and died. It may not develop so much muscle, but it is certainly safer, remarks the Denver Republican, to get one's exercise by looking at the pictures in the physical culture magazine.

When a young man sows wild oats the crop is seldom a failure.—Chicago Daily News.

Miss Gannon, Sec'y Detroit Amateur Art Association, tells young women what to do to avoid pain and suffering caused by female troubles.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I can conscientiously recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to those of my sisters suffering with female weakness and the troubles which so often befall women. I suffered for months with general weakness, and felt so weary that I had hard work to keep up. I had shooting pains, and was utterly miserable. In my distress I was advised to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it was a red letter day to me when I took the first dose, for at that time my restoration began. In six weeks I was a changed woman, perfectly well in every respect. I felt so elated and happy that I want all women who suffer to get well as I did."—MISS GUILA GANNON, 359 Jones St., Detroit, Mich., Secretary Amateur Art Association.

It is clearly shown in this young lady's letter that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will certainly cure the sufferings of women; and when one considers that Miss Gannon's letter is only one of the countless hundreds which we are continually publishing in the newspapers of this country, the great virtue of Mrs. Pinkham's medicine must be admitted by all; and for the absolute cure of all kinds of female ills no substitute can possibly take its place. Women should bear this important fact in mind when they go into a drug store, and be sure not to accept anything that is claimed to be "just as good" as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for no other medicine for female ills has made so many actual cures.

How Another Sufferer Was Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise your wonderful remedies enough, for they have done me more good than all the doctors I have had. For the last eight years and more I suffered with female troubles, was very weak, could not do my housework, also had nervous prostration. Some days I would remain unconscious for a whole day and night. My neighbors thought I could never recover, but, thanks to your medicine, I now feel like a different woman.

"I feel very grateful to you and will recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all. It has now been four years since I had the last spell of nervous prostration. I only weighed ninety-eight pounds at that time; now I weigh one hundred and twenty-three.

"I consider your Vegetable Compound the finest remedy made. Thanking you many times for the benefit I received from your medicine, I remain, Yours truly, MRS. J. H. FARMER, 2809 Elliott Ave., St. Louis, Mo."

Remember Mrs. Pinkham's advice is free and all sick women are foolish if they do not ask for it. She speaks from the widest experience, and has helped multitudes of women.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

SOME of Chairman Babcock's utterances of a few years ago in favor of tariff reform are being used by the Democrats as campaign material. In a letter written in 1901 he took strong grounds against the policy of protection and urged a reduction of the tariff on many articles.

IN the absence of Judge Shaw, of Covington, Judge Lassing was called to the bench in Covington, a few days since and decided that the act of the last legislature making the circuit clerk in counties containing a city of the first-class a member of the county board of election commissions instead of the sheriff, is class legislation, and is, therefore, unconstitutional. This places McInnery in the saddle in Kenton county again in the matter of appointing officers of election.

The tobacco growers of Kentucky have the opportunity of their lives to make a nice thing out of their present tobacco crop and get once more on easy street, if they but act together. The good Lord has sent his sunshine and showers in their season and has brought forth from the soil one of the best crops of tobacco ever grown in Kentucky. The Lord and the earth—and we would not withold due credit from those who have worked in the field—have done their full share, and now it remains for those who have the financial end of the work in hand, to do their part.

It is our honest conviction that the members of the Tobacco Grower's Association of Kentucky, who have labored so hard and against such odds—have solved the problem, and we trust they will receive the hearty support of every tobacco producer in the State.

At the meeting of the Association at Lexington last Thursday the annoucement was officially made that sufficient money had been secured to handle and hold the crop of 1904 until such time a fair price could be obtained for it.

Having once been engaged in a like movement, we have personal knowledge of the difficulties the scheme will encounter. Many will undertake to take advantage of the Association, and will listen to the sweet promises of the Trust, and will sell out their very birthright for temporary advantage; others will go about making charges against the management of the Association; while many will throw up their hands in desperation and declare that "the farmers can do nothing."

We trust there will be few of the latter class.

The present crop of White Burley tobacco is worth to the raisers from 12½ to 15 cents, and they ought to have it, and will, if they but stand together. Some may say that we don't know what we are talking about, and may be we don't but if you will get the files of the Mercury of last year, and read what we said then, and then remember what the Continental paid those who bought your tobacco at from five to eight cents, you will come to the conclusion that we did some good guessing then, and may be doing it again.

You have a fine crop. The Continental—and especially the Independent Manufacturer, need it, and need it bad, and will come after it, if you will but hold up for a price. Of course they will threaten not to buy it unless you will take their offer. But don't let that frighten you. They have got to have it, and will have it at a fair price.

Set your figures high and stick to it. The manufacturers can put the extra price on the manufactured product.—Carlisle Mercury.

Old "Aunt" Hannah Calloway, colored, doubtless the oldest person in Kentucky, died in this city Saturday at the advanced age of 116 years. She originally was a slave of a man by the name of Colgan, from whom she was purchased by Ignatius Bryan almost a century ago. As a slave she was inherited by the late Hilary Bryan, a son of Ignatius Bryan, and has been a resident of the county for 75 or 100 years. In spite of her advanced age she retained her memory until death. Being born in 1738 her memory extends back to the early settlement of Kentucky. She remembered many historical events of that period. She was a full grown woman at the time of the battle of New Orleans and distinctly remembered having seen George Washington. Aunt Hanna lived in three centuries and was a connecting link between the early history of the country and the present. In her childhood Napoleon, William Pitt, George Washington were the great central figures in the world's history Kentucky was then a part of Virginia. Ohio, Indiana and Illinois were comparatively unexplored and the Red man roved the plains of this great northwest country. She was a grown woman before a railroad was dreamed of. She lived when gentlemen wore powdered wigs and knee breeches.—Elizabethtown News.

Hon. John T. McClure, of Grant county, died at his home in Crittenden, on the 13th inst. He had served his county as sheriff and member of the legislature, and was cashier of the Tobacco Growers' Deposit Bank at Crittenden. He was 70 years old, and was in bad health for several months.

Seed wheat has been selling as high as $1 25 per bushel in this part of the county. Very few had wheat that was suitable for seed.

HON. J. A WILSON.

Hon. James A. Wilson, for many years one of the most prominent men in Boone county, died at his home near Rabbit Hash, at 5 a. m., last Friday morning, the 16th inst. The remains were interred in the family burying ground near the residence last Sunday at 10 o'clock.

James Alexander Wilson was born in Madison county, Virginia, on November 17th, 1814, and came to this county with his parents in 1825, landing here June 4, and settling in the Mt. Pleasant neighborhood. The next spring his father moved to the farm owned by the late Richard Parker below Petersburg, where he died November 15th, 1826, leaving a family of six boys and two girls, one Lewis a little older than James. In 1820 the family moved to East Bend, residing on Gunpowder creek just below the mouth of Riddell's Run a year or so, when they bought about 100 acres of land on Lick creek. The land was all in timber and the boys cleared a portion of it and built a comfortable house and a log barn. They paid for this land raising tobacco. Mrs. Wilson died June 13th, 1841, and on October 2d, 1852, the subject of this sketch married Miss Jane K. Stephens, daughter of the late James N. Stephens. To them were born 11 sons and 2 daughters. Seven of the sons are living.—Mr. Wilson served as clerk of the election in his precinct for about half a century, and was the counsellor of the entire neighborhood. He was constable under the first constitution; served one term as school commissioner, and represented the county in the General Assembly in 1867 and in 1873. In 1881 he and C. G. Riddell began a general country store at Rabbit Hash, which business the infirmatives of old age caused him to give up in 1900, after which he remained closely at home the remainder of his days. He was a member of no church, but lead an exemplary life in every respect, and no man kept his word closer than James A. Wilson. In politics he was an uncompromising Democrat, his first vote being for Martin Vanburen for president. Mrs. Wilson the aged companion of this noble old man, survives him, and has the sympathy of the entire county.

A Fair Proposition.

While I have been handling a few loads of heavy cattle from Boone county, I have made a special effort to induce many of her good citizens to supply themselves with some of the plain cattle that are being sacrificed in the Cincinnati market. To substantiate my belief, to any one well known to have plenty of roughness and grass (no grain required) to provide for any number of cattle, I will secure them for him and give within twelve months double first cost less a buying commission which is 50c per head. The kind I would furnish would be plain, growthy cattle either sex, as would be immaterial to the one caring for them as their profit would be established. In the last week I have bought and shipped to Maryland, Pennsylvania and York state 250 head of these cattle selected, averaging near 650 pounds, costing from 2¼ to 2.60, I have noticed many selling as low as 2 cents, some for less, the latter of course a very inferior grade. I am accessible and hope to see or hear from some one that would take some cattle as I think the time is limited in securing them at former prices.

J. M. CONNER.

THE Republican muddle in the Eleventh Congressional District is still muddling, and the bad feeling it has engendered in the party is becoming more intense, since the State Executive Committee has ordered a recount of the vote to be made on the 21st inst. That is exactly what the Edwards men want, and to which Hunter and his side object.

Regular Term Boone County (Ky.) Court, August 5th 1904.

In re, Election on Stock Law In | Order.
Bullittsville Precinct. |

It appearing that C. W. McFee and more than twenty other bona fide voters of the Bullittsville voting district in Boone County, Kentucky, having filed their petition, asking a submission of the question whether cattle including horses, cattle sheep and hogs shall be permitted to run at large in said distr.ct, and the petition been deposited in this court, with a sufficient amount to defray the expenses of taking a vote on said question, and said matter having been submitted to and passed on by the Fiscal court, it is now ordered by this court that the election officers of said district open a poll at the next regular election to be held on the 8th day of November, 1904, in said district, for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the voters of said district upon the question whether or not they wish cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs to run at large in said district, and the clerk of this court is directed to have printed on the ballots for said district the question, "For or against the running at large of cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs in the Bullittsville voting district." It is ordered that notice of said election be given twenty days before the date thereof by publication in the Boone County Recorder for at least four issues a copy of this order, which the clerk of this court is ordered to have done.

Some claim to have seen frost last Thursday morning.

Some tobacco was burnt considerably before it was cut.

The foliage of the trees begins to testify that fall is here.

Grant county is short on teachers for the public schools this year.

The candidates have been very much on the hustle all this month.

Mr. Gibson now occupies the farm he recently purchased of D. E. Lawell.

Friday morning the town was full of candidates, deputies and proxies.

People are not rushing into the Sheriff's office very rapidly to pay their taxes.

Don't worry about that clock that keeps stopping. Clark can make it run like a new one.

The river being so low will afford an excuse for an advance in the price of coal shortly.

Chas. White and Chas. and Henry Clore were on the Cincinnati market last Wednesday.

There has not been enough frost so far this fall to prepare the persimmon for consumption.

There will be more successful than unsuccessful candidates at the approaching primary election.

Grass will not do much good this fall unless the weather is exceedingly favorable, and feeding of stock will have to begin early.

Those who went from this neighborhood to the Schwartz sale, last Thursday, say a good crowd was in attendance and that good prices were the rule.

The cobwebs were burnt out of our office flue, last Thursday. The boys would drop in occasionally to renew their acquaintance with our heat producer.

Assessor Watts is making rapid progress with his official duties this fall. His deputy, Elmo Gaines, is keeping up his end of the work, although killing two birds with one stone.

Samuel Hall, who lives a mile out on the Bellevue pike was the first to bring in a sample of this year's corn. It is a good sample—better than it was supposed could be found hereabouts.

In the next few days the remainder of the tobacco crop in this county will have been put in the house. The 1904 crop will not turn out as much good tobacco in this county as did the 1903 crop.

The band boys came out Saturday with their new caps and jackets, looking quite nobby. The boys are coming to the front. They have an engagement to play for an outing party next Saturday.

The Boone County Telephone Company is constructing a line from Burlington to J. M. Barlow's, in Pleasant Valley neighborhood. There will be quite a good number of boxes on the line, which will soon be in operation.

Mr. Thomas, who canvassed the rural route for the sale of mail boxes last week, reported the sale of 33, which is a fairly good start. The number of boxes will be largely increased in a few months after the route is put in operation.

Since Hughes and Houston have become such important factors in the make-up of the Aurora, Ind., base ball club, the fans here watch closely for the Aurora papers every week, to keep a line on the two Boone county boys' playing.

In this issue will be found Rev. Geo. N. Buffington's sale advertisement. He has quite a large lot of personalty which he desires to dispose of on October 4th, preparatory to going south to spend the winter. Everything he offers will be first class.

A meeting of the tobacco growers was held at Versailles Saturday afternoon which was well attended. The prospects for the Burley Association are bright in this county. Over 500 acres have been pledged to the Association and $8,000 worth of stock subscribed.—Blue Grass Clipper.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. It's gentle, yet thorough. A great many persons give it as their opinion that the fodder will have but little value as a food for cattle this winter. They think the long period of dry weather robbed it of its nourishing properties.

It looks now like the campaign for the Democratic nominations for county offices will bring out the entire party vote in November, as each neighborhood has a special favorite for which every Democratic voter is going to vote.

All the voters in incorporated towns in Kentucky must register on October 4th, and procure a certificate of registration from the officers at the time to enable them to vote at the November election. This applies to all voters within the corporate limits of Walton, Florence and Petersburg.

A survey of proposed changes in Dog Leg road, which passes through the farms of Oscar Gaines, John Clore and Elbert Rouse, was made last week, and Mr. Rouse awarded $80 damages. The matter will come up at the next regular term of the county court to be heard on exceptions should there be any.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terors since Chamberlain's Colic Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy in all cases of bowel complaint in children has made it a favorite wherever its value has become known. For sale by all Druggists.

A melon vender from Belleview neighborhood struck Burlington early last Thursday morning with a load of, as he claimed, ice-cold watermelons. People who were wearing their overcoats or sitting close to the kitchen stoves, were not ready purchasers, so he passed on in search of a better territory in which to do business.

Several nights ago thieves entered the residence of John Long, of Gunpowder neighborhood, and stole a Winchester shot gun and two rifles. The thieves were tracked as far as Long's tobacco barn on the Burlington pike. The guns were found in a pawnbroker's shop in Cincinnati, and it cost $14 to recover them. Some believe they could spot the thieves.

I have sold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for more than 20 years and it has given entire satisfaction. I have sold a pile of it and can recommend it highly.—Joseph McElhiney, Linton, Iowa. You will find this remedy a good friend when troubled with a cough or cold. It always affords quick relief and is pleasant to take. For sale by all Druggists.

O. J. Ryle, than whom there is not a more truthful man in Boone county, tells how he saw a cistern moved in Rising Sun many years ago. The cistern he says was built when men were honest. It stood so near the river bank that in course of time the bank caved off and left the cistern more than one half exposed. Someone conceived the idea of moving it, and dug a hole to fit it, and secured the aid of several persons loaded the cistern on a log wagon, and hauling it to the hole prepared for it, dropped it in and the work was done. It was no task at all, declares Oscar.

The I. O. O. F. District Meeting held with Morning Star Lodge in Petersburg, last Wednesday night was another of those occasions which have rendered the town famous for hospitality. The good ladies had charge of the most excellent supper that was served in Gordon's Hall early in the evening and which was enjoyed by several hundred people, a large number of whom were visitors. After supper the Odd-Fellows repaired to the lodge room where the program arranged for the evening was taken up and occupied the attention of the brethren until about 10 o'clock. Numerous good talks were made on the several subjects brought before the meeting, and all those present considered it an evening spent in not only a very pleasant but in a very profitable manner. The lodges composing the district are Alline, Harmony, Morning Star and Viola, each of which was well represented by brethren who took an active part in the several discussions, as did brothers from several other lodges.

At supper Col. T. B. Mathews was master of ceremonies and contributed much to the pleasure of that hour by his pleasant and humorous manner of introducing those called on for short talks.

A great many persons [illegible] will sprinkle [illegible] the corn floor and [illegible] your corn as you gather, [illegible] will see a rat or mouse bother- [illegible] I have done this for several [illegible] and have never been bothered with rats or mice. In stacking hay or oats sprinkle a little on the ground and on each load, and my word for it, rats or mice can't stay there. A pound of sulphur will be sufficient to preserve a large bin of corn and is good for stock and will not hurt the corn for bread."

There Are Other Mixed Spices but they are not Our kind

You can buy the other kind for probably, one-half what we sell at, but then you want Quality—it is not all in the quantity—you should look carefully to what you put in your stomach—your syster assimilates all impurities as well as the pure and in these days of adulterations you are very apt to get impure goods.

We sell the genuine, pure, unadulterated mixed pickling spices at

THE CRUISER LENA.

Vessel is Now at the United States Naval Station, Mare Island.

Washington, Sept. 16.—Acting Secretary of State Adee Thursday gave out the following statement in regard to the Russian ship Lena, now at San Francisco, that arrived recently to make much-needed repairs, and to which the Japanese consul of that city made strenuous objection to her remaining over 24 hours:

"The president Thursday issued an order through the acting secretary of state, directing that the Russian armed transport Lena, now at San Francisco, be taken in custody by the naval authorities of the United States and disarmed. The main features of the conditions prescribed are that the Lena be taken to the Mare Island navy yard, and there be disarmed by removal of small guns, breech block of large and small guns, ammunition or ordnance stores and such other disarmtlement as may be prescribed by the commandant of the navy yard, and that the captain give a written guarantee that the Lena shall not leave San Francisco until peace shall have been concluded; that the officers and crew shall be paroled, but not to leave San Francisco until some understanding as to their disposal may be reached between the United States government and both the belligerents; that after disarmament the vessel may he removed to a private dock for such reasonable repairs as will make her seaworthy and preserve her in good condition during her detention; that she may be repaired at the navy department if the Russian commander should so elect; that while at a private dock the commandant of the navy yard at Mare Island shall have custody of the ship, and the repairs shall be overseen by an engineer officer, to be detailed by the commandant, and that, when so repaired, if peace shall not then have been concluded, the vessel shall be taken back to the Mare Island navy yard, and be held in custody until the end of the war.

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—The Russian auxiliary cruiser Lena is now at the government naval station at Mare Island, having departed from San Francisco bay Friday afternoon under the escort of the cruiser Marblehead. The Lena is now under the local jurisdiction of Rr. Adm. McCalla, of the navy yard, the responsibility of her safekeeping, having been transferred from Rr. Adm. Goodrich. The entire crew of the Lena is aboard the Russian vessel, and will doubtless be detained at Mare Island, pending an official decision as to their disposition. The work of dismantling the Lena will be commenced at an early date, and workmen have been engaged to place her in a seaworthy condition.

The board of inspection appointed by Rr. Adm. Goodrich has completed its inspection of the Lena's boilers and machinery. As their repoft has not yet been officially considered at Washington, the findings of the engineering experts have not been made public here.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Minister Takahira called upon Acting Secretary of State Adee Friday to make inquiry as to the terms of the parole to be granted to the Russian crew of the Lena, in conformity with the president's decision. He was informed that the details of the parole would be arranged at San Francisco by Adms. Goodrich and McCalla, but, generally, that it was proposed to allow the men within the limits of the city of San Francisco.

FEUDISTS ARRESTED.

Eight Men Are Guarded by Three Companies of Florida Militia.

Valdosta, Ga., Sept. 17.—Baxter, Fla., is policed by three companies of Florida militia, following the killing of four men, which resulted from the feud between the Altmans and Duncans. Shortly before dark Sheriff Herndon and his posse brought in eight prisoners, alleged to be implicated in the killing of Jackson Duncan, Rufus Thrift and the Negro.

These men are stretched out on the floor of a shanty resting under the guards of the Live Oak Suwanne rifles of Florida, the Wilson battery of artillery and the sheriff's posse. There are 11 others of the gang. Men who were sent to see them have just returned and report that they have agreed to surrender themselves.

The feud between the Altmans and Duncans is of long standing.

STORM ON THE COAST.

Property Damaged, Lives Lost and Vessels Wrecked.

Eight Men Drowned at Wilmington, Del., and Five Persons Went to Watery Graves Off Charleston, S. C.

New York, Sept. 16.—A number of lives were lost, much property was damaged, and several ships were wrecked in a storm which swept up the Atlantic coast Wednesday night and Thursday.

It was one of the fiercest September storms on record, thunder and lightning adding terrors to a howling gale which hurled drenching sheets of rain over sea and land. Thursday night telegraphic reports say that the storm has swept out into the ocean.

The greatest loss of life was near Wilmington, Del. The tug Israel W. Durham, with a crew of six men and four other men, employes of the American dredging Co., was swamped in the Delaware river early Thursday during the height of the storm. Eight of the ten persons on the little craft were drowned. From farther down the coast at Jacksonville, comes the report that five men were drowned off Charleston.

New York suffered comparatively little with wind and rain, but thunder and lightning were terrific, and little actual damage was done. Nineteen coal barges were adrift in the bay, and Thursday night their wreckage was strewn from the battery to the narrows, but no lives were lost. Several small vessels also went ashore on various parts of the coast near New York. One fatality was reported in this city, when a piece of cast iron fire escape was blown from a building and struck Carl Herbner, killing him instantly.

A fishing steamboat, the Joseph Church, of Greenport, N. Y., struck on Peak's Hill bar Thursday, and was smashed to pieces. The captain and crew of 21 men were saved.

From Wilmington, Del., Thursday night comes the news that great destruction was caused by the storm Trees were uprooted, houses flooded and crops ruined. In Chesapeake bay the storm was particularly fierce. Incoming steamers arriving at Baltimore report that never in their experience has such a furious gale swept down on them at this time of the year. One man was seen adrift in a small rowboat in Chesapeake bay, but it was impossible to rescue him. The storm was accompanied by a cold wave.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 16.—A special from Conway, Horry county, says that great damage has been wrought in that county by Wednesday's storm, which passed over the lower section of South Carolina. Communication from Conway is cut off in every direction, but reports so far received indicate that the damage in Horry county will approximate $500,000.

A SLIP OF THE PEN.

Considerable Amusement Caused at the Expense of the Czar.

St Petersburg, Sept. 16.—Considerable amusement has been caused by a slip of Czar Nicholas' pen in accepting the offers of several companies of Siberian militia for service at the front. The petition read:

"We humbly lay at your majesty's feet our desire to be permitted to fight and die for the fatherland."

The Czar, in accepting, wrote on the margin of the petition, in his own hand: "I thank you sincerely, and hope that your wishes may be fully realized."

GEN. FORREST'S REMAINS.

They Will Be Removed From the Cemetery to Forrest Park.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 16.—A permit was issued authorizing the removal of the remains of Gen. Bedford Forrest, the noted cavalryman, from Elmwood cemetery to a plot in Forrest park set aside for a heroic equestrian statue of the dead leader. The statue, which arrived in New York from Paris Thursday, will be put in place in October, and the remains of Gen. Forrest and his wife will rest directly underneath the bronze figure.

The Heaviest Rainfall.

Philadelphia, Sept. 16.—During a rain and wind storm which began in this vicinity shortly after 5 o'clock Wednesday night, and ceased at 4 o'clock Thursday morning, the rainfall was 5.54 inches, the heaviest ever registered at the local weather bureau.

No Agreement Reached.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The wage committee of the National Association of Window Glass manufacturers, and the wage commitee of the United Window Glass Workers of America, held two meetings Thursday. No agreement was reached on the scale of wages for the ensuing year.

Is Not a Candidate.

Buffalo, Sept. 16.—It was announced Thursday that Charles W. Goodyear had refused to allow his name to be considered for the gubernatorial nomination. Business, it was said, would not permit him to enter the political field.

Father and Son Cremated.

Sharon, Pa., Sept. 16.—Fighting his way through flames to save his four-year-old son, Louis Seymour Clark, a wealthy farmer, was cremated, together with the child in a fire which destroyed his home at Vienna.

MILITIA IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

The Scene the First Encountered Since the "Reconstruction Period."

Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 17.—Guarded by squads of militia, Thomas Higgins and Ben Hill, alleged murderers, were marched into the circuit court Friday and given a preliminary hearing. The scene was such as has not been witnessed here since the "reconstruction period," as such a thing as soldiers in a civil court room has not been seen since the days immediately following the civil war.

A special jury has been ordered for each occasion. Attorney Lawrence Cooper, for Mr. Riggins, created somewhat of a sensation when, in addressing the court, he questioned the constitutionality of the act allowing soldiers in a civil court room. He made an impassioned speech against the presence of the militia.

Solicitor Pettus replied to Mr. Cooper with the statement that the militia were not aliens, but natives of Alabama, and sent there by their governor to maintain the laws of the state.

DESPERATE DEED.

Young Man Shot Four and Then Committed Suicide.

Ashland, Ore., Sept. 17.—O. E. Munroe, a young man employed as laborer in the street department, Friday went to his wife's residence and deliberately shot his wife, her mother, Mrs. Dunlap; his wife's sister, Mrs. Garner, his own little child, and then shot himself, dying instantly. The child is reported dying. Mrs. Garner is seriously wounded. Munroe's wife and Mrs. Dunlap are not seriously injured, receiving only flesh wounds. Munroe's wife had instituted divorce proceedings against him, and sued for the possession of their child.

GEN MACARTHUR.

Has Been Relieved of the Command of the Department of California.

Washington, Sept. 17.—By direction of the president, Brig. Gen. Francis Moore has been relieved from duty as commandant of the school of application for cavalry and field artillery at Fort Riley, Kan., and ordered to San Francisco to assume command of the department of California, relieving Maj. Gen. Arthur MacArthur, who will retain command, however, of the Pacific division. No one has yet been selected to command the school of application at Fort Riley.

THE REED SMOOT CASE.

Committee of Inquiry Will Reaums After the Election.

New York, Sept. 17.—Senator Burrows, of Michigan, chairman of the senate committee on privileges and elections, was in New York Friday on his way home from New England. Senator Burrows said that he was going to notify the attorneys in the case of Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, whose right to a seat in the United States senate is being investigated, that the committee will resume the inquiry as soon as its members are relieved of work in the campaign.

THE CATTLE SHOW.

Fair Queen, a Short Horn, Defeated All Comers.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—In a field of 28, the largest that has competed in any event at the World's Fair cattle show, Fair Queen, a short horn, owned by F. W. Bowen, of Delphia, Ind., defeated all comers Friday in the two and three-year-old class for cows. Thomas W. Lawson's Figgs won the blue ribbon in the Jersey class in competition with the aged cows of the Vanderbilt, the Ladd estate and other noted herds of the country.

THE YEATMAN ESTATE.

The Federal Government Enters Suit Against the Administrator.

Washington, Sept. 17.—The federal government, through District Attorney Beach, Friday sued the administrator of William S. Yeatman, late disbursing officer of the war department, for $64,011, claimed to be the amount of government money for which Yeatman failed to account. Five other suits were filed by the government against the sureties on Yeatman's bond for $20,000 each, the penalty at which the bond was fixed.

Business Failures for the Week.

New York, Sept. 17.—Business failures in the United States for the week ending September 15, number 167, against 144 last week, 170 in the like week in 1903, 182 in 1902. In Canada failures for the week numbered 28, as against 14 last year.

Rural Letter Carriers.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—The National Letter Carriers' association concluded its annual session Friday and adjourned to meet at Indianapolis, Ind., next year. W. E. Fetters, of Bluffton, Ind., was elected treasurer.

Prohibition Candidate for Governor.

Providence, R. I., Sept. 17.—Henry B. Metcalf, of Pawtucket, was nominated for governor at the Rhode Island prohibition convention. A platform was adopted re-affirming allegiance to the candidates for president and vice president.

Franco-Louisiana Societies.

St. Louis, Sept. 17.—French Ambassador Picard and Gov. Blanchard, of Louisiana, were received Friday by the Franco-Louisiana societies. Later Ambassador Picard gave a dinner for the French jury of awards.

CONTRABAND OF WAR.

Powers Define Her Position in the Matter.

In Principle It Meets the Views of America and Great Britain Regarding Foodstuffs, Coal and Other Fuel.

London, Sept. 17.—The foreign office has received a dispatch from Ambassador Hardinge, at St. Petersburg, giving Russia's reply to the representations on the subject of contraband of war. Foreign Secretary Lansdowne and Premier Balfour are both absent, but Charles Hardinge's dispatch was forwarded to them, and, pending their action, nothing is available at the foreign office beyond a general expression of opinion that the reply goes a long way toward settling up the question as to what in the future may be properly regarded as contraband. According to the British view there are still open certain questions of principle, but it is believed that these will be arranged in the course of further negotiations.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—Russia, in Count Lamsdorff's response to Ambassador Hardinge, in principle, meets the views of the American and British governments regarding foodstuffs and coal and other fuel as being conditional contraband of war, distinctly placing them in the category of articles susceptible of uses both in war and peace, and, as such, only confiscable when consigned to blockaded ports or destined for the military or naval forces of the army. Shipments in the ordinary course of trade by private persons or firms, even to an enemy's port, may be considered prima facie not contraband; but upon this point distinct reservation is made. The simple fact of consignment by private persons does not preclude the possibility that the articles are not ultimately destined for belligerent forces, and Russia insists that it is not necessarily regarded as conclusive evidence of the innocent character of the goods.

In other words, irregular ships' papers or other suspicious circumstances, might vitiate the assumption of innocent character; but where such suspicion is raised the burden of proof to warrant legal seizure is to rest upon the captor.

Count Lamsdorff's reply was not presented in written form, but was communicated verbally to Ambassador Hardinge.

It will not involve public amendment of Russian contraband and prize regulations, but in effect it becomes an official interpretation of the original regulation made by the commission, composed of representatives of the ministeries of foreign affairs, marine, war and justice, which considered the subject in connection with the objections raised by the United States and Great Britain, and as such will hereafter govern naval commanders and prize courts, which thus far in the war have classed all articles enumerated in article 6, of the Russian regulations as absolute contraband.

Count Lamsdorff's victory in the controversy while not absolutely complete, is perhaps noteworthy as having been achieved against powerful adverse influences. At one time it seemed doubtful whether any concessions could be obtained, but Thursday the emperor sanctioned the decision which Count Lamsdorff communicated to Ambassador Hardinge Friday.

Testimonial Tuesday. Read Other Letters to Dean's Kidney Pills for It.

Mrs. C. E. Bumgardner, a local officer of the Rebeccas, of Topeka, Kans., Room 10, 812 Kansas Ave., writes: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills during the past year, for kidney trouble and kindred ailments. I was suffering from pains in the back and headaches, but found after the use of one box of the remedy that the troubles gradually disappeared so that before I had finished a second package I was well. I therefore, heartily endorse your remedy."

Oil to Lay Dust.

Westrumite, a mixture of the heavy oils of tar emulsified by ammonia, is added to ten or 20 times its volume of water, and applied to roads by an ordinary watering cart, three or four consecutive applications giving a permanent laying of the dust. It seems to be less slippery than tar or tar oil, and may be applied without waiting for the road to become perfectly dry. It is gaining in favor in France, and, to test it thoroughly, half of one Paris avenue is treated with it and the other half with tar.

Had Limitations.

On a certain building job some years ago the contractor, who was a politician, put in a hod-carrying machine and discharged the men who had been doing that work. A hod carrier who had been thrown out of employment by the change, came around a couple of days after to see how the new apparatus worked. He watched it for awhile in silence, and finally exclaimed: "Ye're all roight. Ye're a-a-l roight, but ye can't vote."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Graduated and Wed in Six Hours.

The transformation from a sweet girl graduate to a blushing bride was a matter of only six hours for Miss Mary Grass, of Trinidad, Col. She received her diploma from St. Mary's school in Knoxville, Ill., at noon, June 8, and at six o'clock she was wedded to Bertram Rhodes, also of Trinidad, in the chapel of the school. Her classmates were her bridesmaids.—Omaha Bee.

Black Sea Wrecks.

There is no part of the world which has such a sinister record for wrecks as the Black sea. A number in some years has averaged more than one a day; the greatest number of wrecks recorded in one year being 426, and the smallest 134. About 50 per cent. of these vessels became total wrecks, all the crews being lost.

CHANGE FOOD

Some Very Fine Results Follow.

The wrong kind of food will put the body in such a diseased condition that no medicines will cure it. There is no way but to change food. A man in Mo. says:

"For 2 years I was troubled so with my nerves that sometimes I was prostrated and could hardly ever get in a full month at my work.

"My stomach, back and head would throb so I could get no rest at night except by fits and starts, and always had distressing pains.

"I was quite certain the trouble came from my stomach, but two physicians could not help me and all the tonics failed and so finally I turned to food.

"When I had studied up on food and learned what might be expected from leaving off meat and the regular food I had been living on, I felt that a change to Grape-Nuts would be just what was required, so I went to eating it.

"From the start I got stronger and better until I was well again, and from that time I haven't used a bit of medicine, for I haven't needed any.

"I am so much better in every way, sleep soundly nowadays and am free from the bad dreams. Indeed, this food has made such a great change in me that my wife and daughter have taken it up and we are never without Grape-Nuts on our table nowadays. It is a wonderful sustainer, and we frequently have nothing else at all but a saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream for breakfast or supper." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Good food and good rest. These are the tonics that succeed where all the bottled tonics and drugs fail. Ten days' trial of Grape-Nuts will show one the road to health, strength and vigor. "There's a reason."

A GENERAL ASSAULT.

Heavy Bombardment of Port Arthur by the Japs.

The Temper of Belligerents Has Reached an Absolutely Merciless Stage, the Flag of the Red Cross Being Misused.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 17.—The war office has heard the report of an apparent Japanese concentration against the flanks of Gen. Kuropatkin's army preparatory to an advance toward Mukden. While it is not in a position to absolutely confirm or deny the report, it would surprise the war office should Field Marshal Oyama have been able, in such short time, to organize his forces for a serious advance northward.

Paris, Sept. 17.—Exact figures of the Russian losses in killed, wounded and missing in the operations before Liao Yang from August 13 to August 26, have been received by the general staff, according to the Journal's St. Petersburg correspondent. These amount to two generals, 256 officers and 21,800 soldiers. In addition 133 guns were lost. The material losses include fortifications costing $30,000,000.

London, Sept. 17.—The Daily Telegraph's St. Petersburg correspondent declares that a Russian statesman, whose name, if revealed, would wing his utterance with lightning rapidity over the globe, asserted Friday that it was his impression that the war might end sooner than people imagine, not through mediation, but through mutual recognition of the ruinous nature of the conflict which would lead to negotiations that would result in a Russo-Japanese alliance.

Mukden, Sept. 19.—The armies having recovered from the effects of the recent fighting before Liao Yang, an early development of the situation may be expected. A mysterious movement eastward is on foot on the part of the bands of Chinese suitable for military service. All the leading young Chinese who have aided the Russians are leaving Mukden.

Chee Foo, Sept. 19.—Local students of the military situation at Port Arthur, basing their deductions upon recent developments there, are of the opinion that another grand assault is either occurring at the present time, or is imminent. This opinion is based on the very heavy bombardment of the Russian stronghold that occurred on September 16, for such a bombardment forms the usual prelude to an assault; on the arrival here of important messengers from Port Arthur at a time when the running of the blockade is extremely perilous; on a recent authoritative statement that the Japanese siege works are completed, and on reports from Japanese sources that at Port Dalny an assault was expected to take place in a few days. These reports were received last week.

In addition to the foregoing there is the common knowledge that the Japanese realize that their continued inactivity increases the resisting power of the Russian garrison.

According to Lieut. Prince Radzivil, of the Russian army, who reached here Sunday from Port Arthur, bearing dispatches from Lieut. Gen. Stoessel, the commander-in-chief of the forces of the Russian stronghold to Gen. Kuropatkin, the temper of the belligerents at Port Arthur has now reached an absolutely merciless stage.

It was set forth in these dispatches some weeks ago that serious suspicions were entertained by both belligerents that the other was misusing the Red Cross flag. These suspicions have been increased by the commission of various acts by the soldiers of both armies, until now even flags of truce or surrender are not respected by either side.

Prince Radzivil declares that the men of both armies are absolutely venomous in their antagonism. Lieut. Gen. Stoessel has addressed his garrison saying that the present mood of the Japanese indicates clearly the necessity of resisting them to the last drop of Russian blood, because if the Japanese soldiers entered the fortress it undoubtedly would be impossible for their officers to control them and prevent a massacre. For this reason Lieut. Gen. Stoessel is making no objection to civilians leaving Port Arthur. When the 300 women who are in Port Arthur engaged in hospital work were advised to leave, they replied that they would rather face the possibility of a massacre than desert their posts.

In consequence of the fact that flags of truce are ignored, numbers of Japanese dead, who have been lying on the slopes of the hills of the northeast defense for weeks past, are still unburied, and the stench in Port Arthur from decomposing bodies, when the wind is in the right direction, is almost unendurable. The Russian soldiers, who are in some cases posted only 50 paces from heaps of decaying dead, have constantly to wear over their noses handkerchiefs soaked in camphor, as otherwise they would be unable to remain at their posts.

English Poacher Captured.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 19.—It is announced from Vladivostock that an English seal poacher named Thompson, who took advantage of the war to make the Pribiloff Islands his hunting ground, has been captured and his schooner sunk.

Shelling the Russian Position.

London, Sept. 19.—It is asserted in a dispatch from Tokio to the Express, that the Japanese are vigorously shelling the Russian positions at Mukden, preparatory to a general advance to cut off Kuropatkin's retreats.

THE LABOR SITUATION.

Results of the 43 Strikes Reported in Favor of Employers.

Five Favored the Employes, and Nine Were Compromised—Demand for Increased Wages Was Leading Cause of Disputes.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The quarterly bulletin of the state department of labor issued Sunday has this to say as to the situation in state and nation.

In the first quarter of the year, owing to labor disputes, unusually cold and stormy weather and lessened activity in a few industries, employment was very poor; but subsequently there was so much improvement that June and July actually surpassed the record year 1902. Among approximately 100,000 wage earners in the various industries of the state, 157 per 1,000 were earners in the various industries of the state, 137 per 1,000 were reported idle at the end of June, 1904, as compared with 231 and 146 in June, 1903, and 1902, respectively; for the close of July in 1902, 1903 and 1904, the respective ratios were 156, 178 and 148. The principal cause of this improvement was the phenomenal activity in construction work in the leading cities.

Conditions of employment in the entire country manifest similar improvement, according to the late statistics collected by the American Federation of Labor. In the September issue of the American Federationist the official magazine of the federation, it is stated that among 85,450 members of the 1,023 local unions making returns for July, 1.6 per cent. were without employment at the close of the month, while a month earlier the 1,891 unions making returns reported 5.1 per cent. of the membership as unemployed, and in July, 1903, the precentage of unemployed was" 3:3.

Referring to strikes, the bulletin said that the two overshadowing disputes for the second quarter of this year were the masters and pilots on the Great Lakes and the New York Clothing Trades strike against the "open shop". It adds:

"In the labor disputes about 25,000 employes were directly concerned, and probably as many more thrown out of employment from some part of the period of the dispute, the total number of working days lost being estimated at more than one million. About one-half a million days' time was lost by the 1,000 masters and pilots and the 10,000 other marine workmen from New York state effected by the former's dispute with the Lake Carriers' association. The total number of workers directly concerned in disputes begun in April, May and June was 39,500, and the aggregate number of work days lost was 1,923,000. Twenty of the 43 disputes resulted in favor of the employers and only five in favor of the employes, while nine were compromised. The compromises were nearly all made upon demands for increased wages which was still the leading cause of disputes. The employers were almost uniformly successful in the disputes involving trade unionism."

LYNCHING IN GEORGIA.

The Negro Shot and Fatally Wounded a White Man.

Royston, Ga., Sept. 19.—Geo. Ware, a Negro, was lynched in Franklin county Sunday for fatally shooting C. Y. Daniel, a son of George Daniel, of Carnesville, Sunday. Young Daniel and the Negro had some words over a trivial matter. It is said the Negro became greatly enraged, and, swearing that no white man should run over him, drew a pistol and shot Daniel, the bullet inflicting a wound that will prove fatal. Ware was taken from the sheriff by a mob.

A REFERENDUM VOTE.

Printers to Ballot on the Eight-Hour Proposition.

Indianapolis, Sept. 19.—In accordance with the resolutions adopted at the recent St. Louis convention of the International Typographical union, that organization will, within a few days, begin a referendum vote of the members, which will determine whether or not the organization shall pledge itself to the eight-hour day.

The resolutions provide that the union shall begin the eight-hour day January 1, 1906, at which time a demand for such a concession will be made upon all employing printers.

The vote must be returned to headquarters in this city not later than October 21, of this year.

St. Louis, Sept. 19.—A party of 80 chemists, representing the chemical science and industry of Europe, reached here Sunday from New York. They will participate in the World's congress of arts and science.

AMERICAN WAR VESSELS.

A Number of Them Arrived at the Port of New York Sunday.

New York, Sept. 19.—The battleship Kearsarge, the flagship of Rr. Adm. Barker, commander-in-chief of the North Atlantic fleet and the Maine, the Alabama and the Missouri of the battleship squadron, North Atlantic fleet, arrived in port Sunday from the Mediterranean cruise by way of Menemsha Bight, and are anchored off Tompkinsville, Staten Island.

The cruiser Minneapolis, the flagship of Rr. Adm. Wise, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic training ship squadron, also arrived Sunday from Menemsha Bight, and is anchored off Tompkinsville.

These vessels will be joined in a day or two by the battleships Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts and Texas, and the cruisers Columbia and Prairie, making one of the strongest aggregations of naval vessels that ever visited this port. The fleet is being assembled to do honors on behalf of the American navy at the launching of the battleship Connecticut at the Brooklyn navy yard next week.

On their way from target ground to this port the four battleships under Adm. Barker engaged in a spirited four-hour race, in which the Missouri came out winner by some 900 yards. The occasion was the semi-annual full power trial prescribed by naval regulations. The speed they attained during the test was about 16½ knots.

HOUSE DYNAMITED.

Man Killed, Two Women Injured and Two Men in Jail.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 19.—As the result of the jealousy of a rival lover, John Harris, a well known Negro, is dead; Jennie Smith, of Pittsburg, has a broken back and will die, and Julia White is so severely cut that she may not recover; a house on east Race street, back of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad shops is blown up, and Ernest Hollins and John Thompson are in jail, charged with murder, the result of a Saturday night dance at the home of Julia White.

Hollins and Harris were rivals for the hand of the Smith woman. Saturday night it was intended to hold a dance at Julia White's, and John Harris took the Smith woman to the house shortly before 1 o'clock Sunday morning. Hollins, who was heard to remark earlier in the evening that he would not stay in the house over night, is supposed to have gone with Thompson, a friend, and stolen the dynamite, placed it under the house and put it off. For squares around the houses were shaken, windows broken and the house itself so badly torn up that it will have to be destroyed. There is intense excitement among the Negroes, but no trouble is anticipated.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Sept. 19.—At Point Comfort, a suburb, Sunday night, Jacob L. Rice, a contract teamster, shot and fatally wounded his wife and then killed himself. The initial cause of the shooting is said to have been jealousy.

POLICEMEN SEVERELY INJURED.

They Were Going at Full Speed in Answer to a Riot Call.

Chicago, Sept. 19.—While driving at full speed in answer to a stockyards riot call, a patrol wagon filled with policemen from the stockyards station was struck and demolished by a Forty-seventh street electric car Sunday afternoon at Wallace and Forty-seventh streets. Four policemen were severely injured. The injured: Thomas W. Haskin, driver of patrol wagon, left arm broken and left shoulder dislocated; Patrick Hugent, patrolman, right hand and shoulder injured; Geo. T. Prim, lieutenant, jaw and left wrist broken; John Weitzel, patrolman, head injured.

A building obscured the view at the intersection. Driver Haskin was urging his team on, and the motorman was endeavoring to make up lost time. The wagon was struck squarely and hurled nearly 20 feet to the opposite side of the street. No one in the street car was injured.

A GAME OF CARDS.

It Resulted in Murder in a Pennsylvania Mining Town.

Monongahela, Pa., Sept. 19.—A game of cards resulted in murder Saturday at Hazelkirk, a mining town, but was not reported to the police until Sunday. When George Nazok won $3 from George Kopko, the latter accused the other of cheating. Nazok made an angry reply and left the room. Kopko followed and fired three shots, killing Nazok almost instantly. The murderer escaped. Nazok's wife and child are on the ocean expecting to meet the murdered man here next week.

STATE ODDS AND ENDS.

THE FITZGERALD MURDER.

Charles Sullivan, His Room Mate, Makes a Confession.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 15.—The mystery surrounding the murder of John Fitzgerald, of Kalamazoo, Mich., employed for several years as a nurse at the Louisville city hospital, was solved Wednesday by the unexpected confession of Charles Sullivan, Fitzgerald's room mate. Prior to the confession of Sullivan suspicion rested strongly on Clyde Jones and Harvey Wilson, who were being held for the murder, while Sullivan was merely regarded as a witness. Sullivan, until he broke down, asserted that Wilson and Jones beat Fitzgerald with the handle of a bayonet while Sullivan lay in the room feigning sleep.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16.—Charles Sullivan, a hotel porter, who Wednesday confessed to the police that he killed John F. Fitzgerald, a medical student and orderly at the city hospital, Thursday night said that he had lied and was innocent of the murder. He said the detectives forced a false confession from him.

JAMES BACH FREED.

Jury Says He is Not Guilty of False Swearing.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sept. 16.—Upon the resumption of the trial of James Bach, of Breathitt county, on the charge of false swearing in the feud trials at Cynthiana, the defendant testified that he was on Main street in Jackson, near the Crawford building, when the shots were fired at Marcum, and that he left because he saw Jett there, as they were not on good terms, and proceeded across the river.

Upon the jury retiring the case of B. F. French and Ed Callahan, indicted for subordination of perjury, was called and a jury is being selected to try the case.

Just before the adjournment of court the jury in the Bach case returned a verdict of not guilty, and the defendant was discharged. The verdict is a surprise.

KENTUCKY YOUTHS.

Not Ready for Innovation and Pool is Tabooed by the Y. M. C. A.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16.—The Kentucky Young Men's Christian association does not believe in smoking, and the secretaries from the various Kentucky associations Thursday adopted a report of a committee which refused to recommend the establishment of smoking rooms in Y. M. C. A. buildings. The same committee also reported adversely on a proposition to place billiard and pool tables in the buildings. The reason given is that the Kentucky young men are not ready for such an innovation, although it was shown that smoking and billiards are allowed in Y. M. C. A. buildings in other states.

Louisville Tobacco Market.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 15.—Tobacco brought fair prices on the breaks on Wednesday. The offerings were 401 hogsheads, of which 24 hogsheads were hurley and 377 hogsheads dark. Burley sold from $5 to $11, and dark from $3.15 to $8.90.

Somerset, Ky., Sept. 17.—Avery Freeman, charged with the murder of W. S. Bryant last August, was captured in Tennessee and brought here Friday. Bryant was killed while driving to his home, at Flat Rock, this county.

Charles Bollinger's Big Win.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 17.—Charles Bollinger, of Louisville, won $20,000 on Envoy and Ebony at Chicago Friday. Thursday he cleaned up $7,500. Mr. Bollinger is said to be $40,000 ahead of the game this week.

THE ENTIRE FAMILY.

Five Children Burned to Death, and Parents Fatally Hurt.

Columbia, Ky., Sept. 16.—Five children were burned to death and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Sapp, fatally injured at Rolly, Adair county, Thursday. All were sleeping when their house was in flames. It is believed that the parents were injured while trying to rescue their children. Neither is expected to recover and their death will wipe out the entire family. The parents were sleeping down stairs, and the children were sleeping upstairs. They had no near neighbors, and when those at a distance reached the place they found a desperate condition, the parents being helpless and unable to tell the story. Their clothes were all burned off, and they were in great distress. As the parents are not able to talk, the cause of the fire can not be learned. Sapp was a well-to-do farmer.

BLEW TOP OF HEAD OFF.

Lilburn Baker Committed Suicide With a Shotgun.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 17.—Lilburn Baker, aged 25, committed suicide by blowing the top of his head off with a shotgun at his home, 10 miles in the country, Friday night.

After supper he went out to shoot owls, accompanied by a young nephew. He sent the nephew back to the house, saying he was going to kill himself. A search was made and the body was found. The young farmer was prominently related. No cause is assigned for the act.

CIRCUIT COURT DECISION.

Fees Can Not Be Collected Unless Indictment is Returned.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 17.—Judge Carroll, in the Franklin circuit court, rendered a decision in the case of the commonwealth vs. Burton, Thomas and Thompson, chief of police, sheriff and others, officers claiming fees for examining trial. The case involved the validity of the act of 1902, which relates to fees, which the court holds to be valid. Under this law, as construed, fees for examining trials can not be recovered unless an indictment is found.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all Druggists.

As to the tobacco crop in Bath, Col. Waller Sharp, of Sharpsburg, in Cincinnati Enquirer, says: "The tobacco crop in our county, Bath, and for four or five counties around us, is as fine as I have ever seen, and I expect to see the better grades go off at 12 cents a pound this season. Notwithstanding it has been dry in some localities, the aggregate yield in our State will be fully up to the average, owing to the increased acreage.

Young man, young woman, do not quit school too soon. You will need all the education you can get to equip yourself properly for the battle of life. Take time to prepare yourself thoroughly and thus increase manifoldly the opportunities for success and usefulness. Never in the world's history were well educated young men and young women in greater demand than now.

Kentucky entries at the World's Fair live stock show won over $17,000 in prizes awarded, while at the Columbian Exposition eleven years ago they only won about $5,000.

At a meeting of the Gallatin county tobacco growers, last week, they subscribed $1,000 and pledged 200,000 pounds of tobacco to the association.

BOONE COUNTY RECORDER.

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1904. NO. 50.

County Correspondence.

COMMISSARY.

Sept. 26.—The man who always pays [illegible] is entitled to more credit than he [illegible].

Mr. Dickens has 2 18 months old [illegible] for sale.

Miss [illegible] here last Sunday than since the first of July.

Henry Kenes has intermittent fever with symptoms of typhoid.

Fortunately for his neighbor the man who borrows trouble never pays it back.

Miss Susan Few, of Jamestown, N. Y., is visiting Miss Julia Dinsmore, near Bellevue.

Mrs. Merrick, of Rabbit Hash, spent Wednesday night with his son, Louis, near here.

Mrs. John Rue and daughter, of Lexington, were visiting Tony Rue near Bellevue, last week.

Louis Merrick and wife spent last Sunday with his brother-in-law, Jas. Beard and wife, near Bellevue.

Mrs. Rebecca Louden returned last Sunday from a week's stay with her sisterinlaw, Mrs. Lou Kelly.

Frits Zimmer, of Camp Zimmer, entertained the Commissary pencil shover very pleasantly last Sunday.

Miss Ada Kenes returned last Saturday from a week's visit to her sister and aunt near Salem church, Ind.

Civility is a charm that attracts the admiration and love of all, and too much is better than to show too little.

Miss Anna Cason, of Middle creek, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Rachel and Mrs. Gerdie Parsons, of the same stream.

Mrs. Georgia and Rebecca Louden, near Bellevue, spent Thursday evening with Mrs. Martha Kanes, of Lost Section.

A cow belonging to John Roland, near McVille, fell over a bank into a ravine and broke her back, one day this week.

T. J. Walton and wife have been attending church at Bellevue every night except one and then they went to Burlington.

Mrs. Phoebe Nettles, living near Salem church, Ind., visited her sister, Mrs. Martha Kanes, of Lost Section, the first of this week.

We hear that Bellevue will have an old fashioned spelling bee in the near future, after which they will be ready to tackle the United States.

Clocks and watches in the Commissary neighborhood will be called for, repaired and delivered without extra cost. Geo. Thomas, Agent

Mrs. Grace Anderson, daughter of Jacob Anderson, a former resident of this county and at one time a prominent business man of Commissary, but now of vicinity of Salem church, Ind., has typhoid fever.

Clarence McCarty, of Belleview, is helping Will Slayback and Ed Burres cut and house tobacco. He says he would like the job if he boarded with Will all the time. His underlip falls when he goes to Eds.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Parson, of Middle creek, entertained John Britt and wife, of Washington Heights, a subnrb of Chicago, two nights and one day this week. His first wife was Mrs. Parsons' youngest sister.

There is considerable sickness along Woolper. Two sick in the family at James White, one at Leslie Williams' and one at Samuel Hensley's. It is the wife at each of the latter places. At Mr. White's it is the father and eldest son. Ben Hensley has a very sick baby.

One of our school children returned from school one evening this week and said, "papa, teacher a nuisance? "Son, what do you mean? Why is teacher a nuisance? "Cause when I ask you questions you say I am a nuisance, and teacher don't do nothing but ask questions."

T. J. Walton wants to employ a colored man and his wife—the man to milk and do chores around the house when needed and work as a farm hand; the wife to do general housework. Must be honest and industrious, and the wife a good cook. For further particulars call on T. J. Walton.

Pode Snelling near here went to Petersburg last Saturday to see the ball game and as he did not return until 8 o'clock Monday morning, we accused him of calling on his best girl over in Hoosier, but he denied the charge, and said he spent the time with his uncle, John Snelling, of Petersburg.

Ben Cason of Middle creek, lost a cow Wednesday. She was grazing along a picket fence and run her head through it where there was a broken picket, and the fence being old the staples gave away in the post on each side, leaving no support for quite a distance, and when the fence fell it threw the cow in such a way that her neck was broken.

o o o

WALTON.

Headquarters for the Sixth Congressional District campaign committee will be opened here.

Rev. Pollitt will move to the parsonage at Hughes chapel, and takes that charge. Walton people regret to lose Bro. Pollitt and his interesting family.

The school boys are very enthusiastic about foot ball this year. The first team has organized with Chas. Jones, captain and Prof. Dickey manager. Most of last year's team are playing fast ball, and some of the new boys are developing well. The patrons of the game may expect a better article of ball than was given last year. Games will be scheduled later in the season. The second team has organized with Clifton Mayhugh captain. Even the small boys are taking great interest in the game, so much so that a third team may have to be organized. The boys have rightly concluded that foot ball is a manly sport and they are determined to play clean ball.

WATERLOO.

Sept. 24.—Ben Lee Cleek, of Union, candidate for assessor, was in our midst Thursday.

Blanche Kelly has gone to Aurora to attend the high school.

Plum Gully made a flying trip to Rising Sun, one day last week.

J. W. Kite was transacting business in Cincinnati, last Tuesday.

James Duncan, of Burlington passed through our town, last Tuesday.

Wm. Clore entertained the young folks very pleasantly with a dance, one night last week.

Grace Clore, of Bellevue, spent Saturday afternoon with her uncle, Willie Clore and family.

Hubert Clore, of this place, and Bennie Stephens, of Rabbit Hash, were guests of M. S. Ryle and family, Sunday.

John Portwood passed through here early Sunday morning enroute to Cincinnati. John contemplates moving there this winter.

John Rowland, who resides below here on the Bellevue road, had bad luck one day last week. One of his cows fell about twenty feet over a bank, breaking her back. She had to be killed.

o o o

BUFFALO.

The sick are all on the mend.

Robt. Reed, of Cincinnati, is a guest of his sister here.

Mrs. Ella Utz has been on the sick list for several days.

Miss Grace Russell is teaching the school at Grange Hall.

Miss Josie Stephens was calling in Buffalo, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Etta Clements entertained Mrs. Josie Allen and little daughter, Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Neal entertained several of their friends at dinner, last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Stephens had a family reunion last Monday in honor of Mrs. Stephens' father's birthday.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Moore had the misfortune to fall out of a window, receiving an ugly wound on his head, which struck on a rock.

Word reached here that the campers all arrived home safe, and extend to their country friend their many thanks for the kindness shown them during their pleasant stay in the country.

o o o

PETERSBURG.

Sept. 26—Andy Helms, one of our oldest and best citizens is in bad health.

Miss Belle House is in poor health.

Raymond Weindal, of Frankfort, is here on a visit.

F. W. Berkshire and wife have returned to New York.

A fine rain fell here Sunday night, but it had no effect on the river.

William Alden is attending School at the State University, Lexington.

There was a kind of family reunion at J. W. Berkshire's home, Sunday.

Dr. Karl Grant, who had typhoid fever in Louisville, is able to come home.

The next legislature should repeal the registration laws as applies to small towns.

Fred Appleton, of Texas, who was visiting his mother near here has gone home.

Mrs. Mollie Lowe and daughter, Erme, of Warsaw, are guests at E. L. Helms.

Elbert Ryle, of East Bend, was the guest of his aunt, Mrs. Agnes Grant, Sunday.

H. F. Crisler has gone on a protracted visit to his daughter, Mrs. Rice, of Mexico, Mo.

Yancy Clore and family, of Bullittsville, were the guests of Mrs. Lucy Walton, Sunday.

Lawrenceburg defeated Aurora, Sunday, by a score of 4 to 2, winning the series of games.

The Str. Knawab has taken the place of the Indiana in the Louisville and Cincinnati trade.

Mr. and Mrs. Canfield, of Aurora, were visiting Mrs. C.'s parents, T. B. Mathews, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Krutz attended the funeral of his aunt at Florence, Indiana, last Monday.

B. F. Buchanan, of Rising Sun, was the guest of his brother, Dr. S. C. Buchanan and family, Sunday.

Miss May Cutler, of Cincinnati, is spending her vacation with her cousin, Mrs. Ott Rector, at Camp Foster.

Owing to the serious illness of his sister, who resides in Fleming county, it is uncertain when Bro. Selby will be at home.

Gus. Schulz, Dr. G. M. Terrill and Earl Buchanan, three of Lawrenceburg's gallants, are regular visitors to our town.

Who appoints the Registration Officers, and who are they? Lets not neglect this, to fail to do this may give the State to the enemy.

Chas. Jenkins and wife, of Baltimore, who have been visiting Mr. J.'s mother here, for several weeks, will return home in a few days.

Adam Vessenyer, who was hit and seriously hurt in the game of ball at Burlington is thought to be some better, but his condition remains serious.

J. Frank Grant was again elected Secretary of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd-Fellows of the World at its meeting in San Francisco, California, last week.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Frankfort District will meet with the M. E. Church at this place on the 11th and 12th of October. Delegates from all the churches are expected.

We never have been informed whether the saloon that is to be started here will be on the Bishop Potter plan or not, where you can step in and get a "Hallalujah Jim Fiz," and a "Sanctified Scotch High Ball" or not, but suppose that it will just be an ordinary saloon, where common drinks are dosed out at the usual price with no "Sacramental Frizzes," on them. It is a nice state of affairs when the churches go into the saloon business.

Writing for a newspaper is a nice thing. If we write jokes people will say we are rattle-brained. If we don't we are fossils. If we send in original matter, they say we don't give them enough selections, we are too lazy to write. If we don't go to church we are heathens; if we do we are hypocrits. If we wear old clothes people laugh at us; if we wear good ones, they say we have a pull. Now, what are we going to do?—like as not some fellow will say we stole this. Well, I have been in the business 25 years, and hope I will be here 25 years more to give the people something to talk about.

o o o

BELLEVIEW.

We had another fine shower of rain last Saturday.

Mrs. Lamora Huey is visiting in the Burlington neighborhood.

J. J. Walton shipped a nice drove of hogs to the city Monday night.

Robt. Wilson, of Rabbit Hash, called on your correspondent, Sunday.

Charles Hensley, of Ashby Fork, was in town Sunday, looking as usual.

Miss Lizzie Rogers returned home, last Sunday, from the World's Fair.

Clarence McCarty was inquiring the way to Burlington, Sunday evening.

Al and Will Rogers are picking and shipping their crop of peaches from the old Centennial Hill.

Cliff Hedges passed here Sunday night driving his premium stepper. He knows how to handle the reins.

We are glad to see the candidates in such good spirits. They will enjoy the trip up Salt River much better.

Bulle passed here Monday with a smile all over his face just like nothing serious would happen on the 8th of November.

Mrs. Brady, of Burlington, is with Miss Julia Dinsmore, attending the protracted meeting at the Baptist church, this week.

Mrs. Schwartz, son and daughter left for their future home in Tacoma, Washington, Monday, bidding final farewell to old Boone county.

Eld. Edgar C. Riley will preach at the Christian church next Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours. Come and hear him.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Grant spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Burl Conner, and Mr. and Mrs. Garrison, of Union. They enjoyed the visit.

Members of the Christian church have decided to roof the church building with galvanized iron. T. Z. Roberts and Johnnie Presser were selected to do the work.

Lawrence Phipps and Miss Nannie Goodridge, of Middle creek, were down Sunday to bid Miss Anna Schwartz farewell. I think Lawrence will wear mourning for the next six weeks.

o o o

IDLEWILD.

Sept. 26—We extend congratulations to L. C. Scothorn and wife.

We congratulate Dr. A. P. Walton and bride.

Farmers are nearly done cutting tobacco.

Several from this neighborhood are visiting the World's Fair.

Cutting corn and sowing wheat is the order of the day here.

Born, to C. E. Stephens and wife on the 22 inst., a son, Eugene Winston.

Lee Gaines and family, of Richwood, visited relatives near here a few days since.

Mr. Thomas, of Commissary, was here last week in the interest of the R. F. D.

Wm. Grant and E. M. Gaines have returned from their Union trip, which they enjoyed.

Mrs. Jennie Hayder, of Indianapolis, Ind., was visiting her sister, Mrs. Wm. Stephens, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Walton visited Dr. J. H. Walton and wife, of Home City, Sunday.

Misses Pauline and Annie Kirtley have returned after a visit to their sister, Mrs. H. C. Duncan.

The family of Mrs. Florence G. Hays has a monument erected to her memory at Bullittsburg. Burschart, of Lawrenceburg, did the work.

o o o

BEAVER.

Fine rain last Saturday evening.

Tobacco about all cut and in the house.

There has been very little seeding done in this neighborhood.

Miss Laura Riley, of near Warsaw, was a pleasant guest at G. E. Carroll's the past week.

Mrs. Johnson, wife and daughter, of Covington, were visiting W. C. Johnson and family, Sunday.

Several from here have been attending the protracted meeting in progress at Big Bone church for the past two weeks.

Jessie Slayback, of Marshall, Ind., who has been visiting relatives here and at Crescent for several days, has returned home.

Mrs. G. W. Ossman, our fashionable milliner, had her formal opening on the 20th at her new quarters, where she has on exhibition a full line of up-to-date fall and winter hats and trimmings, and where ladies will find they can supply their wants in this line much cheaper than in the city.

A Boy's Wild Ride For Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, W. H. Brown, of Leesville, Indiana, endured death's agonies from asthma; but this wonderful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes, "I now sleep sound'ly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at all Druggists.

HEBRON.

Robert McGlasson is attending school in Ludlow.

W. C. McBrair, of Home City, was calling on John Clore, Sunday.

C. E. Clore and wife went to Madisonville, Ohio, Sunday, to visit Will Rouse and family.

Mrs. John Clore and C. E. Quick have sold their shares in the Quick homestead to their sister, Mrs. Curtie Mannin.

Robert L. Bradford, of Cincinnati, visited his parents at this place Saturday and Sunday. He had just returned from a pleasant trip to the World's Fair at St. Louis, where he had been sent by his company, H. J. Heinz Co., of which he is Assistant Manager of the Cincinnati Branch. Mr. Bradford has the distinction of being the most successful salesman of this company, and has shown his ability as such to such an extent, that the company in appreciating his worth, sent him on the above trip to St. Louis, with all expenses borne by the Company. This honor has never heretofore been conferred upon any employes of that company. We feel assured that his many friends will rejoice at his good fortune, and will wish him continued success.

o o o

VERONA.

Sept. 26.—D. B. Roberts is confined to his bed.

The League Institute opened with a very good attendance.

Edgar Powers is having lumber sawed to build a large barn this fall.

The biggest part of the tobacco crop is still in the patch, in this vicinity.

Prof. J. H. Craven, of Covington, was at home last Saturday and Sunday.

D. M. Snyder was here last week mingling with the voters, and asking their support in his race.

The public school began last Monday with Misses Anna Wolfe and Eunice Johnson, teachers.

J. M. Powers has the brag crop of tobacco in this neighborhood, the leaves measuring 3 ft. 7 in. in length.

The mule show at Maple Grove Stock Farm, last Saturday, was quite a success, with about 300 people in attendance, while from 50 to 60 mules were on exhibition, about 20 of which changed hands at good prices. Top horse mule colts brought from $50 to $60, and top mare mules, from $75 to $90 per head—two bringing $90 each. The premium mule which had previously sold for $75 would have brought $100 that day easily. The premium on mare mule went to George Dudgeon, of Gallatin county, and on horse mule, to James Cummins, of this place. Buyers present were T. J. Burgess and a Mr. Winters, of Scott county; James Woods and J. W. Agee, of Owen co.; Dr. Hogan and son, of Grant county; Jones Bros., of Kenton county; Harrison Chapman, of Gallatin county; Jas. Huey, Lee Gaines and Joe C. Hughes, of this county. The common expression among the mule men was that it was the best show of mule colts they ever say.

o o o

GRANT.

Our first vote for President will be for Parker and Davis.

Will Clore and Doll Walton each shipped a nice bunch of hogs to the city last night.

The river is so low that they are hauling water at McVille so they can un the ferry boat.

Rogers Bros. have begun picking their peaches. They have picked and shiped 128 bushels.

For Sale—A new Goodrich sewing machine, as good as new with all attachments. Price, $9. Call on or address Ernest Ryle, Grant, Ky.

The Bellevue Juniors journeyed to Aurora Saturday, where they played the High School. Up to the sixth inning Aurora had been unable to score, while our boys had 4 runs to their credit, when a rank decision of the umpire started a "rag chewing" among the Juniors and they straightway began to throw the game, which was won by Aurora by a score of 8 to 4. Batteries—Crosby and Cook; Downey and Shocket; struck out—by Crosby, 10; Downey, 8; hits—Bellevue, 8; Aurora, 3.

o o o

BEECH GROVE.

Sept. 27.—Grass is getting green.

Nannie McMullen, of near Burlington, is visiting here.

Mrs. Enes Conley, of Hathaway, was the guest of Mrs. Sallie Ryle, Sunday.

Mr. Castleman made an excellent speech at the school house here a few nights since.

Bro. Atkinson is engaged in a very interesting protracted meeting at Bellevue Baptist church.

BULLITTSVILLE.

The tobacco is all in the house and the corn is in the shock.

Ben Berkshire, of Petersburg, passed here Sunday enroute to the Cincinnati stock yards with 30 fat cattle.

Elmo Gaines, our candidate for Assessor, came in from the south end of the county and says his prospects there are exceedingly good. He says he will carry every precinct in the county but five.

Talk about playing ball like mudhens and hillbillies, why, the Petersburg boys are up to date in that kind of playing, judging from the game at Burlington Saturday. They can, sometimes, win a game from an ordinary team, but hillbillies, but when they tackle a team of sure enough ball players they get shaky in their shoes and put one in the mind of kids playing crossout. They played very well with Justis in the box, but when Alloway got in the wonder, took his place, he nearly tore the pitcher's box out of the earth, and all he did was to give the Boones six clean hits in one inning. Bro. Tolin, when, Petersburg gets a ball team don't forget to make mention of it in the Recorder, for our ball enthusiasts would like to see a line of ball players from your town. The only ball playing Petersburg ever did was when Houston was pitching for them.

PARKER ACCEPTS THE NOMINATION

HIS FORMAL LETTER TO THE DEMOCRATIC NOTIFICATION COMMITTEE.

VIEWS ON PUBLIC POLICIES

NAMES FOUR ISSUES AS OF PARAMOUNT INTEREST TO THE ENTIRE COUNTRY.

Tariff Reform, Imperialism, Economical Administration and Honesty in Public Service — Criticises Republican Administrations.

To the Honorable Champ Clark and Others, Committee, Etc.—Gentlemen: In my response to your committee, at the formal notification proceedings, I referred to some matters not mentioned in this letter. I desire that these be considered as incorporated herein, and regret that lack of space prevents specific reference to them all. I wish here, however, again to refer to my views there expressed as to the gold standard, and to declare again my unqualified belief in said standard, and to express my appreciation of the action of the convention in reply to my communication upon that subject.

Grave public questions are pressing for decision. The democratic party appeals to the people with confidence that its position on these questions will be accepted and indorsed at the polls. While the issues involved are numerous, some stand forth preeminent in the public mind. Among these are: Tariff reform, imperialism, economical administration and honesty in the public service. I shall briefly consider these and some others within the necessarily prescribed limits of this letter.

Imperialism.

While I presented my views at the notification proceedings concerning this vital issue, the overshadowing importance of this question impels me to refer to it again. The issue is oftentimes referred to as constitutionalism vs. imperialism.

If we would retain our liberties and constitutional rights unimpaired, we cannot permit or tolerate, at any time or for any purpose, the arrogation of unconstitutional powers by the executive branch of our government. We should be ever mindful of the words of Webster: "Liberty is only to be preserved by maintaining constitutional restraints and a just division of political powers."

Already the national government has become centralized beyond any point contemplated or imagined by the founders of the constitution. How tremendously all this has added to the power of the president! It has developed from year to year until it almost equals that of many monarchs. While the growth of our country and the magnitude of interstate interests may seem to furnish a plausible reason for this centralization of power, yet these same facts afford the most potent reason why the executive should not be permitted to encroach upon the other departments of the government, and assume legislative, or other powers, not expressly conferred by the constitution.

The issue of imperialism which has been thrust upon the country involves a decision whether the law of the land or the rule of individual caprice shall govern. The principle of imperialism may give rise to brilliant, startling, dashing results, but the principle of democracy holds in check the brilliant executive and subjects him to the sober, conservative control of the people.

The people of the United States stand at the parting of the ways. Shall we follow the footsteps of our fathers along the paths of peace, prosperity and contentment, guided by the ever-living spirit of the constitution which they framed for us, or shall we go along other and untried paths, hitherto shunned by all, following blindly new ideals, which, though appealing with brilliancy to the imagination and ambition, may prove a will o' the wisp, leading us into difficulties from which it may be impossible to extricate ourselves without lasting injury to our national character and institutions?

The Tariff and Trusts.

Tariff reform is one of the cardinal principles of the democratic faith, and the necessity for it was never greater than at the present time. It should be undertaken at once in the interest of all our people.

The Dingley tariff is excessive in many of its rates, and, as to them at least, unjustly and oppressively burdens the people. It secures to domestic manufacturers, singly or in combination, the privilege of exacting excessive prices at home and prices far above the level of sales made regularly by them abroad with profit, thus giving a bounty to foreigners at the expense of our own people. It levies oppressive and unjust taxes upon many articles forming, in whole or part, the so-called raw material of many of our manufactured products, not only burdening the consumer, but also closing to the manufacturer the markets he needs and seeks abroad. Its unjust taxation burdens the people generally, forcing them to pay excessive prices for food, fuel, clothing and other necessaries of life. It levies duties on many articles not normally imported in any considerable amount, which are made extensively at home, for which the most extreme protectionist would hardly justify protective taxes, and which in large amounts are exported. Such duties have been and will continue to be a direct incentive to the formation of huge industrial combinations, which, secure from foreign competition, are enabled to stifle domestic competition and practically to monopolize the home market.

"It contains many duties imposed for the express purpose only, as was openly avowed, of furnishing a basis for reduction by means of reciprocal trade treaties, which the republican administration, impliedly at least, promised to negotiate. Having, on this promise, secured the increased duties, the republican party leaders, spurred on by protected interests, defeated the treaties negotiated by the executive, and now these same interests cling to the benefit of these duties which the people never intended they should have, and to which they have no moral right.

Even now the argument most frequently urged in behalf of the Dingley tariff, and against tariff reform generally, is the necessity of caring for our infant industries. Many of these industries, after a hundred years of lusty growth, are looming up as industrial giants. In their case, at least, the Dingley tariff invites combination and monopoly, and gives justification to the expression that the tariff is the mother of trusts.

For the above-mentioned reasons, among many others, the people demand reform of these abuses, and such reform demands and should receive immediate attention.

In the words of our platform we demand "a revision and a gradual reduction of the tariff by the friends of the masses, and for the common weal, and not by the friends of its abuses, its extortions and discriminations."

Trust Remedies.

I pointed out in my earlier response the remedy which, in my judgment, can effectually be applied against monopolies, and the assurance was then given that if existing laws, including both statute and common law, proved inadequate, contrary to my expectations, I favor such further legislation, within constitutional limitations, as will best promote and safeguard the interests of all the people.

Whether there is any common law which can be applied and enforced by the federal courts, cannot be determined by the president, or by a candidate for the presidency.

The determination of this question was left by the people in framing the constitution, to the judiciary and not to the executive. The supreme court of the United States has recently considered this question, and, in the case of the Western Union Telegraph company vs. the Call Publishing company, to be found in the one hundred and eight-first volume of the United States supreme court reports, at page 92, it decided that common law principles could be applied by United States courts in cases involving interstate commerce, in the absence of United States statutes specifically covering the case. Such is the law of the land.

Reciprocity.

In my address to the notification committee I said that tariff reform "is demanded by the best interests of both manufacturer and consumer." With equal truth it can be said that the benefits of reciprocal trade treaties would enure to both. That the consumer would be helped is unquestionable. That the manufacturer would receive great benefit by extending his markets abroad hardly needs demonstration. His productive capacity has outgrown the home market. The very term "Home Market," has changed in its significance. Once, from the manufacturers' point of view, it meant expansion; to-day the marvelous growth of our manufacturing industries has far exceeded the consumptive capacity of our domestic markets, and the term "Home Market" implies contraction, rather than expansion. If we would run our mills to their full capacity, thus giving steady employment to our workmen and securing to them and to the manufacturer the profits accruing from increased production, other markets must be found. Furthermore, when our manufacturers are dependent on raw materials in whole or part imported, it is vital to the extension of their markets abroad that they secure their materials on the most favorable terms.

Our martyred President, William McKinley, appreciated this situation. He pointed out in his last address to the people that we must make sensible trade arrangements if "we shall extend the outlets for our increasing surplus." He said, "a system which provides a mutual exchange of commodities is manifestly essential to the continued and healthful growth of our export trade. . . . The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will and friendly relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not."

This argument was made in the interest of our manufacturers whose products, he urged, "have so multiplied, that the problem of more markets requires our urgent and immediate attention." He had come to realize that the so-called "stand pat" policy must give way—that there must be a reduction of duties to enable our manufacturers to cultivate foreign markets. The last words of this president—who had won the affection of his countrymen—ought to be studied by every man who has any doubt of the necessity of a reduction in tariff rates in the interest of the manufacturer. They present with clearness a situation and a proposed remedy that prompted the provision in our platform which declares that, "We favor liberal trade arrangements with Canada and with people of other countries where they can be entered into with benefit to American agriculture, manufactures, mining or commerce."

The persistent refusal of the republican majority in the federal senate to ratify the reciprocity treaties negotiated in pursuance of the policy advocated alike by Mr. Blaine and Mr. McKinley, and expressly sanctioned in the Dingley act itself, is a discouraging exhibition of bad faith. As already mentioned by me, the exorbitant duty imposed on many an imported article by the Dingley tariff was avowedly intended by its author not to be permanent, but to serve temporarily as a maximum, from which the federal government was empowered to offer a reduction, in return for an equivalent concession on the part of a foreign country. President McKinley undertook honestly to carry out the purpose of the act. A number of reciprocity agreements were negotiated, which, if ratified, would have had the twofold result of cheapening many imported products for American consumers, and of opening and enlarging foreign markets to American producers. Not one of those agreements has met with the approval of the republican masters of the senate. Indeed they did not even permit their consideration. In view of the attitude of the present executive, no new agreement need be expected from him. Nor does the republican platform contain a favorable reference to one of the suspended treaties. The reciprocity clauses of the Dingley act seem destined to remain a monument of legislative cozenage and political bad faith, unless the people take the matter in their own hands at the ballot box and command a reduction of duties in return for reciprocal concessions.

Independence for the Filipinos.

In some quarters it has been assumed that in the discussion of the Philippine question in my response, the phrase "self-government" was intended to mean something less than independence. It was not intended that it should be understood to mean, nor do I think as used it does mean less than independence. However, to eliminate all possibility for conjecture, I now state that I am in hearty accord with that plank in our platform that favors doing for the Filipinos what we have already done for the Cubans; and I favor making the promise to them now that we shall take such action as soon as they are reasonably prepared for it. If independence, such as the Cubans enjoy, cannot be prudently granted to the Filipinos at this time, the promise that it shall come the moment they are capable of receiving it will tend to stimulate rather than hinder their development. And this should be done not only in justice to the Filipinos, but to preserve our own rights; for a free people cannot withhold freedom from another people and themselves remain free. The toleration of tyranny over others will soon breed contempt for freedom and self-government, and weaken our power of resistance to insidious usurpation of our constitutional rights.

The pledge of the platform to secure to our citizens, without distinction of race or creed, whether native born or naturalized, at home and abroad, the equal protection of the laws and the enjoyment of all the rights and privileges open to them under the covenants of our treaties, as their just due, should be made good to them. In the accomplishment of that result it is essential that a passport issued by the government of the United States to an American citizen shall be accepted the world over as proof of citizenship.

Civil Service.

The statute relating to civil service is the outcome of the efforts of thoughtful, unselfish and public-spirited citizens. Operation under it has frequently been of such a character as to offend against the spirit of the statute, but the results achieved, even under a partial enforcement of the law, have been such as to both deserve and command the utterance of the democratic party that it stands committed to the principle of civil service reform and demands its just and impartial enforcement.

Reclamation of Arid Lands.

A vast expanse of country in the west, portions of which are to be found in each of the 16 states and territories, mentioned in the law, is directly affected by the national statute—the outcome of intelligent and persistent efforts of leading citizens, providing for the reclamation of the arid lands for the benefit of home-seekers. During the years of the development of the measure which finally received the vote of every member of the upper house of congress, it encountered opposition, based to a large extent upon the view that the aim of its promoters was to secure the benefits of irrigation to private owners at government expense. The aim of the [illegible] however, to enable this vast territory to reclaim its arid lands without calling upon the taxpayers of the country at large to pay for it. Whether the purposes of the bill will be fully accomplished must depend in large measure upon the ability, sobriety of judgment, independence and honesty of the officers of the interior department having this great work in charge.

In 1902 the main canals and ditches in the region affected aggregated more than 59,000 miles and the work of reclamation is but in its infancy. The total cost of construction of the necessary head-gates, dams, main canals, ditches, reservoirs and pumping stations was at that time a little over $93,000,000, which of itself suggests the hundreds of millions that may eventually be invested in the territory covered by the statute. The magnitude of the conception, and the enormous expense its carrying out involves, make us realize the overwhelming importance of a broad, capable and honest administration of the work authorized by the statute, if effect is to be given to that part of the plan that relieves the country at large from ultimate liability.

Panama Canal.

An isthmian canal has long been the hope of our statesmen, and the avowed aim of the two great parties, as their platforms in the past show. The Panama route having been selected, the building of the canal should be pressed to completion with all reasonable expedition.

The methods by which the executive acquired the Panama canal route and rights are a source of regret to many. To them, the statement that thereby a great public work was assured to the profit of our people is not a sufficient answer to the charge of violation of national good faith. They appreciate that the principles and healthy convictions which in their working out have made us free and great, stand firmly against the argument or suggestion that we shall be blind to the nature of the means employed to promote our welfare. They hold that adherence to—principle, whether it works for our good or ill, will have a more beneficent influence on our future destiny than all our material upbuilding, and that we should ever remember that the idea of doing a wrong to a smaller, weaker nation that we, or even all mankind, may have a resultant good is repugnant to the principles upon which our government was founded.

Under the laws of the United States the duty is imposed on the executive to proceed with due diligence in the work of constructing the canal. That duty should be promptly performed.

American Shipping.

Our commerce in American bottoms amounts to but eight per cent. of our total exports and imports. For 70 yeras prior to 1860, when the republican party came into power, our merchant marine carried an average of 75 per cent. of our foreign commerce. By 1877 it had dwindled to 27 per cent. Now we carry but a contemptibly small fraction of our exports and imports.

American shipping in the foreign trade was greater by over 100,000 tons in 1810—nearly 100 years ago—than it was last year. In the face of the continuous decline in the record of American shipping during the last 43 years, the promise of the republican party to restore it is without encouragement. The record of the democratic party gives assurance that the task can be more wisely intrusted to it.

Recent disclosures, coupled with the rapid augmentation of government expenditures, show a need of an investigation of every department of the government. The democrats in congress demanded it. The republican majority refused the demand. The people can determine by their vote in November whether they wish an honest and thorough investigation. A democratic congress and executive will assure it.

Army and Navy.

We are justly proud of the officers and men of our army and navy. Both, however, have suffered from the persistent injection of personal and political influence. Promotions and appointments have been frequently based on favoritism instead of merit. Trials and court-martials have been set aside under circumstances indicating political interference. These and other abuses should be corrected.

Pensions for Our Soldiers and Sailors.

The national democracy favors liberal pensions to the surviving soldiers and sailors and their dependents, on the ground that they deserve liberal treatment. It pledges by its platform adequate legislation to that end. But it denies the right of the executive to usurp the power of congress to legislate on that subject. Such usurpation was attempted by pension order No. 78, and effect has been given to it by a congress that dared not resent the usurpation. It is said that "this order was made in the performance of a duty imposed upon the president by act of congress," but the provision making the imposition is not pointed out. The act to which the order refers, which is the one relating to pensions to civil war veterans, does not authorize pensions on the ground of age. It does grant pensions to those "suffering from any mental or physical disability, or disabilities, of a permanent character, not the result of their own vicious habits, which so incapacitates them from the performance of manual labor as to render them unable to earn a support." This specified requirement of incapacity is in effect set aside by order No. 78 as to all persons over 62.

The war closed nearly 40 years ago. In the meantime many of our soldiers and sailors long survived the age of 62, and passed away without receiving any pension. Skillful pension attorneys hunting through the statute failed to find there a provision giving a pension to all who had reached 62. Many prominent veterans urged the passage of congressional action giving a service pension to all veterans. Bills to that effect were introduced in congress. And not until March of this year did anyone ever claim to have made the discovery that the president had power to treat the statute as if it read that when a claimant had passed the age of 62 years he is necessarily disabled one-half in ability to perform manual labor and therefore entitled to a pension.

The present pension commissioner indicated his view of the order when in a recent address he thanked the president for what he had done, and advised his hearers to use their influence that a law might be passed to the same effect. Full confidence after all seems not to have been placed on the defense of justification, for it is pleaded in mitigation that a former democratic president did something looking in that direction. Even if that were so—which is not admitted—our present duty would be none the less plain and imperative. Our people must never tolerate the citation of one act of usurpation of power as an excuse for another. The first may possibly be due to mistake; the second, being based on the first, cannot be. In explanation, however, it should be said that the order relied on simply provided that the age of 70 years should be regarded as evidence of inability to perform manual labor. Few men are able to perform manual labor at that age, but nearly all men are at 62. The first order is based on a fact that experience teaches, the other is based on the assertion of that which is not true as a general rule.

The old inquiry: "What are you going to do about it?" is now stated in a new form. It is said by the administration, in reply to the public criticism of this order, that "it is easy to test our opponent's sincerity in this matter. The order in question is revocable at the pleasure of the executive. If our opponents come into power they can revoke this order and announce that they will treat the veterans of 62 and 70 as presumably in full bodily vigor and not entitled to pension. Will they authoritatively state that they intend to do this? If so, we accept the issue."

This suggests the suspicion, at least, that the order was made to create an issue—that it was supposed to present a strong strategic position in the battle of the ballots. But as the making of that order was, in my judgment, an attempted, though perhaps unwitting, encroachment upon the legislative power, and, therefore, unwarranted by the constitution, the challenge is accepted. If elected, I will revoke that order. But I go further and say that that being done, I will contribute my effort toward the enactment of a law to be passed by both houses of congress and approved by the executive that will give an age pension without reference to disability to the surviving heroes of the civil war; and under the provisions of which a pension may be accepted with dignity because of the consciousness that it comes as a just due from the people through their chosen representatives, and not as largess distributed by the chief executive.

Foreign Relations.

The foreign relations of the government have in late years assumed special importance. Prior to the acquisition of the Philippines, we were practically invulnerable against attacks by foreign states. Those tropical possessions, however, 7,000 miles from our shores, have changed all this and have in effect put us under bonds to keep the peace. The new conditions call for a management of foreign affairs the more circumspect in that the recent American policy of expansion has excited the serious apprehension of all the great industrial peoples. It is essential, therefore, more than ever, to adhere strictly to the traditional policy of the country as formulated by its first president and never, in my judgment, wisely departed from—to invite friendly relations with all nations while avoiding entangling alliances with any. Such a policy means the cultivation of peace instead of the glorification of war, and the minding of our own business in lieu of spectacular intermeddling with the affairs of other nations. It means strict observance of the principles of international law and condemns the doctrine that a great state, by reason of its strength, may rightfully appropriate the sovereignty or territory of a small state on account of its weakness. It means for other American states that we claim no rights and will assume no functions save those of a friend and of an ally and defender as against European aggressions. It means that we repudiate the role of the American continental policeman; that we refuse to act as debt collector for foreign states or their citizens; that we respect the independent sovereignty of each American state and its right to preserve order and otherwise regulate its own internal affairs in its own way; and that any intervention in its affairs by us is limited to the single office of enabling its people to work out their own political and national destiny for themselves free from the coercion of any European state.

Reform in Governmental Expenditures.

Twenty-eight years have passed since the democratic party of the state of New York, in convention assembled, recommended to the national democracy the nomination of Samuel J. Tilden as its candidate for the presidency, and declared it to be "their settled conviction that a return to the constitutional principles, frugal expenses and administrative purity of the founders of the republic is the first and most imperious duty of the times—the commanding issue now before the people of the union." This strong expression was called forth by the national expenditures for the year 1875, which amounted to $274,000,000—a situation which, in the opinion of a majority of our people, justified an imperative demand for reform in the administration of public affairs. As the expenditures of the last fiscal year amounted to the enormous total of $582,000,000, it is evident that a thorough investigation of the public service and the immediate abandonment of useless and extravagant expenditures are more necessary now than they were then. This astounding increase is out of all proportion to the increase of our population, and finds no excuse from whatever aspect we view the situation. The national democratic platform declares that "large reductions can easily be made in the annual expenditures of the government without impairing the efficiency of any branch of the public service." Can there be any doubt of the accuracy of this statement? Between the expenditures of the year 1885, amounting to $242,000,000, and those of the last fiscal year—the seventh after Grover Cleveland ceased to be president—aggregating $582,000,000, there is a difference so great as to excite alarm in the breasts of all thoughtful men. Even excluding the sum of $50,000,000 paid for the Panama canal rights and to the state of Panama, the expenditures of the last fiscal year exceeded the sum of $532,000,000, being more than double the expenditures of the government for all purposes during the first year of Mr. Cleveland's administration.

The [illegible] succeeding the last [illegible] administration amounted to the [illegible] averages of $511,000,000 per year. The large expenditure was due to a considerable extent to the cost of the Spanish-American war, which occurred during that period; but the cessation of that war brought no relief to the treasury, for the average annual expenses of the government, during the three subsequent years ending June 30, 1904, were about $519,000,000, which is the largest sum hitherto reached, during a like period, since the close of the civil war.

This draft upon the revenues of the country has had the effect which might have been anticipated, and now we have presented the reverse of the situation, which led to the famous observation: "It is a condition, and not a theory, which confronts us;" for, although the present incumbent found at the close of the first fiscal year, during which he assumed control of the administration, a surplus of receipts over expenditures of more than $91,000,000, there was an excess of expenditures over receipts at the close of the last fiscal year of $42,000,000, and the official monthly reports made by the treasury department show that the expenditures are continuously and rapidly increasing, while the receipts are diminishing.

In this connection it is interesting to note the recent administrative orders forbidding government officers from making public any statement of estimates on which future appropriations are to be based.

If a man of ordinary intelligence and prudence should find in the operating expenses of his business such a tremendous percentage of increase, would he not promptly set on foot an inquiry for the cause of the waste, and take immediate measures to stop it, especially when trusted employes have been found dishonest and convicted, and a widespread impression exists that a thorough investigation may discover other cases of malfeasance? When the chief executive reported to congress that, "through frauds, forgeries and perjuries, and by shameless briberies, the laws relating to the proper conduct of the public service in general, and to the due administration of the post office department have been notoriously violated • • • ," there was a general popular demand for a rigid, sweeping investigation by congress, in addition to that undertaken by the executive himself. Such an investigation the republican majority in congress would not permit, although the minority insisted that the interests of good government demanded it. And the minority was right. The liberality, patriotism and national pride of the people should not be made an excuse for waste of the public funds. Official extravagance is official crime.

There is not a sentence in the republican platform recommending a reduction in the expenditures of the government; not a line suggesting that the increase in the cost of the war department from $34,000,000 in 1886 to $115,000,000 in 1904 should be inquired into; and not a paragraph calling for a thorough investigation of those departments of the government in which dishonesty has been recently disclosed.

Conclusion.

The people, however, can by their votes, if they desire it, order such an investigation and inaugurate a policy of economy and retrenchment. It is safe to say that this will not be accomplished by indorsing at the polls the republican majority of the house of representatives which refused the investigation and made the appropriations, nor by continuing in power the administration which made the disbursements.

Reform in expenditures must be had in both the civil, military and naval establishments in order that the national expenditures may be brought to a basis of peace and the government maintained without recourse to the taxes of war.

I have put aside a congenial work, to which I had expected to devote my life, in order to assume, as best I can, the responsibilities your convention put upon me.

I solicit the cordial cooperation and generous assistance of every man who believes that a change of measures and of men at this time would be wise, and urge harmony of endeavor as well as vigorous action on the part of all so minded.

The issues are joined and the people must render the verdict.

Shall economy of administration be demanded or shall extravagance be encouraged?

Shall the wrongdoer be brought to bay by the people, or must justice wait upon political oligarchy?

Shall our government stand for equal opportunity or for special privilege?

Shall it remain a government of law or become one of individual caprice?

Shall we cling to the rule of the people, or shall we embrace beneficent despotism?

With calmness and confidence, we await the people's verdict.

If called to the office of president, I shall consider myself the chief magistrate of all the people, and not of any faction, and shall ever be mindful of the fact that on many questions of national policy there are honest differences of opinion. I believe in the patriotism, good sense and absolute sincerity of all the people. I shall strive to remember that he may serve his party best who serves his country best.

If it be the wish of the people that I undertake the duties of the presidency, I pledge myself, with God's help, to devote all my powers and energy to the duties of this exalted office. Very truly yours,

ALTON B. PARKER.

The Victory Through Christ

Chicago, Sunday, Sept. 25, 1904. Text: "Thanks be unto God, Which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."—1 Cor. 15:57.

GREAT battlefields mark the progress of the world's history. Every land and every nation have known of conflict which brought either deliverance or bondage to their people. The pages of history, sacred and profane, are filled with the records of warfare and carnage, of fierce fighting and glorious victory or ignominious defeat. The story of Israel's conflicts marks Palestine from north to south and from the sea coast to the borders of the great Euphrates on the west as one great battlefield. Nations have had their rise and fall upon the battlefield. Persian power marks its decline from the great battle of Marathon, and Greece rises to a place of power and sends out her Alexander to conquer the world. Rome comes upon the scene, and wherever the conquering army of the Cæsars went there were battlefields which told of nations subjugated and brought under the sway of imperial Rome. Take your map of the world, and wherever there was a battle which you can remember, either place a dot, and see how quickly you can dot the surface of the earth over with battlefields. You will quickly become impressed with the fact that the world is but one vast battlefield. Take it in our own land, the country which is scarcely four centuries old in the world's history, and note how from north to south and from east to west there has been the track of the warhorse. There is no state but has had its conflict with the red man, the original proprietor of the land, and many of the states are dotted with its monuments to mark the place of conflict in revolutionary and civil war. And among the innumerable battlefields which the world has seen are hundreds and thousands which are important; battles which have changed the map again and again and given birth to new nations and peoples. And at the present time there is raging in the east one of the great conflicts of modern times, and great battlefields are being added to the list—great battlefields in which man has contended with man for supremacy and power.

BUT the greatest battlefield which Heaven or earth has seen is that which is found within the human soul. On that place of conflict have been fought out questions and issues which have to do not only with time but with eternity. Every soul knows what this conflict means. Some have more desperate battles to fight than others; some have to wage the silent warfare within until the very life's blood seems to be forcing its way through the sweat glands, and the anguish of spirit would crush out the very life; while others experience the ordinary battles, and know sometimes defeat and sometimes victory. The few endure the supreme conflicts, but all experience the inner fightings and strivings. The soul is a constant battleground. It is the place where man decides the great issues of life and eternity. It is the place from which there sounds forth the cry of defeat or victory. Never did warrior on battlefield, as he contended hand to hand with the determined foe, realize more fully what conflict means than does the soul to which comes the bitter strife, the contending of the forces of good and evil. It is within the soul that a man decides whether self or God shall rule; it is within the soul that desire and duty wage their desperate strife; it is within the soul that righteousness contends with unrighteousness, truth with error, God's spirit with the spirit of the evil one. We all know what it means to speak of the soul as a battleground. It is a scene of conflict from which man can never separate himself. The world's battlefields change, here to-day and there to-morrow, and seldom is a second battle fought upon the same ground and over the same issue, but the greatest of all battlefields, the human soul, is the constant recurring scene of warfare, and over and over again the soul finds it must fight against the besetting sin, the prevailing weakness, the persistent temptation.

THIS conflict began away back in the beginning, when Adam and Eve fought out the issue of good and evil in the garden and met defeat because they left God out of their reckoning. The record of that battle has come down to us through the ages, and every life since then has come under the shadow of that defeat. Adam's defeat has brought all the human race under the dominion of sin and death. But even as by one man sin entered into the world and death by sin, so by one man, the man Christ Jesus, there came life and salvation into the world by His victory over sin and death. How the nation looks for the hero who shall deliver it from the bondage of the oppressor! A David for Israel; a Wellington for Europe; a Washington for America; a Garcia for Cuba. And as nations in bondage need a deliverer, so the human race under the bondage of sin needed a deliverer. Jesus was to fight over again the battle where Adam lost and thus bring back to man the purity and the blessing which he lost in Adam. The supreme defeat of the ages was that which took place in the garden at the dawn of human history. The supreme victory was that which was won by the Son of God when He came into the world, and endured all the temptations and trials to which man is subject and yet without sin. His first victory was a personal one over sin. His second victory was the victory over death. His first victory prepared Him to become the world's Saviour, and brought Him to that second battlefield where the deliverance of the human race was wrought as He went upon the cross and became sin for us. We sing of Jesus as the Great Deliverer, as the Mighty Conqueror, as the Victorious King. And such He is. He went through all the conflict of life. He experienced every struggle which rages upon the battlefield of the soul, and He was always victorious. He never knew defeat.

BUT such cannot be said of any other man who has ever lived. The battles rage within the human heart and defeat is constantly written upon its banners. Struggle ever so bravely, win ever so many partial victories, and still defeat is known, and sin and its consequences are present. But it need not be so if the soul relies upon the Almighty Conqueror, Christ Jesus. Our text suggests the certain pathway to sure victory—"Through our Lord Jesus Christ," "Thanks be unto God." Paul exclaims, "Who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ." Victory through Christ. Man throughout the centuries since his first defeat has been seeking the secret of victory; and he has found that the only victory which he himself can win is transitory and incomplete. But victory may be won through Christ. Victory through our own efforts, no. But victory through Christ always. What a glad message to the human heart is this. Who is there who has struggled for victory over the flesh and the world's allurements, and suffered repeated and frequent defeat, who is not glad to hear that there is a way of victory? Who is there who has not felt at times as though it was a hopeless and useless struggle? Who has not felt like making unconditional surrender to all the selfish and evil desires in his nature? Who has not felt like crying out with Paul: "Oh, wretched man that I am, who shall deliver me from the body of this death?"

WE PRAY to God for victory through His Son Christ Jesus even while we are clinging to that which can only bring defeat. We eagerly go forward to the conflict confident of victory, while there lies hidden within the deepest recesses of our heart the wicked evidence of sin which will cause us to flee before the enemy. We cannot plead ignorance of the presence of such unholy thing in the heart and life. Yes, we have covered it up as we have gone into the presence of the Lord or for the time being we have quite forgotten that it is there. Like the buried bone of the dog, it remains out of sight and is forgotten until some day the dog chances to pass that way again and the scent of the bone reaches the dog's nostrils, and up it comes to be fed upon again and then buried for a future day. Ah, how much the soul thinks it is hiding from its Lord. It deceives itself, and it thinks it is with equal skill deceiving the Searcher of the hidden purposes and intents of the heart. This, then, is one of the reasons why the soul meets defeat. It is not free from the unholy thing. It has not submitted to the searchlight of God's presence, and cast out the thing which is displeasing to Him. And for this reason there is present in the life the fatal weakness which at the critical moment manifests itself and brings defeat. But "thanks be to God," for there is victory through Christ Jesus just at this point. He not only will give us the victory in the final struggle, but He will prepare us for the conflict.

THE general needs trained soldiers with which to win his victories. No experienced general would rush on to the battlefield with raw recruits. He would carefully and patiently drill and train them, he would harden their muscles and steel their nerves against the roar of the cannon and the roll of musketry. He would train them in marksmanship, and in every way prepare them for the struggle. This is precisely what Jesus, the great and victorious General, would do with you and me. He knows we must fight. He is anxious to lead us, but He wants to train us for the conflict. Self must be eliminated. The general who can bring his army to act as a unit and with precision execute his well-matured plans is assured of success. His personality and leadership must predominate. Every soldier must be a small bit of himself. And so it is in regard to the relations of the soul to its General, Christ Jesus. Self must be eliminated and Christ control in every particular. We must be a unit with our Leader. And further, we must be patient under discipline. The drill may become irksome, but we must persist. Then faith in the Leader is essential. We must look to Him for the victory and not to ourselves. Ah, how many take their eyes off Jesus just when victory is about to be grasped, and instead of glorious victory we have miserable defeat. It is the loving, longing desire of God to give every one of us the victory through Christ Jesus, and we may experience the thrill of exultation which comes to the victor if we will let Jesus have His way with us. If we will submit to His cleansing, purifying, purging of the heart from secret and hidden sins; if we will let Him train us; if we will keep our eyes upon Him and follow in faith and obedience His leading—then shall we be able to say with Paul: "Thanks be unto God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

PROPER WAY TO BREATHE.

Simple Exercises by Which the Lung Power May Be Appreciably Increased.

In these health articles attention has often been directed to the necessity of proper breathing in order to increase the physical well-being and to place the body in the best possible condition for resisting the onslaughts of disease. But it is not enough to tell people to breathe; many, with the best will in the world, do not know how to breathe, says Youth's Companion. It is not enough to sit in a chair and take a deep breath from time to time; nor can anyone always be taking full inspirations, for that requires thought and special effort. We must breathe in the ordinary way most of the time, and supplement this by certain special exercises at given periods.

Any form of exercise properly taken calls for increased respiratory effort, and so may be called a breathing exercise; and this applies particularly to rapid walking, which is the best all-round exercise that it is given to man to indulge in. But we can augment the utility of rapid walking (by which is meant a gait of from three to four miles an hour) by combining with it a special breathing exercise.

Many persons, walking in the city, make it a rule to fill the lungs as full as they will hold of air each time they come to a street crossing, holding the breath until the farther side of the street is reached. This is an excellent habit to form, but it is not always possible to observe the rule while dodging cars, cabs and automobiles.

The best time for special breathing exercises is at night before retiring and in the morning before the bath. Standing upright, with the head thrown back, the mouth closed and the arms at the side, rise gradually to the tiptoes, raise the arms slowly to the horizontal position, and keeping them well back of the body, breathe in as deeply as possible; then slowly lower the arms to the side, and come down flat-foot while expelling the breath as fully as possible. Repeat these movements about four times a minute. Begin as before, but do not stop when the arms are horizontal. Continue to raise them until they are stretched as high as possible, the hands not being allowed to come together, but kept apart the width of the shoulders or a little more. Continue to inhale until the hands are as high as possible, hold the breath for two or three seconds, then exhale slowly and fully as the arms are lowered to the side.

These exercises and many variations of them grow easy with practice, and if performed night and morning in a well-aired room will increase wonderfully the vital capacity.

ART OF KEEPING YOUNG.

Acquire the Habit of Cheerfulness and Take Plenty of Fresh Air.

Sunlight has no equivalent. Keep sunshine in the home and in the heart. How very much like delicate plants a human being is. Keep a plant in the dark, and struggle as it will to grow, it will be at best but a puny, sickly weed, says Medical Talk for the Home.

The close observer can tell by the countenance if a person is in the habit of saying evil things or kind things about people. No matter what the results, the person who has formed the questionable habit of speaking unkindly of people, will gradually come to possess a cruel, hard expression, which is a short time deepens into fixed ugly lines. Nothing is more conducive to youth and beauty of face than the habit of seeing the best in people and loving it into more loveliness. The thoughts assume a kindly bent and shaping themselves into kindly words and deeds mold the countenance into beauty and sweetness. The late divine, Rev. Joseph Cook, by experiment and investigation, found that our habits leave scars on the brain. Do we realize that every harsh word our lips utter leaves an unfavorable impression on our brains, which is quickly reflected not only in the face, but in the very movements of the body? Nobody can hurt anyone by cruel remarks as he hurts himself.

Fresh air is a free gift, and yet some people take of it as though it were more expensive than the Alaskan gold. It is necessary to the clear brain, well-rounded form and grace of movement. There is a close relation between the shallow-breathing lungs and the mean-thinking mind. Practice deep breathing until you can count 75 aloud in one breath. Then notice the improvement in your appearance and thoughts.

Sinking of Rev. Blank.

Down in a Virginia town the aged pastor of one of the churches fell ill not long ago. He was beloved by all the neighborhood, and a constant stream of anxious friends rang the bell to make inquiries. The nurse in charge was an intelligent negro woman, and she decided to issue bulletins at frequent intervals. She wrote them herself and pinned them to the front door, and this is the way they read as they appeared successively:

"Rev Blank am very sick."

"Later—Rev. Blank am worse."

"Night—Rev. Blank am sinking."

"Morning—Rev. Blank have sunk."—Washington Post.

Crabs, Creole.

Use one green pepper, chopped fine; one clove of garlic, chopped fine; one small onion, chopped fine; one tablespoonful of butter, one cupful of tomatoes, one cupful of crab meat, pepper and salt; put the butter in the blazer; when melted, add the garlic, onion, salt, pepper and tomatoes, and let cook ten minutes; add the crab meat (fresh or canned). Serve when hot on Sippets of toast.—People's Home Journal.

EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY

Colored Preacher Who Was Right at Home on Any Text Suggested.

As an old colored preacher who had been conducting a revival meeting was reaching the end of his series, relates the Indianapolis News, he appeared before the congregation one night and spoke thus:

"Brethren and sistren, I come befo' you all wholly unprepared wid my text. I had been preachin' all sorts of things, and to show the brethren and sistren that I have not said all that I know, I will ask that some membah of this congregation suggest a subject and I will preach about it to you."

For several minutes there was an embarrassing silence while the minister scowled over the top of his glasses, waiting for some one to propose a topic. No one seemed anxious to take advantage of the opportunity, until finally a little fellow in the back part of the church yelled out: "Pills." There was a snicker as the preacher cleared his voice and said:

"Pills. I hab been requested by some membah of dis congregation to discourse befo' you all on pills. Now, brethren and sistren, I am not familiah wid the ways of medicine for I am a preacher man, but as I said I would talk on any subject that was proposed, pills will be my text. Now to begin with, there are quinine pills, calomel pills, big pills and little pills, and a thousand kind of other pills what the doctor do prescribe when the flesh am sick. But I propose to talk to you about de kind of medicine what de soul needs when it am sick—gospills."

SHORT-SIGHTED DRUMMER.

Was Foolish Enough to Sass a Postmistress and Soon Learned Something.

"I had a money order on a village post office in Michigan," said the Chicago drummer, relates the Daily News of that city, "and when I went in to get it cashed I found a postmistress instead of a postmaster. She was gabbing away with another woman and, being in a hurry, I spoke to her rather sharply. In fact, I asked her if Uncle Sam employed her to gossip about her neighbors. In reply, she looked at the order and said:

"James M. Blank, eh? Well, sir, you will have to be identified."

"I had half a dozen letters, but she shook her head. I showed her my initials on my collar, but it was no go. I had passed her and she had a chance to get even and, as a matter of fact, she kept me in that town for two whole days, and would then hardly believe a lawyer who came 20 miles to identify me.

"It's safe enough to pass your landlady when you are not behind on your board, but don't try it on a postmistress, who has got the United States government at her back."

JACK FROST got busy in some parts of the country last week, but no very serious damage was done.

FLOUR made from one dollar and a quarter wheat ought to have a great deal of nourishment about it.

THE Presidential campaign now in progress is remarkable for the quiet manner in which it is proceeding. So far there has been no hurrah about it.

THE Democratic campaign textbook is completed and will be issued shortly. It makes a volume of 314 pages and discusses the issues of both the Democratic and Repbblican parties.

When troubled with constipation try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are easy to take and produce no griping or other unpleasant effect. For sale by all druggists.

New York Democrats and the leaders at headquarters are enthusiastic over the result of the Saratoga convention. Six out of eight of the big newspapers of Greater New York have announced that they will support Herrick, the Democratic nominee for Governor.

Two Republicans up in the Eleventh Congressional District hold certificates certifying that they were nominated for Congress by the recent primary election, and there is a terrible State of feeling existing in the party there, very much to the liking of the Democrats in that section.

Time For Quick Action Has Arrived.

[Lexington Observer.]

Success finally crowns the untiring efforts of the men who have battled so earnestly for the rights of the Burley tobacco growers, and fought so valiantly their arch-enemy — The Continental Tobacco Co. Wednesday the capitalists with whom Messrs. Hawkins and McChord have been in communication arrived here and announced after a thorough investigation, that they would furnish the capital, through the Burley Tobacco Growers Company, necessary to buy and hold the crop of this and next year if necessary, until a fair and living price can be obtained for same.

These gentlemen at once called a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Company and representative growers. Although hastily called, the attendance was large, and every Burley county in the State was represented, as well as those of Ohio.

At this meeting, President Hawkins presided, the situation thoroughly discussed, and the plan of the organization unqualifiedly endorsed as being the only salvation of the grower. Hon. C. C. McChord addressed the meeting at some length, explaining every detail and answering all questions.

At this meeting the stock books of the company were opened, and in a few minutes over $100,000 had been subscribed. It was very plain that the capital stock would be oversubscribed, and a resolution was adopted that all subscriptions be divided pro rata. It will be the endeavor of the Company to place this stock directly with the growers, and every producer owe it to himself to take all the shares he can. None will be offered capitalists or speculators. This stock is of par value of $10, and may be subscribed for now, and paid for out of the proceeds of the sale of the crop.

The plan briefly, is this: The Burley Tobacco Growers Company is to raise $500,000 by subscriptions to their capital stock of that amount. When this is done the syndicate of bankers referred to have agreed to put up $9,500,000, making a total of $10,000,000. With this capital the company will be enabled to handle the entire crop. The price of 10 cents for an average crop has been established which is two cents, or more than has been netted the grower the past five years. This tobacco will then be held in the Company's warehouses until an equitable price can be obtained In addition to the 10 cents paid the grower, which is paid on delivery of the crop, he will receive one-half of any advance at which the crop is sold.

If a grower prefers to keep his tobacco, and get same in summer order, a final advance of 15 per cent will be paid in addition to the 10 cents paid.

THE Democrats in Kentucky are taking things too easy and are too confident of a big majority in the coming election, according to S. W. Hager, the chairman, and Percy Haly, the secretary of the Democratic State Campaign Committee. They are urging that the people awake to the fact that they are going to have a hard fight on their hands and that they must not go into the fight overconfident or they will never carry the State by a big oldtime majority. Predictions of 40,000 and 50,000 majorities are exaggerated, they say, and that it is imperative that this impression be counteracted.

A FEW weeks since the Republicans of the Eleventh Congressional district held a convention to nominate a candidate for Congress. Dr. Godfrey Hunter and D. C. Edwards were the candidates. When the votes cast at the primary election were counted, it was claimed by Edwards and his friends that Hunter people counted him out, and the matter got into the court, and a recount of the vote was ordered and was made by the district committee, last Thursday, and showed that Edwards was nominated by a majority of 876, and he was given a certificate. The Hunter men say the end is not yet.

A new and clever swindle is being operated by a man who is going about the country representing himself as a repairer of sewing machines. He asks to examine the machine, and while doing so he takes out good pieces and inserts broken parts and calls the lady's attention to it; then he slyly replaces the good pieces he has removed and charges exorbitant prices for his work. Look out for him. He is one of the smoothest swindlers that ever came down the pike.

The Bureau of Statistics are placing the wheat crop of 1904 at 575,000,000 bushels and the probable top price for the crop $1.20 a bushel.

Maysville is flooded with counterfeit silver dollars and half dollars. Hardly a day passes that the banks do not receive quite a number of them. It is thought they are being supplied by counterfeiters in some neighboring city. The imitation is splendid, and is calculated to deceive almost anyone.

NOTHING in the history of elections in Kentucky approaches the recent Republican primary held to nominate a Congressman up in the Eleventh district. The charge of wholesale thefts, in fact of every crime that was ever committed in elections, is made by each faction against the other. They are certainly a merry set of fellows up there when it comes to manipulating election returns.

A Los Angeles dispatch says: The imperial valley is suffering from a plague of watermelons. The domestic melon has escaped and is running wild over the ranches, the rank vines choking out wheat, barley and other crops causing heavy losses on the great ranches.

When the imperial canal brought water three years ago to a vast area of desert country some of the ranchers planted small patches of melons for family use. The seeds of these melons were scattered wide by flooding the lands in the process of irrigation, and they took root and bore fruit, most of which rotted on the vines, leaving large quantities of new seeds to float away in new territory.

The melons have gone back to the wild state. While retaining the color and markings of the domestic melons, they have become little, wild fruit, from which the domestic melon was first bred, ranging in size from an apple to a cocoanut.

Though exceedingly small, these wild melons are red, juicy and sweet as honey, excelling if possible the flavor of the garden melon. Bands of Yuma, Seri and Cocopah Indians have encamped in the region and are feasting upon the melons. They do not destroy the vines, but rather spread the plague by spreading the seed.

About Gasoline.

Gasoline is like a mule. Learn how to handle and then keep your eye on it.

The man who looks for a gasoline leak with a match will always remember it—or his heirs will.

Always handle your gasoline by daylight. This will avoid the collection of your fire and life insurance.

Water will not put out a gasoline fire, but spread it. Smother such fires, using flour, sand meal, or anything except water.

One pint of gasoline will impregnate two hundred cubic feet of air and make it explosive. Never leave an open can containing gasoline in a room.

In re, Election on Stock Law
In } Order.
Bullittsville Precinct.

It appearing that C. W. McFee and more than twenty other bona fide voters of the Bullittsville voting district in Boone County, Kentucky, having filed their petition, asking a submission of the question, whether cattle including horses, cattle sheep and hogs shall be permitted to run at large in said district, and the petition been deposited in this court, with a sufficient amount to defray the expenses of taking a vote on said question, and said matter having been submitted to and passed on by the Fiscal court, it is now ordered by this court that the election officers of said district open a poll at the next regular election to be held on the 8th day of November, 1904, in said district, for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the voters of said district upon the question whether or not they wish cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs to run at large in said district, and the clerk of this court is directed to have printed on the ballots for said district the question, "For or against the running at large of cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs in the Bullittsville voting district." It is ordered that notice of said election be given twenty days before the date thereof by publication in the Boone County Recorder for at least four issues a copy of this order, which the clerk of this court is ordered to have done.

The indications are that fall pastures will not amount to much in this part of the county, and the farmers are cutting up a considerable amount of corn, anticipating a long period of feeding.

River men are fearful that low water will prevail in the Ohio during the fall and when cold weather comes a weak, sluggish stream only will resist freezing weather, which will tie up navigation for a long period.

Mr. F. D. Jackson brought to this office one day last week three stalks of corn, each of which measured 14 feet, and on three stalks were four good ears of corn. He says he has considerable corn that is as tall.

An Aurora firm is cutting and hauling considerable fine oak timber off of the Voshell farm on Woolper. The monarchs of the forest are disappearing rapidly in this part of the county, and in a few years a stately oak will be a curiosity hereabouts.

Piper and Walton, merchant tailors, of Cincinnati, will be represented in Burlington on next court day, Oct. 3rd, with a full line of fall and winter samples of suiting and overcoating. Their cutter Mr. Drexelius, will be in attendance to show goods and take measures. Save your order.

What is Life?

In the last analysis nobody knows, but we do know that it is under strict law. Abuse that law even slightly, pain results. Irregular living means derangement of the organs, resulting in Constipation, Headache or Liver trouble. Dr. King's New Life Pills quickly re-adjusts this. Its work is thorough. Only 25c at all Druggists.

An Expression of Appreciation.

On a given date at the hour of 10 o'clock a. m. I mailed matter for a long public sale bill asking the Recorder to print and mail me 100 copies of same at earliest convience expecting to recieve same possibly within 4 days, whereas, within 32 hours I recieved the bills most neatly executed. Bear in mind that this job for printing covered 4 miles travel by railway mail, 16 miles travel by stage driver—the handling of same by 8 of Uncle Sam's employees. I venture the assertion that no paper in this State can duplicate this quick, hustling job of printing.

Base Ball.

The Petersburg base ball team came to Burlington last Saturday afternoon and received the worst wallopping at the hands of the Boones that they have received this season. Vansickle, of Aurora, and Hughes were the battery for the Boones, while Theetge caught and Justice, of Lawrenceburg, pitched 5, and Arthur Alloway 3, innings for the visitors. Following is the score by innings:

Boones	0	1	0	5	0	0	6	3	*	—15
Petersburg	1	1	0	0	1	0	0	3	0	—6

Struck out—Hughes, 4; Justice, 3; Alloway, 4.

Hits—off of Justice, 5; off of Alloway, 8; off of Hughes, 9.

Runs—off of Justice, 6; off of Alloway, 9.

Home Run—Justice.

Three baggers—Hogan, Aylor.

Two bagger—Vansickles.

NOTES.

About 500 people witnessed the game.

Vansickle caught a fine game and his throwing to bases was magnificent.

Aylor is a star second baseman—good for everything that comes his way.

The Petersburg boys play ball from start to finish—never beaten until the last man is out.

The game between the Boones and Petersburg that was to have been played next Saturday, is off.

It was seldom that a fly ball knocked to the field did not settle in the hands of a Petersburg player.

Justice and Alloway are both good pitchers, but the Boones would have hit any pitcher last Saturday.

Brady's work at short was faultless, and Slayback scooped up several dust eaters, while Souther and Clutterbuck accepted every chance.

Luck made another sensational catch of a fly. He muffed the ball, caught it the second time, falling down and rolling over once or twice, holding to his catch.

When Alloway pitched his first inning it looked like the fire was out for the Boones, but what they did for him in the next two innings was too much for a plenty.

There will be games at the Burlington park next Saturday and Monday afternoons. Spinney's All-professionals, which are the Nationals, will be here Monday afternoon.

When at the bat in the first inning Vessemyer, of the Petersburg team, received a severe blow on the head by a pitched ball, and the accident was deplored by no one more than by Hughes, of the Boones.

There Are Other Mixed Spices but they are not Our kind

You can buy the other kind for probably, one-half what we sell at, but then you want Quality—it is not all in the quantity—you should look carefully to what you put in your stomach—your syster assimilates all impurities as well as the pure and in these days of adulterations you are very apt to get impure goods.

We sell the genuine, pure, unadulturated mixed pickling spices at

RIGGINS ACQUITTED.

Case Against Him in Connection With Lynching Quashed.

Gov. Terrell Thinks Frequent Lynchings Will Lead to Legislation That Will Cause Offenders to Be Tried in Federal Courts.

Huntsville, Ala., Sept. 23.—Thomas M. Riggins was acquitted Thursday night of the charge of murder in the first degree in connection with the lynching of Horace Maples. The case made out by the prosecution in the trial Thursday was weak and there was no convincing evidence connecting the defendant with the mob.

When the court met for a night session attorneys for the defense moved to quash the indictment. Judge Speake ordered the jury to retire while the motion was under argument. Riggins' attorneys moved that as there was no evidence of a convincing nature against him the indictment be quashed. Solicitor Pettus opposed this and asked that the jury be allowed to decide the case.

Judge Speake recalled the jury and charged them in favor of the defendant, instructing them if they believed the evidence to return a verdict of not guilty. There was no demonstration.

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 23.—Gov. Terrell is much exercised over the possible results of frequent lynchings in the state and he said on the subject Thursday:

"The people of Georgia should realize that unless these lynchings are stopped there is grave danger of their leading to legislation by congress which would take the matter out of our hands and cause offenders to be tried in the United States courts. Of course this would be an interference with state rights but a republican congress would seek to justify it on the ground that the state courts had failed to afford any remedy. The governor of Georgia, under our present law, is powerless either to punish officials who are derelict in the performance of their duties, or to enforce the laws against the leaders of mobs. These are matters which are entirely in the hands of the grand juries and the courts and over these the governor has absolutely no authority. There should be a modification of our laws providing some remedy and placing such matters either in the hands of the governor or with the supreme court of the state."

WILDER'S BRIGADE.

The Annual Reunion Was Held at Lafayette, Ind.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 23.—The annual reunion of "Wilder's brigade," which was famous during the campaigns of the army of the Cumberland in the civil war, was held in this city Thursday. The presence of the veteran commander, Gen. John T. Wilder, and his bride, occasioned great enthusiasm. The opening session took the form of a love feast. The principal address was delivered by Maj. Kilbourne, of Monticello, Ill.

Thursday night a camp fire was held at which Gen. Wilder, Maj. Kilbourne and Gen. Joseph Wheeler delivered addresses. The business session will be held Friday.

SKY SCRAPING BUILDINGS.

They Are Doomed, According to the Prophecy of Prof. Louis Wuarin.

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—Sky scraping buildings are doomed, according to the prophecy of Prof. Louis Wuarin, of the University of Geneva, who delivered an address on "The Future City" in the Urban community sectional meeting at Thursday's session of the international congress of arts and science. Prof. Wuarin maintained that individual should be subservient to the community, and declared that from a sanitary consideration high buildings were detrimental to public health and would therefore ultimately disappear from the topography of the future city.

BOILER EXPLODES.

Four Men Instantly Killed, One Fatally and Others Injured.

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 24.—The boiler in the gin department of the mammoth cotton mill, Erwin No. 2, at Dukes, on the Cape Fear & Northern railroad about 25 miles from Raleigh, exploded with terrific violence Friday, instantly killing four men, scalding another so badly that he will die and partially wrecking the engine room. Several persons were thrown down by the shock of the explosion, but their injuries are not serious.

From the best information obtainable it seems that the old fireman of the mill had just been discharged and the new man had gotten up too much steam. The engine refused to work and the fireman went after the superintendent. As they entered the engine room together the boiler exploded and the men were blown to pieces.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 24.—Fast freight No. 94 on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad struck a wagon loaded with 750 pounds of dynamite at the crossing at North Branch, W. Va., four miles east of here, Friday afternoon. Two persons were killed and nine were injured, three of them seriously.

James Laing, who drove the wagon, escaped with only trivial injury, as did the two horses, although the latter were blown 50 yards into a field. According to eye witnesses Laing, hearing the train, became terrified and stopped on the track. The engine was overturned and stripped and seven cars following loaded with high grade merchandise were broken, several being demolished. The tracks were thrown out of the bed while rails were snapped like pipe stems. The wires were torn down and relief was telegraphed for after going to Patterson's creek on a handcar.

Engineer Pike was held under iron scraps on top of the boiler while being slowly cooked to death. It required four men to extricate him. The explosion knocked nearly every person in the neighborhood down, buried Hunter Bowen through a roof but did not hurt him and threw parts of the engine 200 yards.

AT WASHINGTON'S TOMB.

Members of the Inter-Parliamentary Union at Mt. Vernon.

Washington, Sept. 24.—Members of the inter-parliamentary union left Friday for Mt. Vernon to visit the tomb of Washington.

At Mt. Vernon, the trip to which was made by boat, the visitors were conducted through the grounds and while standing bareheaded around the entrance to the tomb of Washington, a very touching incident occurred. Philip Stanhope, the president of the British parliamentary group, entered the tomb and placed on the sarcophagus containing the remains of Gen. Washington a superb ivy wreath decorated with cut flowers. A card attached to the wreath bore the following words:

"Placed by the British group of the inter-parliamentary union upon the tomb of George Washington, a son of their own race in respect for the admiration of his noble life and illustrious services to his country and to the world."

A representative of the Belgian group followed this graceful act by depositing a sheaf of wheat wrought in metal on the tomb.

A LONG STRUGGLE ENDED.

Striking Machinists and Boilermakers Go Back To Work.

Chicago, Sept. 24.—The nine months struggle of the machinists and boilermakers of the Chicago, Lake Shore & Eastern railroad against the 10 per cent. wage reduction is at an end. The company announced that if the unions would call off their strike it would reinstate as many of the former employes as possible at the lower wages. The result was a stampede of more than half of the 400 strikers, which caused fighting and brought out the police. The company hired 100 of the old men and will take on more until full union crews have been engaged. The strike breakers will be discharged.

FIRE IN CINCINNATI.

The Fay & Egan Co. Plant Damaged to the Amount of $200,000.

Cincinnati, Sept. 24.—Fire at the plant of the J. A. Fay & Egan Co., manufacturers of wood-working machinery, situated at the corner of Front and John streets, Friday night caused a loss of $200,000, fully covered by insurance. There was considerable finished stock in the building, which was completely ruined. The fire started in the basement, but its origin is not known.

THE FLOOR GIVES WAY.

Nine Little Girl Victims Meet Death in a Vault.

Twenty-Three Rescued Alive, Eight Dying in a Serious Condition—Others May Die From Internal Poisoning and Other Injuries.

Cincinnati, Sept. 24.—With a crash that struck terror to the children hearts, the flooring of a vault building in the rear of the Pleasant Ridge schoolhouse, on Montgomery pike, suddenly gave way Friday morning, sending nine children to an awful death and causing injuries to several others.

The children were at recess, shortly after 10 o'clock, and a score or more of girls had crowded into the brick building back of the schoolhouse. It is supposed that the beams holding the floor must have been weak, although this was not suspected until after the accident.

There was a creaking, tearing sound as the floor suddenly began to give way. This was the first intimation the children had of danger. One began to scream. It was taken up by another, and then, as the flooring began to sink, the tots, their faces blanched and voices lifted in cries to be saved, began a mad rush from the trap of death.

At 11:30 nine bodies had been recovered. At that hour an estimate of those missing placed the number of those falling into the vault at over 30. It was stated that the joists under the flooring gave way and suddenly precipitated with all who were in the outhouse at the time. The population of the village surrounded the school grounds while people flocked into town from the surrounding country. The excitement was intensified by complaints of parents against school officers, who say that the building and grounds were inspected before the opening of school, two weeks ago.

Drs. Scheuck, Senour and Fabut attended such children as were rescued alive. The first rescuers were Frank S. Johnson, Rev. Lambert, of the Presbyterian church, Principal Simmerman, Mrs. Banning, Miss Anna Page, Miss McGrew and other teachers. An awful scene was witnessed as they searched for all sorts of utensils with which to drag the bodies from the vault. Men went into the vault as soon as possible and carried out the bodies.

After nine dead bodies had been recovered and 12 were rescued alive the vault was thoroughly dredged and drenched and the rescuers abandoned the search. All of the victims were girls, the oldest being 12 years of age. They were precipitated into a vault that contained over four feet of water. Those falling foremost were drowned in the filth of the vault. The nine who were thus killed served to fill up the vault so that the other 12 were not drowned. Of the 12 who were rescued, covered with the filth of the vault, it was reported Friday afternoon that half of them will die on account of internal poisoning. In addition to their internal sufferings, several of those rescued are reported to have suffered external injuries in broken limbs.

The following is the list of the dead: Carmen Card, aged 9; Fausta Card, 11; Marthe Buhr, 9; Lillian Withrin, 9; Hazel Glover, 9; Edna Thee, 10; Florence Foerste, 8; Emma Steinkamp, 12; Emelie Hesse, 9.

Twenty-three were rescued alive.

The following are in a serious condition: Elsie Schorr, Hazel Senour, Onna Haines, Bessie Bauer, Jeanette Thompson, Martha Schoor, Etta McGrew, Florence Foerste, aged 8.

FOR BENEFIT OF SCIENCE.

Dr. George S. Conant Willed His Brain to a Medical Faculty.

New York, Sept. 24.—Dr. George S. Conant, 51, who died here Friday of diabetes, is said to have willed his brain to the medical faculty of Cornell university that further investigation may be made of a theory that his disease could be traced to the brain. He suffered for years and consulted many specialists without relief. Dr. Conant then took up the study of diabetes, using himself as subject for his experiments. After an exhaustive study he came to the conclusion that the trouble had its root in the brain, which he believed to be affected.

Manager of Pere Marquette Railroad.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 24.—William Cotter, who recently resigned the post of manager of the Missouri Pacific railroad, announced today that he would become general manager of the Pere Marquette railroad October 1.

Many women are denied the happiness of children through derangement of the generative organs. Mrs. Beyer advises women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with stomach complaint for years. I got so bad that I could not carry my children but five months, then would have a miscarriage. The last time I became pregnant, my husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the first bottle I was relieved of the sickness of stomach, and began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my baby to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and can work better than I ever could before. I am like a new woman."—MRS. FRANK BEYER, 22 S. Second St., Meriden, Conn.

Another case which proves that no other medicine in the world accomplishes the same results as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for five years and gave birth to two premature children. After that I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it changed me from a weak, nervous woman to a strong, happy and healthy wife within seven months. Within two years a lovely little girl was born, who is the pride and joy of my household. If every woman who is cured feels as grateful and happy as I do, you must have a host of friends, for every day I bless you for the light, health and happiness Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought to my home. Sincerely yours, MRS. MAE P. WHARRY, Flat 31, The Norman, Milwaukee, Wis."

W. L. DOUGLAS $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN.

UNION MADE.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world. The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If you could step into one of our factories and see the great care used in the selection of leather, the high-grade workmanship, and the many operations necessary to make a shoe, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are worth more money than any other $3.50 shoe. Their inherent shape retaining qualities cause them to hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1903, were $6,263,040.00.

...Trains on the South-...Railway Collide.

...Two Persons Are Dead and Seven of the 162 Injured May Die—One of the Engineers Evidently Disobeyed Orders.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 26.—Running on a railroad in a supposedly high condition of maintenance, and having about them every safeguard known to modern railroading, two trains on the Southern railway, carrying heavy lists of passengers, came together in a frightful head-end collision near Hodges, Tenn., Saturday.

The appalling loss of life and maiming of the living resulted apparently from the disregarding of orders given to the two trains to meet at a station which has for a long time been their ...meeting point.

The claim of failure to see either the station or signals can not be set up by the engineer of the westbound train were he alive to enter a plea of defense, as the accident happened in broad daylight, and, according to the best information obtainable, he had the order in a little frame in front of him as his monster of iron and steel rushed by Newmarket Station and soon after came full upon an eastbound passenger train making for Newmarket, in compliance with instructions to meet the westbound train which carried the sleepers from the east for Knoxville, Chattanooga and other southern cities.

The possibility exists that the ill-fated engineer may have been asleep, or that death had suddenly taken the sight from his eyes before Newmarket was reached. But nothing is known save that the orders were not obeyed. The trains were on time and not making over 35 miles an hour, yet the impact as they rounded a curve and came suddenly upon each other was frightful. Both engines and the major portions of both trains were demolished, and why the orders were disregarded or misinterpreted will never be known, as the engineers of the two trains were crushed, their bodies remaining for hours under the wreckage of the monster locomotives.

The death list as a result of the fearful wreck had grown Sunday night to 62 and it will probably exceed 70 before Tuesday, as many of the injured are in a serious condition and more deaths will occur at the hospital. Sunday there were six deaths at that institution, the last one occurring at 8 o'clock Sunday night, when M. P. Gant, a prominent North Carolinian, residing at Shelby, N. C., passed away. Others who died Sunday at the hospital were the two colored firemen, two little girls and Nep Miller, colored, of Johnson City. To the list of dead there must be added an unknown infant found Sunday at the scene of the wreck and two other unidentified bodies.

A force of 150 men toiled all day long at the scene of the wreck. Before 2 o'clock Sunday morning the track was clear for through trains, but it required many hours to clear the debris.

Engineers Parrott and Kane were found beneath their engines, but their bodies were not badly crushed. Small fragments of bodies were found in many instances Sunday, but it is thought that they belong to bodies already found and brought to this city. One little baby was found by the wreckers, but that was all.

The cause of the terrible loss of life in the heavy eastbound train was explained Sunday. It seems that the second coach ploughed its way into a bank in such a manner that the other cars were jammed into it and pushed on by the weight of the heavy Pullmans, were crushed like eggshells.

Physicians at the hospital stated Sunday night that of the long list of injured which they have in their care it is probable that not more than four will die. The complete list of injured as given by the railroad officials shows a total of 162, but this includes all persons who were only slightly hurt or scratched.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 26.—A telegram has been received at Gaffney, this state, announcing the death of Lee Hill at Jellico, Tenn., who was killed in an explosion in a powder mill. The body was expected at Gaffney Saturday night but instead a telegram was received stating that the body, accompanied by Scott Hill, his father, Lee Hill's wife and four children and a single sister were all on the ill-fated Southern train which was wrecked Saturday and that all were killed. The bodies of all seven of the family are expected to reach Gaffney Monday morning.

FATAL SHOOTING AFFRAY.

White Man and a Negro Killed and Another White Man Wounded.

Macon, Ga., Sept. 26.—At Naylor, Mannie Carter, a prominent young white man, and Gravey Hodge, a Negro, were killed, and another white man seriously wounded. The Negro was ordered out of R. M. Carter's store for insolence. Outside he met Ben Penny and Rube Knight, both white, and informed them of the fact. They sided with him and went into the store, renewing the difficulty. Penny shot Carter through the body, but the latter, as he fell, shot his slayer through the arm. The Negro, who was loud in his exclamations of joy over Carter's death, was killed soon afterwards by some one, presumably by one of Carter's friends. The sheriff is on the scene and Penny and Knight have been arrested.

RR. ADM. GILMORE DEAD.

Died of Bright's Disease Contracted During Service in the Philippines.

New York, Sept. 26.—Rr. Adm. Fernando P. Gilmore died here Sunday of Bright's disease, which he contracted during active campaigning in the Philippines and because of which he was retired from active duty two years ago. He went abroad for his health last summer, and, with Mrs. Gilmore, remained at Aix les Bains. While visiting at Paris lately he became very ill and it was decided to return to the United States. He arrived here on Wednesday last. Rr. Adm. Gilmore was born August 15, 1847, and at the age of 15 entered the naval academy at Annapolis. He was graduated at the age of 19 and saw much service in the civil war.

ADM. GEORGE DEWEY.

The 50th Anniversary of His Entry Into the Naval Servic·

Washington, Sept. 24.—Adm. George Dewey Friday received the congratulations of his fellow officers and friends on the 50th anniversary of his entry into the naval service. Of the 73 midshipmen who entered the naval academy on September 23, 1854, the admiral is the only one on the active list to-day, and but seven of that number are on the retired list. The admiral is in his 57th year. The president sent Adm. Dewey a letter of congratulations together with a handsome bouquet of flowers.

FOREIGN CROPS A FAILURE.

The United States Will Have to Help Feed Central Europe.

Washington, Sept. 24.—According to Consul General Mason, at Berlin, the United States will have to help feed Central Europe during the coming autumn and winter on account of the drought in Russia, Austria, Germany, Switzerland and France. The consul general states that since August 15 a careful inquiry as to the grain crops and the general agricultural situation has been made by the central station for Prussian agriculture, whose report shows there was a falling off from the yield of last year in spring wheat, winter rye, spring rye, barley and oats. Winter wheat furnished the only exception among these six leading cereals.

Wrecked in Body and Mind.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 26.—The republicans of this state have learned with great sorrow that Col. David B. Henderson, who retired from congress and the speakership of the house two years ago, has suffered so greatly from ill health and the pain of his old army wound that his memory has lost its former keenness.

Leadville District Mining Association Will Issue Working Cards.

Leadville, Col., Sept. 26.—The Leadville District Mining association, which takes in every mine manager in the district, has decided to issue working cards for the purpose of carrying on the fight against the Western Federation of Miners. Notices were posted at every mine in the camp Monday to the effect that no person will be employed who shall not have deposited with the timekeeper his card of recommendation from the mining association. An office will be opened in the city where the cards will be issued. Every applicant will be required to sign a statement that he is not a member of the federation or any order controlled thereby. If he is a member of the federation he will be required to renounce his allegiance to the federation.

The mine owners here believe that the federation is seeking to secure a foothold in Leadville, a large number of Cripple Creek miners having come here since the trouble in that district.

Cripple Creek, Col., Sept. 26.—Sheriff Bell has concluded that the alleged confession of Edward Romaine, a prisoner at Topeka, Kan., implicating union miners who formerly lived in this district in the Vindicator mine and Independence Depot murders, is entirely false.

"I found many discrepancies in Romaine's story," said Sheriff Bell, who has just returned from Topeka, "and many of his statements were easily disproved. He was in La Junta on the day of the Independence Depot explosion."

Colorado Springs, Col., Sept. 26.—Deputy United States Marshal Davis has taken charge of the Telluride mill of the General Metal Co., at Colorado City, under an order of Judge Fallett, of the federal court, who has adjudged the company bankrupt. This, action was taken on application of local creditors whose claims aggregate over $2,000,000.

MOUNT VESUVIUS.

The Eruption is Now More Violent Than at Any Time Since 1872.

Naples, Sept. 26.—The eruption of Mount Vesuvius continues to increase in force and is now more violent than at any time since 1872. Red hot stones are hurled to a height of 1,500 feet, falling down the flanks of the mountains with a deafening sound, the director of the observatory says that between 5 o'clock Sunday morning and 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon his instruments registered 1,844 violent explosions, and that one stone thrown out weighed about two tons. Lava flowing from the crater has melted the metal of the Funicular railway, destroyed the upper station and burned the wooden huts in which guides live.

IN A RAILWAY WRECK.

Wife of the Vice President of the Pere Marquette Railroad Killed.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Six people who were injured in a wreck on the New York Central a short distance east of Lyons were brought to Rochester hospital. Three sleepers of the western express left the track because of a split rail, and threw the passengers to the floors of the coaches. Just as the train came to a standstill a fast freight eastbound ran into the derailed cars. Mrs. Newman Erbs, wife of the vice president of the Pere Marquette railroad, who was brought here with both limbs cut off, died at the hospital. Mr. Erbs was bruised and injured.

FELL FROM STREET CAR.

Wealthy Lumber Man Killed in Presence of Prospective Bride.

Savannah, Ga., Sept. 26.—D. M. Pierson, a wealthy lumber man of Walterboro, S. C., while about to assist his prospective bride from a street car, lost his balance and fell, his head striking the pavement with such force that he became unconscious, dying several hours later. He was to have been married Wednesday. In what was to have been his wedding suit he will be buried at Sumter, S. C.

THE AGED BARRED.

Carnegie Steel Co. Will Employ No Men Over 35 Years Old.

Pittsburg, Sept. 26.—The Carnegie Steel Co. has issued a circular letter to the superintendents of the different plants and to the heads of departments in the plants instructing them to employ no men over 35 years of age in certain departments and extending the age limit to 40 years in others. The rule does not apply to laborers. The order affects a large number of the most expert steel men.

Admissions to the World's Fair.

St. Louis, Sept. 26.—The statement of the admissions at the World's fair for six days ending September 24 was given out Sunday by the department of admissions, the total being 770,418. The grand total to date is 11,792,848.

Stricken While Preaching.

Allentown, Pa., Sept. 26.—Rev. Jacob Steinhauser, D.D., pastor of St. Michael's Lutheran church and professor of Hebrew in Muhlenberg college, sustained his third stroke of paralysis while preaching a sermon in German Sunday and died later.

Anti-Semitic Outbreaks.

Berlin, Sept. 26.—The Tageblatt's Kishineff correspondent telegraphs that during the mobilization anti-semitic outbreaks occurred in many parts of Bessarabia owing to Jewish traders selling drink to the soldiers.

INTERESTING STATE NEWS.

IN ELEVENTH DISTRICT.

Committee Awarded Nomination For Congress to D. C. Edwards.

Somerset, Ky., Sept. 23.—After two days of heated discussion the Eleventh district congressional committee by an almost unanimous vote Thursday awarded the republican nomination for congress to D. C. Edwards over the incumbent, Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, former minister to Guatemala. Two previous attempts to count the vote had resulted in split meetings. Thursday's session was enlivened still further by charges made by Hunter men that Judge G. Smith, of Clinton county, one of the Hunter adherents on the committee, had been "doped" by the Edwards faction to prevent his appearance at the meeting.

When the count was finally proceeded with the committee, by a vote of 15 to 1, decided to throw out the vote of Bell county, which, according to the Hunter men, gave Hunter 1,790 and Edwards 998. The Edwards men claimed that Bell county cast 995 votes for Edwards and 685 for Hunter. With Bell county eliminated the committee by a vote of 15 to 1 awarded the certificate to Edwards, the returns showing a vote of 13,215 for Edwards and 12,398 for Hunter, a majority of 816 for Edwards.

BRITTON LANDED IN JAIL.

He Is Charged With the Murder of Jim Cockrill at Jackson.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 23.—William Britton, of Breathitt county, indicted for the murder of Jim Cockrill at Jackson July 21, 1902, was arrested by the posse sent from here at his home, near Jackson, at an early hour Thursday morning. Sheriff Wilkerson took charge of the prisoner upon his arrival here, hurried him into a carriage and rapidly drove away to jail.

The indictment contains two counts. The first charges Britton with the murder of Jim Cockrill and the second that he conspired with Curtis Jett to take the life of Cockrill. He is 28 years old and will plead not guilty.

THE FOOD POISONED,

A Kentucky Family and Their Guests Had a Narrow Escape.

Paintsville, Ky., Sept. 24.—News has just reached here of an unsuccessful attempt to kill Cashier Stevens, of the Salyersville bank. During the noon hours Thursday while his wife was preparing dinner she was called to another part of the house, and in her absence some one entered the kitchen and placed poison in the food. William May, ex-judge of Magoffin county, and Sheriff Patrick took dinner at the Stevens home, and shortly after the meal all became sick. An analysis of the food was made and traces of arsenic were found.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITERS.

Newton Jones and John Taylor Arrested in Newport, Ky.

Newport, Ky., Sept. 24.—Newton Jones and John Taylor were arrested by secret service officers in this city charged with counterfeiting. Their entire outfit was captured. The officers state that the dies were still hot from the metal when the outfit was seized. Both men are well-known residents of Newport. It is claimed that the secret service men have been investigating the circulation of counterfeit coin in this vicinity for some time.

THE "BABY BALL."

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Haggin Give a Novel Entertainment.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 24.—Amid the glare of thousands of brilliantly reflected lights and with settings of almost Oriental splendor, through mazes of costly flowers and decorations that taxed the artistic mind, exhibitions and displays of which the most extravagant writer of modern ballets had never dreamed, were enacted at the much-talked-of and fondly anticipated "Baby Ball" and reception tendered by Mr. and Mrs. James B. Haggin at their splendid Green Hill mansion Friday night.

It was an event that will be long remembered by blue grass swelldom for its lack of prudery and for its conception. Stately dames and damsels attired in the costumery of childish simplicity mingled with the society lords and beaux, affording a display of their nether limbs while fairly reveling in the luxurious light. The characters were such as have been made famous by the periodical cartoonist and the business advertiser. It was unique, entertaining and luxurious.

ALLEGED MOCK MARRIAGE.

Josephine Schuba, of Covington, Sues to Have It Annulled.

Covington, Ky., Sept. 22.—Suit to annul an alleged fraudulent marriage, contracted 25 years ago, was filed in the common pleas court Wednesday by Attorney W. H. Matthews for Josephine Schuba. She claims that February 1, 1879, she was wedded to William Thurmail in Covington, Ky., so she thought. The ceremony was performed by some unknown man, who, she believes, was without legal authority to perform such services, and no license was used. For two years she lived with Thurmail, believing him to be her husband, and two children were born. Then she learned of the imposition that had been practiced upon her, and she at once left Thurmail, and since has refused to live with him.

FOR HOUSEBREAKING.

Two Men Giving Names of Thorp and Smith Arrested at Paris.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 23.—Two men giving the names H. Thorp and N. W. Smith, of Cincinnati, were arrested at Paris Thursday for housebreaking. They had been dogging Forepaugh and Sells' circus and breaking into houses during the parades. In one Lexington house Tuesday $500 in valuables was stolen by them and similar amounts in a Richmond house Wednesday. Detectives from these cities visited Paris where the circus showed Thursday and nabbed them. Most of the property was recovered and a large amount of apparently stolen plunder is unidentified. Thorp was identified as Harry Higgins, who recently escaped from the insane asylum in Columbus, O.

Confronted With a Vision.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 22.—The inmates of the county jail were startled Wednesday night by maniacal screams issuing from the cell occupied by J. W. Bess, who is under a sentence of death for the murder of Mrs. Martha Martin. He tore around his cell and cried "beat her with a stick, take her away, she is trying to kill me." The noise attracted the jailer, but upon his arrival Bess had quieted down and stated that he had been confronted with a vision.

Were Heavily Fined.

Mayfield, Ky., Sept. 23.—The criminal court of Judge Webb was taken up mostly Wednesday with violations of the option law. The first case was Dick Roland, who was fined $100 and sentenced to 40 days in jail. Mary Graham, a white woman, was fined $100 in three different cases, making $300 in all.

Was An Indian Fighter.

Bowling Green, Ky., Sept. 23.—Geo. A. Wallace, piano dealer, died here of Bright's disease, aged 67. He was a member of the G. A. R. and an author of considerable renown. He was in the Indian campaign of '76, and took part in the battle of the Little Big Horn.

Big Farm Sold.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 24.—The 720-acre farm once the property of the late Col. Harry I. Todd, was sold by J. A. Holt, its owner, to former Sheriff Ben F. Suter. The price paid was $65,000. There is 15 miles of stone fence on and around the place.

Bills Are Counterfeited.

Shelbyville, Ky., Sept. 24.—Counterfeit five-dollar bills have made their appearance in Shelbyville and vicinity. The bills are stamped "United States National Bank, Morristown, N. J.," and bear the picture of President James A. Garfield.

Indicted For Murder.

Those on the inside of the Tobacco Growers' Association say they have perfected arrangements by which the Association can get all the money necessary to handle the 1904 crop of Burley. This being the case the growers will get a good price for their tobacco this year, as the Association's schedule of prices are placed at figures that afford a liberal compensation to the grower for his labor.

County clerk Adams has received the registration books to be used by the towns of Burlington, Petersburg Bellevue, Union, Walton and Florence. The law which requires registration in these small towns is the very height of foolishness. If the law applied to each voting precinct in the county it would have some merit, but when it parcels out a few voters in three or four localities widely separated it becomes a farce.

A Withdrawal Card.

To the Democratic Voters of Boone County:—I have now made a thorough canvass of the county in the interest of my candidacy for Sheriff, and I find that Mr. Wingate is the choice of a majority of the voters for the office. As I am a poor man and can not afford to make a losing race I feel that I owe it to my family to withdraw now rather than to run the race out and be put to greater expense, when I know I cannot win. I have for some time known that I had a hard race to make, but as the people have for several years been making the Deputy Sheriff the next sheriff, I thought I could win. I have made my own race, and no one was responsible for my making it. I find out that I can not win, and I withdraw from it of my own will. Mr. Wingate has made a clean race, and I bear him no ill will. I shall always be grateful to my friends who stood by me so loyally and shall live in hopes that I may have a opportunity to show their kindness. I have no complaint to make against those who chose to oppose me.

Dragging Pains

2225 Keeley St.,

CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with failing and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

[illegible] Saturday evening. Glad to [illegible] but was sorry that Castleman [illegible] Commissary did not get to make [illegible] speeches at Woolper.

Dick Alpha Rogers, of near Bellevue, was a very pleasant and attractive guest of W. T. Ryle and wife the latter part of last and first of this week.

Mesdames Wood Sullivan and Cad Sullivan were guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Alice Dodd, of near Big Bone, last Tuesday evening and night.

We should put this restriction on our pleasures: we should be cautious and not engage in any pleasures that will in any way be injurious to ourselves or anyone else.

There is two things which will make us happy in this world if we attend to them. The first is never vex ourselves about what we cannot help; second, never to vex ourselves about what we can help.

The protracted meeting at the Baptist church in Bellevue closed Friday night without any additions, but, perhaps good seed was sown that will bear fruit in the future to the honor and glory of God.

The spelling bee at Bellevue Friday night passed off quietly. Your pencil shover, Ernest Ryle, was champion and downed the two handsome school teachers, Paris Akins, of Flickertown, and Elbert Ryle, of Burlington.

James Thompson, of Petersburg, made lumping purchases of cattle this week as follows: Of Boone Rogers, 4 head, $135; of James Rogers, 2 head, $62.50; of John Cloud, 5 head, $142.50 and of Nicholas Carpenter, 2 head, $70.

Chas. Craven, wife and sister-in-law, near Limaburg, Bernard Rogers and wife, of near Belleview, Maurice Rice, of near McVille, and two very attractive young ladies, daughters of George Ward, of near Rabbit Hash, were the guests of W. T. Ryle aud family, last Sunday.

Lew North, of Indiana, was here one day during the week for the purpose of buying stock, and stopped over night with J. J. Lillard. Mr. Lillard has young cattle and mules that he would sell but they could not agree on the price and no sale was made. Mr. North went on South, perhaps as far as Gallatin county.

H. P. Parsons, of Middle creek, advertised two Jersey heifers for sale in the Commissary items, and it brought him a buyer instantur. Sold to R. A. Brady for $40. Will Bebree advertised two cows and a calf in the same issue, and sold to Owen Watts for $60. Are you a subscriber to the RECORDER, if not, subscribe at once, and if you have anything for sale or wish to purchase, make your wants known to the Commissary.

The party given at Mr. and Mrs. John T. Aylor's on Saturday evening in honor of their son's 15th birthday, was a social success and was enjoyed by all present.

o o o

UNION.

Allow me space in the RECORDER to urge the claims of B. L. Cleek, our candidate for Assessor. If morality, political integrity and mental capacity recommend a man, he has these qualifications. Not one ill word has been spoken against him so far as I have heard, a rare thing for a candidate. His personal popularity will be attested by the almost unanimous vote of his precinct at the primary election Nov. 8th. I have no word of disparagement for any other candidate, but Mr. Cleek is our choice, and hope to see him elected and believe that no man will appreciate the honor more than he.

M. C. NORMAN.

o o o

FLOREMOE.

Mrs. Virginia Nead, wife of H. E. Nead, Pierceville, Ind., died at the Good Samaritan Hospital, in Cincinnati, Sept. 30th, at 2 a. m. She was a daughter of R. S. Richardson, who, for many years, was a well known citizen of Kenton county. For the past few years he has made his home with the deceased. She was a niece of Mrs. James N. Pearson, of Florence, at whose residence the funeral was held Oct. 1st, at 1 p. m. Very impressive services were conducted by Rev. U. Y. W. Darlington, of the Scott St. M. E. church, Covington. She was laid to rest in Florence cemetery. She leaves a husband, two sons, father, little grandson and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Mrs. Nead was one who was admired by all who knew her for her gentle manner and kind disposition. She was ever thoughtful of the comfort and welfare of those about her. To know her was to love her.

C.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by all druggists.

ERLANGER.

Oct. 3.—Miss Ida Zinn entertained with a dinner last Sunday. The guests of honor were Miss Emma Hinton, of Florence, and Rev. J. H. Hankins.

Mrs. James Corbin is very ill with typhoid fever.

Miss Pauline Kirtley, who has been quite ill, is convalescing.

J. J. Tanner, of Richwood, was visiting friends here to day.

Miss Susie Coe, of Danville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Belle Coe.

Robt. Finnell has returned from Georgetown, where he was visiting relatives.

Miss Lou Combs and Miss Fannie Oliver leave Thursday for Los Angeles, California.

FARMERS' MASS MEETING.

On Thursday, Oct. 20th, 1904, there will be held in the city of Cynthiana, Harrison, county, Ky., a Mass Meeting of the farmers of Kentucky in the interest of organization and for the purpose of considering the present condition of Agriculture in Kentucky and through discussion and united action to devise methods for protecting and advancing the interests of all farmers in the State. The various farmers' organizations of the State will be represented.

The following are among the speakers who will be present and take part in the proceedings:

Hon. J. C. Beckham—Governor of Kentucky; Hon. N. J. Bachelor—Governor of New Hampshire; Hon. Aaron Jones—Master National Grange; Hon. Hubert Vreeland—Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture; President Patterson—Kentucky State College; Hon. W. B. Hawkins—President Tobacco Growers' Association; Hon. Mortimer Whitehead—New Jersey.

Through contract with the Southern Traffic Association, all railroads operating in the State of Kentucky will issue at all coupon ticket offices, Round Trip tickets at rate of one and one-third fare. All delegates and visitors will be entitled to the reduced rate upon application at said coupon ticket offices and stating their desire to secure the same. No tickets can be secured at other than offices located in Kentucky, and inquiry should be made early at coupon ticket offices if such tickets are on hand for sale, in order that no mistake be made.

Entertainment for delegates and visitors have been arranged for at rates varying from 75c to $1.50 per day, according to accommodations.

Contracts have been made with the different stables in Cynthiana for the following rates: For single feed, 25c, feeding and care per day 75c.

Every farmer in the State is cordially invited to attend this meeting and give their voice and action in behalf of farmer's organization. The time has arrived to take decisive action in protecting their interests. Come one and all and aid this important movement.

To the Democrats of Boone County: It has been my intention to visit the several precincts in the county, but the illness and death of my mother have prevented, therefore I am compelled to depend largely upon my friends presenting my claims to the people. While a woman may not make a close canvass as a man does, the office I am seeking is peculiarly suited to a woman. For more than 25 years I have been teaching in the public schools, with no thought but the advancement and betterment—mentally and morally—of the boys and girls of the county. I came from a race of Democrats, who from the days of Jefferson have never wavered in their faith, and am the first one of the race to ask reward from the people. I have ever stood firm for strictly moral character as a necessary qualification for a teacher. I have frankly denounced evil and commended good. With these statements of my claims, I place my cause in the hands of the men who will vote November 8th, and the women who are interested in education. Thanking my friends for their efforts and asking them to continue in the work so well begun, I am,

Very Respectfully,

NANNIE D. BRISTOW.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It coutains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an aduk. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all Druggists.

Remember the date of R. B. Huey's sale, Tuesday, October 11th.

For Sale—Fresh Cow.—Apply to L. A. Tanner.

The fiscal court was in session yesterday with all the justices of the peace present. The court ordered that the new bridge at Union be received as county property. R. E. Cason and D. E. Castleman were appointed to make settlement with sheriff. Bradley & Gilbert allowed $17 for six registration books and certificates for incorporated towns.

Tony Bentler has the premium corn so far left at this office. Don't let him beat you, boys.

J. T. Grimsley, half brother of W. W. Grimsley, of Big Bone, was in Burlington Monday the first time for fifty years. He is a citizen of Illinois.

Masters Warren and Robert Lassing, of Walton, came down last Friday evening for a few days' sojourn with relatives in this part of the county.

James Clore made a trip to Democratic Headquarters at Walton, last week, and came home blocked off with Parker and Davis, and Rhinock literature.

Mesdames Aggie and Minnie Carpenter entertained several Burlington ladies at dinner, last Wednesday, at their pleasant country home out on the Petersburg pike.

Mr. Huchart, of the Lawrenceburg Granite and Marble Works, was in town last Friday, looking after some work he is to put up in this neighborhood in the near future.

Tim Westbay, representing the firm of Early & Daniel, of Covington, was in town Monday, in the interest of the firm. He planted an ad in the Recorder which it will be to your interest to read.

While in Cincinnati, one night last week, we called at the Enquirer office to see H. C. Trimble, whom many of our readers remember as the typo and all-around man when the RECORDER was first launched. He has been at work on the Enquirer ever since he left Burlington, and is one of the best machine men in the composing room. Except an increase of gray hairs there has been no change in his appearance. He requested to be remembered to all his old acquaintances in this part of the moral vineyard.

Both the local and long distance telephone lines now have a central station in W. A. Smith's drug store, in Walton.

The Missionary Society of Hopeful church will give a bazaar at the Ben Tanner house, at Gunpowder, from 1 to 5 o'clock p. m. on Saturday, October, 8th. All are invited.

Lost—Small hickory cane at Harvest Home—had thimble for ferule—doted in turn of handle. I value this cane as a keepsake from a friend.

Confessions of a Priest.

Rev. Jno. S. Cox, of Wake, Ark. writes, "For 12 years I suffered from Yellow Jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for 12 years." If you want a reliable medicine for Liver and Kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by All Druggists.

WM. GAINES, Secretary.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

Has world-wide fame for marvelous cures. It surpasses any other salve, lotion, ointment or Balm for Cuts, Corns, Burns, Boils, Sores, Felons, Ulcers, Tetter, Salt Rheum Fever Sores, Chapped Hands, Skin Eruptions; infallible for Piles. Cure guaranteed. Only 25c at all Druggists.

Those on the inside of the Tobacco Growers' Association say they have perfected arrangements by which the Association can get all the money necessary to handle the 1904 crop of Burley. This being the case the growers will get a good price for their tobacco this year, as the Association's schedule of prices are placed at figures that afford a liberal compensation to the grower for his labor.

County clerk Adams has received the registration books to be used by the towns of Burlington, Petersburg Bellevue, Union, Walton and Florence. The law which requires registration in these small towns is the very height of foolishness. If the law applied to each voting precinct in the county it would have some merit, but when it parcels out a few voters in three or four localities widely separated it becomes a farce.

A Withdrawal Card.

To the Democratic Voters of Boone County:—I have now made a thorough canvass of the county in the interest of my candidacy for Sheriff, and I find that Mr. Wingate is the choice of a majority of the voters for the office. As I am a poor man and can not afford to make a losing race I feel that I owe it to my family to withdraw now rather than to run the race out and be put to greater expense, when I know I cannot win. I have for some time known that I had a hard race to make, but as the people have for several years been making the Deputy Sheriff the next sheriff, I thought I could win. I have made my own race, and no one was responsible for my making it. I find out that I can not win, and I withdraw from it of my own will. Mr. Wingate has made a clean race, and I bear him no ill will. I shall always be grateful to my friends who stood by me so loyally and shall live in hopes that I may have a opportunity to show their kindness. I have no complaint to make against those who rose up to oppose me.

B. B. HUME.

August 24th, 1904.

The remains of Kirby Conrad, one of the victims of the Newmarket, Tennessee, railroad disaster will be interred at Florence, his old home, today. He was a traveling man for a Cincinnati firm.

Better Than a Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on the affected parts, is better than a plaster for a lame back and for pains in the side or chest. Pain Balm has no superior as a liniment for the relief of deep seated, muscular and rheumatic pains. For sale by all Druggists.

Hon. L. C. Norman, ex-State Senator and a native of this county, died at his home in Frankfort last Sunday afternoon. He was a member of the State Senate from 1880 to 1884 from the Boone County district, his home at that time being at Union, where he was engaged in the practice of law. Later he was Insurance Commissioner, until appointed Auditor to succeed General Hewitt. He was afterward elected to this office, serving under the Buckner and Brown administrations. He leaves a widow, who was formerly Miss Dickerson, of this county, and four children—Mrs. Henry Lassing, of Nashville; Attilla Norman, Luke Norman, Jr., and Carl Norman, of Frankfort.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"Allow me to give you a few words in praise of Chamberlain's Cholera, Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Mr. John Hamlett, of Eagle Pass, Texas. "I suffered one week with bowel trouble and took all kinds of medicine without getting any relief, when my friend, Mr. C. Johnson, a merchant here, advised me to take this remedy. After taking one dose I felt greatly relieved and when I had taken the third dose was entirely cured. I thank you from the bottom of my heart for putting this great remedy in the hands of mankind." For sale by all Druggists.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Mrs. Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

UNION.

Allow me space in the RECORDER to urge the claims of B. L. Cleek, our candidate for Assessor. If morality, political integrity and mental capacity recommend a man, he has these qualifications. Not one ill word has been spoken against him so far as I have heard, a rare thing for a candidate. His personal popularity will be attested by the almost unanimous vote of his precinct at the primary election Nov. 8th. I have no word of disparagement for any other candidate, but Mr. Cleek is our choice, and hope to see him elected and believe that no man will appreciate the honor more than he.

FLOREMCE.

Mrs. Virginia Nead, wife of H. E. Nead, Piercevile, Ind., died at the Good Samaritan Hospital, in Cincinnati, Sept. 30th, at 2 a. m. She was a daughter of R. S. Richardson, who, for many years, was a well known citizen of Kenton county. For the past few years he has made his home with the deceased. She was a niece of Mrs. James N. Pearson, of Florence, at whose residence the funeral was held Oct. 1st, at 1 p. m. Very impressive services were conducted by Rev. U. V. W. Darlington, of the Scott St. M. E. church, Covington. She was laid to rest in Florence cemetery. She leaves a husband, two sons, father, little grandson and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. Mrs. Nead was one who was admired by all who knew her for her gentle manner and kind disposition. She was ever thoughtful of the comfort and welfare of those about her. To know her was to love her.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroyed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received. Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by all druggists.

ERLANGER.

Oct. 3.—Miss Ida Zinn entertained with a dinner last Sunday. The guests of honor were Miss Emma Hinton, of Florence, and Rev. J. H. Haskins.

Mrs. James Corbin is very ill with typhoid fever.

Miss Pauline Kirtley, who has been quite ill, is convalescing.

J. J. Tanner, of Richwood, was visiting friends here to day.

Miss Susie Coe, of Danville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Belle Coe.

Robt. Finnell has returned from Georgetown, where he was visiting relatives.

Miss Lou Combs and Miss Fannie Oliver leave Thursday for Los Angeles, California.

FARMERS' MASS MEETING.

On Thursday, Oct. 20th, 1904, there will be held in the city of Cynthiana, Harrison, county, Ky., a Mass Meeting of the farmers of Kentucky in the interest of organization and for the purpose of considering the present condition of Agriculture in Kentucky and through discussion and united action to devise methods for protecting and advancing the interests of all farmers in the State. The various farmers' organizations of the State will be represented.

The following are among the speakers who will be present and take part in the proceedings:

Hon. J. C. Beckham—Governor of Kentucky; Hon. N. J. Bachelor—Governor of New Hampshire; Hon. Aaron Jones—Master National Grange; Hon. Hubert Vreeland—Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture; President Patterson—Kentucky State College; Hon. W. B. Hawkins—President Tobacco Growers' Association; Hon. Mortimer Whitehead—New Jersey.

Through contract with the Southern Traffic Association, all railroads operating in the State of Kentucky will issue at all coupon ticket offices, Round Trip tickets at rate of one and one-third fare. All delegates and visitors will be entitled to the reduced rate upon application at said coupon ticket offices and stating their desire to secure the same. No tickets can be secured at other than offices located in Kentucky, and inquiry should be made early at coupon ticket offices if such tickets are on hand for sale, in order that no mistake be made.

Entertainment for delegates and visitors have been arranged for at rates varying from 75c to $1.50 per day, according to accommodations.

Contracts have been made with the different stables in Cynthiana for the following rates: For single feed, 25c, feeding and care per day 75c.

Every farmer in the State is cordially invited to attend this meeting and give their voice and action in behalf of farmer's organization. The time has arrived to take decisive action in protecting their interests. Come one and all and aid this important movement.

To the Democrats of Boone County: It has been my intention to visit the several precincts in the county, but the illness and death of my mother have prevented, therefore I am compelled to depend largely upon my friends presenting my claims to the people. While a woman may not make a close canvass as a man does, the office I am seeking is peculiarly suited to a woman. For more than 25 years I have been teaching in the public schools, with no thought but the advancement and betterment—mentally and morally—of the boys and girls of the county. I came from a race of Democrats, who from the days of Jefferson have never wavered in their faith, and am the first one of the race to ask reward from the people. I have ever stood firm for strictly moral character as a necessary qualification for a teacher. I have frankly denounced evil and commended good. With these statements of my claims, I place my cause in the hands of the men who will vote November 8th, and the women who are interested in education. Thanking my friends for their efforts and asking them to continue in the work so well begun, I am,

Very Respectfully,

NANNIE D. BRISTOW.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all Druggists.

Remember the date of R. B. Huey's sale, Tuesday, October 11th.

For Sale—Fresh Cow.—Apply to L. A. Tanner.

The fiscal court was in session yesterday with all the justices of the peace present. The court ordered that the new bridge at Union be received as county property. R. E. Cason and D. E. Castleman were appointed to have wood work of the jail painted, and the grand jury room either painted or papered. Report of superintendent of Infirmary made, and superintendent ordered to clean up peat house and grounds around it. S. Gaines appointed to make settlement with sheriff. Bradley & Gilbert allowed $17 for six registration books and certificates for incorporated towns.

LAWYERS' CONGRESS.

Universal Convention of Jurists in St. Louis.

Associate Justice Brewer Was Elected President—Ex-Secretary of State Foster Delivered the Principle Address on Arbitration.

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—The first universal congress of lawyers and jurists held under the auspices of the American Bar association convened Wednesday in festival hall at the conclusion of the American Bar association convention. Eminent lawyers and jurists from all over the world were in attendance. The congress was called to order by F. W. Lehman, of St. Louis, chairman of the exposition committee on congresses. President D. R. Francis welcomed the congress to the exposition and introduced the president of the congress, Hon. David J. Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States. President Brewer was greeted with an ovation of applause.

Former Secretary of State John W. Foster, LL.D., was introduced and made the principal address on the subject of international arbitration and The Hague tribunal. He said in part: "It has been reported in the press that the secretary of the navy has announced himself as in favor of a navy equal to the greatest navy in the world. I trust he has been misquoted. Our government should hold itself ready to enter into an agreement for international disarmament and not to the increase of the navy. This country should hold itself to other and far more peaceful pursuits in the settlement of strife than to the making of implements of destruction and death."

He then entered into an explanation of the failure of The Hague conference to effect an agreement on the subject of international disarmament. He expressed deep regret that the fruits of war made necessary the permanent increase of the American army and called attention to the prospective large increase in the annual expenditures of the government for the navy.

Senor Don Emilio Velasco, of Mexico, and J. H. Ralston, LL.D., of Washington, followed with discussions of the subject presented by Mr. Foster. Senor Velasco said in part: "The idea of international arbitration is not the creation of one man nor of any set of men, however eminent they may be, but it is the result of universal sentiment. International arbitration has at the present time three forms: (1) Arbitration in its nature transitory and for determined matters; (2) Compromisory clauses inserted in treaties to decide the questions which the interpretation and execution of the treaty may give rise to; (3) Permanent and obligatory arbitration. Treaties of arbitration in these three forms have increased in number progressively, very especially in the first two forms. The last form is the one which offers the most resistance and various attempts made to establish permanent arbitration have proven failures.

"There are two difficulties which beset arbitration in these present times the resistance on the part of some governments to permanent arbitration and the difficulty of giving judicial form to questions of a political nature. The tribunal of The Hague, created by the collective action of the nations, with its character of permanency and with rules of proceedure preyiously defined has in its support a great moral force and presents all the advantages and all the facilities which constituted tribunals offer. It is a tribunal open to all who ask its judgment and its examples and its practices will be an inducement to all the nations to entrust to it their difficulties for settlement."

INTERNATIONAL LAW CONGRESS.

Announcement of a Second Call For Peace Conference Discussed.

Edinburgh, Sept. 29.—The conference of the constitute of international law, which began here September 22, concluded Wednesday. President Roosevelt's announcement that he will shortly call a second peace conference at The Hague was discussed. While the conference did not pass a further definite resolution on the cubject, it gave evidence of undoubted sympathy with this effort to further the cause of arbitration.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

A Man Fatally Wounded and His Wife and Child Seriously Hurt.

Cairo, Ill., Sept. 29.—While Kink Head, a farmer, living four miles from Clinton, Ky., a small town 20 miles south of here, was standing with his wife and child on their front porch Wednesday night they were all shot from ambush. Head was fatally wounded and the woman and child seriously hurt. Head had acne trouble with his neighbors. The sheriff has gone to the scene.

CONNECTICUT LAUNCHED.

Estimated 30,000 People Witnessed the Vessel Glide Into the Water.

New York, Sept. 30.—Although successfully launched Thursday, the battleship Connecticut did not have her bottle of wine broken by Miss Alice R. Welles, who had been selected as sponsor for the ship. She threw the bottle at the bows as the ship began to move off the ways, but it failed to break when it rtruck the vessel's side. Secretary of the Navy Morton and Rr. Adm. Rodgers stood beside Miss Welles. Rr. Adm. Rodgers attempted to grasp the bottle as it rebounded, but failed and the ship was moving off into the water when a workman on the deck seized the string that held the bottle, and dashed the glass receptacle of the champagne against the side of the ship, shattering it to pieces to the relief of the superstitious. This was the only variation of the prearranged plan, despite the many sensational stories of attempts to do the vessel damage.

The navy yard was crowded, it be ing estimated that almost 30,000 persons witnessed the launching. Every point of vantage was occupied. Stands for invited guests had been erected abont the big red hull, and outside of this was a fence behind which the majority of visitors were kept.

Soon after 11 o'clock the cautionary flag was run up on the huge crane, over the bow, and a few minutes later the warning to "get away" was given and to the accompaniment of creaking timbers, booming guns, sirens and whistles, the big red hull slid into the water at 11:16. It took just 26 seconds for the Connecticut to clear the ways.

After the launching several hundred guests were entertained at luncheon at the Officers' club, at which Secretary Morton was the guest of honor. A reception was also held at the naval branch of the Y. M. C. A., where a thousand were entertained. Miss Helen M. Gould received. Secretary Morton and Gov. Chamberlain were cheered by the men as they entered the building and both made informal speeches.

The Connecticut is one of the largest and most formidable warships in the world. Her displacement is 16,000 tons, horse power 16,500 and cost $5,212,000. Her main battery consists of 4 12-inch breech-loading rifles, 8 8-inch breech-loading rifles and 12 7-inch breech-loading rifles; her secondary battery consists of 20 3-inch rapid-fire guns, 12 3-pounder semf-automatic guns, 8 automatic 1-pounders, 2 3-inch field guns and 8 machine guns. Miss Alice Welles, the fair sponsor of the battleship, is the granddaughter of Gideon Welles, who was secretary of the navy in Lincoln's and Johnson's cabinets. Her home is at Hartford, Ct.

PURE FOOD CONGRESS.

Charges of Bribery Preferred Against Certain State Food Commissioners.

St. Louis, Sept. 30.—As a result of charges of bribery preferred against certain state food commissioners by T. N. Barrett, editor of a New York trade journal, at Thursday's session of the International Pure Food Congress, a committee of investigation was appointed and instructed to go over the ground with Mr. Barrett and conduct a thorough inquiry.

Mr. Barrett asserted that he could prove that certain state food commissioners accepted emoluments in return for extending immunity from the provisions of the pure food laws of the different states.

A NEW BATTLESHIP.

She Will Carry 12 Heavy Turret Guns of Not Less Than 10 Inches Caliber.

Washington, Sept. 30.—On the recommendation of the general board of the navy the board of construction has requested the bureau of construction and repairs to draw plans for a battleship which shall carry 12 heavy turret guns of not less than 10 inches caliber and at least four of which shall be 12 inches and the secondary battery of not more than three-inch guns. It is expected that this type, if found practicable, will be adopted for the next battleship authorized by congress.

SENATOR HOAR DEAD.

Passed Away at His Home in Worcester, Mass.

There Were Present at His Bedside His Son, Gen. Rockwood Hoar, His Daughter, Mary Hoar, and Dr. Warren R. Gilman.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—George Frisbie Hoar, senior senator from Massachusetts, died at his home in this city at 1:35 o'clock Friday morning. The end followed a period of unconsciousness that had continued since early Tuesday and came so gently that only the attending physicians were aware of the exact moment of dissolution.

The attending physicians despaired of the senator's life six weeks ago, but such was the vitality exhibited by their distinguished patient that even they were surprised and the public was at times led to cherish a faith in an ultimate recovery.

On Sunday last, however, all hope was abandoned after a last unsuccessful attempt to administer medicine and nourishment. Brief intervals were followed by longer durations of unconsciousness until Tuesday morning, when the venerable statesman sank into a state of coma from which all efforts to rouse him proved futile.

During the last hours there was not a movement of the body and only a scarcely perceptible pulse evidenced the final struggle.

There were present at the bedside when death came the senator's son, Gen. Rockwood Hoar; his daughter, Mary Hoar, and Dr. Warren R. Gilman, who for weeks has been in almost constant attendance upon the senator.

Intelligence of Senator Hoar's demise was first communicated by telephone from the residence to the press by Dr. Gilman. Immediately after a prearranged signal was transmitted on the fire alarm system and the long dreaded tidings were conveyed to the people of the city by the tolling of the church bells.

Arrangements were made to notify the public in this manner when the physicians attending him decided that the venerable legislator was on his death bed.

Senator Hoar had been in ill health since last winter and even when attending the sessions of the senate he was obliged to exercise extreme care lest his exertions should overcome him. At that time he was troubled with lumbago and the death of his wife in Washington proved such a blow that he never recovered entirely from its effects.

Toward the close of the last session of congress he was frequently absent from the sessions of the senate and remained at his hotel.

He came to his home here soon after the adjournment, apparently recovered from the attack of lumbago. Late in May he attended the biennial celebration in the town of Sutton, Worcester county, and made a speech of more than a half hour's duration in the open air at the dedication of a memorial tablet to Gen. Rufus Putnam on the site of Putnam's birthplace. Mr. Hoar made an historical address, eulogizing Gen. Putnam as one of the country's greatest men.

A few weeks later Senator Hoar spoke at a special session of court when eulogies were delivered on the life of Col. E. B. Stoddard, a life long friend of the senator, and he also made an informal afternoon address at the English high school on the occasion of the presentation to the city of some copies of Stuart's portrait of Washington by the Daughters of the Revolution.

This was Senator Hoar's last appearance in public life. During the latter part of July and up to August 17 he remained in his home and much of the time stayed in bed. He received visitors daily and dictated many letters to his secretary.

Will Be Paid During Working Hours.

Washington, Sept. 30.—An order was issued at the navy department providing that all employes of the navy yards and stations in the United States shall be paid during working hours. The labor unions have long objected to having their members paid off after working hours.

THE ISTHMIAN CANAL.

About 12,000 Laborers, Half of Whom Are Skilled, Are at Work.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—John F. Wallace, chief engineer of the Panama canal, delivered an address on "The Isthmian Canal" at a banquet given him here Friday night by 400 members of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at the Auditorium hotel.

Mr. Wallace said, in part: "The work before us now is to determine the most practical plan and whether the canal is to be on the level of the sea or above. Estimates on a canal 90 feet above the sea level have been placed at $144,000,000 for construction work, $40,000,000 to France and $10,000,000 to the Panama government. On my arrival in Panama three months ago I placed eight parties in the field for exploration purposes. Were we to choose the plans providing for 90 feet above the sea level a number of dams would be necessary. After considerable investigation we found that solid rock necessary for proper foundation would not be found less than 150 feet below the surface of the earth. With the sea level canal one dam at the Pacific end of the canal is all that is necessary. While the cost of the latter form of construction is higher, the results would be better and the canal could at any time be changed. As yet it has not been definitely decided which form of canal will be accepted, as the canal commission has not received the report of my investigations.

"Nothing serious is expected from the labor problem, as has been reported. About 12,000 laborers, half of whom are skilled workmen, are at work at present. While the efficiency of their work is not as great as can be secured, still it is adapted to the climate, as the cities bordering on the canal are almost uninhabitable to outsiders because of their poor sanitary conditions."

INJUNCTION ISSUED.

Mine Owners Restrained From Compelling Miners To Forsake Union.

Leadville, Col., Oct. 1.—Judge F. M. Owers Friday issued an injunction against the members of the Leadville Mining District association, restraining them from proceeding further to compel miners to forsake the Western Federation of Miners and take out association cards in order to retain their positions in the mines of the camp. Nearly 2,000 cards had been issued by the association when their work in this direction was interrupted Friday. The application for an injunction was made by the president and secretary of the local miners' union. The defendants named comprise nearly every mine owner and manager in the camp. They are restrained from discriminating against union miners.

THE AGE LIMIT.

Over a Thousand Employes of the Pennsylvania System Discharged.

Wellsville, O., Oct. 1.—Over one thousand employes of the Pennsylvania system northwest, and the Pennsylvania southwest, left the service of the company Friday night because of a general order that has been issued and made operative. No employe of the company who was hired after he reached the age of 35 is to be retained. If a man was hired before he was 35, then he retains his position. Station employes, roadmen and shop employes feel the force of this order.

OPERATOR'S WINDFALL.

CAN DRINK TROUBLE.

That's One Way to Get It.

Although they won't admit it many people who suffer from sick headaches and other ails get them straight from the coffee they drink and it is easily proved if they're not afraid to leave it to a test as in the case of a lady in Connellsville.

"I had been a sufferer from sick headaches for twenty-five years and anyone who has ever had a bad sick headache knows what I suffered. Sometimes three days in the week I would have to remain in bed, at other times I couldn't lie down the pain would be so great. My life was a torture and if I went away from home for a day I always came back more dead than alive.

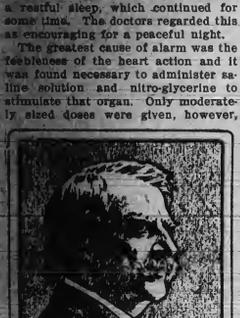
"One day I was telling a woman my troubles and she told me she knew that it was probably coffee caused it. She said she had been cured by stopping coffee and using Postum Food Coffee and urged me to try this food drink.

"That's how I came to send out and get some Postum and from that time I've never been without it for it suits my taste and has entirely cured all of my old troubles. All I did was to leave off the coffee and tea and drink well made Postum in its place. This change has done me more good than everything else put together.

"Our house was like a drug store for my husband bought everything he heard of to help me without doing any good but when I began on the Postum my headaches ceased and the other troubles quickly disappeared. I have a friend who had an experience just like mine and Postum cured her just as it did me.

"Postum not only cured the headaches but my general health has improved and I am much stronger than before. I now enjoy [illegible] Postum more than [illegible] Read [illegible] given by Postum Co.

[illegible] ILL.



[illegible] Marked Symptoms of Trouble.

[illegible] Spells Prompted the End Was [illegible] and His Condition Encouraging.

[illegible] Sept. 30.—Postmaster [illegible] Payne is seriously [illegible] at the Hotel Arlington. Marked symptoms of [illegible] trouble have developed and his condition became so serious during the day as to cause grave concern. Mr. Payne returned recently from a trip in the west and appeared to be feeling much improved condition, but his health has been poor for a long time.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The condition of Postmaster General Payne, whose serious illness was announced Thursday night, continued extremely grave throughout today. There were times during the day, notably in the early morning and late in the afternoon, when the attending physicians believed the end was near at hand, but the patient responded to the heroic remedies applied and seemed to regain some of the lost ground. Friday night at about 9 o'clock Mr. Payne fell into a restful sleep, which continued for some time. The doctors regarded this as encouraging for a peaceful night.

The greatest cause of alarm was the feebleness of the heart action and it was found necessary to administer saline solution and nitro-glycerine to stimulate that organ. Only moderately sized doses were given, however, and in each case the response was gratifying.

Washington, Oct. 3.—After a day filled with strong hopes, alternating with the gravest fears of almost immediate dissolution, Postmaster General Payne's condition late Sunday night was declared by his physicians to be decidedly more encouraging, but they are unwilling to hazard an opinion as to the future. In the early hours his heart action became decidedly weaker with resultant feebleness of pulse and unconsciousness. At times he suffered intense pain and once or twice he cried out in his agony. These paroxysms were followed by periods of exhaustion with brief intervals of comparative freedom from pain, but the heart action continued to give the physicians the greatest concern.

Several times during the day the pulse became so feeble that it seemed it must cease altogether and at one time the physicians said the postmaster general was as near death as few ever get and survive the day. At 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the doctors fully believed that the end was at hand, and the family, who were at dinner, were summoned.

Early Monday morning Dr. Magruder left the sick room for his home, leaving Dr. Grayson in charge. Dr. Magruder's report was that Mr. Payne's improvement continued and if this rate of improvement continues the next bulletin would doubtless be gratifying. He said that the postmaster general was retaining his nourishment and had had no sinking spells during the evening when he awoke from his sleep, which was necessarily fitful, he was able to recognize those about him. Dr. Magruder added that Mr. Payne's heart action continued good.

THE INDIAN SCHOOLS.

Annual Report of Miss Estelle Reel, the Superintendent.

Washington, Sept. 30.—In her annual report to the commission of Indian affairs, Miss Estelle Reel, superintendent of Indian schools, says the past year has shown marked improvements in the methods of instruction and that gratifying progress has been made in teaching English. The report says that on every reservation where day schools are located the latter's good effects upon the older Indians can plainly be seen. The day school system, it is stated, has reached its best developments on the Pine Ridge and Rosebud reservations. Special attention has been given to agriculture and industrial training in Indian school work.

FLOOD IN NEW MEXICO.

Half a Town Destroyed and a Dozen People Drowned.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 3.—From all indications now at hand from recent reports received from the overflowed country in the Brownsville section, it appears that there is a strong probability that the bed of the Rio Grande will be shown when the waters have receded to be occupying the bed of the Arroyo Colorado, which years ago was its original bed. Should this be true the people of this region of Texas who would be bereft of the river would suffer greatly. The city of Brownsville, one of the rapidly growing towns of the state, would be cut off from the river, the miles of irrigation ditches and canals dug would be rendered worthless and property values dependent upon the Rio Grande's flow will be materially cut down. This would apply to considerable area, being the land below the Arroyo into which the river is running 12 miles above Brownsville.

The national title to this property is not in question. About seven years ago a joint commission appointed by the respective governments of the United States and Mexico owing to the troublesome habit of the river changing its course hit upon a compromise boundary and two years ago marked it with monuments. The boundary rests where they stand, however the river may shift about.

Las Vegas, N. M., Oct. 3.—Half the town of Watrous was destroyed by the flood and at least 12 persons were drowned. Among these were the three children of J. A. Stevens, Felix Villaret, his wife, two sisters and several children and O. F. Porter. J. E. Stevens and his wife escaped and have been brought here. They are in a critical condition. Many persons were rescued from trees and housetops. The greatest damage was around the junction of Mora and Sapelloire creeks. The rock crusher, the great iron bridge and much track at Watrous were washed away. The Gallinas river formed a new channel here. In the Gallinas canyon the dams of the Agua Pura Co. broke, bringing a terrific flood on the city. The Montezuma Hot Springs track went out in many places. Half a dozen bridges were destroyed and the Montezuma bath houses were partly carried away. For two blocks on Bridge street every business house was flooded.

CAMPAIGN BUTTONS.

A Blunder Caused Democratic Committee to Issue a Double Set.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—A blunder has caused the democratic national committee to issue a double set of campaign buttons. A large number of the buttons were delivered at headquarters recently, when the managers were startled to find the lineaments of Parker and Davis, both done in a hectic pink, staring from a background of gold.

Thousands of buttons had been expressed to western states by the time the discovery was made, and a fear that the Bryanites might take umbrage led the leaders to place an order for a smaller button with Parker and Davis enscounced in an environment of silver. These were sent to Nebraska and other western states, while the gold faced buttons were recalled and distributed elsewhere.

A FLOOR COLLAPSED.

About 150 Persons Were Precipitated Into the Basement and Many Hurt.

Adams, Mass., Oct. 3.—While Rt. Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, Roman Catholic bishop, of Springfield, was laying the cornerstone of St. Stanislaus Polish church here Sunday afternoon a floor collapsed, precipitating 150 persons into the basement. Thirty-seven persons were so injured as to require medical treatment. Of this number the injuries of 16 are serious and in one case may prove fatal. The others sustained minor cuts and bruises. Bishop Beaven and several of the priests assisting him were slightly hurt.

SEVERE ENGAGEMENT.

The Russians Attacked the Japs Near Pigeon Bay.

Apparently They Attempted to Capture the Heavy Guns Mounted by the Japanese—Loss on Both Sides Heavy.

London, Oct. 1.—The failure of the latest Japanese attempt to drive out the Port Arthur fleet and reduce the fortress has led, according to the Daily Telegraph's Chee Foo correspondent, to the decision that the Japanese must go into winter quarters, Japanese officers admitted that Gen. Stoessel is making a superb stand.

"Accordingly," the correspondent says, "permanent fortifications affording excellent shelter are being constructed outside the Russian main line of defenses and warm clothing is being brought up for the troops. Reinforcements are continuously arriving. Finding it impossible to hold outer forts, even when they are captured, owing to the enfilading fire, the only alternative left the Japanese is to cut off supplies and communications."

The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Sinmintin states that the Chinese authorities there have issued an order forbidding the sale of goods to the Russians on the ground that it would constitute a breach of neutrality.

Tien-Tsin, Oct. 1.—Russian officers here admit that it is the intention of the remaining Russian war vessels at Port Arthur to attempt to escape. They say that they expected the movement one week ago, and that it may now be expected daily.

Mukden, Oct. 1.—A great change in the situation here has occurred. The Japanese now appear anxious to act on the defensive, and have fortified a position northwest of the Yentai mines.

According to the best estimates obtainable, the Japanese army confronting Gen. Kuropatkin comprises a grand total of 180 battalions. Allowing 800 men to a battalion there are 144,000 infantry. In addition there are 6,300 cavalry and 638 guns. The distribution of the Japanese forces is as follows: One division at Bentsiaputze, two divisions at the Yentai mines, four divisions on the railway a little north of Liao Yang, one division westward near Hiameadenz and one division at Sandepu.

Che Foo, Oct. 3.—Severe fighting, the Russians being the aggressors, occurred September 23 and 29 on the west shore of Liaoti promontory near Pigeon bay, according to a report brought by Chinese who left Port Arthur September 30. The Russians already apparently are aiming to capture the heavy guns which the Japanese have mounted in that vicinity. The Russians were in considerable force and they made several sorties, dragging field artillery with them. They were unsuccessful, however. Three junks with 160 coolies arrived here Sunday. They left Port Arthur because they were forced to carry the wounded and bury the dead. They also were afraid that eventually they would have no food, although rice is plentiful now, according to their stories. They further say that the Russians lost heavily during the attacks of September 19 and September 23, but the Japanese loss was much heavier.

Several of the Chinese who were employed in carrying dead say that the dead were so numerous that they were unable to form anything like an estimate of the number who fell in attacking and defending the supplementary forts near Itz mountain. Since the battle both sides continue to shell at intervals daily.

Tokio, Oct. 3.—The Russians are reported to be desperately endeavoring to retake their lost positions, including Fort Kuropatkin, in the hope of restoring the water supply of Port Arthur. They are said to have repeatedly assaulted the Japanese after shelling from neighboring forts and batteries. The Japanese continue to hold the positions. Both sides are said to have suffered severely. The newly mounted heavy Japanese guns are said to command the entire harbor. The position of the remnant of the Russian Port Arthur fleet is said to be precarious and it is believed the vessels must soon emerge or be destroyed.

The Old Transport Burnside.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 1.—The old federal transport "Burnside," which was sunk during the operations about this city in the early sixties, was raised from the bed of the Tennessee river by recent high water and landed on a shoal where parts of the hulk and the boilers are visible.

The famous actor, who has been seriously ill at his Buzzard's Bay home.

who heard him make the announcement. Mr. Jefferson arrived here from Boston, where he had rested a few days, recuperating from his recent illness at Buzzard's Bay, which caused the abandonment of his fall tour.

He is convalescent, but still must be judicious in guarding his returning strength, and will remain here three weeks, after which he will go by easy stages to Florida, stopping in Washington for a time and again in Atlanta.

A STREET CAR ACCIDENT.

One Person Killed, One Fatally and 13 Seriously Injured.

San Francisco, Oct. 3.—Frederick Fendsen, a bartender, was killed; Sergt. Harry Curren, of the Thirteenth United States infantry, fatally injured, and 13 other persons severely injured in a street car accident in the Richmond district Sunday night. A big electric car of the Eddy street line was coming in from the park and chutes crowded to its utmost capacity, many standing on the platforms. In coming down a grade the brakes of the car refused to work and the car acquired fearful momentum. Just as a curve was reached the motorman succeeded in throwing on all the brakes and the car came to a stop with such suddenness that a large number of persons were thrown off.

CRAZED FROM FEVER.

Four Men and a Woman Killed By Charles Geitrell.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 3.—A report from O'Brien's Landing, Mo., says that four men and a Negro woman were killed there by Charles Geitrell, a Memphian, employed as a clerk in a commissary store at that place. Geitrell, it is said, was mad from fever and he rushed from his bed into the street in his night robe, having obtained possession of a gun. He later escaped into the woods. A sheriff and posse are in pursuit.

OPEN SALOONS ON SUNDAY.

Lexington Mayor and City Officials Threatened With Indictments.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 1.—The grand jury Friday threatened to indict the mayor and other city officials for allowing saloons to remain open on Sundays and between midnight and 4 a. m. on week days and for allowing gambling. The Law and Order league, composed principally of preachers and church people, made a strong protest to the grand jury against an "open town." Preparations have been made to run the town "wide open" the next two weeks during the trots. The mayor refused to give a promise to close the saloons and gambling houses, but called a meeting of the police commissioners for Saturday morning. It is reported that indictments have been drawn against all the city officials, even including the police and detective forces, and that the indictments are being held up pending a compliance with the demands of the grand jury. The grand jury intended to adjourn Saturday, but will remain in session another week to see that its demands are complied with by the city officials.

INSTANTLY KILLED.

His Aunt Was Taken For a Ghost By Tisdale and He Fired.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 1.—Mrs. Eliza Foster was accidentally killed by her nephew, Walter Tisdale, with whom she made her home at White's Station. Mrs. Foster arose Thursday night about 11 o'clock and went out into the yard. She wore her night garments, and making a ghostly figure in the moonlight, frightened Tisdale's wife, who, waking, noticed some one in the yard.

His wife's screams awoke Tisdale, who also saw Mrs. Foster's figure advancing toward the house, and he quickly grabbed his shotgun. Although he ordered Mrs. Foster to halt, she, doubtless failing to hear or understand him, steadily came forward, whereupon Tisdale raised his gun and fired, killing his aunt instantly. Tisdale is nearly distracted.

A KENTUCKY COUPLE.

They Were Lost Among Strangers at Anderson, Ind.

Anderson, Ind., Sept. 30.—Mr. and Mrs. John Adams, recently married, of Falmouth, Ky., were lost among strangers here Thursday. They came to visit "Poke" Smith, the bridegroom said, but he could not be located here. The bewilderment of the couple was explained when Adams told the police that he could neither read nor write, and that he and his bride knew little of the world outside of their home county. The police report that Adams and his bride declared they did not know what state they were in, and were guided to this city by a card they carried to present to trainmen and ticket agents of railways. The couple concluded to stay here.

CREATED INDIGNATION.

The Freeing of Murderer Butcher By Acting Gov. Thorne.

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 29.—Acting Gov. W. P. Thorne's pardon of Clem Buchter, who killed his daughter and shot his wife, has aroused great indignation here, where the crime was committed. Commonwealth Attorney Joseph M. Huffaker said Buchter slew his own daughter because she refused to submit to his unnatural passion, and shot her mother, who attempted to prevent murder. Lawyer Ment O'Neal, who defended Buchter, said the pardon was obtained without his knowledge. Acting Gov. Thorne, in a statement, said he pardoned Buchter believing that he was insane, and that the shot which killed the daughter was not intended for her. Dr. Hugh E. Tobin, the physician and surgeon of the state prison, denied that he had verified a statement made to acting Gov. Thorne that Buchter had locomotor ataxia, that his eyesight is about gone and that his mind is affected. Dr. Tobin said that Buchter was neither blind nor insane.

A POKER GAME.

It Led to a Shooting in a Coroner's Office.

London, Ky., Sept. 30.—A card game at Manchester Wednesday night resulted in a fatal quarrel at an early hour Thursday morning. James Farmer, a prominent citizen of that place, and Blaine Combs were playing poker in the coroner's office in the court house.

A quarrel arose and Combs, it is said, began shooting at Farmer. Each fired one shot there and then went out and around the court house, met and fired one more shot each. Combs was shot through the breast. He died at 5:30 Thursday evening.

Combs lived at Jackson, Breathitt county, and was originally from Hindman, Knott county. Combs was unmarried.

THE REGISTRATION LAW.

It Is Held By the Court of Appeals to Be Constitutional.

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 29.—The court of appeals Wednesday reversed the finding of Special Judge W. H. Mackoy, of Covington, in the registration certificate case of Yates vs. Collins, and decided that the law is constitutional and valid. All the seven judges, incinding the two republicans, concurred in the opinion delivered by Judge Settle. The act in question provides for a registration of voters in all the incorporated cities and towns in the state and for the issuing of a registration certificate to every voter and this certificate must be presented on election day to entitle its owner to vote.

VERY little enthusiasm has been infused into the presidential campaign to date.

THE Japs have not done much towards whipping the Russians in the last ten days.

ONLY one month until the Presidential election, and nothing much is doing, but in this country a great deal of fuss can be made in one month.

THE first number of the Scott County Democrat, B. O. Gaines, editor, came to hand last Friday. The Democrat is to be a hot number politically.

Hon. H. V. McChesney made a rattling good Democratic speech at the court house, last Monday. He had a large and attentive audience.

If troubled with a weak digestion try Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They will do you good. For sale by all Druggists.

NEW YORK CITY is threatened with an epidemic of typhoid fever which the doctors fear will develop into the worst scourge that ever struck the city.

THE rain finally came and just at a time to be of very material benefit to the farmers who had small grain to sow, and much of the wheat is up and growing nicely.

THE chairman of Maine Republican State Committee stated previous to the recent election there that a majority less than 33,000 must be considered a Democratic gain. The official Republican majority was 28,000.

IF Chairman Ernst carries out his threat to put every rascally Republican in the eleventh district in the penitentiary, the legislature will have to be convened in extra session to enlarge the pen.

THE Democrats in Kentucky are doing considerable talking through their hats, and it is calculated to produce an over-confidence on the part of the voters that will be very much to the advantage of the opposite party.

THE Kentucky Court of Appeals has decided that the registration law applying to small towns that are or have been incorporated, is constitutional. It is a useless law nevertheless, and should be repealed by the next legislature.

Hon. D. Linn Gooch says he is going to do his best in assisting to roll up a big majority for Rhinock at the November election. That statement on the part of Mr. Gooch will be worth a very large number of votes to Mr. Rhinock, and is discouraging to the opposition who expected Mr. Gooch and his following to sulk in their tents.

THE recent political scrap up in the Eleventh Congressional District has done much to discourage prominent Republicans through out Kentucky, who have been so liberal with their abuse of the Democrats because of corruption in politics. They have concluded that the Eleventh can give anyother district in the State cards and spades and then win out in the matter of rascality in elections.

WHILE acting Governor, last week, Lieut-Governor Thorn pardoned a fellow who was serving a life sentence in the penitentiary for murder, and a great howl was made by several papers in the State, but the Lieutenant Governor did not try to excuse the act, but stated that when he was a candidate the point was against him that if the opportunity offered he would pardon every convict in the penitentiary, and with that being urged as an objection to him he received 200,000 votes. Thorn is an humorous cuss and the papers can make nothing off of him when they go after him, and he always gets considerable notoriety out of their attacks, which is very much to his liking.

Sunday sickness is a disease peculiar to church members and others who are expected to attend church. The attack comes on suddenly every Sunday; symptoms are felt every Saturday night, the person sleeps well and awakes feeling well, eats a hearty breakfast, but about church time the attack comes on and continues until the services are over for the morning. Then the patient feels easy and eats a hearty dinner. In the afternoon he feels much better and is able to take a walk, talk about politics and read the Sunday papers, he eats a hearty supper, but about church time he has another spell and stays at home. He retires carly and sleeps well, and awakens up Monday morning refreshed, and able to go to work and does not have any symptoms of the disease until the following Sunday. There is considerable sickness of this character in this vicinity with the indications of an alarming increase as summer approaches.—Vandalia Leader.

In the county court, Monday, F. M. Howlett's will was probated and Mrs. Mary Ann Howlett qualified as executrix. Hade Wilson was appointed administrator of the estate of James A. Wilson.

A PLEASANT TRIP.

The writer started from Cincinnati last Saturday evening for Hebron, Kentucky, to visit Viola Lodge on the occasion of a District Meeting. Arriving at the river at Anderson's Ferry at 7 p. m. instead of 6 p. m. as prearranged, he would have retraced his steps homeward but something seemed to lead him on, and on the Kentucky shore, true to his appointment, Mr. Frank Russell, of Venus Lodge, Florence, was in waiting, and in a very short time we were driven over to Hebron. Here upon entering the Lodge we found representatives from almost every Lodge in the county, especially Morning Star, of Petersburg, which was very well represented both as to numbers and talent. Many interesting subjects were discussed, and the meeting was a grand success. Messrs. H. F. Russell and W. B. Shotwell were the principal orators, and each acquitted himself with credit. Mr. Shotwell is a gentleman of ability and a most devoted Odd-Fellow, and having spent many years in the ranks he is well posted both in the history and the work. Mr. Russell is a man to whom Nature was lavish both in the distribution of brain and good qualities of heart—a typical Odd-Fellow, who has the good work at heart and in hand. Solon Early and Thos. Willis were prominent members of the order present, to each of whom Nature, in distributing gifts, was stinting only in one respect—as to covering for the head. We wonder why this is, but are lost in wonder. Many other of the choicest men—young and of middle age in Boone or anyother county were there, but space will not be absorbed in which to speak of their virtues, we can only touch the high places.

The supper comes in for its share of praise, and this is the occasion of calling forth this item, otherwise it would never have been written. It was something simply grand, and a brain more fertile than mine would fail to fittingly do justice in its praise. It was unanimously agreed that there should have been some expression of gratitude made by some of the orators present, but in the hurry of the occasion the matter of expressing our gratitude was overlooked. Not the gratitude itself, but the expression of it. It finally was given to me to voice the sentiments of the Lodge. I feel my inability to do justice; but, ladies, in your imagination I will have you each one, who, with loving hands, assisted in preparing that matchless supper to step upon that stage in the rear of the supper hall, imagine each of you seated in a chair of the most elegant upholstering, with feet imbedded in a carpet of the richest velvet. I would place around your neck a garland of sweet flowers, and on your bosom pin a lovely rose. I would step back to the front of the stage and say: "Ladies, we love you. You have shown us that you love us. God bless you. May your sweet, gentle influence continue to rule the world until it all is as pure and lovely as you are." I would bow myself away and feel that I had but feebly done justice to the occasion.

The Lodge adjourned about 12 o'clock, and we retraced our steps homeward. After a very pleasant ride we reached the ferry, where we took leave of Brother Russell, and hold him in higher esteem than ever for having been with him on this occasion.

The moon with cheeks unveiled, the stars with eyes undimmed, shed their mellow light upon the water, the hills and trees on either side forming a rich, green border, the boat resting on the shore after a busy day bore its red and green lights to warn approaching craft of danger, the silent stillness of the midnight hour, the skiff, the oarsman, the lone passenger, the noise of the oars in the oar-locks as it broke out on the stillness of the night, and you have a picture that you could see and remember, and call up for many and many years, but no artist could paint it. No artist could do it justice.

After crossing the river we waited in the still loneliness until 2 o'clock for a car, arriving at Fifth and Walnut, Cincinnati, at 2:30 a. m., where we waited until 2 a. m. for an over-the-river car. During this stay and the ride over we met with experiences unknown to us before. We were never out before at 3 o'clock a. m. Sunday. This is the hour when the bum element is on its way home after a night of debauchery. The car was full to a finish and the experience and association were a foretast of hell. I was never so impressed with what a difference there is in society. Coming out of a Lodge where Friendship, Brotherly Love and Truth prevailed into an atmosphere polluted with profanity, drunkenness and sin. The contrast was most striking.

Taking this trip as a whole, we are glad we made it. We are glad that we are an Odd-Fellow.

GONE HOME.

Mrs. Martha Bristow Passes to Her Reward.

After long weary months of patient suffering, the life of Mrs. Martha Wilson Bristow, of Union, went out to the God who gave it on the night of Sept. 25th, at 10 p. m., surrounded by her grief stricken family and other relatives and friends, who had been with her so much during her illness. She had been given very tender nursing and care by her family and physician, but they saw for days, weeks and months that she was approaching the dissolution with slow and painful steps, yet when the transition came it brought grief that only time in a measure can assuage, for out of that home went a faithful wife, devoted mother, grandmother and sister, whose godly affectionate life all these yeras had made home a "sweet haven of rest" for them all. The entire community feels this irretrievable loss, as her lovely character was an open book, pointing to better ways and higher walks in life, an inspiration to deeds of love and acts of charity. She was one whose home and presence the young people have always sought, as she was ever interested in their pleasure. As a citizen she was loved as few are; as a friend, true and loyal; as a neighbor had few equals. We all sadly miss this clear, good, useful woman. "No lovlier spirit than hers ever burst from its mortal control, into the realms of the blessed to shine" and we believe she is "crowned with honors the world could not give and wreathed with laurels that fadeth not away."

Mrs. Bristow was a christian whose faith never wavered and nowhere more beautifully exemplified than on her bed of sickness. She professed faith and united with the Old School Baptist in 1866. She was born and raised here, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Wilson. She was one of twelve children, all of whom has gone before save one sister, Mrs. Rachel Rice and two brothers, Messrs. William Wilson and Thos. Wilson, of Bagdad. She was united in marriage to Mr. Anselm Bristow, Oct. 25th, 1860, and to this union six children were born—four of whom survive her, Miss Nannie, three sons, James, Julius and Cumberland. The last two are married and live near Union, and with their wives and four bright little children—coming home to grandmother was their sweetest pleasure.

Short but impressive funeral services were conducted at the residence on Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Gregory of the Presbyterian church, in the presence of a large assembly of sympathetic relatives and friends, who with saddened hearts followed her to the cemetery, where under a canopy of beautiful flowers she was carefully laid to rest by undertaker, H. G. Blanton.

We tender our deepest heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family and our prayer is that when the summons comes that each and everyone of her loved ones, as well as ourselves, will meet her in that beautiful city of our Savior and our God.

ADDRESS

[illegible] Senator, Geo. H. Keeney, of Indiana, at the funeral of Hon. Jas. A. Wilson.

We have met here as friends and neighbors in our citizen capacity to pay our respects to the memory of one who has so long been a resident of this community, whose life has been exemplary and honorable. I am not here to solve the riddle of death. We know that birth, maturity and decay comprise the three stages of mental and physical existence. We may speculate, we may reason, we may philosophize, we may remember, but we know nothing beyond the cradle or beyond the tomb, whence came we, wither do we journey. We may delve in the bowels of mother earth, and wrest its secrets from old ocean's darkest depth, where promised he shall not unravel. Still hope and faith may whisper their true solution to his problem.

Reflection brings its sorrows on reviewing when we contemplate the lives of our illustrious dead, realize the sublimity of their acquirements and purposes, draw rich draughts from their ample stores of learning, and view the treasures they have garnered and bequeathed to all posterity. We realize that they still survive for those that follow. They yet live though they speak not. They consecrate the air with their wheeling chariots, and we may look up to them. Be of good cheer and faint not, they yet fight with and for us, when we strike for liberty, for truth and for justice. We come then to the presence of the immortal dead on this memorial morning with hearts filled with thankfulness that he lived and spoke and passed onward. That which he did and said remains to ennoble and inspire us. The mysterious visitor ever near us all called our friend away and so tenderly led him from us—so quietly pointed the way, that the companion of his life, keeping loving vigil heard no sound saw no change until after the departing spirit had entered upon the bright morning of that mysterious morn which shall know no night.

James Alexander Wilson was born near Culpepper Court House, Madison Co., Va., Nov. 17th, 1814. When he was ten years old his parents moved to Boone County Ky., first settling near Petersburg. In 1826 they, with this subject, came to Rabbit Hash, where he has since lived. In 1842 (62 years ago) on the 2d day of October, he united in marriage with Jane K. Stephens, who survives him. To them were born 13 children, 7 of whom are now living. About the time of his marriage he took charge of the Rising Sun and Rabbit Hash ferry, which he operated for 8 years. In 1850 he moved to his late home, which he occupied until his death. He was twice elected a member of the Kentucky Legislature, 1867-68, and 1873-74, where he served with honor to himself and credit to his constituency; served his county as school commissioner and was for many years deputy county clerk. Mr. Wilson was a strong character and a broad minded man, possessed of much general information; was kind hearted and of a most lovable disposition. Through the kindness of nature he had been permitted to retain his faculties in his old age, making his declining years pleasant to himself and much enjoyed by his family and acquaintances. He was permitted to live in the most interesting period of not only his country, but of the world. The practical application of steam power, the construction of great systems of railroads, the discoveries and manifold use of electricity, the building of cities, the progress of education. He saw the ruthless hand destroy the great forest of the Ohio valley and make room for wheat fields, factories and shops. He has seen our nation stand with her hands dripping in the warm blood of her people, and yet, saw that same beloved country beat her swords into plow shares; take the blood bespeckled charger from before the cannon and place him before the plow, the new turned and fragrant earth clinging to the hoofs, stilled with human blood. He saw his country grow from a population of nine and three quarter millions to eighty-six millions. Few men, indeed, have been permitted to see and enjoy so much.

The shades of sadness gather thickly about us as we thus behold the passing of [illegible] old Kentucky patriarchs, they who laid the foundation for the upbuilding of that high moral character ornamented with charitable love, as we have seen exemplified in the Kentucky Home. That home which he [illegible] and [illegible] of Mother Earth and heap over all that is mortal a mound of earth. The storms of winter will beat down upon it, the snow of heaven will fondle over it, and in the spring time the grass will grow upon it and the birds sing their sweet songs in the boughs overhead. The brook murmuring low to itself, will wind its old familiar way, time will roll on, and old Mother Earth will tumble in on the great caldron, new worlds be brought forth and our friend and brother be in peace. When, I on the brink, in the very shadow of death with love's arms around him and loves ecstacy in his veins, was asked, if his soul chosen mate should ever see him more, he answered "I have asked that dreadful question of the hills that look eternal, of the running streams that lucid flow forever, of the stars whose fields of azure my spirit has sought to tread, all were dumb; but now while I thus gaze upon thy living face, I feel that the love that kindles through its beauty can never wholly perish. "We shall meet again, Clemantina."

To the Democrats of Boone County.

On October 15th, 1902, I was appointed by the County Court to take Mr. Geo. Anderson to the Asylum at Lakeland, Ky., and upon Mr. D. E. Castleman's request, he was selected by the County Court, to go as a guard with me to Lakeland. On the 20th day of October, according to the records of the County Court Order Book Q, page 552, Mr. Castleman was allowed the sum of $11.76 as mileage in acting as guard to Lakeland, and on the 4th day of Nov., 1902, he drew said amount of $11.76 from the Sheriff, it being 6c a mile each way from Burlington to Lakeland. Mr. Castleman did not go any further with me than to Walton, but remained on the train and went somewhere about Lexington to meet some members of his family, and the only services that Mr. Castleman rendered was to furnish his carriage and horses to take Mr. Anderson and myself to Erlanger. This he did without my request. I am informed that Mr. Castleman has stated regarding the payment of said amount of $11.76, that he had a specific contract with me and that I drew the amount of $11.76 and paid half or all of said amount to him. I wish to state that any statement made by Mr. Castleman to the effect that he had a specific contract with me or that I drew the amount of $11.76 or any part of it or any other amount from the Sheriff or State and paid said amount or any part of it to him is absolutely false, and I now ask all concerned to examine the records of the County Court Clerk's office, Order Book Q, page 552, and the receipt held by the Sheriff for a correct account of the Lakeland affair. I publish this card as the only means of setting myself right before the people of the county in this matter. Very Respectfully,

J. M. EDDINS.

The Boones defeated the Athletics of Cincinnati, at the local park, last Saturday afternoon, in a poorly played game by a score of 19 to 6. On Monday, the Boones went up against the strong Blue Licks, of Cincinnati, and were defeated in a well played game of 10 innings, by a score of 6 to 5. It was a pitchers battle from start to finish. Struck out by Hughes, 15; by Furgerson, 15; hits, off of Hughes, 6, off Furgerson, 6.

The Odd-Fellows' district meeting held with Viola lodge at Hebron, last Saturday night was an event long to be remembered in fraternity circles in that part of the county. The members, assisted by many of the good women of the town and vicinity had made ample provisions to entertain the very large crowd. After the regular lodge meeting everybody was invited to the town hall, where a sumptuous supper in the preparation of which a goodly number of ladies had spared no pains, was enjoyed. Everything that the season affords was set before the visitors and to say they did the supper ample justice only partially expresses it. After supper the exercises at the hall were resumed and several good speeches were made on subjects that were submitted for discussion. The meeting was another grand success much to the delight of all concerned, and to the ladies who labored so earnestly to make the supper the grand feature it was, too much praise cannot be accorded.

A Withdrawal Card.

Walton, Ky., Oct. 1, 1904.

To the Democrats of Boone county:—Five or six weeks ago, when the Democratic primary was called to select candidates for the various offices, believing that I had an equal chance with any one else that might decide to make the race for County Attorney, I decided to and did enter the race. I have made a thorough and vigorous canvass up to this time. As much as I regret it, I now feel called upon to say to you that I do not believe I can secure the nomination. I am under great obligations to my friends who have so earnestly given me their aid and encouragement in my race. I now withdraw my name from before the Democratic voters of Boone county for the high office of County Attorney.

Co-Laborers with Christ

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Oct. 2, 1904.

Text:—"They went forth and preached every where, the Lord working with them."—Mark 16:20.

HERE is no more encouraging message for the Christian than these closing words of Mark's Gospel. The Lord crucified and risen and ascended and yet present with His disciples, directing their energies, helping them bear the burdens, and encouraging them in the places of darkness and discouragement. Not working alone, but the Lord working with them. I remember as a boy that the heaviest task seemed easy and delightful when father turned in and helped. The moment he began working with me, that moment I knew the task was going to be accomplished, and discouragement and weariness vanished. One instance in particular comes to my mind. A ton of coal had been delivered to our next-door neighbor and dumped in front of the house. There was no one to carry it into the woodshed, and my brother and I were ambitious to undertake the task and earn a bit of spending money. With the vision before our eyes of the good things we were going to buy with that money, the pile of coal did not look very big, and we went bravely at it. But it was a pretty big task for two such little chaps as we were, for brother was not yet ten and I was two years his junior, and so after the first few scuttlefuls had been carried in, the coal pile looked bigger than ever. Every time we came back with the empty bucket it seemed as though the pile had mysteriously grown in our absence. The more we carried in the more it seemed that we would never be able to finish the task. The afternoon dragged itself out and our trips from the coal pile to the woodshed became less and less frequent, until as twilight began to fall we were ready to give up our task. Father came home just at this time and, quickly grasping the situation, encouraged us to keep on, saying he would come and help us. That promise put new life into our tired little bodies, and by the time he came out we were hard at it again. And with father working with us, how much smaller that pile of coal looked. There was no more doubt that the task would be completed, and there was a new interest in the work, for father was there to encourage and help. Father working with us made all the difference between discouragement and failure and encouragement and success. And this illustrates in part at least what it means when Scripture declares that the disciples went everywhere preaching, "the Lord working with them."

AND where this was true in the case of the early disciples, it is also true to-day, and has been so all through the centuries which have intervened. Scripture presents some striking contrasts, but there is none more striking and remarkable than that which we find in the account of the disciples immediately following Jesus' crucifixion and up to the day of Pentecost, and that following that day when they were endued with power by the descent of the Holy Spirit. Before that day what do we see? The few doubting, trembling disciples gathered in the upper room behind locked doors or else cautiously and with great fear moving through the streets and seeking to escape notice and trying to hide their identity. But after the day of Pentecost, how striking is the contrast! No longer hiding in the upper room, no longer fearing the Jewish rulers, no longer seeking to avoid the multitudes in the streets, they come forth and boldly preach their message.

DO YOU not recall the words of Jesus wherein He told His disciples and wherein He tells you and me that "Without Me ye can do nothing." And the very last promise which He left with His disciples was "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the age." If it is true that "Without Jesus we can do nothing" in His service that counts for anything in His estimation; if it is true that Jesus is with His disciples always, then it must follow that Jesus is really and truly present with His disciples and is working with them. This is the declaration of our text, and it explains the fearlessness of the disciples, their faithfulness, their untiring zeal, their wonderful success. Nothing is more destructive of efficient and persistent effort than the thought that one is utterly alone in a great undertaking. The army, leaderless and with its brave general dead upon the field of battle, is disheartened and discouraged and at the mercy of the onrushing enemy. And the Christian without the realization of the presence of the Great Captain, the Conquering King, is hopelessly weak and ineffectual as a soldier of the cross of Jesus Christ. But if he feels and knows that His Lord is at his side ready to strike when he strikes, ready to press forward, ready [illegible] falters, ready to [illegible] energies, the wonderful success of the early disciples as they went everywhere preaching is the evidence indisputable that the Lord was working with them. The fact that "mightily grew the Word and prevailed" emphasizes the perfect union which prevailed between the human and the Divine—the one the instrument, the other the guiding and enabling power; the one the channel, the other the life-giving current flowing through it to the blessing of all who came in touch with it. "This blessed partnership has never been repealed," says Rev. Dr. F. B. Meyer. "Jesus has never withdrawn from the compact, and if we could only dare to count and reckon on Him we would find that He was cooperating in church, and Sunday school, and mission station." However, there are certain conditions which must prevail before the Christian can realize this blessed union, this cooperation of the Lord, unto whom has been given "all power in Heaven and in earth." The Lord cannot work with some of His followers because they have not met His conditions, and many Christians fail to realize the blessed presence and power of Jesus because they persist in doing in their own strength and their own way His work.

LET us consider more fully what is involved in these five rules. First of all is emphasized the necessity of a clean heart and life. The Lord never yet used a vessel which was foul with willful and persistent and hidden sin. The Christian may keep the outside clean and polished. He may deceive men as he engages in the Lord's work, but he cannot deceive God, and if within the heart and hidden in the life there are sin and indulgence which he is not willing to give up, then the Lord cannot work with such a one. And what is more sad and awful than for the Christain to be doing work in the Lord's name while the Lord is absent from him? He is building apart from God. He is putting up the wood, hay and stubble which will be destroyed by the searching fire of God's testing judgment. The Psalmist asks: "Who shall ascend into the hill of the Lord? And who shall stand in His holy place?" And God replies: "He that hath clean hands and a pure heart." It is such that the Lord works with to accomplish His purposes among men.

BUT not only must there be the clean heart to enjoy the cooperation of the Lord. We must seek His glory and not our own. Herein lies a constant danger. The heart is so subtle that even the most humble and consecrated Christians are apt to be deceived as to the motives which dominate the life. It is only as the Christian realizes the danger of unconsciously seeking one's own glory, instead of the glory of God, that he is able to detect the weakness and guard against it. Self should be obliterated and forgotten as far as possible in the Master's service. This was the first of four rules which governed the life of that brave soldier and devoted Christian, Gen. Gordon, better known as "Chinese" Gordon. And the other three were a help to the realization of this holy ambition to forget self and glorify God. They were: Absence of all pretence; indifference to the world's opinions, and absorption in the will of God. Ah, how richly would the power and presence of God be manifested in and through us if we maintained this attitude towards God and the world. We must seek God's glory if we would enjoy His cooperation. First, then, is the clean heart and life, that is, condition. Second, the desire for God's glory and not our own, that is, attitude; and the third point has to do with equipment. What shall we use if we are to have the Lord's cooperation? Need we ask when God has promised so repeatedly to richly honor and bless His Word, "It shall not return unto Me void?"

CONDITION, attitude, equipment, and then unity—Christian unity, which made the early church such a victorious and aggressive church. The Lord cannot work where there is lack of harmony, where there are jealousies, where divisions separate and weaken. We need more and more of that loving fellowship and unity which prevails when the Spirit of Christ rules in the hearts of His children. Thank God there is coming to be a larger spirit of fellowship and cooperation between the followers of Christ of all denominations. The old divisions and jealousies are almost dead and gone, and in their stead we are finding a constantly increasing purpose and desire for harmony and unity in the great and blessed work of winning the world for Christ.

Faith that Christ was working with them sent the disciples forth upon their marvelously successful evangelistic journeys. Faith that Christ was with them and helping them sent Carey to India, Judson to Burma, Livingston to Africa, Moody to America and England, and in this, our day, that same faith has taken Torrey around the world, and is giving him glorious victories at the present time in England and Scotland. Oh, that we as Christians might realize how much we may do when the Lord works with us! And oh, that we might realize that to have the Lord with us we must be pure in heart and life; we must seek His glory, and His alone; we must depend upon God's Word, the mighty, invincible Sword of the Spirit; we must cultivate that loving harmony which draws together all Christian hearts in the one supreme mission of evangelizing the world, and we must in faith claim the presence of Jesus and reckoning upon His cooperation go forward attempting great things for God. When we realize all this and are obedient to the revelation [illegible] be filled with [illegible] mightiness [illegible] with us. [illegible] to Thee; and Thy [illegible] is done.

STANDING ON HIS RECORD.

MERCHANTS FAVOR PARKER

They Like Democratic Candidate Because He Is Conservative and a Fine American.

Telling evidence of the rapid drift of business men to Judge Parker is furnished by the New York Herald's careful poll of the New York Produce Exchange. In that organization there is a reputed large preponderance of republican members, and during the Bryan campaign their support was powerfully directed to McKinley, although the organization as such took no part in the campaign. Whereas the exchange voted almost solidly for McKinley and Roosevelt at the last election, the Herald's poll shows that "about one to every four and one-half will swing this year from the republican to the democratic ticket." Six hundred and sixty-five members have replied to the Herald's inquiries as to their voting intentions; out of which number 141 who voted for McKinley in 1900 announce their determination to vote for Judge Parker. The exchange has some 3,000 members, and it is, of course, impossible to tell from these data how a majority of its members will vote in coming elections, but, as the Herald observes, "these straws show which way the wind blows."

In a critical hour of national life, when the dangerous imperialistic trend and revolutionary innovations of the administration threaten the stability of government, an eminently sane, safe and conservative candidate cannot but appeal to the business community.

The St. Louis Republic wisely observes that if the perilous policies of Mr. Roosevelt should find popular indorsement in November and be carried further to their reasonable and probable conclusion, the business interests of the country will suffer grave disturbance, and the consciousness of this fact by those interests is a powerful influence for Judge Parker.

The accessions to Judge Parker's strength are not marked by loud huzzas and torchlight processions. It is reason which is at work for Judge Parker; it is business prudence and foresight, and the result is achieved quietly, becoming public only when, as in this instance, special inquiry is made.

In the republican press the assertions from the Roosevelt standard are reflected by constant efforts to allay fear, and we find the frequently repeated statement that "there is no menace to business in this campaign." Mr. Roosevelt is the "menace to business" which occasions the alarm and prompts the effort. A president's riotous ambition to create a great "world power" and to achieve a crowded hour of glorious life for himself and to emblazon his fame on history cannot result otherwise than in the constant disturbance of business, not to say disaster. When international entanglements and war clouds darken the horizon, business is the instant sufferer. Securities depreciate and enterprise falters.

Business men do not care to see a president of this great commercial nation strut along the finest line of international complications. They do not care to see him flourish the big stick and shout across the lions' cages.

They cannot but prefer the democratic candidate because of his judicial temperament, sound judgment and safe reasoning—a man of quiet dignity and substantial parts, of great strength of character, unafraid to be reasonably active when conservatism is right, a man who due regard for the spirit of our institutions, for tradition, for precedent, for established principles, for law and [illegible] things else for consideration.

——"We stand by the Monroe doctrine," says Roosevelt. "We stand by the Monroe doctrine," says Parker. The difference between the republican party [illegible] That is the difference between [illegible] Roosevelt and Parker. [illegible]

DEFICIT PILING UP APACE.

Effect of Republican Financial Methods Should Set Patriotic Voters to Thinking.

The Boston Herald does not take a very cheerful view of the government's financial outlook. Republican management seems to have put the treasury in a very bad way. The deficit continues to roll up a balance on the wrong side of the ledger. August shows an excess of expenditures over receipts amounting to not far from $7,000,000. This taken in connection with the deficit shown in July, will make a total deficit of more than $25,000,000 for the first two months of the current fiscal year. The receipts for August were lighter than those for the same month of either of the two preceding years. This decline, says the Herald, has come very largely through the falling off in the imports of dutiable goods, while our imports of goods on the free list have advanced. In more than one instance the Dingley rates of duty are practically prohibitive—that is, they are so high that, instead of turning in a very large amount of revenue, they produce but a small amount of income for the treasury, owing to the limited amount imported. While the revenue last month fell far below the level for the month of August in either 1902 or 1903, the expenditures have advanced enormously. The gain over the expenditures for August of last year is 18 per cent., an increase of almost one-fifth, and yet we suppose the republicans will say that the population of the country has increased, therefore the expenditures must also increase; and a leading republican organ like the New York Tribune will welcome this as another step toward the two billion mark in congressional expenditures. Our country is at peace, there has been no material change in the conditions, as far as the country itself is concerned, from what ruled in August of 1903 and 1902, and yet, as we have said, national expenditures have advanced by almost one-fifth in a single year. On any such ratio of progression as that our national expenditures would double even their present figures inside of five years. Even with such a condition to be considered, the republican party and the present administration have as yet made no declaration in favor of either economy or retrenchment. Those words evidently do not appear in their vocabulary. They welcome extravagance, says the Indianapolis Sentinel, as they think it insures the retention of a very high tariff.

CURRENT PRESS OPINIONS.

——It is said that Senator Fairbanks never makes a speech without referring to a cemetery. The senator is always thinking about the final outcome of his vice presidential aspirations.—The Commoner.

——Those "enormous gains" in Vermont simmer down to a couple of hundred more republican plurality than they had in 1900. Really, Mr. Cortelyou, was the money of the trusts prudently invested, after all?—Albany (N. Y.) Argus.

——Henry C. Frick, a multi-millionaire associate of J. P. Morgan, also declares for Roosevelt for president. Frick is against letting the democrats fool with the tariff, and for good cause. He is at the top of the steel trust.—Nashville American.

——Republican assurance is given that "under no circumstances will President Roosevelt seek a third term." No, he will follow the precedent of [illegible] going out of sight after serving [illegible] a term [illegible] Andrew Jackson, Thomas Jefferson, Ulysses S. Grant, James Madison, James Monroe, Andrew Jackson, Thomas Jefferson, Ulysses S. Grant, James Madison, James Monroe, [illegible]

FLAT CEILING FOR THE HOUSE.

HOUSE WITH FLAT CEILING.

...is is, so that the natural warmth will be evenly distributed. Put up all the roosts that you have room for close to the ceiling—as chickens like to be well up—giving plenty of head room. Windows should only be half-way up the side of the building, as the glass is hard to heat. Don't give too much ventilation; two small holes up through the ceiling will be enough in the cold nights.—Henry Matthew, in Epitomist.

THE MOLTING OF POULTRY

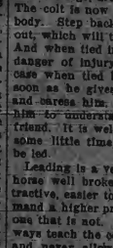
Process Was Hastened Successfully by the Experts at Rhode Island Experiment Station.

An interesting discussion is now going on among poultry raisers as to the possibility of hastening the molting of fowls. It has not been believed that any method except a steady feed of well-balanced rations would do this. There is an impression, however, that even this does not always hasten the desired period, as the egg laying period of the summer is sometimes extended by the high feeding, thus pushing the period of molting. Some one conceived the idea of starving the fowls long enough to stop the production of eggs and afterward so feeding that the formation of new feathers would be begun. It was reported that great results were obtained with this method. It does not appeal to reason very much, but the little experimenting that has been done to discover what there is in it has given results favorable to the method. At the Rhode Island experiment station last year fowls that were laying were deprived of feed on the 6th of August and were made to fast for 18 days. The hens finally stopped laying eggs on the seventh day of the fast. After the thirteenth day of the deprivation of food the fowls were again given food a little at a time, but of highly nitrogenous nature. In a short time the result was seen in the formation of new feathers, and within 30 days from that time the molting was concluded and the hens began to lay. This experiment was made with Rhode Island Reds. Whether the results can be obtained always is yet to be proved. It is a matter well worth looking into.

THE SEASON FOR CULLING.

Now Is the Time for Sending Every Old and Superfluous Bird to the Market.

The season is at hand when all loafers in the poultry yard should be culled out and sold. Old hens, unlikely pullets and superfluous roosters, young and old, should be placed in fattening quarters and fed for the market. It pays either the fancy poultry breeder or common market poultrymen to winter prime birds only. There is no room to spare for non-paying fowls, and quite an amount is lost by keeping the culls that are found in the best as well as the poorest flocks.



Full-blooded poultry is always in demand, and those who would sell at fancy prices must be very careful to closely cull down to the best specimens of varieties according to standard requirements. The breeder makes a mistake in keeping any fowls that are undersized or lacking in good natural vitality though they come from a high-priced strain. The best is none too good for breeding purposes in the production of market poultry just the same as in the direction of the show room. Culling severely now and keeping only the best is the way to get business chicks next spring, strong enough to get out of the shell and grow and thrive in spite of the vicissitudes they may encounter during growth. It is a good plan to dispose of hens that are late in molting unless they are of extra value. Such hens won't lay eggs enough in winter to pay their board.

Spring chickens are a fair price on the market the latter part of September, and the whole flock will be in better condition if they are sold disposed with the other surplus fowls at this season. Then in November comes the first cold snap—comes to take away the lone flock, we fatten and dress all the rest of the [illegible] hens pleasure [illegible] poultry [illegible] comfort [illegible] hens [illegible]

GOOD BARN VENTILATION.

How to Construct a Vent Which Keeps Out the Sun and Freely Admits the Air.

The animals in most barns and other farm buildings suffer much during the heated term from lack of proper ventilation. The cut shows a good plan for keeping out the sun. Glass may be covered with white-wash to which is added salt and a little linseed oil or flour paste. This makes the glass opaque. To arrange this plan of ventilation the window is hung on hinges at upper edge. Side pieces set at an angle are attached to either side of frame as shown in cut. This side piece also keeps out much sunlight that otherwise would come in at the sides of the window. The window is raised or lowered and adjustment secured with pins in the holes, as shown.—N. E. Homestead.

Potatoes as Feed for Hogs.

Potatoes are quite largely fed to hogs, but it is found advisable to boil them. In the New England states they are fed extensively, being boiled in milk and mixed with meal in a barrel. Frequently several bushels are boiled at a time, and when mixed with cornmeal make an appetizing mess. The only fault to be found with this combination is that it is badly out of balance. The potatoes are rich in starch and so is the corn. So much of our readers as are still following the old practice we would advise the substitution of [illegible] or ground oats for the potatoes. This would make a fairly well balanced ration. The Canadians say the [illegible] have a good effect on the quality of bacon produced. There is [illegible] which [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

About 3 o'clock, last Saturday afternoon, O. P. Tanner's little granddaughter, Leola Clore, discovered the roof of their kitchen was on fire, having caught from a spark from the flue. Fortunately the men folks were near by and the fire was put out but not until after a considerable strip of shingles was burnt off.

Bert Rouse, who lives a mile from Burlington out on the Florence pike, went home from town last Saturday afternoon about five o'clock, and passed on through the house to the barn to do his feeding. He had been at the barn but a few minutes when he looked toward the house and saw a light in the kitchen. He knew at once there was something wrong, as he had just came from the kitchen and that there was no light there at the time. Upon going to the house he discovered that the upper story was a mass of fire, and it was making its way into the lower rooms. He gave the alarm and began trying to save something but got out only two feather ticks, and a bureau containing two shirts and some papers. The neighbors were soon at the scene but nothing could be done. As to how the fire originated is a mystery to Mr. Rouse as he had had no fire in the house for several months except in a coal oil stove on which he did his cooking, and there had been no fire in it since morning. The building was the one occupied by the late James Delph, the main portion being logs weatherboarded, and was built 55 years ago. It was insured in the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of this county for $500. Mr. Rouse is a bachelor and had been living alone for some time, and he has good, kind neighbors who will shelter him until he can rebuild. The residence of Clinton Weaver which stands 200 or 300 yards east of where the burnt building stood came near catching fire several times from the fragments of burning shingles which the wind carried to it.

Mr. Rouse asks the Recorder to say to all those who have been so kind to him in his hour of misfortune that he surely appreciates their kindness and requests them to accept his heartfelt thanks for their assistance.

Fire from a brush pile out on D. E. Castleman's land caused considerable excitement about noon, last Sunday. A considerable area was burnt over, and some old rails were destroyed. After the fire was gotten under control it had to be watched the remainder of the day.

Mrs. Charles Krebs, who resides six miles west of Falmouth, reports an unusual affinity in her barnyard—the adoption of a half grown quail as one of her brood by a hen with nineteen chicks. This relationship has existed for more than six weeks, the hen mother exercising the same watchcare and interest in the child of her adoption as in her own brood. When the mother hen clucks a call for her children the partridge, now about grown, promptly responds with the chickens, whether the call be for food or to roost.—Pendletonian.

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." For sale by all Druggists.

Between 5,000 and 6,000 tobacco growers in the dark district of Kentucky and Tennessee met at Guthrie and organized the Dark District Tobacco Planters' Association. Speeches were made by Congressman James and Stanley, of Kentucky; Congressman Jonn Wesley Gaines and former Governor Denton McMillan, of Tennessee, and others. Resolutions were adopted calling on the Federal Judges to charge the grand juries to investigate the existence of tobacco trusts in violation of the anti-trust law. Officers were elected and seven attorneys appointed to draft a charter for the association.

The Delia correspondent of the Williamstown Courier is responsible for the following item:

"About three years ago the Nix Bros., cut an elm tree that stood on Clark's creek, on the Sipple place. They got 14 saw logs and 14 cords of wood and had enough brush out of the way to burn a tobacco bed [illegible] last week a part of all the trees [illegible] of them."

The Boone county board of health is composed of the following doctors: J. M. Grant, president, Petersburg; W. O. Rouse, secretary and health officer, Burlington; R. E. Ryle, Big Bone; James McCormick, Verona, and P. E. Cason, county Judge, Burlington. Following is the law under which the board will act:

It shall be the duty of the county board of health to inaugurate and execute and to require the heads of families and other persons to execute such sanitary regulations as the local board may consider expedient, to prevent the outbreak and spread of cholera, smallpox, yellow fever, scarlet fever, diphtheria and other epidemic and communicable diseases. They are empowered to go upon and inspect any premises which they may believe are in an unclean or infectious condition, and any person who shall fail or refuse after written notice from the local board or State board, to observe or obey the written request, shall be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100 for each day he so fails or neglects, and it shall be the duty of physicians practicing their profession in any county in which a local board is organized, to report all or any of the above mentioned diseases under their special treatment to such local board, and it shall likewise be the duty of heads of families to report any of said diseases when known by them to exist in their respective families, to such local board or some member thereof, within 24 hours from his or her knowledge of the existance of such diseases, and shall be fined not less than $5 for each day he neglects or refuses to report. Whenever any parent, guardian or other person having charge of the sick in his or her family, or having charge of any one visiting temporarily therein, shall know or suspect that such person or persons are affected with smallpox, diphtheria, membraneous croup, scarlet fever, measles, or other communicable diseases, dangerous to the public health, the person having supversion of the sick shall immediately give notice to the health officer within whose jurisdiction he or she may reside. It shall be unlawful for any person to enter or leave any house or building infected with smallpox, diphtheria membraneous croup, scarlet fever or any communicable disease, dangerous to the public health. No person who is, or has been recently affected with any of the above named diseases shall be permitted to travel or appear any where in public until a certificate is made by the attending physician to the county board of health, statling that all danger of contagion of the disease is past, and such certificate is approved and endorsed by said board of health. Upon notice that smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever measles or any other communicable disease exists within its jurisdiction, it shall be the duty of the city or county board of health to placard the home in which the disease prevails. Any person causing the removal or mutilation of said card or flag before a proper certificate has been placed in the hands of the health officer in authority, upon conviction, shall be subject to the penalties of law.

SCHOOLS—No person afflicted with consumption or any other communicable disease shall be admitted in any public or private school, as teacher or pupil. Every child shall be vaccinated before it becomes one year of age, and all incorporated corporations or companies within the jurisdiction of the board, shall cause each new employe to be vaccinated on entrance, unless proof is furnished of recent successful vaccination. No person shall become a member of any public school as teacher or pupil without furnishing a certificate from some reputable physician that he or she has been successfully vaccinated.

The event of the week in Walton will be a real game of foot ball that will be played Saturday between Walton Graded School and Covington High School. This is the first time the first teams of these schools have scheduled a game. While the local boys have not been playing the game but one year, they expect to be in good shape by Saturday, and make the game interesting for their opponents. The game will be called at 2 o'clock. Admission, 15 cents.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Our friend, Rev. Lafe Johnson, has again shown his generosity to the school in the shape of some valuable books and a flag. Special presentation exercises will be held at the school at 2 o'clock Friday, October 14th. The patrons and friends of the school are cordially invited to attend.

The first month of the Graded School has closed with an enrollment of 172, twenty-seven of whom are nonresident pupils. This enrollment is larger by 10 than that of the first month of last year. The work in all departments is progressing well. Other pupils who contemplate entering the school this season should come before the work is too far advanced. The management is pleased to announce that Miss Irene Hudson, of Verona, who is now a student of the Scheuster School, Cincinnati, has begun teaching Elocution in the school.

W. P. DICKEY, Principal.

Dr. Hubert Walton dined at Crisler Hotel, Sunday. He was demonstrating to the guests the kind of vegetables that would make you talkative.

That was a riproaring, whangdoodle whacker from Windy Bert, of Bullittsville, week before last, but it was mostly bot-air, and passed off without any notice being taken of it beyond a few. It was the last sad wail of a disappointed and prejudiced individual who is always against his home people. The game last Saturday closes the chapter, shows to all right thinking people who has the best ball team in the county. Petersburg has furnished the only league player in the county. We are proud of the fact, but there are more youngsters coming on here who will get in fast company in a few years.

Some persons, about 11 o'clock Saturday night, threw boulders through the windows of T. B. Mathews' residence, smashing the frame of the large glass window, breaking the glass to pieces. At the residence of B. F. Jarrell, Jr., two boulders through three of his windows, smashing them to pieces as well as breaking the shutters, two of the boulders weighing half-way across the room. At James Farrell's they threw a pine board about 8 feet long and 12 inches wide through the upper portion of his front door, which is glass, breaking it all to pieces. Blood hounds from Nicholasville has been sent for, but at 9 o'clock Sunday night had not arrived, although momentarily expected. The good citizens are determined to break up this lawlessness if it costs thousands of dollars to do it.

A series of meetings will begin at Hopeful church next Sunday night, and will continue all the week. Everybody is invited to attend and participate in the good work.

Nearly all of the tobacco is cut and in the house in good shape. The crop has improved greatly by the recent rains and with favorable weather for curing it will be an average crop for quantity or quality.

Arthur Tanner had a red cow and two calves, one of which is red and the other a fawn colored Jersey, to stray away about three weeks ago. Any information concerning them will be gladly received by him at Gunpowder.

J. C. Hankins was shaking hands with the boys here last week. Mr. Hankins has a strong following here and if he succeeds in landing the plum he will show his appreciation of the favor by a strict devotion to the office to which he aspires.

The death angel visited our community again and took from our midst little Robert Henry, youngest son of Henry and Mrs. Ella Tanner. Robert was born March the 18th, 1902, and died October 7th, 1904, age 2 years, six months and 19 days. He was a bright, intelligent little fellow, and was a pet in the family, and on account of his sociability was a general favorite in the neighborhood. He was stricken with pneumonia and his illness was only of a few days, and the Master Who doeth all things well, for some wise purpose saw fit to call him to his reward. The funeral services were conducted by Pastor Slater at Hopeful, last Sunday, after which the remains were intered in the cemetery at that place in the presence of a large concourse of relatives and friends.

The Misses Ida Berkshire, Bessie Berkshire, Amanda Terrill and Lizzie Parker start for the St. Louis Exposition next Monday on a week's visit.

Your reporter has been notified from Washington City that his claim for horse taken by the federals at the surrender after the close of the war at Mt. Sterling, Ky., has been allowed.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all Druggists.

Personal Mention.

Leslie Jackson has gone to the city in search of work.

Geo. Riley, of Bullittsville, has gone to the St. Louis fair.

WARSHIP NEBRASKA

The Vessel Successfully Launched at Seattle, Wash.

The Nebraska Weighs More Than Any Vessel Ever Before Launched in the United States Navy—Followed by 50,000 People Present.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 8.—In the presence of a teeming multitude of sailors and citizens and a delegation of governors and their staffs, the governor of the state for which she is named, Uncle Sam's latest and largest battleship, the Nebraska, was launched from the ways of the Moran Bros. Co., at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Gov. John H. Mickey, of Nebraska, and his party, including prominent state officials and their wives, participated in the ceremonies.

The launching was the occasion of a half holiday throughout the city. All the public schools were closed. Miss Mary Main Mickey, a daughter of Gov. Mickey, stood sponsor for the vessel. The Nebraska is the first battleship constructed on the Pacific coast north of San Francisco, and all the leading army and state officials in the forts west took part in the program.

The Nebraska broke away 11 minutes ahead of time and slid into the water on absolutely even keel. Everything about the launching was successful with the exception that the supports were weakened too quickly by the workmen.

The vessel began the vessel was launched ahead of time was that by a slight miscalculation the poppet (a wooden brace) at the bow was raising the vessel too high, and in the opinion of experts it was better that the supports be knocked away without delay.

Fully 50,000 people viewed the ceremonies and saw the big vessel slip into the water. She created a very small wave as she took her maiden plunge, and floated out gently and gracefully.

Naval men who viewed the launching stated that it was the most successful they ever saw.

The Nebraska weighs more than any vessel ever before launched in the United States navy. Immediately after the launching the big Alaska liners hovered about her with decks black with excursionists, looked diminutive beside her.

THE SALOON RAIDERS.

Mesdames Carrie Nation, Wilhoit, McHenry and Mountz Fined.

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 8.—Mrs. Carrie Nation, Mrs. Lucy Wilhoit, Mrs. Myra McHenry and Mrs. Lydia Mounts, who made the recent joint raid here, were found guilty in the city court Friday of destruction of property. Mrs. Nation was fined $150 and given six months in jail; Mrs. McHenry and Mrs. Wilhoit were fined $150 each and Mrs. Mountz was fined $50. They gave notice of appeal.

Mrs. Nation and Mrs. McHenry, immediately after having been released from jail on an appeal bond Friday afternoon, went down the street knocking cigars out of the mouths of the men they met. They have been again arrested and are in the city jail on the charge of disturbing the city peace and obstructing the sidewalk. A mass meeting has been called for Sunday to start a prohibition crusade.

MUNICIPAL STREET RAILWAY.

Chicago Traction Co. Must Cease Operation on Certain Streets.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—Mayor Harrison served notice on the Chicago Union Traction Co. to cease operation of street cars in Adams, Desplaines, Harrison street, Western avenue and 12th street. According to Corporation Counsel Tolman, the mayor's action is taken in view of efforts of the traction company to prevent a settlement of franchise disputes between the Southside surface lines and the city. The purpose of the mayor, Mr. Tolman says, it to clear the way for a municipal street railway.

A [illegible]IT LAW.

One Affecting Strikes Brought Into Operation in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—The Chicago Employers' association Friday, through Attorney Dudley Taylor, brought into operation a law that has lain dormant for years, whereby it is believed picketing, violence and the crippling of industries by strike can be prevented. It is "An act to prohibit any person from obstructing the regular operation and conduct of the business of any railroad company or any other corporation, firm or individual."

Under this measure, Attorney Taylor contends, employers may proceed against pickets without necessity of injunctions and have the guilty persons held to the grand jury by examining magistrates.

After [illegible] the unusual spontaneous [illegible]t. Washington at once p[illegible] an earnest denunciation of [illegible] which he declared were being perpetrated upon the blacks of the Congo Free State.

"I have testimony direct," he said, "from Dr. Sheppard and from the lips of Dr. Morrison, two men who have gone into the Congo Free State to work among their own people, and whose story of sacrifice is one of the dramatic incidents of history. The influence of the civilized world should be felt and should free these people from the barbarities they are now suffering. Their villages have been burned, their people murdered and maimed. Dr. Sheppard tells me that he has seen with his own eyes in one village 81 human hands hung up to dry to be presented to the Belgian authorities to show that the soldiers did their duty.

"And these atrocities are committed for the sake of wealth and self-aggrandizement. Europe should set a better example to my people in Africa. I speak for them; yes, as I speak for the black of Africa, so do I speak for the white of Europe, for no man can abuse the one without thereby lowering all humanity.

"There is another condition concerning which my race should have the sympathy and help of such an organization as this. There exists in our own country mobs of men who are given to lynching and burning men for supposed or real crimes without due process of law. Nothing in the last ten years has so rejoiced me as the voiced sentiment of certain parts of the south within the past few weeks against this form of outrage.

"Race hatred never settled any problem upon this earth. The way for one race to show a greater degree of superiority over any other is by a greater degree of kindness, of thoughtfulness and of brotherly love. No race is free indeed so long as it is ruled by passion and brute force."

Mr. Washington closed by pledging to the cause of peace the efforts of his people. He was loudly cheered and many of the delegates crowded about him to shake his hand.

THE STALLION McKINNEY.

William G. Simpson, of New York, Paid $50,000 for the Noted Horse.

[illegible]xington, Ky., Oct. 8.—William G. Simpson, of New York, paid $50,000 for the great stallion McKinney, sire of Sweet Marie, winner of the Transylvania. The horse was owned by H. B. Gentry, of Bloomington, Ind., and the deal was closed while Gentry and Simpson were at the trots. Sweet Marie's victory in the great race was the deciding factor in the deal which had been hanging fire for some time.

McKinney is 17 years old and is considered the greatest trotting sire alive. The price is one of the highest ever paid for a trotting sire in the United States.

Young women may avoid much sickness and pain, says Miss Alma Pratt, if they will only have faith in the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I feel it my duty to tell all young women how much Lydia E. Pinkham's wonderful Vegetable Compound has done for me. I was completely run down, unable to attend school, and did not care for any kind of society, but now I feel like a new person, and have gained seven pounds of flesh in three months.

"I recommend it to all young women who suffer from female weakness."—MISS ALMA PRATT, Holly, Mich.

FREE MEDICAL ADVICE TO YOUNG GIRLS.

All young girls at this period of life are earnestly invited to write Mrs. Pinkham for advice; she has guided in a motherly way hundreds of young women; her advice is freely and cheerfully given, and her address is Lynn, Mass.

Judging from the letters she is receiving from so many young girls Mrs. Pinkham believes that our girls are often pushed altogether too near the limit of their endurance now-days in our public schools and seminaries.

Nothing is allowed to interfere with studies, the girl must be pushed to the front and graduated with honor; often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to recover the lost vitality,—often it is never recovered.

A Young Chicago Girl Saved from Despair.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I wish to thank you for the help and benefit I have received through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills. When I was about seventeen years old I suddenly seemed to lose my usual good health and vitality. Father said I studied too hard, but the doctor thought different and prescribed tonics, which I took by the quart without relief. Reading one day in the paper of Mrs. Pinkham's great cures, and finding the symptoms described answered mine, I decided I would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I did not say a word to the doctor; I bought it myself, and took it according to directions regularly for two months, and I found that I gradually improved, and that all pains left me, and I was my old self once more.—LILLIE E. SINCLAIR, 17 E. 22d St., Chicago Ill."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one sure remedy to be relied upon at this important period in a young girl's life; with it she can go through with courage and safety the work she must accomplish, and fortify her physical well being so that her future life may be insured against sickness and suffering.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

W. L. DOUGLAS UNION MADE $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world. The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the $3.50 shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $6,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere. Fast Color Eyelets used. No tacks to rip.

Superior in Fit, Comfort and Wear.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes for the last twelve years with absolute satisfaction. I find them superior in fit, comfort and wear to other shoes costing from $4 to $5.00."
E. S. MOON, Asst. Cashier U. S. Treasury, Washington, D. C.

"I have worn W. L. Douglas shoes for the last two years and find them superior to any shoe I have ever worn at the price."

THE MULLIGAN CASE.

Son of Kentucky Judge Whose Family Had a Narrow Escape Testifies.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 8.—The court house was packed at the preliminary trial of Louis Mitchell, colored, charged with attempting to poison the family of Judge James H. Mulligan here two weeks ago.

A determined effort is being made by the prosecution to put the blame for instigating the crime on James Mulligan, Chicago, son of Judge Mulligan.

The Negro's confession, so charging young Mulligan, was read on the stand. Mulligan was then placed on the stand and kept there over an hour.

James Mulligan admitted that he had talked with the Negro on the Friday afternoon before the attempt was made to poison the family and that he received a note from his father, delivered by the Negro Mitchell, but denied that he made any threats against any member of the family or gave the Negro poison or powder of any kind.

He admitted that he did not like his mother-in-law and based the dislike upon statements made in letters from two sisters, but was unable to repeat any definite statement that would cause animosity.

FOR A BURGLAR.

She Mistook Husband, Who Returned After Twenty Years in Prison.

Whitesburg, Ky., Oct. 7.—Bent with age and the pangs of prison life, after a confinement of 20 years in the Kentucky penitentiary, Eli Collins, 60, stalked into his home at Tillie Wednesday midnight, and for a time his wife mistook him for a burglar. She had not expected him home so soon, though Acting Gov. Thorne pardoned him several days ago. Two of his sons, small boys when he left, had married, while his only daughter remained at home.

Collins was given a life sentence 20 years ago for the murder of John Gibson, his cousin, which some believe until this day was purely accidental. His wife worked for two decades to secure his release.

A REWARD OFFERED.

A Negro Arrested on Suspicion at Lexington, Ky.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 6.—Upon suspicion of being the principal in a murder committed five years ago Eli Booker, alias Bob Booker, a Negro, 32, was arrested Wednesday. The prisoner is believed to be the man who shot and killed Julian Smith, the station agent of the Atlantic Seaboard Air Line in Putnam, Fla. There is a reward of $1,000 for his arrest and conviction. T. B. Anderson, general superintendent of the railroad company, wired here Wednesday night that he had dispatched a private railroad detective to this city to see if he could identify the prisoner.

Can Select Their Own Treasurer.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 8.—The court of appeals reversed the judgment of the Kenton circuit court in the case of trustees of public library of Covington against Bitzer and others, and decided that the treasurer of Covington is not the ex-officio treasurer of the public library, and that the library trustees can, therefore, select their own treasurer.

Attorney General Hayes Issues An Opinion on Election Certificates.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 8.—Attorney General Hayes held in an opinion Friday, in reply to the county clerks of Kenton and other counties, who had raised the question as to whether or not they were the custodians of registration certificates, that the certificate of registration issued to each voter by the officers of registration is his property, and he should, when he goes to vote, present the same to the officers of the election, who, after an inspection thereof and he has voted, shall return the same to him. This certificate, under Section 1490, enables him to vote at any and all elections until the next general registration unless he becomes disqualified after registering, and in order to do so he must retain his certificate of registration until that time.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Old Grudge Between Kentuckians Caused It.

Somerset, Ky., Oct. 7.—Johnson Herlton shot and fatally wounded James Farris as the result of an old grudge near Greenwood, in this county, where the parties happened to meet. Helton opened fire on Farris with a revolver. The first shot took effect in the abdomen, and when the victim turned to run Helton fired several more shots into his body. Farris was brought here to the hospital, but the doctors say he can not live.

Farris almost killed L. D. Meadows a short time ago over the same grudge.

J. L. FEAGLES, [illegible]

SOMEONE has [illegible] the officers of the [illegible] tion held on November [illegible] not be permitted to [illegible] polling places to go [illegible] the regular election, w[illegible] great mistake. They ca[illegible] at a time to vote, and [illegible] will be done.

The Louisville and [illegible] railroad's annual repo[illegible] the year's gross earnings [illegible] been $36,943,792 and the [illegible] ing expenses $25,141,54[illegible] gross income was $13,427,[illegible] the mileage was 3,616, [illegible] pared with 3,438 of the [illegible] year. During the year [illegible] 396 was spent for impro[illegible] and equipment.

THE abuse of the pard[illegible] power by Lieutenant Go[illegible] Thorn caused his name [illegible] erased from the list of Dem[illegible] ic campaign speakers in [illegible] State. The people do not [illegible] to listen to a man who will [illegible] don so vile a wretch as Bat[illegible] who was serving a life sen[illegible] in the penitentiary for an of[illegible] for which his neck should [illegible] been cracked.

THE law requiring the re[illegible] tration of voters in towns [illegible] Burlington, Petersburg, Belle[illegible] Florence and Walton is the [illegible] absurd and foolish piece of leg[illegible] lation that has been perpetra[illegible] in Kentucky for a long time. [illegible] member who conceived and [illegible] sented the bill in the legislat[illegible] ought to be placed among [illegible] Kentucky curios at the Worl[illegible] Fair, and at the close of that [illegible] hibition he could easily secure [illegible] position with a dime museum, [illegible] he would evidently prove a gre[illegible] drawing card when the public b[illegible] comes aware of the magnitude [illegible] his mental achievements. T[illegible] members who voted for the bill [illegible] are statesmen of the first water, [illegible] of course.

Dr. Oliver Ferguson, in a recent lecture at Oxford University predicted extraordinary longevity for the human race. He said the average human life had been lengthened ten years in the last sixty years, and that the grandchildren of people now living would live 100 years or more. Strange to say, Dr. Ferguson, if reported correctly, based his prophecy entirely on the improved methods of destroying pathogenic bacteria. Why he should have done so is not clear, as there are many other equally potent influences at work in modern society to lengthen human life. One of these is vaccination, another the tracing of yellow fever to insects and another is the progress in surgery and particularly in aseptic surgery. More powerful influences still are the advancing desuetude of war, which is evidently shorter in duration, less deadly and more circumscribed geographically than formerly; the multiplication of hospitals and the cheapness of medical services, and, above all, the Christian idea, now almost universal, of the sacredness of human life. All of these influences tell, in a special manner, on the preservation of infant life. This remarkable saving and lengthening of human life is destined to have, within a century or two, an important bearing on population. Formerly and up to a century ago in every country on the globe, increased population was in great demand and large families were admired and commended, but at the present day the tendency is the other way. It looks as if the race had an instinct that the day of over-population was approaching. It has been estimated that but for the loss of human life in battle and by plague the world would long since have been overpopulated. If this is true what are the prospects of the human family now, with war abolished, with many forms of epidemic disease baffled, with the miracles of surgery, with improved rules of health and diet, with modern drainage and house-building, with the immense strides in sanitation, with hospitals and free dispensaries in every neighborhood, and with a religious conviction that human life is sacred and must be preserved even if it is a miserable and hopeless existence? Concerning the answer to this inquiry one man is perhaps as wise as another.

Revill has been a member of church since Decem[illegible]r. 1860, [illegible]en he united with the church [illegible] New Liberty, Owen county, [illegible]er the preaching of Rev. Alex[illegible]er. In 1866, having moved to [illegible]rlington he took membership [illegible]letter with the church there, [illegible]re it remained until 1869, [illegible]n his family moved to Owen[illegible] Owen county, to which place [illegible]oved his membership. [illegible] 1885 Mr. Revill removed to [illegible]ington to become cashier of [illegible]one County Deposit Bank, [illegible] opened for business in [illegible], 1886, and soon after re[illegible]g to that place his member[illegible]was again moved to the Bur[illegible]e church. He has always [illegible] an active part in church [illegible]unday-school affairs, con[illegible]ing liberally of his time, [illegible]and means to advance their [illegible]t, consequently he has been [illegible]ent in church circles for [illegible] years. Mr. Revill is the [illegible]y member who has been [illegible]osen Moderator of the Associa[illegible]on for 73 years, and in electing [illegible]d to that position the Association has bestowed a very great honor upon a worthy gentleman and member of its denomination. More especially should the honor be appreciated by him, as it came wholly unexpected, it being an expression of confidence and admiration on the part of his brethren who for many years have witnessed the zeal with which he undertakes church work. He will make a prompt and efficient Moderator of the body over which it is an honor to preside.

Secretary Hester estimates that the average value of cotton per bale for the season just closed was $61 68, and this would give a total valuation of $617,501,648 for the crop. This by no means represents the actual value of cotton production for the year. There is half a ton of seed to every bale of cotton, and this would make over 5,000,000 tons for the entire crop. Every ton of seed will produce 36 gallons of oil, valued at $10 30; 750 pounds of meal, valued at $7 50; 30 pounds of linters, worth $1 50, and 750 pounds of hulls, worth $1 12, making a total of $20 92. The value of these by-products for the season just closed is therefore about $105,000,000, which added to the value of the cotton would make about $722,000,000.

JUDGE HAGER, Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee Louisville, Ky., has the following to say about the opening of the State campaign: "While the present contest dragged for several weeks as if the people were not awake to the importance of the issues involved, I am satisfied from the reports that have been received from the various districts of the opening of the campaign on last Monday, that they are at last thoroughly aroused. Our speakers were heard in the various districts in every case the meeting was largely attended by the very best people, and they manifested an interest and approval that bespeaks certain Democratic victory in November. One gratifying feature of the present campaign is the desire of the leaders in all parts of the State to aid in every way to enhance the interests of the ticket."

On the 138 members of the Kentucky General Assembly, to whom [illegible] have been addressed asking for information as to their position on the question of changing [illegible] to the proposed new State [illegible] Of this number [illegible] have [illegible] themselves [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] do not believe that the Recorder the Democratic paper of our county the proper medium through which one Democratic candidate, or his partisan supporters, should attack another Democratic candidate. In I believe that a canvas should be conducted on such a high plain that whether successful or otherwise, no soreness or ill feeling will result. But, inasmuch as Jeff Eddins has made an attack on me, it is due me and my friends that I reply.

In Jeff's newspaper article there are several false statements, the first one being that the County Court appointed me as a guard. The fact is the County Court entered this order: "Wherefore it is adjudged by the Court that said Geo. W. Anderson is of unsound mind and a lunatic, and that he be immediately conveyed to the asylum at Lakeland, Kentucky, and J. M. Eddins is appointed to convey him to said asylum, and he is allowed one guard."

Attest. P. E. CASON,
Judge of the Boone County Court.

Under the authority of said order J. M. Eddins selected me as his guard; but before selecting me he knew of my intention to go to Central Kentucky, and arranged with me for me to furnish my carriage and two horses to convey Jeff, Geo. Anderson, the person of unsound mind, Jessie Eddins, the driver and myself, to the train at Erlanger, and further required of me that the team should later go to Walton and wait for him to return from Lakeland; and in consideration of me doing that he agreed to convey Mr. Anderson the remainder of the way. I accepted his appointment under these terms, accompanied him as far as Walton, and he conveyed the person the remainder of the way, according to the agreement. His son, Jessie Eddins, drove us to Erlanger, reaching there about 7 o'clock in the morning, then drove the team to Walton, and there awaited the return of Jeff till a late hour in the night, after which he drove Jeff alone back to Burlington, for it was known that I would not return for several days, and yet Jeff says that all that I did was to furnish my horses and carriage to take Mr. Anderson and himself to Erlanger. While the fact is my team went 22 miles further. I do say that he made a specific contract with me for the services I rendered; but I have never said that he received all or any part of the $11 76 allowed him. Jeff merely threw this statement in to give him some sort of excuse to assail me in the newspaper, thereby, to assist my opponent, for, if as he says, he had desired to set himself right before the people, it seems that he could have done so while he was one of the sheriff tickets. My real objection to me, dates [illegible] years ago, when another [illegible] prevented Jeff from voting [illegible] a worthless negro, [illegible] the primary to nominate a candidate for congress.

Very Respectfully,
W. E. CASTLEMAN.

The Gospel Twins

Sermon by the "Highway and Byway" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Bixon.)

Chicago, Sunday, Oct. 9, 1904.

Text:—"With the heart man believeth unto righteousness and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation."—Rom. 10:10.

PAUL has linked here in most vital relationship the heart and the mouth as the mediums through which the soul realizes that Divine process which we call salvation. The question: "What must I do to be saved?" has its answer in the brief, intense appeal of Paul as he replies to that repentant jailer at midnight: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." And here in our text Paul as it were more clearly defines what is involved in that act of believing. He is dividing that act of saving faith up into its elements, and speaks of one as belief unto righteousness and the other as confession unto salvation. The one is the inner recognition of Christ as Saviour, the other is the outward expression of that faith. We have here a hint of James' doctrine of works as emphasized in his epistle. Between Paul and James there was, it used to be thought, an irreconcilable difference of opinion as to the process of salvation. It would seem that Paul emphasized salvation by simple faith and James salvation by works. So strongly did Luther contend against this idea of works as a part of the process of salvation that he refused to recognize the epistle of James as inspired of God and authoritative. It is easy to understand this prejudice, for Luther lived in a time when the Romish church had lost sight of faith, and when the works of penance and confession and church forms and ceremonies and cold formalities constituted the religious life of the people. And so Luther swung to the other extreme, and emphasized faith without works. And yet between the doctrine of Paul and James there is the most perfect union and harmony. Each views the matter of salvation from a different standpoint. One sees the absolute need of faith as expressive of utter dependence upon the mercy and righteousness of God for deliverance from sin and its consequences. The other sees the absolute need of works as the expression of that faith, for as James puts it, faith without works is dead, and then he goes on to show how all the heroes of faith to whom Paul refers to enforce his arguments in favor of faith without works, showed their faith by their works.

THE old illustration of the card of two colors is familiar to all, and exactly illustrates this point. The dispute as to its color appeared ridiculous and unnecessary when it became known that both disputants were right, for one side of the card was blue and the other was red. One had seen one side and the other had seen the reverse side. It was the same card, but looked at from different viewpoints it appeared different. So is it with the doctrine of salvation by faith and salvation by works. They are the two sides to the one great fact of salvation through Christ Jesus. They are inseparably linked. They are the Gospel twins. The famous Siamese twins which were exhibited through the country years ago were not more closely joined together than are these two conditions of salvation. The matter, I believe, was seriously discussed at one time by scientific men, of separating the Siamese twins by surgical operation, but it was finally decided that it would prove fatal to both the children. And any effort to separate the Gospel twins must prove disastrous. The faith of the heart must go hand in hand with the confession of the mouth. The two provide the evidence which every soul needs to test the reality of salvation. The double proposition which Paul lays down in our text offers a subject for very serious consideration for every one who claims to have a saving faith in Jesus Christ. The question arises at once: Are there Christians so-called with but half an experience? What is really involved in the term Salvation? What is faith of the heart? and what is confession of the mouth?

LET us try to give the soul answer to these stirring and important queries. And first of all is it possible for one to have a partial, an incomplete Christian experience? Nicodemus, the member of the Sanhedrin, who came to Jesus by night and to whom Jesus spoke some of the wisest and profoundest truths ever spoken in any of the Gospels, is a striking example of this. From the moment of [illegible] conference Nicodemus [illegible] was the Christ, the Son of God, [illegible] locked that secret in his heart [illegible] never [illegible] And [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

The following official telegram was sent by Honorable Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, to Lord Strathcona, High Commissioner for Canada:—

"Am now able to state definitely that under conditions of unusual difficulty in Northwest a fair average crop of wheat of good quality has been secured and is now secure from substantial damage. The reports of injury by frost and rust were grossly exaggerated. The wheat of Manitoba and Northwest Territories will aggregate from fifty-five to sixty million bushels. The quality is good, and the price is ranging around one dollar per bushel."

Frank H. Spearman, in the Saturday Evening Post, says:—

"When our first transcontinental railroad was built, learned men attributed by isothermal demonstration that wheat could not profitably be grown north of where the line was projected; but the real granary of America lies up to 800 miles north of the Canadian Pacific railroad, and it is not definitely distant when United States will knock at the door of Canada for its bread. Railroads such a day; it may be that statesmen also will see it, and reciprocities while there is yet time gracefully. Americans have swarmed into that far country by the thousand, and have taken their wheat field with them. It is said that for years a little group on the St. Paul road has had the distinction of being the primary grain market of the Dakotas and Minnesota, but they yield their palm to ..."

In Which the True Source of Physical Strength Was Well Set Forth.

Speaking of foods, with incidental reference to other culinary animal life, recalls a mot attributed to one of the justices of the supreme court, which has been giving the Washington gossips a good deal of amusement of late, says the New York Evening post. He was dining the other evening with the family of a distinguished ex-senator, who are noted for their extravagant advocacy of the vegetarian diet. Over the delicacies of the table, which included pretty nearly every form of edible plant life suited to the season, conversation turned upon the familiar theme; and the hostess, after trying in vain to convert her head-reared guest by arguments based on the chemical constituents of various food, pleaded:

"But surely, Mr. Justice, you must admit that vegetarianism means strength and agility, when you remember that the rabbit, which feeds wholly on vegetables, can make such great leaps through the air from hiding place to hiding place."

"True, madam," answered the jurist, gravely, "but we must also remember that the agile creature for which naturalists claim the ability to jump more times its own length than any other, belongs to the class of pure carnivora."

Brewery Man Wore the White Ribbon Because He Was Tempted and Treated.

Mrs. Robert J. Burdette tells a story about the white ribbon which is the sign of total abstinence. "There are some persons," said Mrs. Burdette, according to the Chicago Daily News, "who don't wear the white ribbon with sincerity. They wear it, perhaps, about as hypocritically as it was worn by an employe of a certain brewer. This employé, after years of dissipation, appeared one day at the brewery with the white ribbon on his breast.

"Nothing was said to him and he wore the ribbon for some months. Then one day the head of the firm, happening to notice the man's badge, approached him. 'Why, Frank,' he said, 'it is strange to see you, a brewer, wearing the white ribbon. It does look strange, sir,' the man admitted.

"'Well,' said the brewer, 'why do you do it?'

"'It is like this,' said the workman. 'I wear the ribbon because it makes men like to tempt me, and when I'm tempted I succumb, sir.'"

WHAT ROME THINKS

THE POPE'S PHYSICIAN ENDORSES AN AMERICAN REMEDY.

Dr. Lapponi Uses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills In His Practice Because Results Meet His Expectations.

Dr. Lapponi, the famous physician to the Vatican, whose name has recently come so greatly to the front on account of his unremitting attention to His Holiness, the late Pope Leo XIII, and the high esteem and confidence with which he is regarded by the present Pope, His Holiness Pius X, is a man of commanding genius. He is more than a mere man of science; he is a man of original and independent mind. Untrammeled by the "etiquette" of the medical profession and having used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People in his practice with good results, he freely avows the facts and endorses the value of this remedy with an authority which no one will venture to question.

Dr. Lapponi's Letter.

"I certify that I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in four cases of the simple anæmia of development. After a few weeks of treatment, the results came fully up to my expectations. For that reason I shall not fail in the future to extend the use of this laudable preparation not only in the treatment of other forms of the category of anæmia or chlorosis, but also in cases of neurasthenia and the like."

(Signed) GIUSEPPE LAPPONI,
Via dei Gracchi 332, Rome.

The "simple anæmia of development," referred to by Dr. Lapponi, is of course, that tired, languid condition of young girls, whose development to womanhood is tardy and whose health, at that period, is so often imperiled. His opinion of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People at that time is of the highest scientific authority, and it confirms the many published cases in which anæmia and other diseases of the blood, as well as nervous diseases such as nervous prostration, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, paralysis and locomotor ataxia have been cured by these pills. They are commended to the public for their efficiency in making new blood and strengthening weak nerves. After such an endorsement they will be accepted by the medical and scientific world at their full value.

Cause of Lumbago.

The oiled streets have done more for the comfort of the citizens of Lexington this year than to keep down the dust and prevent the spread of disease, says the Lexington Democrat, as they have also proven to be death to flies and mosquitoes. The odor from the oiled streets is so obnoxious to the flies and mosquitoes that they will not frequent or swarm about the horses on the streets that have been oiled. It may be a little more unpleasant for the residents who live in their palatial houses on the brick streets for these places must necessarily become their refuge: "The oil is death to the disease germs, to the dust, the flies and the mosquitoes," said a matron yesterday, who is a resident of South Limestone street and added that she had been urging her husband to see Mayor Combs about getting the street oiled in front of her home. When the fact becomes known that the oil will keep away the flies and mosquitoes the system will be adopted by every city in Kentucky and in the South. No work or improvements done for the city in years has given such general satisfaction as the oiling of the streets. Danville needs something to keep down the dust. Why not try them here?—Danville Advocate.

Saves Two from Death.

"Our little daughter had an almost fatal attack of whooping cough and bronchitis," writes Mrs. W. K. Hartland, of Armonk, N. Y., "but when all other remedies failed, we saved her life with Dr. King's New Discovery. Our niece, who had Consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1.00 bottles guaranteed by all Druggists. VOL. XXX. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1904. NO.

County Correspondence.

PETERSBURG.

Oct. 17—A great deal of repairing is going on at the distillery.

Miss Edna Berkshire is teaching the Gaston school.

John W. Berkshire and daughter, Miss Jean, are visiting relatives at Greensboro.

Mrs. Rebecca Bush has returned from a protracted visit with her brother at Crittenden.

Wesley Kelly and wife, of Hebron, were visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Crisler, Thursday.

Mrs. Calvert, of East Bend, and Miss Maggie Scott, of Danville, are guests of Mrs. Agnes Grant.

Samuel Davis, of Rising Sun, is visiting her brother, J. J. Loder and wife, last week.

Mr. Chapin and wife, of Chattanooga, Tenn., were visiting the scenes of his childhood, Sunday.

Miss Margaret Schramm, of Cincinnati, was visiting at the residence of Mrs. Dick McNeily, Sunday.

Misses Bessie and Ida Berkshire and Amanda Terrill, left this (Monday) morning for the fair at St. Louis.

Water for stock is so scarce that it is an unusual sight to see farmers living miles back driving their stock to the river for water.

Miss Lizzie Jenkins Ferris, daughter of J. J. Ferris, of Cincinnati, formerly of this place, was married to a wealthy young man, a few days ago.

We failed to meet Bro. Thomas, of Constantinery, while in our town. We send his items with a great deal of gratification. He gets the news a comin' and a goin'.

Large shipments of whisky are being made from the distillery here, and the indications are that it will start up again the new crop of corn is put on the market.

About 50 persons from here attended the Bryan meeting at Lawrenceburg. Bryan is a magnetic fellow. His talk through Indiana will make thousands of votes for the party.

Ben Carter has moved to the Workhouse where he will cater to the public in the same old, hospitable manner. His new location is a few rods north of the Riverside Inn.

We had a call on brother Smashey, of the St. Lawrenceburg Press every once in a while. He is a clever gentleman, and by the way puts out a newsy paper, which is a strong advocate of the g. o. p.

Commissary says Uncle Alfred Carlton sold $1,400 worth of peaches off of his orchard. Lou Terrill sold $2,500 worth off of his orchard and several hundred bushels went to waste.

The Petersburg ball team defeated the Kenton's in a closely contested game Saturday afternoon, the score being 6 to 5 in favor of our team. The same Miss Ettrill play again next Sunday afternoon.

WATERLOO.

Oct. 17—A Mrs. Johnson, of East Bend, is visiting J. W. Kite and wife.

W. G. Kite and Willie Satchell were in the city on business, last Thursday.

L. T. Clore is having a tenant house built on his farm. T. Z. Roberts is doing the work.

The Rabbit Hash and Waterloo Telephone Co., had an interesting meeting Monday evening.

Several of the young folks from here attended the dance at John Beebelor's, last Monday night.

Bobb. Kite and wife, of Patriot, Ind., were visiting in this neighborhood a few days last week.

Misses Pearl Aylor and Aggie Cook accompanied by Grant Williamson and Dode Pope, attended church at East Bend, Sunday night.

Leslie Sullivan, son of Jasper Sullivan, and Sasie May Kelly, daughter of J. C. Kelly, were quietly married at Florence, last Wednesday by Rev. T. L. Utz. They have the best wishes of all.

The sale at R. B. Huey's, last Tuesday, was well attended and things in general brought good prices. Corn 55c a bushel in the crib; horses, $72 to $105 each. There were several candidates in attendance who were busy shaking hands and passing around cigars. We are sorry to see Mr. Huey leave, but our loss is others gain.

ooo

PLATTSBURG.

We are glad to report the sick are improving.

Will Hewitt spent last Sunday in Petersburg.

This writer spent several days last week over in Indiana.

Wm. Warford was the guest of Leslie Sebree a few nights since.

J. E. Botts made a business trip to Lawrenceburg last Saturday.

Several Kentuckians heard Senator Blackburn's speech at Aurora.

Mrs. George Aylor and little daughter visited relatives over on Gunpowder a few days since.

C. L. Voshell, of Sparta, Indiana, was here last week looking after his real estate interests.

Cage Stephens lost a piece of his buggy bed somewhere between R. B. Huey's and this place. The finder will please return it to him.

ooo

COMMISSARY.

Oct. 15.—When a man falls in love the fall is apt to break his pocket book.

Will Sebree and wife were shopping in Aurora Thursday.

Neighbor J. J. Lillard is quite poorly this week with a cold.

Mrs. Fannie Randall and Mrs. Eliza Walton were guests of Mrs. Mary Ryle, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Ryle near here visited Mrs. Sarah White on Gunpowder, Wednesday.

If there is any one in this neighborhood that is not done cutting and housing tobacco we don't know it.

There will be a spelling match at McVille the night of October 21st, by the McVille and Belleview schools.

We ought not to boast until dead give the job to the person that writes our obituary and the tombstone man.

Mrs. Georgia Louden, who was reported sick last week, is up and around again, but her husband is having the chills.

Miss Avis Parsons, of Middle Creek, is spending a few days with her grandma, Mrs. Sallie Popham, of South Hogan, Indiana.

Mrs. Phoebe Nettles, of near Salem church, Ind., came over Wednesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Martha Ranes, of Lost Section.

The Belleview school teacher gave us a short call Tuesday evening, and a special invitation to attend the spelling bee at McVille.

The boys of Belleview and country to the number of about twenty, gave Leslie Sullivan an old time charivari Wednesday night.

Miss Stella Popham, of South Hogan, Ind., spent from Tuesday until Thursday morning with Mrs. Gertie Parsons, of Middle Creek.

Mrs. Gus Ryle and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ransom Ryle, of Gunpowder, and daughter, Mrs. Will Sebree, near here spent last Monday with Mrs. Edward Hensley, near Locust Grove.

Millard Fleek and Miss Jessie Craig were married in Lawrenceburg, Wednesday, after which they went to the home of the groom and were given a charivari by the neighbor boys.

Exceptions are frequently taken to some of our items. It is trouble enough to hunt up items without having to ascertain if they are satisfactory to all in advance of publication. Those who take exceptions to our write up, should come to the Commissary and bring their blood purifier, and we will go in the woods nearby, and mark off 20 specs, and then proceed to regulate each others liver.

Harve Smith, of Belleview, has been paying his respects to a young lady up on Woolper. He called to see her a few evenings since, and she looked so sweet and beautiful that Harve would have given his old boots for a kiss. Harve attends Sunday school thereby learning a few passages of scripture which he puts to good use when an opportunity presents itself. Harve said: "Do you know there is a passage of scripture in the Bible commanding young ladies to kiss young men?" She said, "no, tell me about it." Harve said it reads thus: "Do unto men as you would have them do unto you." It seems to us that Harve's interpretation is rather broad, but it is alright.

Wanted—Man and wife to do housework. ED BERKSHIRE.

IDLEWILD.

Mr. B. R. Gaines is on the sick list.

Our farmers are hauling coal and digging potatoes.

W. A. Gaines and wife are enjoying the World's Fair.

Luther Scoborn is now a full fledged citizen of Idlewild.

Mrs. A. E. Threlkeld has returned to her home in Owen county.

Ezra Aylor and wife, of Burlington, were guests at Ed Rice's Sunday.

Mr. Bozeman, of Hebron, is improving the looks of R. C. Gaines' property.

Glad to hear that Mr. John Stephens' health improves as he travels in the west.

Misses Allen and Helms, of Petersburg, were guests of Mrs. Milton Southern, a few days since.

Misses Lou and Mary Aldeu, of Petersburg, were guests of their cousin, Mrs. B. R. Gaines, last week.

Those of our people who heard W. J. Bryan at Lawrenceburg, last Saturday, were delighted with him.

Mrs. Wm. Hedges and Miss Ella Duncan, of Burlington, attended church at Bullittsburg, Sunday.

Mrs. Rodden, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Burke, of Alabama, are guests of their sister, Mrs. Wm. Stephens.

Mrs. Legrand Gaines is visiting her son at Richwood, while her husband is visiting his brother in Carroll county.

Harry and William Stephens and their sisters, and W. R. Gaines and sister, visited the World's Fair, last week.

Mrs. W. O. Kirtley, of Lawrenceburg, has been visiting relatives here and attending the protracted meeting at Bullittsburg.

Will some friend be so kind as to send to box 7, Idlewild, the Recorders of July 13 and 20, and Sept. 21 and 28, and oblige a friend.

Miss Beulah Gaines, died at 6 o'clock Monday morning, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Gaines between here and Petersburg, after an illness of two years of a complication of diseases. Her pure, sweet spirit has returned unto God, Who gave it, after a joyous and happy life of twenty-three years 3 months and 4 days. She was the idol of her parents and sister, Mrs. C. T. Davis, of Ludlow. God chooses the rarest flowers of earth for His Heavenly garden. The deepest and most sincere sympathy of all who knew her is extended to the bereaved family.

ooo

BELLEVIEW.

The tobacco in this vicinity was housed in good condition.

Your reporter and wife spent Sunday with his brothers and sister-in-laws.

Charlie Snelling is hauling rock on the pike. Charlie is a hustler to work.

Will Rogers and wife were visiting Mrs. Rogers' mother and sister, Sunday.

Miss Fannie Clore gave a graphophone entertainment last Friday night in the Wiloughby school house.

Several of the old Democratic wheelhorses went to Lawrenceburg, last Saturday, to hear Hon. W. J. Bryan speak.

B. W. Adams passed here late Saturday evening on the home stretch, and he was making his stepper get up and stir around.

Hugh Arnold, life insurance agent, of Petersburg, was circulating among friends here Saturday. Hugh is the man for the place.

Charlie Woods sold his household and kitchen furniture at public auction last Monday afternoon. He will go to Commerce, Missouri, where he has relations.

Your reporter's aged parents visited him and his wife last Friday and Saturday. On Sunday they went to Rising Sun to visit their son Archie, and returned Monday. They are enjoying themselves visiting their children.

ooo

VERONA.

Oct. 17—Farmers are almost through cutting corn and sowing wheat.

J. H. Callahan has sold his house and lot to Mrs. Turner for $800.

Mrs. James McCormac is having a tenant house erected on her farm near her residence.

Mrs. Sophia Whitson has had her house repainted, which adds very much to the appearance.

Boone Roberts is able to be on the streets again after being confined to his room for several days.

Rev. Pollitt, Methodist minister, has been returned to Verona by the conference for the ensuing year.

Thos. Yost our log man, has bought Jeff Bowers' and Mr. Judy's timber on the John and Richard Sleet farm.

D. E. Castleman, candidate for county attorney, addressed the people on Democracy last Thursday night. He had a large gathering at the League Institute. Dave will carry this place with a sweep.

ooo

WALTON.

The special presentation exercises at the school, last Friday afternoon, were well attended. In presenting a splendid picture of the battleship Kentucky, Rev. Lafe Johnson made the hearts of the audience swell with pride and rejoice that they were Kentuckians. In presenting a large flag he made an eloquent historical address that was highly entertaining to all, and especially helpful to the school children. In a brief and pointed speech Prof. Dickey accepted the gifts for the school.

The football game at the school Saturday resulted in a victory for the visitors. The local boys were simply outclassed and beaten fairly by their opponents. The game was a splendid exhibition of clean ball, being free from slugging of anyother rough features. The game has not discouraged the local team, and it will continue to play ball. The Covington High School boys were accompanied by Prof. Sluss, principal of the school, and Prof. John Hill, who knows the value of athletics in school, and by their encouragement are doing much towards giving Covington a winning team.

LIMABURG.

Mr. Hammons wants to buy a good work horse.

L. E. Aylor was the guest of Miss Agnes Tanner, Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Annie Crigler will return to her home in Bellefountaine, O., this week.

Henry L. Tanner and wife, of Gunpowder, were Sunday guests of J. W. Utz and wife.

Miss Pearl Aylor entertained several of her young friends with a delightful dinner, Sunday, at her hospitable home.

ooo

GUNPOWDER.

After an illness of several months, W. H. Garnett died, last Monday.

John Cloud, of Hebron neighborhood, passed through our burg, Saturday.

We spent last Sunday with Uncle George Utz. He is still confined to his room.

William Phillipps, of Ludlow, was calling on friends here, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Amanda Ronse, of Hartwell, O., was visiting relatives in this neighborhood several days last week.

Lou Thomson and Hiram Long were hustling last week in the interest of the Tobacco Growers Association.

J. H. Tanner and family, and the writer and family broke bread with J. C. Hankins at Hebron, Sunday.

Albert Underhill finished cutting tobacco last Saturday. He has a large crop of the weed of fair quality.

Will the party please return the umbrella that was taken by mistake from Hopeful church on the 9th to Mrs. Ezra Rouse or to the church.

J. S. Rouse, who had partly arranged to go to Mississippi, has decided that there is no place like old Boone, and will still continue business at the old stand.

Misses Willa and Jennie Aylor gave the young people a nice party at the cottage on the hill, last Saturday night, and an invitation was extended to the best young people in the surrounding neighborhood. About 60 were in attendance. The music by Charley Popham and Ed Osborn was simply exquisite. The following are a few of those present; Misses Mamie and Gertie Michaels, of Erlanger; Ollie Brown and sister, of Newport; Mable Huron, of Richwood; Addie Norman and sister; Eva Clutterbuck, of Ludlow; Laura Bradford, of Big Bone, and several of the ladies of Union and Gunpowder. Among a portion of the Big Bone boys were Joe and Robert Green, James Huey, Tom and Lute Bradford, Lewis Scott, Willie Busby, Wallace Rouse, Jr., Will, Cliff and Clarence Norman, Hubert Carpenter, of Richwood; Will Rice, of Bellevue, Ed Clarkson and Will Starr and quite a number from Union and intermediate neighborhood. Everyone present enjoyed the occasion in the fullest. Three cotillions were filled rapidly and all moved in a jolly way.

ooo

UNION.

J. N. Gibson is having a new house built.

Miss Marietta Riley is the guest of relatives in Covington.

Mrs. Burkett is having her house remodled and painted.

Remember the entertainment Saturday evening, October 22.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Tanner and Mrs. Fannie Clutterbuck attended the wedding of Miss Nettie Stuntebeck, of Covington, last Tuesday.

Miss Emma Hinton gave a musical recital to her pupils, Saturday evening at her home. Ice cream was served and all present were delightfully entertained.

GRANT.

Charlie Snelling and wife will live with her parents this winter.

Will Arnold and sister, Miss Flora start to the fair at St. Louis this week.

E. E. Kelly and wife spent Sunday with Charlie Kelly and wife, of near Waterloo.

The ball at the I. O. O. F. Hall Friday night, was a great success, both financially and socially.

Our citizens are still hauling water from the river. A fire here now would soon be a conflagration.

Mrs. John Deck, who has resided here for many years, will move to Covington in the near future.

We are glad to report Dr. Williamson as able to resume practice. He was very badly missed during his indisposition.

Robt. Nixon and wife and John Deck and wife, of Woolper, visited Mrs. Alice Cook, Saturday night and Sunday.

Millard Fleek, one of the Juniors handsome ball players, and Miss Jessie Craig, of near Burlington, were married at the home of the bride Wednesday evening. Here is wishing them a long, happy and prosperous life.

The Bellevue first team demonstrated beyond a doubt that it is far ahead of the Juniors both in the field and at the bat by shutting them out Saturday evening by a score of 5 to 0. Conner and Cook for the Juniors and Brady and Sandford for the first team were the batteries. When the Juniors play the first team they are playing out of their class.

As the fall approaches, nearer and nearer comes the rehearsal echoes of the grandiloquent campaigner from his practice stump in the forest primeval. Rhetorical bombast reverberates from afar off like harbingers of the storms that sweeps with fury later on. In the insatiable parlance of the slanglist "We're up against it!" This is campaign year. This is not original but it describes the situation so well that we would like to see it printed.

ooo

BULLITTSVILLE.

Elbert Riley and family, of Ohio, were visiting at H. C. Duncan's Sunday.

A great many from this neighborhood went to Lawrenceburg Saturday, to hear W. J. Bryan speak.

B. C. Graddy and wife left for the fair at St. Louis, Sunday. Holman Hays went last Wednesday.

Rev. Early has been holding a very interesting revival at Bullittsburg church the past week. It will continue through this week.

Wm. Brown, of Francisville, James Brown and wife and Dawson Brown, of Idlewild; and Miss Carrie Aylor, of Hebron, were Sunday guests of Ernest Brown and wife.

The candidates have been giving us a rest for a week or two. Come around again boys on election day with plenty of good, old enthusiasm put up in bottles, jugs or barrels, and we will all vote for all of you.

The primary campaign has taken a decidedly different aspect since we made our predictions. Although our predictions might have been all wool and a yard wide, they are showing some inclination to run down at the heel.

The Garrison ball team journeyed to Woolper, Saturday afternoon, and were defeated by the Woolper Wonders 11 to 9. They claim that had the umpire not been against them from start to finish the score would have been decidedly different.

Bro. Tolin, when we first saw that awful item of yours last week, it put us in the mind of a whirlwind in a pile of loose ashes, and so forcibly did it impress us that we imagined we had ashes in our eyes, but a second thought convinced us that it was not ashes but sand the wind had raised from the streets of Petersburg. Fearing the next gale may bring boulders or bomb shells instead of sand we now peaceably surrender the fort to you and bid you a friendly adieu.

ooo

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with good qualities can be surprised at great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and speedily, but prevents these troubles from resulting in pneumonia. It is so certain and safe to cure, that a cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and can be given as confidently to a baby as an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands who have once used it, recommend it to their friends, and very few are willing to accept any other after having once used it. For sale by all Druggists.

NAVAL SURGEON GENERAL.

His Annual Report to the Navy Department Made Public.

Washington, Oct. 15.—In his annual report, made public at the navy department Friday, the surgeon general of the navy, Rr. Adm. P. F. Rixey, submits the following estimates:

For improvement of the hospital at the navy yard, Washington, $80,000; naval hospital, Sitka, Alaska, $10,000; renovation present hospital, Norfolk additions, $200,000; renewal present hospital buildings and erection of quarters for medical staff, naval hospital, Pensacola, $50,000; acquisition additional land adjacent to naval hospital, Yokohama, Japan, $3,000.

Recommendation also is made for a naval hospital at the naval station, Charleston, and one at the naval station, Olongapo.

Among other recommendations the surgeon general includes one for change of title of medical officers and asks for legislation to make the following changes: In place of surgeon general, surgeon admiral; and in the other grades, medical director to become surgeon captain; medical inspector, surgeon commander; surgeon, surgeon lieutenant commander; passed assistant surgeon, surgeon lieutenant and assistant surgeon, surgeon lieutenant (junior grade). The surgeon general renews his recommendation for employment of women trained nurses in the medical department of the navy and reiterates nearly all the recommendations which failed of attention by congress last year.

AN OCEAN TRAGEDY.

Schooner Struck on a Bar and a Dozen Persons Perished.

Chatham, Mass., Oct. 15.—A small part of the forward section of the hull and a slanting foremast stood as mute reminders Friday of the ocean tragedy enacted Thursday night when the three-masted schooner Wentworth, of Monckton, N. B., struck on Chatham bar during a raging northerly gale and all the 12 persons on board perished in the sea.

Little could be done in an effort to aid the crew of the disabled craft, as the Cape Cod life savers from two stations were unable to launch their surfboats in the tremendous seas. A shot line was fired to the schooner which lay not much more than 300 yards from shore. There was one answering pull and the life savers thougnt that they heard a voice above the roar of the surf crying "All right," but beyond this there was no sign of life on board the craft.

The Wentworth was bound from Hillsboro, N. B., to Newark, N. J., with a cargo of plaster rock. On board, so far as known, were the captain, his wife and three children, and a crew of seven men.

MYSTERY CLEARED.

A Man Who Disappeared From Bellefontaine, O., Located in Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—A man alleged to be William Lane of Bellefontaine, O., is under arrest here on a charge of bigamy. Lane, it is said, eloped with a school teacher of Croton, O., and married her. Before deserting his first wife, however, it is alleged, he left his coat, waistcoat and hat on the banks of Silver Lake, as if he had committed suicide.

Three months later the first wife received information that Lane was not dead. To the police the prisoner denied he was Lane and gave his name as Donald Koyn.

Arraigned at the same time with the Bellefontaine man was another Ohioan, who gave his name as William Ernest Whipple, and was charged with having a wife in Delaware, O., and marrying two women in Chicago. The case of Whipple was continued. Lane was taken back to Ohio.

IT WAS VOTED DOWN.

Proposed Change in Episcopalian Canon Rejected.

Present Law Allows the Remarriage of the Innocent Party to a Divorce Granted For Infidelity.

Boston, Oct. 15.—The house of deputies of the Episcopal general convention at the close of a four days' debate Friday rejected an amendment to the divorce canon, which sought to prevent the remarriage of divorced persons by clergymen of the denomination. While the house of bishops may yet act on the question it is certain that no change will be made by the present convention.

The present law of the church which has been in operation since 1895 allows the remarriage of the innocent party to a divorce granted for infidelity. At several conventions attempts have been made to repeal this law and when a vote was taken Friday by the house of deputies sitting as a committee of the whole, on the question of reporting the proposed amendment to the house itself, the reformers were successful by a vote of 214, to 191, and this vote was regarded as representing the actual strength of the contending forces.

The final vote, however, was taken by dioceses and orders, and where a diocese was evenly divided in sentiment, its strength was counted in the negative. The vote by dioceses was clerical for the amendment, 30; against, 21; divided, 10.

Lay vote for, 25; against, 24; divided, 16.

Practically the entire strength of the middle western states, the stronghold of the high church party, declared for the proposed reform, but the Pacific states and a number of the southern states voted against a change of the present canon. The diocese of New York opposed the amendment while that of Pennsylvania favored it. In New England, Vermont, New Hampshire and Western Massachusets voted for a change, as did the lay deputies from Rhode Island. The clerical deputies from Maine favored the amendment, but the votes of Connecticut and Massachusetts were cast in the negative.

AMERICAN MAIL POUCH.

One Captured By Russians Opened, Resealed and Forwarded.

Washington, Oct. 15.—It developed Friday that a pouch containing mail for the United States cruiser Cincinnati, then at Nagasaki, Japan, which was aboard the British steamer Calchas, when that vessel was seized by the Russian Vladivostok squadron was opened while in the possession of the Russian officers, subsequently re-sealed and sent to its destination.

This information came to the post office department Friday in a communication from the Japanese postal administration in conformity with a practice always followed when there nas been mishap in the delivery of mail pouches.

THE SEIZURE OF GOODS.

Twenty-Four Packages Released Under the Exemption Law.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The treasury department has received a telegram from Collector Banks, at Norfolk, Va., in regard to the merchandise on the naval collier Hannibal, which has arrived at that port. The collector says that no seizures have been made and that 24 packages have been released under the exemption laws. Twenty-nine packages consisting of liquors, oriental rugs and carpets, sent from China, silk and lace goods have been held to ascertain dutiable value. The consignees have been notified to send bills of cost.

POSTAL DEFICIENCY.

SLOCUM DISASTER.

Report of the United States Investigating Commission Made Public.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The report of the United States commission of investigation upon the disaster to the steamer General Slocum, appointed June 23 last by the then secretary of commerce and labor, George B. Cortelyou, was made public Sunday.

The report states that the General Slocum was owned by the Knickerbocker Steamboat Co., a New York corporation; that the Slocum was last inspected by Henry Lundberg and John W. Fleming, May 5, 1904, and that the current certificates of inspection at the time of the disaster was issued May 6, by James A. Dumont, inspector of hulls, and Thomas H. Barrett, inspector of boilers, the board of local inspectors at the port of New York. In describing the Slocum the report says that it was constructed entirely of wood; that the upper works were in a highly inflammable condition and that there were no fire proof hatches or bulkheads. The committee states that there are many similar vessels doing service in the United States, the construction of which is quite as dangerous.

Regarding the origin of the fire the report says:

"The fire started in the forward cabin, so-called, being the third compartment under the main deck from the bow, and probably originated in a barrel containing packing hay which was in that compartment, one of the barrels used for bar glasses and brought on board by the charterers.

"The fire was probably communicated to this barrel through the carelessness of some unknown person."

The report also states that this cabin was filled with inflammable material, including a large amount of oil; and that members of the crew frequently lighted matches in the compartment, and that on the morning of the disaster a porter filled the lamps in the cabin, lighted a lamp, blew the match out, and "threw it on the bench."

"The condition of this cabin, with the purposes for which it was used," the report recites, "constitutes one of the essential facts of negligence contributing to the disaster."

The fire-fighting apparatus was in bad condition and no effort was made by the crew to fight the flames, and when the vessel was beeched but little effort was made to rescue the passengers still on board. The life saving apparatus was in an extremely bad condition. The report says:

"It is undeniable that the local board in this port did not do its duty. Upon the supervising inspector, therefore, must rest a large share of responsibility for the existence of such inefficiency and neglect."

CONNECTICUT MONUMENT.

It Was Dedicated at Orchard Knob in the Presence of Thousands.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 17.—Thousands of people assembled at Orchard Knob, the famous battle ground northeast of this city, Sunday afternoon, to witness the dedication of the monument erected by the state of Connecticut to the Fifth and Twentieth Connecticut volunteer regiments by Gov. Abiram Chamberlain and a distinguished party of Connecticut. The parade to the dedication ground was the most gorgeous of its kind ever seen in Chattanooga and was led by an escort composed of the governor's guard and bands of Hartford and New Haven and the Third Tennesse infantry, national guard. The weather was beautiful and the ceremonies were very impressive. The monument was presented to the governor by Capt. Sanford E. Chaffee, of Derby, Ct., who was one of the commission which erected the monument. Gov. Chamberlain received the monument and presented to Gen. H. V. Boynton, president of the Chickamauga national park commission. Gov. Chamberlain and party left Sunday night for home.

THE STEEL WORKERS.

Probable They Will Be Asked to Accept a Reduction in Wages.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Steel workers employed in the rail and sheet departments of the Illinois Steel Co.'s plant at South Chicago have been notified that when the present agreement expires January 1 next it will not be renewed. The workmen understand this to mean that they will be asked to accept the same reduction in wages and the same lengthening of hours as were recently enforced in the company's plant at Joliet. The Joliet steel workers accepted a cut of 15 to 43 per cent. in wages and their work day was lengthened about two hours. Nearly 4,000 men will be affected at South Chicago.

A FINANCIAL REPORT.

Treasurer Roberts Tells of the Transactions in the Treasury.

Ordinary Receipts During Last Fiscal Year Were $540,491,749, and Ordinary Expenses Were $582,402,321, An Increase.

Washington, Oct. 15.—Ellis H. Roberts, treasurer of the United States, has submitted to Secretary Shaw the annual report on the transactions of the treasury during the fiscal year ended on June 10, 1904.

The net ordinary revenues are shown to have been $540,6a1,749, a decrease of $19,764,925 as compared with 1903, and the net ordinary expenditures $582,402,321, an increase of $76,303,314. In receipts the principal falling off was $23,205,017 in customs, while in the disbursements the important increases were $11,423,440 in commerce and labor, $60,788,580 in treasury proper, and $20,328,067 for the navy. Unusual expenditures were $50,000,000 on account of the Panama canal and $41,600,000 lent to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Co., which has now been nearly all repaid. But for these, the recorded deficiency of $41,770,571 would have been changed to a surplus of $12,829,428.

The operations affecting the public debt exceeded those of the preceding year and amounted to $698,660,941 in receipts and $638,924,879 in disbursements. The aggregate receipts for the year were therefore $1,240,292,690, and the aggregate disbursements $1,221,326,701. For the first three months of the current fiscal year the revenues show a falling off of $6,516,373 and the expenditures an increase of $18,073,839.

The trust funds held for the redemption of outstanding notes and certificates amounted at the end of the year to $978,084,569, an increase of $85,015,702 in 12 months. By October 1 there was a further increase to $1,014,779,969.

The redemptions of United States notes in gold amounted to $11,081,068 for the year, and those of treasury notes to $474,126.

In consequence of the deficiency in the revenues, the cash in the offices of the treasury and mint declined during the year from $170,020,562 to $137,520,264 and by October 1 to $126,964,883. The available balance, including deposits in national bank and other credits was $238,686,114 on June 30, 1903, and $151,414,162 on October 1, 1904.

The actual gold coin in circulation on October 1 is placed at $641,844,863 in coin and $486,512,139 in certificates.

Since July 1, 1900, there has been a growth of $463,991,862 in the money in circulation, or an average of nearly $116,000,000. On October 1 the circulation reached the maximum of $31.16 for each person, and the proportion of gold to the whole was 44.03 per cent.

In the current fiscal year the demand for small bills, in spite of all previous additions, has been unceasing. Experience has made it clear that the stock of small notes is hardly sufficient. The department has employed all its resources; but these are limited, for the issuance of silver certificates can not exceed the silver dollars available and the United States notes have a volume fixed by law.

EXECUTIVE CIVIL SERVICE.

Census Bureau Report Shows That There Are 271,169 Employes.

Washington, Oct. 15.—The census bureau Friday issued a report on the executive civil service of the United States showing a total of 271,169 employes, embracing all persons employed in the executive branches of the federal government except enlisted men in military and naval branches. This aggregate embraces 120,786 employes not included in the reports made by the heads of the executive departments. Of these 120,786 all but 17,710 were exempt from examination under the civil service rules. The exempt list includes 74,196 postmasters, 10,855 employes at non-free delivery post offices and over 18,000 employes at navy yards and stations, appointed under navy yard regulations. The post office and treasury departments give employment to three-fourths of the executive civil service.

VICE PRESIDENT CORRALL.

He Will Be Received By Army and Naval Officials at San Francisco.

Washington, Oct. 15. — Assistant Secretary of State Loomis had interviews Friday with the secretary of the navy and Gen. Chaffee for the purpose of arranging for army and navy officials at San Francisco to receive, upon his arrival there next week, Vice President Corrall, of Mexico, who is now at St. Louis as the personal representative of President Diaz, and who leaves Sunday for the Pacific coast.

SAFEST FOOD

In Any Time of Trouble Is Grape-Nuts

Food to rebuild the strength and that is pre digested must be selected when one is convalescent. At this time there is nothing so valuable as Grape-Nuts for the reason that this food is all nourishment and is also all digestible nourishment. A woman who used it says:

"Some time ago I was very ill with typhoid fever, so ill everyone thought I would die, even myself. It left me so weak I could not properly digest food of any kind and I also had much bowel trouble which left me a weak, helpless wreck.

"I needed nourishment as badly as anyone could, but none of the tonics helped me until I finally tried Grape-Nuts food morning and evening. This not only supplied food that I thought delicious as could be but it also made me perfectly well and strong again so I can do all my housework, sleep well, can eat anything without any trace of bowel trouble and for that reason alone Grape-Nuts food is worth its weight in gold." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Typhoid fever like some other diseases attacks the bowels and frequently sets up bleeding and makes them for months incapable of digesting the starches and therefore pre digested Grape-Nuts is invaluable for the well-known reason that in Grape-Nuts all the starches have been transformed into grape sugar. This means that the first stage of digestion has been mechanically accomplished in Grape-Nuts food at the factories and therefore anyone, no matter how weak the stomach, can handle it and grow strong, for all the nourishment is still there.

There's a sound reason and 10 days trial proves.

FOUGHT FOR A WEEK.

Estimated Loss on Both Sides is 60,000 Men.

The Largest Portion of the Fatalities Were Among the Russians—Japanese Have Won a Sweeping and Decisive Victory.

Tokio, Oct. 17.—There is a strong appeal for peace in the appaling tragedy which is now under enactment in Manchuria. Both armies have fought ferociously for a week and desperate fighting still continues. It is probable that the death roll will be largely increased before the final shot is fired.

The preliminary reports indicate that about 60,000 men of both sides have been either killed or wounded, the larger portion of them being Russians, since the armies of the two belligerents closed in combat.

Even the Japanese, to whom the great victory is of paramount importance, seem to be shocked by the slaughter of their enemies. The Japanese people are receiving the news from the field of battle calmly and there can be heard no shouts in the streets proclaiming the victory of their nation. Few flags are displayed. Probably later on a procession with the consequent jollification but there are heard many expressions of opinion that no demonstration of any kind should be held. A prominent Japanese said to a press correspondent Sunday:

"We have won a sweeping and a decisive victory which may prove to be the salvation of our country's existence, but regret both our own losses and the terrible slaughter which our forces have inflicted on the enemy. We regret still more the necessity which forced us to engage in this war."

A member of the diplomatic corps in an interview said: "I believe the world will recoil from the sickening slaughter of this battle. Every interest of humanity demands the adjustment of the differences between the two nations and the proclamation of peace. The situation between the two belligerents is a delicate one, but what a splendid triumph for diplomacy it would be if peace could be arranged."

St. Petersburg, Oct. 17.—The official veil was Sunday lifted from the ghastly tragedy around Shahke, but even the official account, supplemented by various news press dispatches Lave much uncertainty as to the the fen. Out of the fragmentary in him can at hand it is possible only ide that the costly withdrawal Rem eat from Liao Yang is being thing d upon an even greater scale. Miss E ore desperate fighting and can sup losses.

come left flank, which was one of ter. important points in the line e, absolutely nothing is heard. Co leaves the inference that it is no a position to communicate with the remainder of the army. All the wounded are being carried to Harbin, further north. It is understood that the correspondents also have been ordered to Harbin, which indicates that the retreat will not even stop at Tie Pass. All hopes of the world heralded advance to Port Arthur have been abandoned. From the military point of view the most bitter disappointment is in the knowledge that the reversal seals the fate of the heroic defenders of Port Arthur, who are now without hope of succor from the outside world.

The latest reports from the battle are of Sunday afternoon and evening when the Russians were carrying on a heavy rear guard fight, evidently retiring on Mukden. Gens. Oku and Nodzu were concentrating for another blow on the Russian right, where the fighting is described as having been furious. Gen. Nodzu is reported to have been wounded seriously, but this can not be confirmed.

Mukden itself remains quiet, though the sounds of battle are plainly heard to the southward. The railway station is congested with trains of wounded proceeding to Harbin. The hospital facilities are completely overtaxed. Six thousand wounded arrived at Mukden on Saturday alone. The heroic surgeons and nurses, many of whom have been without sleep for 36 hours, are ready to drop with fatigue.

Mukden, Oct. 17.—The battle was renewed and continued throughout Sunday night, being especially heavy at midnight. The Russians retain their position along the Shahke river and have made frequent attacks upon the Japanese, capturing six of the latter's guns. The eastern army is helping the western forces. There was very heavy artillery fire Monday. The fighting is now centered on the plain.

WORK OF DYNAMITERS.

Home of Thomas J. McCoy, Rensselaer, Ind., Blown to Pieces.

The Residence Cost Over $25,000—Considerable Feeling Has Grown Since the Failure of the McCoy Bank Last April.

Rensselaer, Ind., Oct. 17.—The feeling that has been growing here since the failure of the McCoy bank last April reached a climax Sunday night when the beautiful home of Thomas J. McCoy, who was identified with his father in the operations of the bank, was totally destroyed by dynamite.

The shock of the explosion could be heard for miles. Windows in residences for blocks around were shattered and some of the business houses suffered.

The McCoy family was not at home at the time and it is believed that none of them are in the city. Thomas McCoy has been in Lafayette for several days, but reports are current that he is now visiting in Chicago with his daughter. Mrs. McCoy is thought to be in Lafayette.

The wreck of the home is complete. The walls were blown outward, precipitating the roof into the basement. Fragments of the residence and pieces of furniture were found hundreds of feet away.

The loss can not be correctly estimated, but the residence alone is known to have cost more than $25,000. It was elaborately furnished. There is considerable excitement in the city. No arrests have been made.

Immediately after the explosion a crowd gathered about the ruins, but no effort was made to capture the guilty persons. It is believed there were three or four of the dynamiters, as it is reported that several men were seen about the premises just before the explosion.

The McCoy bank failed last April, the liabilities greatly exceeding the assets. Many families lost heavily, as the bank was one of the best-known and oldest established in this part of the state.

Thomas J. McCoy is at present under $20,000 bond on charges of embezzlement. The grand jury returned 22 indictments against him individually and two jointly with his father and two jointly with Walter M. White, assistant cashier.

Recently the McCoys appeared in court and petitioned for a change of venue, which was granted, and their cases were sent to three adjoining counties. The indictments against Mr. White were quashed.

MISS HELEN KELLER.

The Deaf, Dumb and Blind Girl Arrives in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—Miss Helen Keller, of Wrentham, Mass., who has gained a national reputation through her manner of acquiring an education, although born deaf, dumb and blind, arrived Sunday night to attend the conference of superintendents of American schools for the deaf, which convened Monday, and also to be present at the exercises in honor of "Helen Keller" day at the World's fair on October 18. Miss Keller is the first person in whose honor a special day has been designated by the World's fair management.

DORA MEEK DEAD.

She Slept For Nearly Six Months at a Time.

Centralia, Ill., Oct. 17.—Dora Meek, aged 18, who slept nearly six months during the winter of 1901, died Sunday as the result of a general decline, following an attack of measles last March. During her first sleep she was visited by scores of physicians, who were unable to account for her conditions. Last December, while employed in this city, and without the slightest preliminary symptoms, she again fell asleep, but this sleep lasted only a few weeks.

World's Fair Attendance.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—The statement of the attendance at the World's fair, given out Sunday by the department of admissions, shows the total attendance last week to have been 939,774 and the total attendance since the opening of the fair, 14,316,230.

Made Another Payment.

St. Louis, Oct. 17.—The Louisians Purchase exposition has made the seventh of the stipulated $500,000 payments on the government loan of $4,600,000 which was advanced by the federal authorities. This leaves a balance of $691,850.45 due.

Gaines Made in Registration.

New York, Oct. 17.—Total registration for first and second days in Greater New York is 434,675. This is a gain of over 21,000 on the registration for the first two days of 1900, when McKinley and Bryan were pitted against each other.

Judge H. M. Shepard Expires.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Judge Henry Martyn Shepard, of the appellate court, and for over 20 years a member of the Cook county judiciary, died here. Acute meningitis was immediate cause of death, although he had been ailing for months.

FARMERS BEAR BIG LOAD.

They Pay More for the Materials They Need Than Their Competitors in Foreign Lands.

The man who owns a farm should consider very carefully before voting next November which of the two chief candidates for the office of president will, according to his announced policy, best serve his interests. The platforms of the two parties afford a fair chance to choose between Parker and Roosevelt. The policies have been clearly defined, and when it is once determined on which side a man's interests lie, the choice should not be a difficult one. The democratic party is pledged to a revision of the tariff with a view to restricting the rapacity of the trusts.

The trusts have grown to such proportions under the favors conferred by the high protective tariff, that it is costing more to-day in this country to live on American-made goods than it costs on the other side of the world. Let us quote a few figures to show the farmer how he is paying more for materials he needs on his farm than is paid by his competitor abroad.

American-made axes and hatchets, which are sold in this country for $7.50 per dozen, can be purchased in South Africa for $6.75, a difference of 11 per cent.

Sledges, which cost the American farmer at the rate of 18 cents per pound, can be bought in Ladysmith for 16 cents, again a difference of 11 per cent.

Crowbars, which sell here at the rate of six cents per pound, are sold in South Africa for five and four-tenths of a cent a pound, another difference of 11 per cent.

Shovels, which here cost $8.25 per dozen, can be purchased in South Africa for $7.42, again a difference of 11 per cent.

The steel beam plow for which the American farmer is asked $11.50, can be purchased in South Africa for $10.35, again a difference of 11 per cent.

The churn which the farmer uses, manufactured in Boston, costs him $2.47. In South Africa he could buy it for $2, 23 per cent. less than is asked him in this country.

A corn sheller, for which he pays $4.20, can be bought at Cape Town for $3.50, a difference of 20 per cent.

His grain mill, which costs him $14.66 in Boston, where it is manufactured, can be purchased on the other side of the world for $13.20, a difference of 11 per cent.

The Boston corn planter, which sells here for $15, is sold to the South African farmer for $13, a difference of 15 per cent.

A fan mill, for which he pays $21.80, is sold to the farmers of South Africa for $17.60, a difference of 21 per cent.

Cultivators, for which the New York state farmer pays $4.90, bring only $4.20 in South Africa, 17 per cent. under the price obtained here.

Horse shoes, for which the American farmer is charged six dollars, go to the South African farmer at $4.95, a difference of 21 per cent.

A two-horse plow, for which in this country the farmer is asked $5.25, can be obtained by the farmer down in Cape Colony at $4.15, a difference of 25 per cent.

The farmer who has what Bill Nye used to call one of these upright farms, and wants a side-hill plow, pays $6.77 for it. His brother farmer in South Africa who has an upright farm, gets a side-hill plow for $5.31, a difference of 15 per cent.

Is there road work to be done, the farmer needs a heavy road plow. He pays for it $10.20. Roads in South Africa are made with the same plow, for which the owner pays $8.50, a difference of 20 per cent.

The New England chilled two-horse plow, for which the American farmer pays $8.40, is sold to the farmer in South Africa for $7.20, a difference of 17 per cent.

Rope, for which the farmer has much use, is sold at 11 cents per pound in South Africa, while 13 cents per pound is charged for it in New York state, where it is manufactured. The difference is 22 per cent.

Is it worth while, says the Utica Observer, to maintain a tariff which robs the workingman, the farmer, the artisan, the housekeeper, to the exclusive benefit of the manufacturer? Why should it be possible for American goods to be sold more cheaply abroad than they are here? Is it not a rank injustice to the consumers in this country to be obliged to pay higher prices for American-made goods than does the foreign consumer? Can the republican party deny the charge that it is the operation of the tariff that enables the protected manufacturers to send their goods half around the world and sell them at a profit for lower prices than they are enabled to demand in this country, even in the very state in which the goods are manufactured?

WHAT WE PAY TO TRUSTS

Every American Family Contributes $94.48 Per Year to Tariff-Nursed Combines.

Suppose the average American workingman pays eight dollars a month rent for his house. That is at the rate of $96 per year. House rent is usually the most costly item in the expense account of every non-home-owning family, and it absorbs a large percentage of the worker's wages. It is the most inveterate enemy of "the little dinner pail." The wife of the average workingman would think she was "rolling in wealth" if she could have for household account the money that goes out for rent.

Now note some pertinent facts, disclosed by accurate data, pertaining to the trusts and the high protective tariff of the republican party which makes the existence of the trusts possible.

The average American family pays a tribute of $111 a year to the protected trusts. Of that amount the government gets in taxes from the trusts the sum of $16.52. Deduct that sum from the total contribution of $111 and the balance is $94.48. The latter figure is the amount filched from the average family by the tariff which supports the trusts.

The facts thus stated, says the Los Angeles Herald, are derived from calculations of average consumption by American families and the tariff duties imposed on the articles consumed. Every American family, in the average, pays $94.48 tribute to the trusts, a sum fully equal to the average yearly house rent of "the man with the dinner pail."

A Great Victory in Sight.

The splendid spirit shown by the New York democrats means that they will be satisfied with nothing less than success. And they have never failed to win when they all worked together, as they have shown that they mean to do now. On the other hand, the republican factions, headed by Odell and Platt, are lying in ambush for each other with their trusty bowie knives unsheathed and ready for business. New York may just as well now as later be put in the democratic list.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Lincoln Yarn Neatly Applied.

The contention of some of the spellbinders that the present administration is responsible for the prosperity which has attended the labors of our farmers in recent years reminds us of a story told by Abraham Lincoln. He said there was a woodpecker away up in the top of a tree pecking and pecking and pecking. After while a windstorm came along and blew down the tree and the woodpecker believed to its dying day that it had pecked the tree down.—Field and Farm.

STATE ITEMS OF INTEREST

AT A DANCE.

Knives and Guns Were Used in a General Fight.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 17.—In a general fight which took place at a dance and picnic in Harrison county, about 12 miles west of Cynthiana, Walter Conrad was fatally stabbed. Harvey Walden received a severe scalp wound, while Mr. J. W. Gunn and his wife, Pearl Gunn, were hit by stray bullets, and also seriously injured.

While the dance was in progress a quarrel arose between Perry and Henry Bowman, brothers, on one side, and Walter and Jasper Conrad, also brothers, on the other side. Knives and pistols were used freely, and in the melee Walter Conrad was stabbed a number of times in the back and abdomen. Seeing his brother fall, Jasper Conrad began shooting promiscuously, when Mr. and Mrs. Gunn were injured. Harvey Walden, a mutual friend of the young men, tried to separate them, and, while playing the part of a peacemaker, got injured himself. All the parties are under arrest. The fight and its terrible results brought the dance to an abrupt termination.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

Remains Arrived at Night and Were Buried By Light of Lanterns.

Falmouth, Ky., Oct. 17.—An interment out of the ordinary took place at Kentontown, Ky. Charles Tennis, aged 80, who had time and again walked from Kentontown to Falmouth, a distance of about 20 miles, fell from a bridge at Falmouth and was killed. His body was prepared for burial, and as there is no railroad running within 20 miles of his late home his body was conveyed there in a hearse. It was about 9 o'clock when the remains reached the cemetery, where almost all the inhabitants of the little village waited. All brought lanterns, and while the sexton held a light over the face of the corpse they viewed the body. Then the corpse was lowered into the ground, while the minister offered prayers.

LEWIS MITCHELL INDICTED.

James Mulligan is Exonerated in the Poisoning Case.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 14.—The grand jury reported that it had been unable to find any evidence to connect James J. Mulligan with attempted poisoning of the family of Judge James H. Mulligan. The report was made after long and exhaustive review of the case, in which all the Mulligan family gave information.

The jury returned an indictment against Lewis Mitchell, the Negro, who confessed he placed poison in salmon, on the charge of "malicious attempt to poison."

The report specifically said in its exoneration of young Mulligan that 'no one else except Mitchell had any connection with the crime."

This also exonerates any others who were under suspicion.

In the Oil Fields.

Barbourville, Ky., Oct. 17.—The feature of interest in the Kentucky and Tennessee oil fields last week was the development of a larger number of excellent producers in the lower fields, along the state line. The Wayne county division turned up eight strikes, five of which make from 50 to 150 barrels.

Killed Father With a Corn Knife.

Mayfield, Ky., Oct. 14.—During a fit of insanity Jesse L. Green killed his father, John W. Green, with a corn knife. They lived four miles from Mayfield and were cutting corn, when a dispute arose. The son struck his father in the temple with the knife.

ASYLUM SCANDAL.

The Indictments Against Bush and Smith Were Dismissed.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 14.—On motion of the commonwealth attorney the indictments again Superintendent Bush, Board and Commissioners Bush and Smith, of Western Kentucky asylum for the insane, in connection with the presentation of two heifers to Senator Richardson for aiding in getting $75,000 appropriating for the institution, were dismissed Thursday afternoon.

The other cases will be prosecuted. The asylum records showed that Bush and Smith were not present at the board meeting when the gift was authorized, and according to the statutes, the superintendent has no authority in disposition of asylum property.

The indicted commissioners claim the cows were given to the senator after the adjournment of the legislature, and the present had no bearing on his action in supporting the measure.

At the meeting of the Boone County Democratic Executive Committee held in Union, Saturday October 15th, 1904, the following orders were made:

Ordered that the officers of the primary election each receive $1 for their services, except the sheriffs, and that they each receive $2.

Ordered that the order in which the names of candidates shall appear on the ballots, be determined by lot, and the same was done.

The committee urged each precinct committeeman to use care in having the booths, ballots, stencils and voting places ready for the holding of the primary election.

For the purpose of conducting the primary election the candidates for the various offices were assessed as follows, with a probable prorata increase of $12 by October 24th, shall the chairman of the committee deem it necessary: Judge $20; 3 clerks, $20 each; 3 assessors, $20 each; sheriff $20; 2 attorneys $20 each; surveyor $10; representative $10; jailer $8; 2 superintendents of schools, $10 each; 6 justices of the peace $2 each; 6 constables $1 each.

Officers to hold the primary election were appointed for all precincts except Petersburg, it not being represented. The full list will be published next week.

Ordered that the Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committe of Boone County, be, and he is, hereby authorized to issue upon application of any of the candidates before the primary election to be held in this county on November 8th, 1904, certificates of appointment of one inspector and one challenger, both or either, for one or as many precincts as the candidate applying may request, the expense of said challenger and inspector, or challengers and inspectors to be paid by the candidate at whose request they are appointed.

The Committee adjourned to meet again at 1 o'clock p. m. at the court house in Burlington on Thursday, November 10th, 1904, to count the vote cast at the primary election and declare the nominees of said primary election.

J. L. FRAZIER,
Chairman Dem. Ex. Com.

WHILE Ex-Gov. Bradley was lambasting the Democratic party, during his Louisville speech, for its part in the Civil War, Basil Duke, one of the bravest men that ever wore a Confederate uniform, sat on the stage in a rear row as if he were ashamed of the company in which he was caught. He is one of the few Democrats who are allying themselves with the Republicans and he ought to get out of the muck into which he has floundered before he is submerged.

Connecticut farmers and capitalists who joined their efforts in a plan to grow Sumatra tobacco in the Connecticut valley under tents are said to have lost hope and hundreds of thousands of dollars as well. A receiver has been appointed, the most laborious part of whose duties may be to receive complaints from the farmers that their experience in raising tobacco by the camping-out process has been a rather serious summer "outing" to them.

THE operations of the Treasury for the month of September show no particular change in the tendency noted since the beginning of the fiscal year, and there was a slight excess of receipts over expenditures, a little less than $6,000,000. This brings the deficit in receipts for the first quarter of the fiscal year to $18,000,000 in round numbers. As compared with the like period in last year the receipts have fallen off about $5,000,000 and the expenditures have advanced some $17,000,000. The net difference is some $22,000,000 on the wrong side of the ledger. The chief difference is in the cost of the War Department and the Navy Department, which has increased the former $7,000,000 and the latter $8,000,000.

A medical man of Upper Silesia has reported that his attention was early attracted to the freedom of his district from lung troubles. He found even that consumptives coming from outside soon regained their health without treatment, and, as the air is constantly laden with coal dust from the neighboring mines, he infers that this dust exerts a drying and disinfecting influence on tubercle developments in the lungs. The theory is to be tested in a new local sanitarium.

The Russians and Japs are the best of fighters.

The Frankfort Roundabout and the Anderson News come forward with the champion "tales" of the season. The former tells of a man who stood on the bridge over the river and threw a stone at a big fish which he saw jump out of the water below, hitting it and killing it instantly. He then went down and with the aid of a long pole drew the fish in, took it home with him and had a big feast off it, to which were invited many of his friends. The Anderson News is authority for the statement that a farmer of that county has originated a kind of "popped pop corn"—that is, grows already popped. As soon as he gets his invention protected by government rights he will at once proceed to put the erstwhile pop corn kings out of business. Messrs. Lewis and McIntyre are gentlemen after the strict Geo. Washington type, so as a matter of course we accept their statements without further question.

The post office report for August shows an increase in receipts in 50 large cities of $604,000, or 13 per cent, over the same month last year. New York contributes one-fifth of the increase. The fair brings to St. Louis an increase of 25 per cent.. Only two cities show a slight decline. Undoubtedly some of this growth is stimulated by bringing the post office to the farm through rural free delivery. But in the main it means the expansion of the reading and writing habits and needs in a land where education is almost universal, says the New York World. A curious contrast is furnished in the postal statistics of Great Britian, which for 1903-04 show an increase of less than four per cent, in volume of business. The number of letters sent increased there less than one per cent, and in London showed an actual falling off, which is attributed to the rapid growth of the "picture-post-card" habit.

THE Democratic party is pledged to a reform of the Tariff. It does not believe that every tax payer in this country should contribute to the upbuilding of protected industries which have grown wealthy at the expense of the consumer. Every suit of clothes, every hat, every pair of shoes, every collar, cuff and tie is dearer because of the tariff. There is no article of furniture, no piece of cutlery, glassware in dining room or kitchen that does not cost more because of a protective tariff. Every family in this country contributes $94 a year to the trusts which Republican administrations have taken advantage of the tariff to keep up prices to keep out competition.

When such indulgence is necessary the federal government allows its employes "sick leave" of 30 days each year with full pay. Not long ago Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau, discovered that three clerks had availed themselves of this privilege regularly every year for five years. Thereupon he promptly reduced their rank, on the grounds that their official records show them to be physically unfitted for the higher grades in the service. The health of the clerks in Professor Moore's department is expected to improve with wonderful rapidity in consequence of this order.

The "missing link" has been discovered in Java, according to a scientist who has been studying a species of monkey that has the characteristics of man. The natives of Java call the animal Ascn Perriziz. While the name is not familiar, he may be a distant relative of some of the Russian and Jap generals who are now rather too busy to look after a country cousin.

Suits for alienation of affection are always instructive as reducing affection to a dollars and cents basis. To a poor young man for example, a fellow citizen who values his wife's affection at $10,000 may easily seem to have had a remarkable helpmate; while to a millionaire it might appear that a $10,000 wife was hardly worth going to law about anyway.

A Very Remarkable Remedy.

"It is with a good deal of pleasure and satisfaction that I recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," says Druggist A. W. Sawtelle, of Hartford, Conn. "Recently a gentleman came into my store so overcome with colic pains that he sank at once to the floor. I gave him a dose of this remedy which helped him. I repeated the dose and in fifteen minutes he left my store smilingly informing me that he felt as well as ever." For sale by all Druggists.

Regular Term Boone County (Ky.) Court, August 5th 1904.

In re, Election on Stock Law In | Order.
Bullittsville Precinct.

It appearing that C. W. McFee and more than twenty other bona fide voters of the Bullittsville voting district in Boone County, Kentucky, having filed their petition, asking a submission of the question whether cattle including horses, cattle sheep and hogs shall be permitted to run at large in said district, and the petition been deposited in this court, with a sufficient amount to defray the expenses of taking a vote on said question, and said matter having been submitted to and passed on by the Fiscal court, it is now ordered by this court that the election officers of said district open a poll at the next regular election to be held on the 8th day of November, 1904, in said district, for the purpose of ascertaining the will of the voters of said district upon the question whether or not they wish cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs to run at large in said district, and the clerk of this court is directed to have printed on the ballots for said district the question, "For or against the running at large of cattle, including horses, cattle, sheep and hogs in the Bullittsville voting district." It is ordered that notice of said election be given twenty days before the date thereof by publication in the Boone County Recorder for at least four issues a copy of this order, which the clerk of this court is ordered to have done.

The following item can always be found going the rounds of the country press at this time of the year: "The weather prophets are predicting a hard winter and declare that it is not far off. In proof of their forebodings they cite the fact that the shuck on the corn is not only unusually thick but extends out over the ear further than common. The skin on the onion is also said to be unusually heavy which is regarded as another sure sign. Hunters say that the fur on rabbits, squirrels and other game is more abundant this year than for several years past, which is a never failing indication of a hard winter. The goose bone specialist has not been heard from yet, but in the light of these harbingers it is expected that he will join in the chords for a record breaking siege of cold weather."

One of the most enjoyable affairs of the season was a "chicken soup" held by the Daughters of Rebeccah with Mrs. Cad Berkshire, of McVille, Saturday night the 8th inst. Quite a large crowd attended. Over sixty were present. The only ones who had any regret were those who failed to attend. About twenty gallons of first class soup and about twenty pounds of crackers were eaten and enjoyed. While some of the good cooks and judges of good things cooked were superintending the making of the soup in a huge kettle in the yard, the remainder were getting the cups and spoons ready, acting charades and listening to the music made by Perry Presser and keeping the children awake so they would not lose their share of the feast. One enjoyable feature was a hay ride shared by a large portion of the crowd to and from the seat of pleasure.

HARRIET VANNESS.

The tobacco growers association of Gallatin county held a good meeting at the court house last Saturday, there being a large sized attendance. W. R. Sale, the county chairman, called the meeting to order and made a well timed address relative to the work of the association. The following were elected as the members of the Board of Control: John W. Calender, of Sparta district; Albert Allphin, of the Napoleon district; R. B. Brown of the Warsaw district. David Orr was elected as the grader and inspector. The crop is to be received any time after Dec. 12th, and is to be graded and inspected at Warsaw by Mr. Orr, and deliveries made at Sparta are to be graded and inspected by the Owen County grader. About 640 acres of tobacco in Gallatin County has been signed and sold to the association and this comprises over fifty per cent of the crop of the present year. The crops are paid for by the association as soon as received. Mr. Sale reports the other sections of the State as active in the movement and well organized.—Warsaw Independent.

Many Mothers of a Like Opinion.

To the Democrats of Boone County:

In Mr. Castleman's article of last week, he states that several false statements were made in my card of the week previous. I now desire to say that I did omit to state in my card that the carriage and horses were driven from Erlanger to Walton, where they awaited my arrival from Lakeland at 7 o'clock that evening, and not "until a late hour at night," as Mr. Castleman states in his article. I say that I had a specific contract with Mr. Castleman, or that I assisted him in any way to secure the appointment as guard by Judge Cason, but state that he solicited the appointment, saying, "if permitted to go to Lakeland as a guard I can kill two birds with one stone, as I have some business in that part of the country."

If, as Mr. Castleman says, I have been unfriendly to him for four years, does it seem plausible that I would enter into a scheme with him to impose upon the taxpayers to the extent of $11 76 or any other sum?

In his article Mr. Castleman does not give all the facts nor all the orders, for shortly after his return from Central Kentucky, the following order was made by the County Court:

Boone County Court,
Special Term, 20th day of Oct., 1902,
Hon. P. E. Cason, Judge, Presiding.

It is ordered by the court that D. E. Castleman be and he is hereby allowed the sum of $11 76 as mileage in compensation for his services as guard in assisting constable J. M. Eddins to take Geo. W. Anderson, lunatic, to the Eastern Ky. Lunatic Asylum at Lakeland, Ky., and the sheriff will pay said amount out of any county funds in his hands not otherwise appropriated. P. E. Cason,
A Copy— Co. Judge.
Attest—B. W. Adams, Co. Clerk.

I also give you a copy of the Sheriff's receipt for the above allowance:

No.— Burlington, Ky.,
Nov. 4, 1902.

Received of B. B. Allphin, sherif of Boone county, Eleven & 76-100 Dollars, being amount of claim allowed by county court as guard in Lakeland with G. W. Anderson.
$11 76 D. E. Castleman.
Copy Attest—
B. B. Allphin, S. B. C.

This order and receipt, as you will notice, is for services in acting as guard to Lakeland and not for horse and carriage hire, and shows the manner in which Mr. Castleman imposed upon the County Judge in order to receive the sum of $11.76.

Mr. Castleman further states in his article that he has never said that I received all or any part of the $11.76 allowed him. I offer the affidavits of Mr. George Thomas and Mr. T. J. Walton, two reputable gentlemen whose statements would be believed without affidavits.

Affiant further says that said Castleman told him at that time that he, Castleman, did not go to Lakeland, but that he went to or near Lexington for a member of his family.

The supply of water in Burlington is very short. Be very careful with fire.

This would be delightful weather if water was plentiful.

The seasonable weather during the month of September was very beneficial to late corn and tobacco, as well as pastures. Some counties still complain of drouths and scarcity of stock water. But in nearly all parts of the State good rains have fallen, while not enough to raise the streams or fill the ponds, yet sufficient to keep pastures green and develop the late corn and mature the tobacco crop. The prospect for a full crop of corn advanced from eighty-five per cent. September the first, to ninety-seven per cent. October the first, a gain of twelve points. The indications are that a large wheat crop will be seeded. The late rains have put the ground in splendid condition for seeding wheat, barley, rye, winter oats and grasses. A full crop of barley and rye will be seeded this season. But on account of the almost complete failure of winter oats last season, there will be a considerable falling off in acreage of that crop. The prospect for a full tobacco crop is seventy-five per cent. as against seventy-one per cent. a month ago. While the crop will be short in pounds, it is reported to be of excellent quality, both in the burley and dark districts. There is some complaint of housebarn, but it is too early to estimate the damage from it yet. The amount of clover seed saved is slightly below the average, but the seed is of good quality. Live stock is in good condition. The number of hogs for fattening is about an average. Only one county reported an estimate on yield of lint cotton per acre. Fulton estimates three hundred and fifty pounds per acre. Will try and get a full estimate for our next report. Sorghum and millet crops about an average.

A Golden Wedding.

Last Wednesday, October 12th, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Tanner, of Hopeful neighborhood, celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, and the seventy-second anniversary of Mrs. Tanner's birth. A large number of their relatives and friends were present. At noon a bountiful dinner was spread and was enjoyed by all. On the table was a cloth, sugar bowl and a cup that are over one hundred years old, and well preserved. Mr. and Mrs. Tanner received presents as follows: Mesdames Wm. Phillips, cake plate; A. D. Rouse, pair towels; Alice Rouse, cream pitcher; Laura Rouse, cream pitcher; Henry Barlow, dozen plates; Mollie Rouse, fruit dish; Jonas Tanner, toilet set; Messrs. Wallace Rouse, sugar bowl; Enoch Rouse, mustache cup; F. Ludwig, quart of wine; Ed Tanner, $5 in gold; J. M. Utz, $1; John W. Rouse, $2; John, A. Rouse, $1; Willie Snyder, 75 cents; Misses Ollie Beemon, pair towels; Rosa and Julia Garnett, cream set; Susie Clarkson, fruit dish; Emma Tanner, $5 in gold; Lida Tanner, $5 in gold; Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Tanner, set vegetable dishes; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Rouse, table cloth and cake plate; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Barlow, cream set; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Snyder, table cloth; Mr. and Mrs. George Lucas, cups and saucers; Mrs. Luella Star, stand cover; A. D. Rouse, 25 cents and plug of tobacco.

We wish Mr. and Mrs. Tanner many more happy wedding anniversaries, and Mrs. Tanner many more birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner wish to extend their thanks to their friends for the presents donated. *

LIGHTS IN THE WORLD

By the "Highway and Hedge" Preacher.

(Copyright, 1904, by J. M. Edson.)

Chicago, Sunday, Oct. 16, 1904.
Arise, shine; for thy Light is come, and the glory of the Lord is risen upon thee. His glory shall be seen upon thee.—Isa. 60:1-2.

CROWDED within the compass of our text we find declaration of a marvelous truth, the designation of a splendid mission and the rousing message of the prophet's appeal. The Light come into the world; the glory of that Light to be seen upon those who come to the Light, and the urgency of the need, and the blessedness of the privilege of being light holders. Right now before his vision the revived and re-established nation of Israel. The Light, the One, Whom the nation rejected when He first came to earth, has returned and has been received by the nation as its Messiah and King. And the cry of the prophet comes to stir the people to universal missionary activity as the glory of her King is reflected upon her and she goes forth to shine for Him. As one reads through the chapter the story, power and influence of the nation is unfolded. All nations are to come under the influence and sway of the restored nation of Israel, and all are to come to know the Lord. This is the great and ultimate fulfillment of this prophecy. There is, however, a nearer message for the heart that knows and loves the Lord. Israel is not ready yet to receive her King. She is not prepared to cry: "Blessed is He Who cometh in the name of the Lord." But there are individual hearts all over this land and throughout the world who have beheld the Light which has come into the world; who have received that Light as the beacon ray which could light them back to God, and eternity with Him. To such the cry of the prophet comes as a present appeal, a present blessed story of the Christ Who has come into the world to save sinners, a present glorious privilege of serving Christ to the saving of others.

YOU may read these words without a thrill stirring your heart. You may hear the prophet's words without being conscious of their wondrous message. It is not the fault of the mighty glorious truth set forth, but .the fault of the cold, unresponsive heart that hears, yet is not conscious of the harmonious music Divine; which sees, does not appreciate the exquisite coloring which God has placed here. The artist is told of the celebrated artist painter that one day as he was exhibiting some of his masterpieces to a lady she viewed it critically and then remarked, appreciatively: "Is not this coloring a little unnatural and overdone? I never saw such sky as that." "Ah, Madam," replied the artist, "but don't you wish you could?" She did not have the artistic eye that could catch the exquisite colorings that the artist was able to see and put on canvas. But the tints and colors were there just the same, and the heart as it hears the message of love text may fail to feel the thrill of Divine raptnre. The lady critic of Turner's masterpiece could never know the artistic vision that would give her full appreciation of the beauties of the picture, but, thank God! it need not be so in regard to things spiritual. Where the hearing is dull and the eyesight is dim, that the message awakens no responsive echoes in the heart, and no vision comes with its inspiration and power, it all be changed under the gracious operation of God's spirit. The heart may be quickened to hear and the blind eyes may be opened to see.

THE great initial truth is that light has come into the world. This is the center from which all other truths radiates. Light in the world, and yet how indifferent we are to that Light. How unresponsive to its quickening rays. The hard bare rock by the roadside lies under the rays of the sun, its surface is warmed thereby, but how unresponsive and indifferent it is to the great light holder glowing in the heavens. But the little flower by the edge of the great rock eagerly watches for the very faint ray of light in the east and then unfolds its petals to the advancing light. It catches the rare tints of the rainbow in its leaf and flower as it follows the sun in its course. It is conscious of the light all the live long day, and responsive to that light, it grows in beauty and beauty. Ah, how like the rock by the roadside is the human heart! The Light that has come falls upon it, and yet it feels no new impulses, it undergoes no change, it remains the same, cold unresponsive thing that it was before the Light came and shined upon it. The Light does not want us to be like the rock by the roadside in the human heart! The Light that has come falls upon it, and yet it feels no new impulses, it undergoes no change, it remains the same, cold unresponsive thing that it was before the Light came and shined upon it. The Light does not want us to be like the rock by the roadside in the human heart! He wants us to be as the responsive flower that opens to be conscious of the quickening and development which He would set in motion as we grow up in the Light. He wants us to catch the rare tints and colors which come from Christ, John 1:4, "In Him was life; and the life was the light of men." He would have us as fellowship with Him and the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin. He would have us day by day we walking in the Light as He is in the Light. "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet and a light unto my path." The Spirit of the Lord would stir our hearts to real- ize that the last part of the text: "His glory shall be seen upon thee."

WHAT a relationship to sustain to the Christ, the Light of the world! His glory to be seen upon us! But, oh, how often it is far otherwise! No glory of the Son shines through us. It is worldliness, and selfishness, and the multitude of other things which find expression in our lives and shine forth to influence others away from Christ and God. Lights in the world, and yet giving out a false light. Set by God as those who should reflect the Christ and falling absolutely so to do. Think you there is no need of the prophet's plea? Think you that to every heart into which the Light has shined there should not come the cry: "Arise! Shine!" Yes, arise! You need to get upon a higher plane. You must rise out of your life of the flesh and live in the Spirit. You must crucify the affections and lusts of the old man, and rise and put on the graces of character of the new man. It is a call to leave the valley of the world's life and to get up upon the mountain top, where you may be seen as a light in the world guiding men to the true Light which is shining through you. No man ever thinks of putting a beacon light on the low levels. It rises above every surrounding object. It stands away above the projecting rocks of the coast, and the leaping billows can only dash and foam in their mad effort to mount the lofty pile of stone, while the faithful light shines out unmoved far above. And so it should be with the Christian. Arise! is the cry. Carry the walls of the Christian graces far upward where the light Christ has given you may shine out upon the darkness of the world. Below the storm and conflict of life may rage, the darkness may be appalling, and the rocks watching for their prey, but all unmoved the light far above will shine out and guide many a soul to the safe haven of Christ's redeeming love.

IT WAS a marvelous truth to which Christ gave expression when He declared to Philip, after he had asked to be shown the Father: "Have I been so long a time with you, and yet hast thou not known Me, Philip? He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou, then, Shew us the Father?" And it is equally as marvelous a truth that the Christ is to be revealed to the world through His followers. Ah, how Christians by their imperfect, weak, wayward lives dishonor and misrepresent the Christ! But it is God's purpose and desire that His glory should be seen upon the Christian. We are to be the mirrors in which the Christ will be seen. It may be difficult and often absolutely impossible to get a lost and perishing soul to listen to a sermon, but the Christian can and ought to be a "living epistle, known and read of all men." If he were such the world would be speedily brought to the feet of the Saviour of men. On the ceiling of one of the magnificent old churches of Europe is spread one of the rare paintings of a celebrated master of the art. Its striking beauty was appreciated by all who would lift their eyes upward and gaze upon it, but few enjoyed it because of the tiresome and unnatural position one was forced to take in viewing it. This was unfortunate and a real loss to the hundreds of worshipers who passed to and fro under the master piece, without taking the time or the trouble to look up. This was a source of grief to the church dignitaries, and how to place the beautiful painting within the easy reach of all was the problem demanding solution. At last a large and perfect mirror was placed on the floor at such an angle as to perfectly and clearly reflect the painting in all its beauty and bring it within the vision of all who came and went.

THE Christ, the perfect Model, the Saviour of men, has been exalted to a place in the Heavens, and His disciples have been left in the world to reflect His glory. It may be difficult, yea, impossible, to get the world's people to look up and see the Christ, but His disciples may be the mirrors in which the beautiful graces and virtues of the Christ life may be reflected, and men beholding shall be impressed and influenced thereby. Let us, then, be the mirrors in which the Light may be sent into all the dark places of the earth. It was not long after the mirror was placed in the floor of the cathedral that it was noted that more and more of the worshipers were turning their gaze from the mirrored reflection to the original painting. Having gained a vision, a dawning conception, of the beauty and grandeur of the art treasure, they were no longer content with only the mirrored reflection. They wanted to study and know the original. And so it is bound to be with the disciples of Christ who have been set as lights in the world. If they faithfully reflect the life and character of the Christ Whose they are and Whom they serve, it will not be long until there will be many longing to see and know the Christ Himself. They will no longer be satisfied with the reflection, but will want to meet the blessed Christ face to face, and heart to heart. Then will a new mirror he set in the world's pavement; then will there be new lights shed in the dark places; then will there be other souls blessed, and the Gospel light will be spread. Arise! Shine! Oh, Christian! Thy Light has come! You realize it. You know it. Why, then, are you not shining for Him? Arise! Arise!! Arise!!! For there are perishing souls all about you who need the light. And true it is that the voice of the prophet is the voice of God as he cries: "Arise! Shine!" What shall our answer be? Because of the Christ Who has come as Light into the world; because of the souls perishing in the darkness of the world's sin; because we have been set as lights in the world, surely we can make but one reply. We will say: "We will let our lights so shine before men that they may see our good works and glorify our Saviour in Heaven."

OPENING OF A UNIQUE BUILDING

A Monument of Wise and Successful Newspaper Advertising.

Out at Battle Creek, Mich., among the trees, flowers and green lawns is a most unique building devoted entirely to advertising. It is occupied by the Grandin Advertising Agency Ltd., which handles among other accounts, the advertising of the Postum Cereal Co. Ltd., aggregating in round figures one million dollars a year, perhaps the largest appropriation of any one concern in the world. The furnishings of this grand structure are rich and complete, and all the appointments are worthy their beautiful environment.

Prominent newspaper and magazine publishers and their special representatives in large number from New York, Chicago, and various parts of the country attended the formal opening of this building, and a banquet in the evening at the Post Tavern as guests of C. W. Post, Oct. 3, 1904.

Pure Food Factories That Makes Postum and Grape-Nuts.

The publishers inspected the 14 or 15 factory buildings of this father of the prepared food industry with especial interest, for it has grown to its present colossal proportions in a trifle less than 9 years, a marked example of the power of good and continuous advertising of articles of pronounced merit.

In his address to Publishers at the Battle Creek banquet Mr. Post likened the growth of a modern commercial enterprise to the growth of an apple-tree. Good seed, plenty of work and water are needed, but the tree will not bear apples without sunshine.

The sunshine to the commercial plant is publicity secured by advertising.

It is impossible even with the heaviest advertising to make a success unless the article has merit of a high order. Merit is the good tree and sunshine makes the apples grow. A good salesman who knows how to talk with his pen can present the logic, argument and salesman ability to thousands of customers at one time through the columns of the newspaper, a strong contrast to the old fashioned way of talking to one customer at a time.

He spoke of the esteem of the advertiser for a publisher that takes especial interest in making the advertising announcement attractive. Advertisements should contain truthful information of interest and value to readers. The Postum methods have made Battle Creek famous all over the world and about doubled the population.

FAILED IN REAL POLITICS.

Rueful Reminiscences of a Theatrical Star Who Was the Easy Victim.

Maclyn Arbuckle, the successful star of the eastern company playing George Ade's "The County Chairman," began his career first as a lawyer, then he was a politician. In the Theater Magazine appears this characteristic account of the demise of theee early ambitions, written by Mr. Arbuckle shortly after he became an actor:

"As I go about the city I notice signs of 'Attorney at Law.' Ah me! I wonder if they are young lawyers. If so, my heart goes out to them. There they sit, companion pieces to Dickens' Micawber, ever watching and waiting for something to 'turn up.' Poor souls! They go to their offices and open their invisible voluminous mail, and take their clients one at a time, and fill their safe drawers with fives and retainers. Oh, it is glorious! Three short weeks ago I was one of them—shingle swinging to the tune of 'Destitute and Raggity' by the rough zephyrs of legal poverty, and it is professional, you know, to be legally poor. But how different now! I closed the lid of the casket that bore all that remains of the 'Legal Wreck' and consigned the remains to the fraternity that they might be buried with becoming professional dignity—funeral expenses to be paid out of 'fees due me;' fees that never came! It is a great awakening from a three years' sleep, a young Rip Van Winkle slumber! Fight, you lawyers, over your fees! Seize the farmers' lands, 'for fees, you know.' Take the mules and cows. Sound forth your legal arguments in the courts of justice! Look you wise and renew your 30, 60 and 90 day paper in the bank. Take all, I quit-claim to you in fee simple for love and affection. And oh, you candidates for political and judicial honors, ride your scrawny horses and mules through Red river bottoms, dine with the dear colored voters, kiss the sweet, pretty little dirty child of the dear voters, take your mysterious grips to the 'speaking,' ride all night, take stock in every church, colored and white, school barbecue! Oh, what bliss, what felicity, to have a huge colored gentleman demand a five, and suggest that if it is not forthcoming he will 'surely turn his whole following and district against you,' and oh, what woe when you haven't the five to stay his cruel power! At last the day has come! Up early, spreading tickets broadcast, 'Vote for Maclyn Arbuckle, Justice of the Peace,' Opponent looking slyly at you and wondering about your strength. Visit polls. Your men (colored) proclaim you elected without a doubt. 'Want a quarter' for their dinners. What's the news from Wagner's, Hoom's, Holmes' Schoolhouse, Wilkins' Woods? Conflicting accounts. Sometimes ahead, sometimes behind. The sun sets and you little know that your glory and responsibility sets with it. Polls close. Niggers yell (for everybody). Returns slowly come in. Hope up, but votes down. Opponent gets full. You go to bed, full of expectations. Get up, fall down. Defeated! You are a member of the large and honorable body of 'Defeated Candidates.' Meet successful candidate. Congratulate him. Knew it all the time. Opponent gets full again. Friends console, tell you you are all right, only too young. Help you to prepare for the Salt river packet. There you are. Three long months canvassing, starving, enduring, speaking, praying, hoping and wavering! Money and office gone. There you are! Where? You don't know yourself. Nohody else."

PATRIOTISM OF JAPANESE.

From Empress Down to Peasant Girl All Make Sacrifices to Help Relief Fund.

Societies and associations have been organized in Japan to relieve the families of the fighting men, and every one makes certain contributions to the relief fund. Some men contribute money or goods, some their labor, and most of the lint and bandage used for the wounded are the works of women, from the empress down to the peasant girl, writes Nobushige Amenomori, in Atlantic. Little boys and girls willingly forego their daily sweetmeats, and give the small moneye thus saved to the relief societies. A boy 11 years old in a country school made one day a contribution of two yen. It was thought too much for a country boy's gift. The school-teacher and the elderman of the village suspected the money might have been given the lad by his parents to satisfy his vanity; in which case it should be admonished against. An inquiry was accordingly made, and brought out the fact that the boy had actually earned the money for the purpose by devoting his play hours to the making of straw sandals. Even some criminals working in prisons have made several applications to contribute their earnings to the funds, though their wishes have not been complied with. In every village a compact has been made that those remaining at home should look after the farms of those at the front, so that their families may not be disappointed of the usual crops. Since the outbreak of the war the government's bonds have been twice issued at home, and each time the subscription more than trebled the amount called for, the imperial household taking the lead by subscribing 20,000.000 yen. Thus the hardships of the war are cheerfully borne by every man, woman and child in the land.

The Color of Hair.

From the color of a man's hair may be learned a good deal in regard to his intellectual ability, says a professor who has for some months been closely studying the subject. School boys with chestnut hair, he maintains, are likely to be more clever than any others, and will generally be found, at the head of the class, and in like manner girls with fair hair are likely to be far more studious and bright than girls with dark hair. In mathematics and recitations these boys and girls, he asserts, especially excel. On the other hand, he says that boys and girls with brown hair are most likely to attain distinction through their individuality and style, and that those with red or auburn hair do not often excel in any respect.

How to Make German Pie.

A delicious pie of German origin is gaining favor here. It is made of crust raised over night, as bread is raised, with the addition of an egg worked into it in the morning. Sweetened to taste, this crust is rolled out about an inch thick, laid in a pan and the edges trimmed. Peaches cut in slices are then pressed into the dough, sprinkled with sugar, and grated lemon may be dusted over the fruit. Apples may be used instead of peaches, and likewise huckleberries.

No Kinship.

Congressman James Hamilton Lewis, of Chicago, is the politest man in the country. When in Seattle, one night after making a fiery speech he was coming down the aisle bowing right and left, when he discovered an elderly colored lady. "Why, good evening, mammy," the colonel said.

His speech hadn't pleased her, so she replied: "Look heah, sah, I is not yo' mammy; you ain't nothin' but jes' poor white trash!"—Woman's Home Companion.

BITS FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.

Variety of Information Which May Be Found Useful in Their Work.

A Newport woman is credited with having started the vogue of using old-time garden flowers for table decoration. She has a charming old-fashioned garden, where dahlias, hollyhocks and other of the brilliant favorites of our grandmothers grow. When she began decorating her dinner table with big bowls of double pink hollyhocks other fashionable women instantly recognized the charm of the lovely old flower, and abandoned their American Beauties, at least for summer wear.

Some one has made a clever discovery about hemming table linen. Hand hemmed it must be, of course; but, thanks to this bright idea, the machine can still be made to do the greater part of the work. Here is the suggestion: Have your tablecloth ready as if to sew by machine, and turn the hem all along with the hemmer, but without threading the needle. This turning in of the hem is, every one knows, the most laborious part of the task. With this accomplished it is a comparatively easy matter to complete the sewing by hand.

Old people often make the mistake of coddling themselves too much, says a physician in What to Eat. Thus they cause a weakening of the vital forces before the advance of age has done so. Nature never intended that a man should be put into a hothouse at 60 and kept there as a delicate plant. Too much solicitude about the health of such a person may be the actual cause of death. The vitality of the person may be somewhat lessened at 60, but the man or woman whose health has received a fair amount of attention is not by any means ready to be shelved at that age. All that is required is a little lessening of the burden of life and a little more care of the health.

Add no water, either hot or cold, to form the gravy of roast beef. While this answers very well for the white meats and poultry, it is much better to put the meat into a hot oven and gradually reduce the heat, so that its natural juicee exude, which are the best for basting it. Dredge with pepper first, then with flour, adding salt only after the crust of the meat is well formed. A little grated onion is considered to improve the flavor. Beef thus roasted will be found to yield a quantity of delicious "plate gravy" upon being carved.

Rag rugs are more and more liked for bedrooms. They are made in most artistic combinations of color by the craftsmen, and may be woven to order in tones to match any room. Rugs made of old ingrain carpet, especially if the carpet he all wool, are very satisfactory for simple rooms and upstairs halls. The carpet is cut into long strips about an inch wide, the longer the better, and rolled into balls for the loom. When pieces are sewed the joinings must be very neatly made. The warp has to he very heavy to hold the carpet well, and care should be taken that the weaver is a good one. An old green ingrain woven with a red warp is decribed by Mrs. Candace Wheeler as one of the choicest in her collection. The red warp is good with nearly all figured carpets.

STORY OF A PLAIN WOMAN

Backhanded Compliment Is Received from One of Her Sex Out in Public.

"In my thirty-odd years of existence," said the woman who can enjoy a story at her own expense, relates the New York Sun, "I have learned to accept my own plainness of face very philosophically, and sometimes I have felt that my ample reward is the pride I take in the noticeable good looks of my small daughter. But it took a stranger to bring the truth home to me with real force.

"The other day I was on one of the ferries with my baby girl and was enjoying the favorable attention she evidently was receiving from the other passengers. One woman, after watching the child and myself intently for several minutes, suddenly leaned toward me and said in the most positive tone:

"'That isn't your little girl.'

"'She certainly is,' I replied, rather spiritedly.

"'Well,' gasped the woman, settling back in her seat, 'she's a beautiful looking child.'

"And, of course, I enjoyed taking the backhanded compliment home to my husband."

Rollemups.

These little spicy rolls of fish are a German conceit and very tempting, particularly when served for breakfast with French fried potatoes and crisp radishes. To prepare, select plump salt Holland herring; remove the backbone and divide lengthwise into fillets and soak for six hours in cold water; drain and on each piece lay three peppercorns, a tiny piece of a bay leaf, a bit of lemon peel, two or three cloves and half a teaspoonful of chopped onion; roll up, tie with thread, or fasten with tiny skewers and place in a crock; heat sufficient vinegar to cover the fish and pour over it; repeat the process for three mornings, when the rollemups will be ready to serve. If the vinegar is very sharp dilute with water to the amount of a third.—Boston Budget.

Ethereal Apple Sauce.

Boil a half dozen large, tender apples in their skins until the skins burst; strain through a purse sieve and set aside until cold. Whip half a pint of cream and the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth; add the apple pulp and sweeten to taste. Place in a mold on the ice until needed.—Washington Star.

The Sardonyx in Art.

The finest example of sardonyx cameo is in King Edward's collection at Windsor castle. The stone measures 7.5 by 5.875 inches and is cut upon a rich oriental sardonyx of four strata. It is a contemporary portrait of Emperor Claudius. The ground is in the dark-brown stratum, the laurel wreath and front of the cuirass in the honey-brown and the head and hair in the white. The whole is surrounded by a raised border enriched with molding, cut in the thickness of the stone.—Baltimore Sun.

Mozart's Home.

In the middle of Salsburg stands the small house in which Mozart was born. It contains two old pianos and many relics belonging to the composer, whose skull is preserved in a glass case placed in the center of the room in which he first saw the light. The skull is all that remains of Mozart, whose body could not be identified in the mass of remains that filled the common paupers' grave wherein he had been buried at Vienna.

Attractive Lamps.

An agreeable change from the heavy lamps, with bowls of metal or foreign pottery, is one with a shallow bowl supported on a delicate tripod of copper more than a foot high, in which a jeweled effect is produced by the turquoise matrix sparingly used. Lamps of Nancy glass are even newer and more delicate than those of Tiffany, but their exquisite beauty comes at a very high figure.—Detroit Free Press.

Bird Too Fresh.

A magpie named "Bob Fitzsimmons," which assaulted every new comer in the "happy family" of which he was a member in a cage at the zoological gardens, London, was found almost torn to pieces the other morning. Evidently he had been the victim of a general attack, but the exact circumstances will never be known, as "even the parrots refuse to say a word."

Mrs. De Long Finds that the Indescribable Pains of Rheumatism Can be Cured Through the Blood.

Mrs. E. M. De Long, of No. 160 West Broadway, Council Bluffs, Iowa, found herself suddenly attacked by rheumatism in the winter of 1896. She gave the doctor a chance to help her, which he failed to improve, and then she did some thinking and experimenting of her own. She was so successful that she deems it her duty to tell the story of her escape from suffering:

"My brother-in-law," she says, "was enthusiastic on the subject of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a purifier of the blood, and when I was suffering extreme pains in the joints of my ankles, knees, hips, wrists and elbows, and the doctor was giving me no relief, I began to reflect that rheumatism is a disease of the blood and that, if Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are so good for the blood, they must be good for rheumatism and worth a trial.

"I was in bed half the time, suffering with pain that cannot be described to one who has never had the disease. It would concentrate sometimes in one set of joints. When it was in my feet I could not walk, when it was in my elbows and wrists I could not even draw the coverlets over my body. I had suffered in this way for weeks before I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Two weeks after I began with them I experienced relief and after I had taken six boxes I was entirely well. To make sure I continued to use them about two weeks longer and then stopped altogether. For several years I have had no reason to use them for myself, but I have recommended them to others as an excellent remedy."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills furnish the blood with all the elements that are needed to build up healthy tissue, strong muscles and nerves, capable of bearing the strain that nature puts upon them. They really make new blood and cure all diseases arising from disorders of the blood or nerves, such as sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, St. Vitus' dance, nervous prostration, anaemia and all forms of weakness in either male or female. They are sold by all druggists.

Western Canada's Magnificent Crops for 1904

FARMS WESTERN CANADA

Western Canada's Wheat Crop this year will be 60,000,000 bushels, and wheat at present is worth $1.00 a bushel.

The oat and barley crop will also yield abundantly.

Splendid prizes for all kinds of grain, cattle and other farm produce for the growing of which the climate is unsurpassed.

About 150,000 Americans have settled in Western Canada during the past three years.

Thousands of free Homesteads of 160 acres each still available in the best Agricultural districts.

It has been said that the United States will be forced to import wheat within a very few years. Secure a farm in Canada and become one of those who will help produce it.

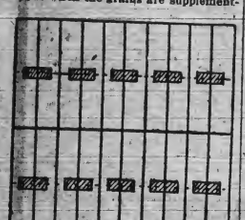
HORTICULTURAL HINTS.



ADVICE FOR A BEGINNER.

Everything in the Poultry Business Depends on Getting a Successful Start.

"I am starting a poultry business here and I have sufficient ground to raise all my feed (excepting fresh meat), and wish some suggestions as to what is best to raise. I have corn, oats, Kaffir corn, sweet corn and sorghum planted; I have 29 acres of tillable land. Also, how many hens per rooster for breeding purposes give best results? Also, how much fresh meat per 100 fowls, and how often should it be fed? How shall I divide my running yards? Also, would it be advisable to place house and running yards in an old orchard?"

To the above inquirer Mr. L. E. Keyser replies in the Ohio Farmer as follows:

You have a sufficient variety of foods when the grains are supplemented with meat and green food. Wheat and buckwheat are superior to sweet corn and sorghum, if as easily grown. Cabbage, mangel-wurzels etc., should be grown for green food in winter. I prefers mangels, as they are less difficult to handle and store. A ration composed of a mixture of the grains named, with green food and meat, should be divided about as follows: Whole and ground grain, 55 per cent.; green food, 30 per cent.; animal food, 15 per cent. It is best to feed meat every day, giving about four and one-half pounds to each 100 fowls. If you can secure fresh bones from the butcher and have a bone cutter, this is probably the best meat supply. If bones are difficult to secure, feed a good grade of beef scraps.

POULTRY HOUSE AND YARD.

The number of females to one male varies with the different breeds. For the lighter and more active breeds, such as Leghorns, 20; Plymouth Rocks, 15 to 20; Brahmas, 10 or 12 are safe numbers.

In locating a poultry plant it is a great advantage to have the houses all face the south or southeast. House room 12x14 is sufficient for 25 fowls, and the yards 24x100 feet are also about right for this number. Your plan is good if the houses all face the south. The runs may extend from the north side if desired. An old orchard is an ideal place for locating a poultry plant, and is especially valuable as a run for growing stock. Another excellent plan is to have houses in the middle of the runs, making them 50 feet deep on each side of house.

The accompanying plan is a good one. Houses are 10x32 feet, divided into two pens each 10x16, holding 25 fowls each. Yards, 22x50; two to each pen; one in front and one in rear of house. The hens can be allowed to occupy both yards, or may be confined to one yard while a forage crop is growing in the other. Portable fence may be moved from one side to the other, thus saving half the cost of fence and leaving the ground on one side of the houses clear for cultivation. The houses all face the south. This plan may be extended to accommodate any number of fowls.

HELPFUL POULTRY HINTS.

Disinfectants are better than disease.

A boiled egg which is done will dry quickly on the shell when taken from the kettle.

Wooden floors close to the ground attract the damp from the earth, and are always moist.

The dust heap aids materially to cleanse the feathers and skin from vermin and impurities.

The eggs from hens by themselves will keep good three times as long as those that are fertile.

Sell off the surplus cockerels and do not retain the late-hatched pullets, as they will not lay until spring.

In feeding fowls at any time, whether in confinement or not, give only so much as they will eat up clean.—American Tribune.

More Yard Room for Hens.

Where fowls are kept yarded they do not often have the amount of yard room that should be given them. On our farms restrictions of this kind are not necessary, as land is worth too small a price to make it necessary to lessen the amount the fowls should have. The small amount allotted to the poultry is often due to the cost of fencing. But the larger the yard the less the cost of fencing. If no top rail is used, four feet will be found high enough for a wire fence, if the yard is of good size. The smaller the yard the higher will the fence have to be, as the smaller the yard the more strenuously will the fowls try to get out of it.—Farmers' Review.

TIME FOR WEANING COLTS.

How to Bring the Foals Through a Serious Period of Existence with Perfect Success.

The season for weaning foals is at hand and it is time to make preparation therefor, if such preparation has not already been made. The colt should be taught to eat grain and be fed regularly so that it will learn to depend upon the feed rather than upon its mother's milk. Under such conditions there will be much less fuss on the part of both mare and colt when the latter is finally removed, and the change will have less effect upon the growth and condition of the colt, as it is extended over a long period and effected gradually, says the Prairie Farmer.

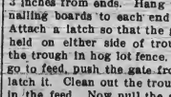
It will be well, too, to have the colt halter-broken before it is taken away from its mother. At no time can it be more readily taught to stand tied or to lead than when by the side of the dam. Even if the colt is to run loose in a shed or box during the winters until it is old enough to work, the halter-breaking at this time should not be neglected. The colt will never forget it and when ready to go into harness will be much more tractable because of the early lessons.

Again, it is often necessary to handle the colts during their growing period for the purpose of trimming the feet or dressing wounds that have been accidentally inflicted and in such cases it is a very great advantage to have them well halter-broken.

The colt should be liberally fed on nourishing, growing food during its first winter, as its development the first year determines largely the kind of a horse it will make. After the first year it will get along very well on coarser and cheaper feed than some other kinds of stock, but it should have of the best during the first year.

While it should have a liberal grain ration the colt should not be fed too much corn. Muscle and bone making feeds such as oats and bran are better suited to its needs. A mixture of corn, oats and bran make an excellent grain ration for the colt. With good clover or alfalfa hay for roughage, the bran may be dispensed with, and a larger proportion of corn used with satisfactory results.

HORSES THRIVE ON SILAGE



But, Says an Indiana Man, It Must Be Fed Judiciously and with Some Care.

When silage was first introduced many cases of sickness in horses were reported, and it was then thought silage was not suited for horses; under proper care, however, good silage is a safe and valuable food for horses. When beginning to feed silage, allow the animal to become accustomed to the food by degrees, as this is an important as when changing from old to new corn or from hay to grass. At the first feed give a small amount, and increase gradually as the animal's appetite and condition of bowels may indicate. Silage makes a good roughage for horses when used in connection with hay or stover and grain. Silage is also a good feed for hogs and has been found to be economical to use in conjunction with corn as a maintenance ration, but not so if used alone. All good silage contains a large amount of corn and if a large ration of corn is given besides, it often proves dangerous and gives bowel trouble. Hogs fed from 28 to 36 pounds of silage and 14 to 21 pounds of corn on the cob per week can be kept in good condition through the severe winter. By using silage the feeder saves one-third in the cost of feed. Silage is considered a cheap maintenance ration for carrying brood sows over winter, and not for fattening.—Agricultural Epitomist.

CONVENIENT HOG TROUGH.

Arrangement That Is Handy Because It Can Be Cleaned Without the Pigs Interfering.

Make a common V shaped trough of heavy solid lumber. Make a swing gate of 2x4 timber and one inch boards.

Take 2 1-4 inch boards 12 inches wide by 4 feet long and bore 2 inch holes in 3 inches from ends. Hang the gate by nailing boards to each end of trough. Attach a latch so that the gate can be held on either side of trough. Place the trough in hog lot fence. When you go to feed, push the gate from you and latch it. Clean out the trough and put in the feed. Now pull the gate to you so hogs can eat. This arrangement is handy, for the trough can be cleaned or feed mixed without hogs interfering.—C. B. Robinson.

Windmill Made at Home.

It may be built by setting an upright post, supporting an upright shaft, having a hub on top, carrying three horizontal arms, to each of which are hinged light rectangular frames, covered with heavy muslin or light canvas, regulated to swing in one direction only, from horizontal to perpendicular. The sails are carried with wind at right angles to it, and return edgewise against the wind. The post may lean two feet at the top, so as to shorten the connection of the upper box with it. The lower bearing may be in a post set even with the ground, under the upper bearing. The pulley, four feet in diameter, secured near the bottom of the shaft, may have a smooth, true groove for rope band burned into its circumference by a screw-bar, its one end resting in a hole in a post, the other in hand, while the middle, in contact with the wheel, is red hot.—Albert Dally, in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

AERIAL RAILWAY IN INDIA.

Sensational Religious Ceremony That Takes Place in the Himalayas.

One of the most remarkable and sensational religious ceremonies in the whole of India takes place annually at Kulu, in the Himalayas, says Chambers' Journal.

From a cliff overhanging a precipitous gorge several hundred feet deep a rope is stretched, and fastened to a strong stake on the opposite side of the ravine. The rope is of great length, nearly 2,500 feet, and when it is stretched tant the upper end will be several hundred feet higher than the lower end.

Down this terrible incline the victim or performer slides, the precaution having been taken to wet the rope to prevent it from catching fire from the friction.

This descent is effected as follows: The performer sits astride on a kind of rough wooden saddle fitted with holes through which the rope is threaded, while to his legs are attached bags filled with sand to enable him to maintain an upright position during his descent, and also to increase the momentum. The lower end of the rope is wound round with rugs and carpets, in order to check the descent at landing, and prevent the jheri, as the performer is called, from dashing his brains out against the pole to which the rope is fastened.

The first few hundred yards of the descent is accomplished with lightning velocity, as is indicated by the stream of smoke which follows in his wake. The incline then diminishing, the pace becomes slower and slower, so that by the time he reaches the goal he is able to stop himself without danger.

The underlying motive of this curious ceremony is that if the flight is safely accomplished prosperity is assured to the crops for the year. This sentiment naturally minimizes the danger of the feat, as it is to every one's interest that it should be safely accomplished. Indeed, a similar motive is at the bottom of certain religious festivals in Roman Catholic countries.

A well-known example of this is the fete of the Scoppio, at Florence, when a dove, albeit an artificial one, performs an aerial flight of a somewhat similar nature on a wire stretched from the summit of the high altar of the cathedral to an ox wagon filled with fireworks, which is stationed in front of the west door. The Himalayan ceremony can be traced back for hundreds of years, and the men who perform the feat form a small distinct caste.

THEN BINKS REMEMBERED.

Owned to the Stolen Bottles When Partner in Crime Gave Him the Facts.

The dignified citizen had just finished telling his story to the grand jury and, duly impressed by his importance as a cog in the machinery of the law, had started for the door. He was halted by a call from one of the grand jurors, relates the Chicago Daily News.

"Mr. Binks! Just a moment!"

Mr. Binks stopped, slowly retraced his steps and again took the witness chair.

"Mr. Binks," said the inquiring juror, "didn't you say you live on the North side?"

"I did, sir," said Mr. Binks, with the importance which some North side people always assume. He looked at his inquisitor, but the black beard tinged with gray of the grand juror and the twinkling eyes behind the glasses told him nothing.

"Mr. Binks," went on the juror, "didn't your father at one time keep a drug store on the North side?"

"He did," replied Mr. Binks, wondering what that had to do with his testimony.

"Now, Mr. Binks," pursued the grand juror, "didn't you at one time steal a number of wine bottles from your father?"

"Certainly not, sir!" shouted Mr. Binks, standing up, indignantly, while the other 22 jurors stared at the bearded member.

"Yes, you did, Tom," exclaimed that mysterious person, leaving his seat in the row of jurors and advancing to Mr. Binks with extended hand, "because I helped you and I took 'em around to the front and sold 'em again to the old man. Don't you know me, you old fraud?"

Then they had a reunion and the grand jury took a recess.

Submarines of the World.

The submarine boat seems to be already well on its way out of the experimental stage and to be now a part of the regular machinery of destruction. There are at present about 200 of these vessels in existence and attached to the various navies of the world. The largest number is owned by France, which possesses 58. Next comes Russia, with 34. The English navy has 29 submarines, the Spanish 22, the American 17, the Italian 9, the German 8, the Swedish 6, the Portuguese 2 and the Turkish 2. Strange to say, the Japanese navy has won its recent signal successes without the aid of this class of ship. If the submarines live up to their expectations they will place a new complexion upon the naval warfare, but the present Russo-Japanese struggle is hardly likely to give them the crucial test which is needed.—N. Y. Herald.

An Illusion.

"Do you think that an egotist has the best chance of success in life?"

"No," answered the philosopher; "the egotist is so well satisfied with himself that he is likely to seem successful whether he is or not."—Washington Star.

Just Wanted to Arrive.

After Eugene Field's return from his first trip to Europe, where he "spent his patrimony like a prince," and before he went to Denver, he had a little close personal experience with hard times. One day he walked into a leading St. Louis hotel, and, squaring himself before the register, inscribed his name in his well-known copperplate chirography. The clerk had never heard of him, but he read the name with a quick glance, and said: "Do you wish a room, Mr. Field?" "No," was the answer. "Dinner?" "No." "Then may I ask what you do want?" continued the clerk. "I just wanted to arrive," replied Field, solemnly; "I had not arrived at a good hotel for many months. I feel better. Thank you," and he walked out with long, heavy strides.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Maps.

Robert Louis Stevenson, one of the most notable English writers known to the present generation, was wont to say that nothing interested him more than the perusal of a good map; and without doubt, a map that is well made and accurate catches the eye and arrests the attention of many people as few other things can do.

The men in charge of railway traffic possess a most positive appreciation of this fact and a large expenditure of time and skillful thought is made on this feature of railway publicity, so that such portions of the country as the Black Hills in South Dakota, the wonderful mountain ranges compactly rising tier upon tier throughout the central and western portion of Colorado, the rich valleys and hillsides of California, covered with vineyards, orchards and grain fields, Yellowstone Park, the Yosemite, Alaska, and those regions of interlacing lakes and water courses which mark that portion of the great northwest located in upper Wisconsin, southern Minnesota and that part of Michigan known as the Upper Peninsula, have been mapped in detail and given to the public gratis, far and wide.

Said an official of the Chicago & North-Western Railway recently: "The American railway map engraver has carried his art well-nigh to the borders of perfection. I do not know of any road maps or other detailed data for the state of Wisconsin, for instance, that equal those published by our passenger department, showing the haunts of summer tourists and fishermen. They are on file in public libraries as part of their reference records. Other portions of the western country have been similarly taken up and maps of a most complete character made for them; in fact, the western lines are fully alive to the value of a good map in the hands of the traveler. The map publishing business of the large railway systems is to-day reduced to scientific principles and handled in a most systematic manner. The North Western Line prints thousands of maps, running all the way from large wall maps of the world, down to the smallest details of sections and quarter sections of Government land open for settlement in the west, and from an atlas containing a series of maps of the seat of war in the far east to the most carefully worked out portrayal of Colorado's mountain regions, California's winter resorts, or the summering places that abound along the line throughout the west and northwest."

A prominent Southern lady, Mrs. Blanchard, of Nashville, Tenn., tells how she was cured of backache, dizziness, painful and irregular periods by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Gratitude compels me to acknowledge the great merit of your Vegetable Compound. I have suffered for four years with irregular and painful menstruation, also dizziness, pains in the back and lower limbs, and fitful sleep. I dreaded the time to come when I would only mean suffering to me.

"Better health is all I wanted, and cure if possible. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me health and happiness in a few short months. I feel like another person now. My aches and pains have left me. Life seems new and sweet to me, and everything seems pleasant and easy.

"Six bottles brought me health, and was worth more than months under the doctor's care, which really did not benefit me at all. I am satisfied there is no medicine so good for sick women as your Vegetable Compound, and I advocate it to my lady friends in need of medical help."—MRS. B. A. BLANCHARD, 422 Broad St., Nashville, Tenn.

When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" or "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness, they should remember there is a tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, as you need the best.

A Severe Case of Womb Trouble Cured in Philadelphia.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been cured of severe female troubles by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was nearly ready to give up, but seeing your advertisement I purchased one bottle of your medicine, and it did me so much good that I purchased another, and the result was so satisfactory that I bought six more bottles, and am now feeling like a new woman. I shall never be without it. I hope that my testimonial will convince women that your Vegetable Compound is the greatest medicine in the world for falling of the womb or any other female complaints."—MRS. MAY CODY, 2660 Birch St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Remember, every woman is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham if there is anything about her symptoms she does not understand. Her address is Lynn, Mass., her advice is free and cheerfully given to every ailing woman who asks for it.

Cause of Lockjaw.

Lockjaw, or tetanus, is caused by a bacillus or germ which exists plentifully in street dirt. It is inactive so long as exposed to the air, but when carried beneath the skin, as in the wounds caused by percussion caps or by rusty nails, and when the air is excluded the germ is roused to activity and produces the most virulent poison known. These germs may be destroy ed and all danger of lockjaw avoided by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm freely as soon as the injury is received.
Pain Balm is an antiseptic and causes such injuries to heal without maturation and in one-third the time required by the usual treatment. It is for sale by all druggists.

A very large crowd of Petersburg people came to the county seat, last Monday, to be present at the trial of Wooddy Hoffman, who was under arrest, charged with the offense of throwing boulders through the windows at the residences of T. B.
Mathews and James and Ben Jarrell, on the night of the 8th inst.
A great many of those present were witnesses either for the defense or the prosecution. The hearing of testimony was begun at 1 p. m. Mr.
Mulligan, owner of the blood hounds, was put on the stand, and gave a full history of the action of the dogs which were brought to the scene of the trouble about 10 o'clock on the night following the night on which the residences were stoned.
The court room was well filled by persons eager to hear how blood-hounds work when they are trailing. The hearing of testimony was not concluded until about dark.
The case was submitted without argument, and the defendant was discharged. The large crowd present at the trial Monday indicates the great interest the citizens of Petersburg are taking in the effort to ferret out the parties who stoned the

THE VOTE AT PREVIOUS PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS

To assist you in the figures of The Commercial Tribune and The Weekly Gazette to have the figures of previous years before them, the following figures are given to show total vote in Ohio for President of the United States for the years from 1888 to the last Presidential election:
1888—1,341,841. 1892—1,404,035. 1896—
1,020,197. 1900—1,048,121. 1904—?

CONDITIONS.

If there is a tie in the estimates of two or more persons for any one of the ten leading awards, or for the special award of $10,000, the amount thereof will be equally divided. In case of the $10 and $5 awards, each of the next nearest estimators will receive $10 and $5 respectively.

Fifty cents (50c) entitles you to the Daily and Sunday
Commercial Tribune for two weeks and one (1) estimate.

One dollar entitles you to The Commercial Tribune for four weeks and two (2) estimates. You may subscribe for as many weeks in advance as you please, and each two weeks' subscription will entitle you to one estimate, and no more.

You can send in a subscription for The Commercial Tribune at the rate of fifty cents for each two (2) weeks, and for two weeks or longer, together with an estimate for each period of two weeks, and direct the estimate to be recorded in your name and the paper sent as a present to a friend.

Fifty (50) cents entitles you to THE WEEKLY GA-
ZETTE for six (6) months and one (1) estimate.

One dollar entitles you to THE WEEKLY GAZETTE for one (1) year and one (1) estimate.

You can send in a subscription for THE WEEKLY
GAZETTE at the rate of fifty cents for six (6) months and direct the estimate to be recorded in your name and the paper sent as a present to a friend.

All estimates, to be sent (other than those competing for the special award for the exact estimate made prior to October 1st, 1904) must be received before 5 o'clock p.m. of that day), must be received at the office of The Commercial Tribune, in the City of Cincinnati, Ohio, before 5 o'clock p.m. of November 8, 1904, otherwise they will not be permitted to participate in the contest and will be treated as informal, rejected and returned to the sender.

Any fractions of a number annexed to an estimate will be disregarded and the number taken to mean the number submitted with the fraction omitted.

Remittances, whether by express order, money order or check, must accompany every estimate and be made payable to The Commercial Tribune.

Avoid an estimate has been received and registered, no change therein will be permitted.

Acknowledgments of all remittances received for estimates will be made as promptly as possible.

Agents, solicitors and employees have no authority to make any representations or promises with reference to the terms of this contest, and for the purpose of forwarding estimates the agents, solicitors and employees of The Commercial Tribune shall be taken to be the agents of the subscribers estimating and not of The Commercial Tribune.

These conditions constitute the entire contract, and are subject to no modification whatsoever, and every subscriber competing in this contest assents thereby to these conditions.

The Official Certificate of the Secretary of the State of Ohio shall be conclusive as to the total number of votes cast.

After the receipt of the Official Certificate an impartial committee, selected by The Commercial Tribune, will determine the winners, and its award will be published in The Commercial Tribune for three days after which time the awards will be distributed, and this distribution shall be final and absolute and binding on all participants in the contest.

VOL. XXX. BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1904. NO. 2.

County Correspondence.

COMMISSARY.

Oct. 22.—An argument is used to promote unnecessary conversation.

W. T. Ryle and wife transacted business in Rising Sun, Monday.

James Rogers and wife were guests of T. J. Walton and wife, last Sunday.

Dan McCarty, who lived on J. T. Walton's farm, has moved to Bellevue.

Clyde Berkshire has for sale a yearling Jersey heifer at a reasonable price.

Mrs. Flave Louden entertained ye scribe with a peach cobbler last Sunday.

Miss Stella Ryle, of Commissary, is teaching a select school at Mrs. Fanny Randall's.

J. J. Lillard will have a sale of sheep and cattle, Tuesday Nov. 1st. Sale to commence at 1 p. m.

Will Sebree has rented the Frank Snell farm and will move to it within the next three weeks.

Will Sebree has purchased a new two horse wagon of Cooke and Co., of Lawrenceburg. Price, $50.

Mrs. Will Fleek and wife, near Limaburg, were guests of William Slayback, near here last Sunday.

Mrs. Missouri Walton, of Erlanger, came down last Saturday and is visiting near here and at Bellevue.

Mr. and Mrs. Jo Brady, of Middle creek, spent last Sunday with their son Hubert, near Rabbit Hash.

Chritcher, of Sedamsville, O., was here Monday buying stock and made two small purchases of T. J. Walton.

Miss Corda Utter and Miss Aggie Cooke, of Bellevue, were visiting and shopping in Aurora last Saturday.

Mrs. Dora Delph, near Rabbit Hash, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Richard Louden.

Moses Pope and Miss Percy Ryle were united in marriage Wednesday. We wish them happiness and prosperity.

For my truest, warmest friends, give me the men who belong to no other organization than the brotherhood of man.

The steamer Daisy which had to stop running on account of low water for 10 or 12 days, commenced making her regular trips last Monday.

Claud Popham, of South Hogan, Indiana, passed through the Commissary Wednesday morning, on his way to visit his brother, Bob near Florence.

Ves Gaines, of Ludlow, sold to Ome Rogers, of Erlanger, Tuesday, 5 cattle averaging 917 pounds at 4 cents. Total weight and amount, 4585 pounds, $229.

R. P. Parsons, of Middle creek, went to Lawrenceburg last Monday for repairs for his mill. The old gentleman complained of being out of repair himself.

Mrs. Phoebe Nettles, who came over the latter part of last week to visit her sister, was called home Sunday to her husband who had taken suddenly sick.

Woody Sullivan and wife entertained his brother-in-law, Cad Sullivan and wife, last Saturday night and Sunday, and on Sunday Alf Porter and Mrs. Pace.

Carl Cason, who went to Washington last spring, returned home last Monday. It is interesting to listen to his description of the country and the different places he visited.

J. J. Lillard and sister, Mrs. Mary Woolper, of Holden, Mo., Xen Scott, mother and sister Maud, and William Rogers and wife were guests of W. M. Walton and wife last Sunday.

Dr. Williamson, of Bellevue, who quit the practice of medicine on account of poor health desires us to state that his health has improved and he will visit the sick when called on.

John W. Horton, who lives 4 or 5 miles back of Rising Sun, passed by the Commissary Sunday morning on his way to Constance, to visit his son, who is very sick and not expected to live.

Some people who live convenient to Mr. F. R. D. Route think they can put up any kind of an old box for the reception of their mail. True you can put up any kind of a box but Uncle Sam will not deliver mail to a box not approved by the Postmaster General.

Orville Vaughn and wife, of Gunpowder, were guests of Will Sebree and wife near here Saturday night and Sunday, and on Sunday Charles Seamon and wife, of Woolper, and James Bruce and best girl of Gasburg, joined them. A good dinner was served and all enjoyed themselves.

While in Burlington, Wednesday, we met a Mr. Kelsey, of Hebron, and found him a very pleasant and entertaining conversationalist. He is a painter by trade and the champion checker player of Boone county. If he can paint as well as he can play checkers he is a dandy. He would be pleased to meet Jeff Williamson, a noted player, of Waterloo.

We will not give their names: They had evidently quarreled as they sat rather far apart on the veranda without speaking. At last he said: "You are rather cold toward me." "I am?" she queried, with a little laugh. "It is more likely the change in the weather you are feeling." "Don't jest with me" he retorted, speaking very earnestly. "I am not joking" she said with bigeyed ingeniousness. "I really feel a little chilly myself. I wish I had something around me." As he moved his chair close to hers she realized the quarrel was over and as he put something around her the moon very considerately hid its face behind a cloud and I passed on to give them a chance to make up.

The honor roll of the Hebron school for the month of September is as follows: Grade 7, Lorena Hafer, 99 2-11; grade 8, Frank Sayre, 98 1-10; grade 5, Lena Hafer 97½; grade 4, Lulu Regan 97; grade 3, Henry Aylor 95½; Elizabeth Aylor 95½; grade 1, Aylor 93; primary grade, Hallie 94-5.

HATHAWAY.

Oct. 26.—Mrs. W. S. White is still quite poorly.

Not much small grain sowed in this vicinity.

Farmers are replenishing their coal and wood bins.

Elsie Moore Ryle, of Gunpowder, went to Rising Sun last Wednesday on a business trip.

Lafayette Rice, of Illinois, visited his aunt, Mrs. Sarah White, here one day last week.

James White and family, of Ashby Fork, were here one day last week visiting his mother who is quite sick.

R. R. Houston and family took quite a pleasant trip Sunday through East Bend via Rabbit Hash and back the grade home.

Mrs. Rita Clements and children of Buffalo, spent last Wednesday on Gunpowder, visiting her sister, Mrs. John D. McNeely.

Henry Riley and granddaughter, Miss Opha Riley, of Union, were in this neighborhood several days last week visiting relatives and friends.

F. W. Kesenbaum and son, the tombstone man, erected to the memory of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Mason, a nice monument in Big Bone cemetery, one day last week.

C. S. Utz and Arthur Houston, two up-to-date carpenters from Long Branch, was here doing some repairing on the house occupied by R. R. Houston one day last week.

The public school at this place had a spelling bee, last Thursday night. There was a good crowd in attendance and all enjoyed the occasion very much. Miss Jennie Aylor was captain of the spelling.

Big Bone Baptist church has called Rev. Layton Maddox, of Louisville, as pastor for four Sundays in each month in the year. The call took effect Oct. 9th. Rev. Maddox instructs the choir each Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. The choir is improving in every respect.

o o o

MCVILLE.

Oct. 21.—This has been a blustery day.

Telephones are a source of considerable amusement in this neighborhood.

Robert Akin, engineer on the Swan, spent Sunday with his wife and son here.

We had the pleasure of hearing D. E. Castleman and N. E. Riddell speak at Bellevue, last night.

R. P. Parsons, of Middle creek, went to Lawrenceburg last Monday for repairs for his mill. The old gentleman complained of being out of repair himself.

Mrs. Phoebe Nettles, who came over the latter part of last week to visit her sister, was called home Sunday to her husband who had taken suddenly sick.

PLATTSBURG.

A nice rain fell here last Friday.

Mrs. Charles Hensley has been quite sick for several days.

Albert Acra visited his uncle John Acra over in Ohio, a few days since.

Capt Stephens and wife visited over on Gunpowder, last Saturday and Sunday.

W. S. Acra has for sale two nice Jersey heifers—will be fresh about the first of April.

Mrs. Artie Kettle spent last week with her fatherinlaw in Petersburg neighborhood.

Hear that Ben Passons has bought Samuel Hensley's property at Flickertown, and will start a store there.

Woodford Sullivan found two of his calves dead in the pasture a few days since. He does not know the cause of their death.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

No one who is acquainted with its good qualities can be surprised at the great popularity of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It not only cures colds and grip effectually and permanently, but prevents these diseases from resulting in pneumonia. It is also a certain cure for croup. Whooping cough is not dangerous when this remedy is given. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. It is also pleasant to take. When all of these facts are taken into consideration it is not surprising that people in foreign lands, as well as at home, esteem this remedy very highly and very few are willing to take any other after having once used it. For sale by all Druggists.

IDLEWILD.

Water is scarce here yet.

Glad to report Owen Gaines in better health.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Scothorn visited his parents at Sand Run, last Sunday.

B. L. Cleek, candidate for assessor, was in this neighborhood, last week.

D. E Castleman spoke here on the 22d inst. His presence was appreciated by his friends.

We had several frosts last week, and the temperature was so low as to cause the bringing forth of winter wraps.

James T. Gaines and wife make the third family that has moved from this neighborhood to Ludlow for the winter.

Mr. J. Lancaster, of Ghent, accompanied by Wm. Stott, of Petersburg, were here one day last week visiting his mother who is quite sick.

Miss Nellie Duncan and Herbert Grant will be quietly married on the 28th inst. at home, Rev. Early officiating.

Mrs. Lizzie Huey, of Union, visited friends in this neighborhood, last week, and attended church at Bullittsburg on Sunday.

Rev. Curry, old Baptist, held services at Mt. Pleasant, Sunday, and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Whitaker.

B. R. Gaines is no better, and while Miss Ida Berkshire is at the St. Louis Fair, Mrs. E. Terrill, of Covington, is staying with her sister, Mrs. Gaines.

The protracted meeting at Bullittsburg closed after a season of beautiful nights. The congregations were large and appreciative. There were no additions, but we trust that the seed of the Gospel has been sowed in good ground, and will yet bring forth a rich harvest for the Master.

The funeral of Miss Beulah Gaines was largely attended on the 19th inst. at 11 a. m. by friends from all parts of the county, their presence testifying as to the esteem in which she was held. The beautiful white casket that contained the remains of the lovely young lady, obscured by beautiful floral offerings of friends, was placed in the vault from which they will be consigned to the silent city of the dead to await that sweet day "when Jesus shall come again to claim His own."

o o o

GRANT.

Oct. 24—In twenty-three days rabbits will be ripe.

The cabbage snake has made its appearance here.

W. T. Ryle and wife visited E. E. Kelly and wife, Sunday.

James Smith, jr., and wife visited at Lincous Kelley's, Sunday.

Miss Nannie Goodridge spent Saturday night with Mrs. Clara Smith.

Miss Agnes Cook entertained Dode Pope and sister, Miss Bess, Sunday.

Al Rogers and Charlie Maurer made a flying trip to Rabbit Hash, Sunday.

Its the sleep you get after you're called to get up that does the most good.

On account of the inclement weather but few attended the spelling bee at McVille Friday night.

Harmony in politics consists in having your own way and persuading the other people to be resigned to fate.

A Mr. Hardy, of Cincinnati, was down, one day last week trying to buy Flick's willow crop. He did not make a purchase.

Will Maurer hied himself to the hill country again Sunday. We could make a longer item of this, but don't like to give him away.

Miss Clara Rice entertained a crowd of young friends, Saturday night with a play party. It was very much enjoyed by all those who attended.

Chas. Woods, who started to Missouri from here, was injured in a railroad accident so badly that he had to return home before reaching his destination.

Harmony in politics consists in having your own way and persuading the other people to be resigned to fate.

It is a good plan, occasionally, to take your troubles to someone who will point out that you have, in a large measure, yourself to blame for having them.

The Rabbit Hash Sluggers played the Juniors on the home grounds here Saturday, encased in overcoats, gloves and earmuffs. Paris Akins umpired the game, while the small boys gathered up the broken bats and kindling that was handy and built a fire on the grounds to get the crowd inside. It was a slugging match throughout. Score, 18 to 14 in favor of the local team.

o o o

HEBRON.

C. E. Clore, H. Clore and wife, Walter Crigler and wife have returned home after spending a week at the St. Louis fair.

J. W. Clore's faithful watch dog, "La Grippe," who has been a member of the family for 17 years, passed to the "great beyond for dogs," Thursday.

Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Sayre and Miss Minnie Crigler attended the State Grange at Cynthiana, last week. Miss Minnie being the delegate from Hebron Grange.

The Garrick Stock Co. will present The Potter's Wheel at Hebron Hall, Saturday evening October 29th. The play is a comedy drama in four acts, the story dealing with an old inventor's struggles and hardships. The first act opens with an appropriate and familiar scene of a political campaign meeting and speech. In this scene the excitement and enthusiasm is represented as is usually exists at a political gathering. The oldest man in the country, who has walked 15 miles to shake hands with the candidates is brought forth. The third act shows a pretty scene and the furnaces in full operation. The company carries their own special sets of scenery for this production, and the working and firing of the furnaces is a very realistic scene. The close of this act when the old inventor makes the discovery of a new invention in pottery is one of the strongest ever represented on any stage. This is the company's first appearance at Hebron, but a number of engagements are planned for the season. Admission, 25 cents.

FRANCESVILLE.

Oct. 23.—Charlie Beall, jr., who has been quite sick, is improving.

Mrs. C. W. McFee started for St. Louis, Saturday night.

Miss Amanda Koons was visiting friends in the city, last week.
